The BookWorm

MOONLIGHT MILE
by Dennis Lehane
C. 2010, Wm. Morrow, $26.95; 336 pages
by Terri Schlichenmeyer

Okay, so you made a mistake. You didn't mean to do it; that's why they call it a "mistake." It was an error in judgment, something you didn't plan, a bad call. People make mistakes all the time, right? It was a little boo-boo. A doozy of a whoops. Something you did wrong.

So how long must you do penance? How long before everybody stops beating you up over it?

The new book Moonlight Mile by Dennis Lehane has the answer: For Patrick Kenzie, it's twelve years.

Without a doubt, returning 4-year-old Amanda McCready to her neglectful mother was the right thing to do, even though private investigator Patrick Kenzie got a lot of grief over his decision. It was true that Amanda was safe and happy with the people who'd had her – she was clearly better off with them than with her own mother – but a kidnapping was a kidnapping, the state said the child should be returned, and that's what Patrick did.

And for twelve years, everybody has held it against him: Angie Gennaro, his wife and mother of his daughter; their friend, Bubba; the media; and everybody who loved Amanda.

As his PI business died, victim of the economy and a personal lack of enthusiasm, Patrick often thought of Amanda McCready. He could never forget that little girl, or the decision he'd had to make. It was her case that briefly came between Patrick and Angie. They couldn't even talk about it, twelve years later.

And then Amanda went missing again.

At the urging of his wife, Patrick reluctantly took the case. He hadn't been paid for the last time, he was busy looking for a job, and times were tough, but it was one way to make things right over those years. Then, as he began to look for the girl, Patrick began to realize that this wasn't just a case of a missing or runaway teenager...

Amanda's stepfather was deep into dealing drugs to Croatian gangsters working for the Russian Mafia. Amanda's mother Helene had perfected the art of the Internet scam and was stealing identities. Amanda's best friend was involved, too, but in a different, more sinister way.

But where was Amanda McCready?

Remember those old game show dollar booths? The ones where the contestant stood inside while a fan blew dollar bills around for the grabbing? Reading Moonlight Mile is a little like that: You're going to get the pay-offs. The first one might be small, but the longer you're in it, the bigger the reward.

Author Dennis Lehane has a distinct talent for taking everyday people and the morals with which they wrestle, and twisting them until they – and the reader – scream. Still, there's a lot of humanity in Lehane's novel, enough sarcasm to make you laugh, and enough sentimentality to make you sympathize.

Though it's a somewhat-sequel to a previous Lehane book, Moonlight Mile can be read as a standalone.

Playoff-Bound Huskies Hang On To Record Win Over Rams

After building a 22-0 lead in last Friday's annual all-Garrett County high school football clash, the Huskies of Northern High School had to hang on in the second half to defeat the host Southern High Rams, 22-14, and conclude their regular season with a 6-4 record.

Both teams entered the contest with 5-4 marks, and both with hopes of landing a 1A West Region playoff spot. Sure enough, the win by the Huskies, coupled with a loss by Allegany to Fort Hill on Saturday, afforded them a playoff berth for the eighth time in NHS history. Coach Phil Carr's squad will meet the Miners of Mountain Ridge, a team that they upset in the regular season, this Friday evening in Frostburg.

Likewise, the loss for the Rams knocked them out of a playoff spot, which would have been theirs had they won the game because of the results of several other games.

As noted, it appeared that last Friday's game would end up in a rout of the Rams, as the Huskies put the first 22 points on the board.

A 37-yard run by Josh Mason midway through the first quarter, followed by a successful conversion pass from Patrick Sines to Cody Rodeheaver, made it 8-0.

The Huskies stretched their lead early in the second stanza when Jake Bosley picked off a Ram aerial and returned the ball 24 yards to the end zone. Sines ran for the two extra points, and the Huskies led 16-0 with 8:14 to play in the half.

With just a minute to play before halftime, Northern's Mason broke loose again, this time for 53 yards and his second touchdown. The conversion run was stopped short, and the Huskies led 22-0.

While most expected that to be the score at intermission, the Ram offense had other ideas. The ensuing kickoff was returned to the Ram 40. A scramble by Southern quarterback Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel led to a big gainer to inside the Huskies' 30-yard line.

Then with just three ticks left in the first half, Scheffel hit a leaping Derek Papa in the corner of the end zone for a touchdown. The run for the conversion failed, but the score seemed to give the Rams new life going into the second half of action.

The soggy condition of the field worsened in the second half, and while the home team maintained possession of the ball through much of the third quarter – which kept the Huskies out of the end zone – the Rams were also unable to put additional points on the board.

It was not until the 7:26 mark of the fourth period that Southern narrowed the Husky lead further, as senior fullback Kody Sanders capped a drive with a one-yard carry for a touchdown. Teammate Zack Knotts then ran for the conversion, which would be the final points of the game.

The Rams then tried an onside kick and were successful in gaining possession, but then lost the ball two plays later via a Northern interception.

The Rams had another opportunity late in the contest to tie the score (with a touchdown and two-point conversion), as they drove the ball to the Husky 20-yard line. Then on a fourth-and-10 play with 1:14 remaining, Scheffel attempted a pass, but the ball fell to the ground on the one-yard line. The Huskies then ran out the clock to preserve their win and extend their season at least one more week.

The game stats were about what one would expect given the final score, with the Huskies ending up with a lead in total offense of 217-183 yards.

The typical highly effective passing game of the Huskies was dampened by the weather conditions, as Sines attempted only eight passes and completed half of them.

Mason was the leading ground gainer, picking up 148 yards in just 13 carries for the Huskies, while Scheffel and Sanders recorded 45 and 41 yards, respectively, for the Rams.

While the Rams continue to hold a lead in the all-time series with the Huskies of 33-20-2, this was the ninth consecutive year that Northern has claimed the Garrett County crown in this match-up.

The 5-5 finish by the Rams is their first non-losing season since 2001.

"The weather conditions definitely had a negative effect on our offense," said Coach Carr. "We were unable to be very effective passing the ball, but we did a better job running against Southern's defense than we thought we would."

Carr said that, even with the Rams' score just before halftime, his players did not seem to lose their confidence going into the second half.

"Southern did a great job controlling possession in the second half," he said. "They were able to convert on a couple of fourth down plays to keep their drives alive. The field conditions were definitely worse in the second half, and Southern's superior size kept our offense pretty well contained when we did have the ball."

In fact, the Ram defensive unit did not allow a single first down by the Husky offense in the second half.

"We had some breakdowns in communication with our defense in the first half, particularly with our defensive line," said Ram head coach Steve Savage.

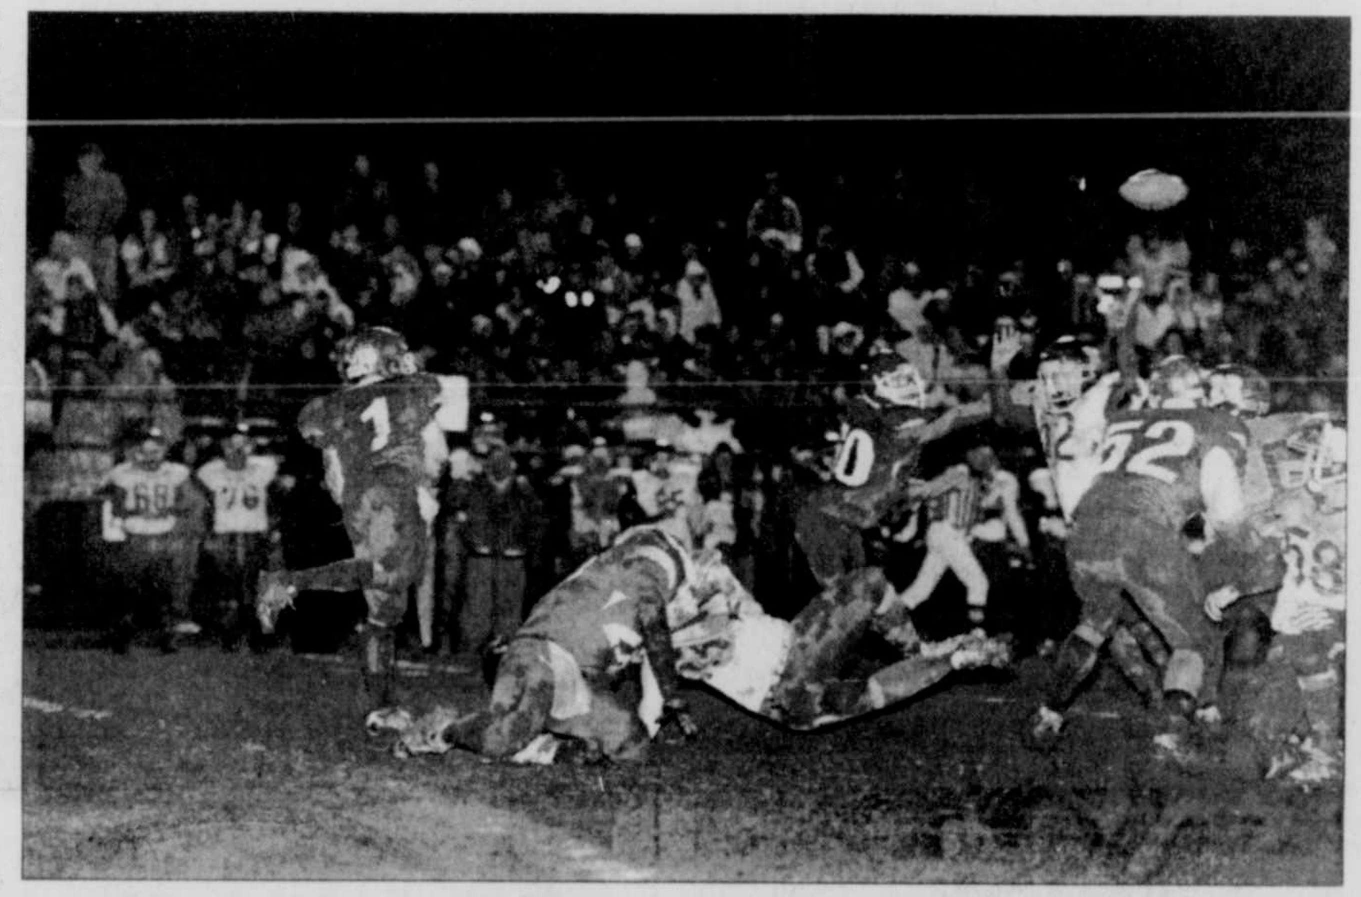
THE GARRETT CUP is a "traveling" trophy adopted this year by the varsity football programs of Northern and Southern high schools. Pictured are members of the Northern varsity, who won the trophy last Friday by defeating Southern, 22-14. It will be presented annually to the winner of the Ram-Husky game. Sponsored by First United Bank and Trust and Woodmen of the World Lodge 11, the award was established by Elizabeth Sines, student member of the Garrett County Board of Education. Its purpose is to enhance the competitive spirit between the two schools, encourage team sportsmanship, and promote school pride.



BUBBA GOES TO THE AIR – Because of cold, wet conditions, passing was difficult last Friday evening in the annual Southern-Northern football clash, played this year on the Rams' field. Above, Southern quarterback Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel fires the ball downfield, and ultimately did connect for a touchdown just seconds before halftime. However, for the ninth straight year, the Huskies prevailed, 22-14, and thus earned a spot in the regional playoffs. Others identifiable in the photo are Southern's Kody Sanders (#28, on the ground blocking for Scheffel), Josh Wotring (#60), and Ryan Bennett (#52), plus Northern's Garrett Rayner (#65, also on the ground), Adam Brenneman (#52), and Jason Opel (#58). # FSU's Stephens Named CAC Player Of The Year, All-District

Outside hitter Sarah Stephens, Frostburg State University senior, was named the Capital Athletic Conference Player of the Year. She is poised to lead four members of the conference-champion Bobcats on the 2010 All-CAC team.

FSU (32-3) capped its first year as a member of the CAC in stellar fashion winning both the league regular season and tournament titles. The Bobcats advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the fourth-straight year and will host an eight-team NCAA Regional this weekend.

Stephens, a First Team All-CAC honoree, proved to be the CAC's most outstanding offensive player this year after leading the league in kills (531), and kills per set (4.43), and finished almost 200 kills ahead of the next closest player. She is 12th in the nation in kills per set and 15th in points per set (4.98). Stephens moved into third all-time in school history in kills earlier this season.

Stephens, for the second time as a student-athlete, has also been selected to the CoSIDA ESPN The Magazine Academic All-District II Volleyball Team.

A former standout at Southern High School, Stephens was named to the first team and will be placed on the national ballot for Academic All-American.

She is a four-year starter and two-time All-Allegheny Mountain Collegiate Conference first team selection. She is third in school history in career kills at 1,598 and fifth in career digs at 1,159. She has recorded 10 or more kills in all but two matches and has surpassed 20 kills in a match six times. The two-time CAC player of the week has posted 19 double-doubles this season in kills and digs.

Stephens, a six-time dean's list student, carries a 3.96 grade point average and is majoring in business administration with a minor in mathematics. She is a three-time AMCC all-academic team honoree and was named to the SoSIDA ESPN The Magazine Academic All-District II third team last season.

The District II region includes Delaware, the District of Columbia, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia.

To be nominated for the CoSIDA Academic All-America program, student-athletes must be at least a sophomore with a 3.3 or higher cumulative grade point average and be a starter or significant reserve.

Stephens is the daughter of Michael and Helen Stephens, Oakland.

Stephens' head coach Peter Letourneau was voted as the league's coach of the year. Letourneau guided the Bobcats to their second-straight 30-plus win season and fourth NCAA Tournament in his sixth season at the helm of the FSU program.

Div. II Steelers Edged In Youth League Finale

The Division II Northern Steelers of the Cumberland Area Youth Football League, who finished their regular season undefeated, had their unbeaten streak snapped by the Keyser Steelers, 20-14, in overtime in the championship game this past weekend.

Keyser put the first points of the game on the board when Garrett Crites capped a drive with a one-yard run for a touchdown in the second quarter. The kick for the two extra points was no good.

The Steelers knotted the score later in the same period when Aaron Rodeheaver crashed through the Keyser defense and raced 45 yards to the end zone. The conversion kick failed, and the score remained 6-6 until early in the fourth quarter.

A 53-yard touchdown run by Rodeheaver, followed by a successful conversion kick by Jake Vernon, put the Steelers on top 14-6.

However, the home Steeler team came back on its next possession for a touchdown, scored via a 14-yard run by Crites. Beau Horner's conversion kick made it 14-14, and the game went into overtime.

Keyser sealed the victory in the OT when Ryan Kunis scored on a one-yard dive.

Rodeheaver finished with 175 yards on 23 carries. Defensive standouts for Northern were Kyle Beard, Saylor, Wampler, and Austin Evans.

The Northern Steelers concluded their campaign with an overall record of 7-1. The coaching staff noted its appreciation to Northern High School head coach Phil Carr and the other Husky coaches and players, as well as to the parents of the Steelers for their support this season.

DIEHL'S FORD PRESENTS CHECK TO NHS – Diehl's Ford Sales in Grantsville and the Ford Motor Company raised $5,715 for Northern Garrett High School during the recent Drive One 4 UR School event. More than 285 people came to Diehl's to test drive a vehicle, and for each household representative, Ford and Diehl's donated $20 to NHS. Diehl's also invited all NHS athletic teams to participate by conducting their own fundraiser during the test-drive event. Nine teams participated, offering hot dogs, sodas, T-shirts, nachos, baked goods, donuts, and car washes to those attending the event. An additional $1,600 was raised by the teams. Pictured, left to right, at the check presentation are principal Gary Reichenbecher, athletic director Phil Carr, and Greg and Vivian Diehl, Drive One event coordinator.

Huskies Hang

"Once we got those ironed out, we pretty much stopped them from that point on. But our early mistakes really cost us and we couldn't quite make up for that."

Savage said that, despite the loss, he came away "very encouraged" about his program.

"We essentially were able to shut down a very fine team, a team that defeated Mountain Ridge and should have beaten Allegany," he said.

He noted that the Rams had to win this game and have about four other things happen among several other teams.

"Well, all four of those other things happened," he said, "but we couldn't quite do our part. That added a little sting to the loss, knowing that we would be playing again this Friday if we had just been able to do our part."

But he was quick to add that he is already looking forward to the future, and he anticipates growing success for the Rams because of the leadership of this season's upper classmen.

"We (he and his coaches) really feel like we have turned a corner with Southern High football," he explained. "I give most of the credit to this year's group of seniors. They have stuck with it, through some very tough times and not-so-glorious seasons, and I am so proud of them. They have paid the price, never quit, and ultimately made us a competitive team. So I believe that the success of our program down the road is going to fall right back on the shoulders of this year's seniors."

Coach Carr and the Huskies will now face for the second time this season the Miners of Mountain Ridge, a team that came to the Huskies' gridiron on Oct. 15 undefeated, but went back to Frostburg stinging from a 26-14 loss. The Huskies dominated the game, with the exception of the late fourth quarter when the Miners made a scoring run.

When asked if he is concerned about the Miners' desire to avenge that loss, Carr said, "I'm sure they really want to beat us, but by the same token, our kids already know that they are capable of beating them. Our win over them was not a fluke or because of some crazy breaks; we basically dominated them for 3½ quarters."

Carr acknowledged that he would much rather be playing on natural, rather than on artificial, turf, which is what the Miners have in their new stadium.

"There is no question that they are faster on their turf, and they are far more used to it than we are," he said. "They have played only three games on natural turf this year."

The Huskies have played on artificial turf twice, at Keyser and at Greenway Avenue against Allegany.

Carr said that, while there will be some new and different formations employed against the top-rated Miners, the Huskies will stick primarily to what they have been doing all season.

"Fortunately, the weather is looking great for Friday night, so we should be able to resume our passing game," he said, "and if our linemen are able to do what they did the last time against Mountain Ridge, we should be in pretty good shape. We're looking forward to it."

Carr said that his team is generally in good health. The Huskies are seeded fourth in the region.

Friday's kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

Use Open Enrollment to Help Meet Financial Goals

November is a popular month for "open enrollment" — that time when you can choose from the options offered in your employer's benefits package. By making the right moves in some key areas — such as your 401(k) and life insurance — you can help protect your family and boost your progress toward your long-term financial goals.

Let's consider your 401(k) first. If you haven't taken part in your 401(k) plan, you need to review the benefits of this excellent retirement-savings vehicle. First, you contribute pretax dollars to a traditional 401(k), so the more you put in, the lower your adjusted gross income — and the lower your annual tax bill. Also, your 401(k) earnings accumulate on a tax-deferred basis. Furthermore, your employer may offer a matching contribution, and if you're not participating in your plan or not putting in enough to earn the match, you're essentially leaving money "on the table."

If you're not already investing in a 401(k), now is the time to get started. And if you've already been contributing to your 401(k), you may want to use the open enrollment period to increase your contributions or to rebalance your investment choices in response to changes in investment performance or in your goals or risk tolerance. Of course, depending on your plan, you may also be able to make changes to your 401(k) at other times in the year.

During open enrollment, you'll also want to look at your insurance choices. Your employer may offer a certain amount of life insurance, and possibly disability insurance, at no cost. Clearly, this coverage can be beneficial — but is it enough to meet your family's needs?

To answer this question, you'll need to review at least three key areas of your family's finances:

• Debts — Try to calculate your overall debt load — mortgage, car payments, credit cards and so on.

• Education — If you are planning to help your children pay for college, try to estimate these costs. Keep in mind the considerable differences in expenses between colleges: public versus private and in-state versus out-of-state. Also, remember that college costs have been rising faster than the overall cost of living.

• Income replacement — Try to determine about how much of your income would need to be replaced for your family to maintain its current lifestyle if something were to happen to you.

Once you've made these types of calculations, you'll be in a better position to know if the life and disability coverage offered by your employer is sufficient to meet your needs. You might be able to purchase additional insurance through your employer, but even this coverage may not be enough. That's why you may want to work with a professional financial advisor — someone who can help you identify any gaps that may exist in your coverage and recommend any additional coverage to fill this void.

You may also find other advantages to individually owned insurance, such as portability (taking your policy with you, no matter where you work) and affordability. You may find that some policies, particularly term life insurance, may be less costly than the supplemental insurance you could purchase from your employer.

So review both your insurance situation and your 401(k) plan during open enrollment. It's a great time to make those choices that can help you during all the seasons of your life.

Glotfelty Opens Matt Season With Pair Of Victories

Grantsville resident Brock Glotfelty, a former athletic standout at Northern High School, opened his senior wrestling season at McDaniel College with a pair of individual wins in the Terrapin Duals, hosted by the University of Maryland on Saturday.

As a team, the Green Terror (0-2) dropped a 33-9 decision to Liberty before falling to the host Terrapins, 40-3. However, Glotfelty won both of his matches in the heavyweight division, the first a forfeit victory against Liberty, and the second a 6-1 decision of Maryland's Ryan Gray.

Glotfelty is a two-time Centennial Conference (CC) champion, the reigning CC Wrestler of the Year, and a 2009 All-American.

McDaniel is seeking to build on a disappointing fifth-place finish at last year's CC Championship, at which Glotfelty was the team's lone individual champion.

The Green Terror will return to action at the Ursinus Fall Brawl this Saturday.

Several Key Sophomores Return To Laker Lineup; Season Opens Friday

The Garrett College men's basketball team will open its 2010 season this weekend under the direction of veteran coach Dennis Gibson, who is entering his 26th year at the helm of the Lakers.

The 2010-11 Lakers are anchored by six returning sophomores and one sophomore transfer, and will open at home in their annual Railey Reality Classic against CCAC South Campus at 7 p.m. this Friday.

Talented players gone from last season's squad are Shawn Greenfield (now at Francis Marion University, S.C.), Howard Ferguson (at Mount Aloysius College, Pa.), Marko Agbaba, who is on a full academic scholarship at Bucknell University, and Doma Ibrahim, who has signed with West Virginia Tech.

Returnees include three All-Region XX Division I selections in leading scorer Kory Gibson, Jordan Gipson, and redshirt sophomore Rodney Clark.

Gibson, a 6-5 wing and former standout at Northern Garrett High School, averaged 15.4 ppg and led the team in three-point shots with a 43% success rate, as well as in free throw shooting with 83%.

Clark was the 2008/09 team's second leading scorer with 13.5 per game and also paced that team in assists with 5.1 per game. He redshirted this past season in order to gain strength and weight.

Gipson, a 6-4 wing out of Mackay North High School, added 11.3 ppg last season and was third on the team in rebounding with 5.75 per outing.

Local Southern High School product Jeff Stem returns with a 7.2 ppg average and topped the team in steals. He scored 27 points in leading the Lakers to an upset win over nationally ranked Germantown, 100-88.

Joe Dubuche, a 5-11 guard from Montgomery Blair High School, played shooting guard and was instrumental in helping the Lakers record six straight wins in January filling in as point guard after injuries to Stem and All-American candidate Greenfield. Dubuche added 9.7 points per game.

Vladi Vukovic returns as the lone post player and should see an increased role this season, according to Gibson. He averaged 2.6 rebounds and 2.75 points, and led the Lakers in offensive rebounds per minute of play.

Freshmen include Theo Dubuche, a 6-4 wing transfer who averaged 12 ppg at Montgomery Blair High School; Jordan Grady, Allegany High School's leading rebounder and a key player in an undefeated regular season and a state tourney berth for the second straight year.

Another freshman, Frank Holloway, should give an immediate scoring punch, with averages of 25 points and 16 rebounds for Robert E. Lee High School in Virginia. He was selected to play in the Capital Classic All-Star game and was also named a Reebok All American. He was a first-team All-Northern (Va.) District selection as well.

At 6-7, Callum Jenkins from Wadalba Community School is expected to give the Lakers an added boost inside and can also play the wing positions.

Steven Mackay, a 6-0 point guard, will give the team much needed depth at the guard positions.

Following Friday's game against CCAC South, the Lakers will meet Potomac State College in the second round of the Railey Classic on Saturday. They will host Frederick Community College next Wednesday.

NHS Volleyball Girls Swept; Rams Fall In Second Round

Suffering a first-round defeat in the West Region volleyball playoff, the Northern High School girls' team concluded its season last Thursday with an overall record of 6-10. Hosting Clear Spring the Huskies were swept 25-9, 27-25, and 25-15.

Miranda Beasom had six points, five kills, and two aces for Northern. Teammate Kayla Porter accounted for four points, six kills, and one ace, while Kerah Umbel had three points and one ace. Breanna Mallow also scored three points.

On the same day and at the other end of the county, the Rams swept Hancock in Oakland, with a score of 25-7, 25-18, and 25-19.

Alycia Horner had 10 points, five kills, and six assists in Southern's winning performance, while Corinne Fike contributed 10 points of her own.

Rams Annie Graham made five kills, and Tara Marple produced seven points and four assists.

The defeat of Hancock in the first-round West Region playoff sent Southern on the road for Monday's match against Fort Hill.

That second-round match-up, in Cumberland, became the Rams' final match of the season, as they fell 3-0 to the Sentinels.

Led by Nikki Absher, Fort Hill went 25-7, 25-8, and 25-19 in the win over Southern. Absher had 12 kills, 10 digs, and also recorded nine points, just missing the triple-double.

Southern's Horner added to her first-round production with 24 assists and six kills.

Alyssa Cowgill had three kills, four points, and two aces for the Rams, while teammate Tara Marple contributed 12 assists.

The Rams finish the season with an overall record of 7-10.

Sgt. Schlossnagle To Speak At GOP Women's Meeting

The next meeting of the Southern Republican Women's Club is scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 17, in Oakland at the Diakon Adult Day Care Center, located along Pythian Avenue – the road past Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Social time begins at 6:30 p.m., with the business meeting called to order at 7 p.m.

The speaker will be Sgt. 1st. Class (ret.) Larry Schlossnagle, who will focus on his current service as a member of the Military Family Support Group in Garrett County.

Schlossnagle served with the Maryland Army National Guard for over 35 years. He was the maintenance sergeant with the Direct Support Maintenance Group, which required him to oversee all maintenance operations and mechanics within his unit. Prior to his promotion into maintenance he was the first line supervisor for the Construction Equipment Section for earth-moving equipment.

Schlossnagle was deployed to the Middle East in 2005-2006 in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom. Other assignments took him to the West Coast to work with the U.S. Border Patrol at the California-Mexican border, as well as to Panama and Puerto Rico.

He retired from the National Guard in March 2007. For his service, he has received numerous awards, medals, and honors.

Schlossnagle resides near Friendsville and continues his service to his community, volunteering with the American Red Cross and the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company.

All men and women interested in the issues and platforms of the Republican Party are invited to attend the meeting. Persons may call president Nita Roberts at 301-387-4026 or vice president Lisa Thayer Welch at 301-387-4405 with any questions.

Nelsons To Celebrate 50th Anniversary

James William Nelson and Minnie Pearl Sharpless Nelson will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary this week. Having met on a bus ride to a high school basketball game between Southern and Elk Garden, the two were married on Nov. 12, 1960, at the Mt. Zion Methodist Church.

James, known as "Bill" to family and friends, is the oldest of James and Olive Nelsons' four children. After high school, he enlisted in the United States Navy, in which he was trained to be an electrician. He was stationed in Norfolk, Va.

Minnie, the second youngest of Herbert and Pearl Sharpless's 10 children, moved to Washington, D.C., after high school to work.

They began their married life together in Norfolk, but wished to settle and rear a family in Garrett County, which they did. Bill worked out of the Cumberland IBEW (International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers) until his retirement. Minnie devoted her time to caring for the family.

The couple have three daughters: Billie, Lori, and Sheri, as well as four grandchildren: Olivia, Caleb, Paige, and Gavin.

The Nelsons were active members of the Oakland Order of the Eastern Star. Bill was also a member of the Oakland Masonic Lodge, Ali Ghan Shrine, and Jesters. They reside in the Deer Park area home they built together in the 1970s.

TEENS WITH HEARING LOSS

According to an analysis of the national health data involving American teenagers, nearly one in five suffers from hearing loss. While music fed through MP3 players through earbuds at high volume may seem to be the most probable culprit, researchers point out other possible causes. Diet, nutrition, and exposure to toxins may also play roles. Whatever the cause(s), it comes as troubling news that youngsters are having increasing difficulty with their hearing, which has been linked with slower language development, decreased academic performance, and lower self-esteem. In addition, because social skills are dependent on language, previous research shows that even a slight hearing loss in elementary and high-school students results in lower communication test scores and heightened anxiety.

Although we are often quick to accuse teens of not paying attention to protecting their hearing, what about the noise pollution we adults constantly heap on our ears in our jobs and just in our normal daily activities? At AUDIBEL, we want to do all we can to help you become aware of the importance of protecting your hearing (and your children's) and the ways you can improve the quality of your life through clear sound and communication.

P.S. Parents should make a hearing test as compulsory for their children as regular medical check-ups and eye exams.

BITTINGER

enough, but communication requires two parties to be involved. Some refuse to listen or hear. That is sadly what happened last September when Garrett County children didn't get to hear the president's back-to-school message.

In the same way, some parents prevent their children from being exposed to other ideas or different kinds of people by either home-schooling or sending them to a private school. These children are then sometimes ill-equipped to successfully enter the wider American society.

It was sad to see my little Claire in elementary school crying because of what a conservative classmate said around Easter. Claire happens to have a father who is of Jewish descent, and her classmate told her that her great-great-great... grandfather crucified Christ. In fact, it was the Roman government that crucified Christ.

But perhaps Claire learned the unpleasant reality that some people are deeply anti-Semitic. It was better for her to hear that when she was young and have the opportunity to come home to parents who comforted her and told her the truth.

I went to school with many kids from a conservative similar background in my years in Garrett County public schools. I had several good friends from that denomination. Claire and her sisters went to as much Sunday School and Bible School in the summer as any kids from Bittinger.

Was it love that motivated Claire's classmate? Of course not. But the central message of Christ is love! And I am very glad I am Lutheran, because they promote acceptance of all kinds of people.

Every summer, I went to three Vacation Bible Schools of various denominations, including just up the road to the dear old white, wooden, old-fashioned Glade Mennonite Church. I loved that old church.

But I never had Claire and her sisters go to that Bible School, not after what happened when Claire was a very small girl. And I had several students at Garrett College who belonged to that denomination. They were among my favorites. They were bright and open-minded, and I saw a bright future for them if they learned to use their minds.

Claire's experience is one that is endured by many different children when they are bullied. It is time to wake up all parens and tell them to teach their children that it is very wrong to say hurtful things to another child and make them feel bad and unworthy of basic kindness. Imagine the pain that parents feel when they must face the suicide of their child because of hateful behavior from their peers, leading them to believe that their life is not worthy to continue.

I'm glad that Caitlin and Mere joined WVU's Jewish student organization. They made many new good friends in it, just as they did in their college 4-H Club and Young Democrats. It is wonderful how they grew up into beautiful and smart ladies with open hearts and minds. And I am confident that the world will be a better place with them in it.

St. John's of Meadow Mountain participated in the Operation Christmas Child project again this year. Nearly 50 shoeboxes filled with children's gifts were collected at the church, and these will be taken to a collection site for shipment and distribution.

A "Living Well with Chronic Conditions" workshop was held at Emmanuel. The last class in the series was held Monday and was followed by a luncheon for all participants.

The sewing and prayer shawl ministry group continues to meet at Emmanuel each Tuesday morning. All are invited to participate in this group. Approximately 150 comforters have been completed, and many have been distributed locally to area families and social agencies. A trip is being planned for Nov. 30 to take a shipment of comforters to the Lutheran World Relief warehouse for international distribution.

TAKING PART IN "SANITY" RALLY – Garrett Countians Bill and Sue Thomas took part in the recent Rally to Restore Sanity at the Mall in Washington, D.C., hosted by comedian and Daily Show host Jon Stewart. With more than 200,000 people taking part, the rally has been deemed the largest held this year at the Mall. According to the Thomases, would-be attendees were turned away and the Metro was closed for some time because of the unexpected numbers. "The crowd was great and the day had a definite uplifting feel to it," Bill said. "There were no hateful signs and the few people who wanted to cause trouble were ignored. It was nice to see a broad cross-section of Americans united in turning down the rhetoric and working together to help our country."

Ask The Everyday Scientist

PHOSPHATES IN DETERGENTS

by Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. I always liked to use Cascade in my dishwashing machine. But I heard that they had to change the formula to get rid of phosphates, and now the new detergents don't clean as well. What is going on, and how can I get my dishes clean in the dishwasher?

A. This recent change has received national attention. A few months ago, the Seattle Times carried an article quoting numerous consumer complaints, and saying "Like every other major detergent for automatic dishwashers, Procter & Gamble's Cascade line recently underwent a makeover. Responding to laws that went into effect in 17 states (including Washington state) in July, the nation's detergent makers reformulated their products to reduce what had been the crucial ingredient, phosphates, to just a trace...." So it's not just Cascade that has the problem.

The role of any soap is to break down other chemicals into components that easily wash down the drain. For example, sodium hydroxide is known as "lye" and it can give your skin a bad burn, but it sure will clean things! Sodium stearate is the basis of bar soap, and it has a gentler action that still breaks down grease and gets it off your hands and face.

What's so special about phosphates? Phosphorus is a common element; the middle number on a bag of garden/lawn fertilizer ("10-10-5") represents phosphorus. Phosphate ions are combinations of phosphorus with oxygen. Phosphates, when dissolved in water, make the mild phosphoric acid, which helps break down those greasy chemicals found on dishes. You wouldn't want a strong acid, like nitric or sulfuric acid, which would eat away at forks, knives, pipes and the dishwasher itself. A mild acid is just right.

Phosphates function as complexing agents. Polyphosphates are especially good as chelating agents and are used in detergents mainly for that reason. Sodium tripolyphosphate (STPP, Na5P3O10) is the most widely used dishwasher detergent. Sodium is released and a different metallic ion is captured in a loose compound known as a chelate. Phosphates do that better than other common chemicals.

When the water is "hard" (caustic, pH > 8), it makes more of a difference. When the water is "soft" in the first place (acidic, pH < 6), phosphates aren't as crucial. If your water is already acidic, less phosphate will suffice to get that chemical action going, so there won't be a big difference with new low-phosphate detergents. But if the pH is high (hard water) then a greater amount of phosphate is needed. Consequently, some customers won't even notice the change to low-phosphate detergent, but others will see its effects at once.

I suspect the angry folks are people with hard water.

Many homeowners (especially those on well water) pipe their incoming water through either a water softener or a neutralizer, which brings the pH back closer to 7, the ideal value. If the new dishwasher detergent formula leaves your dishes unclean, that may alert you to have your water checked. But if you're just renting, you're stuck with whatever water comes out of the faucet.

The reason to minimize phosphates in detergents is environmental: Excess phosphate goes down the drain to the sewage-treatment plant, but some might find its way into lakes and rivers. In that case, it's called a nutrient because it provides nutrition for undesirable life forms such as algae. Those little critters are bad in almost every way, especially when they reduce the oxygen supply for fish. Fish can tolerate only very low levels of chemicals nearby. The overall health of rivers and lakes is improved by decreasing nutrients. If phosphates are taken out at the front end (i.e., minimized in the detergent), that clearly lessens the burden on the back end – everything downstream of the treatment plant.

There are other chelating agents that aren't nutrients, and they work fine in detergents, but they're more expensive. Amway has sold a non-phosphate detergent for decades.

States that passed environmental regulations mandating lower phosphates hope to reduce treatment costs and improve water locally. The unhappy consequences for individuals with hard water wasn't one of their criteria. Not all states changed their laws, so old-style higher-phosphate detergents may still be sold in some places.

Some people have stocked up on incandescent light bulbs, probably a decade ahead of their phase-out in favor of compact fluorescent bulbs. Not many people stocked up on phosphate-laden dishwasher detergents, because word of the change was not highly publicized beforehand. Besides, many people don't need to worry about the problem.

Accident Man Sentenced To Six Months On Inhaling Harmful Substance Charge

An Accident man was sentenced to six months suspended after he was found guilty on an inhaling harmful substances charge in a recent District Court hearing, presided over by Judge Leonard J. Eiswert. Paladin Shane Roy, 47, was placed one three years of supervised probation to be monitored by the Maryland Division of Parole and Probation. He was also fined $557.50 with $400 suspended.

Charges stem from an incident in which police received an anonymous phone call about a suspicious person who may have been "huffing" paint on/around Fourth Street, Oakland. When Roy was located near Memorial Drive, he was allegedly found with three unopened spray paint cans under his belt and gold paint on his hands and shoes.

In other court news, Dawn Estel Hovermale, 35, Hedgesville, W.Va., was found guilty on a driving on revoked out-of-state license charge and sentenced to six months with all suspended. She was also ordered to complete 18 months of supervised probation and fined $357.50.

The charge stems from a June incident in which Hovermale's vehicle was disabled along the shoulder of I-68, and Maryland State Police stopped to assist her. The vehicle was reportedly discovered to have registration tags on it that belonged to another vehicle. The vehicle was also unregistered and uninsured. She was not prosecuted on theft less than $100, displaying other vehicle's tags, operating unregistered vehicle, and driving uninsured charges.

Michael Eugene Lawson, 53, Friendsville, was found guilty on a resisting arrest charge stemming from an incident in August. He was sentenced to 90 days suspended and 18 months of supervised probation. A fine of $1,000 was also suspended. Lawson was reportedly involved in a physical altercation with an adult female in the Friendsville Park. He was allegedly seen by the arresting Garrett County sheriff's deputy pushing the female and yelling obscenities at her.

When the deputy attempted to calm Lawson, he reportedly became more violent and was eventually tased by the officer in order for the arrest to be executed. He was not prosecuted on two counts of second-degree assault and disorderly conduct charges.

Chase Morgan McShea, 19, Brielle, N.J., was found guilty on a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) possession of marijuana charge and sentenced to 30 days suspended. He was also placed on one year of unsupervised probation and fined $257.50. The charge stems from a traffic stop on Chestnut Ridge Road in July.

Maryland State Police and the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force initiated a stop on the vehicle in which McShea was a passenger. During a search of the vehicle a glass pipe, a glass jar with suspected marijuana, and a marijuana grinder were recovered. According to the report, McShea admitted to ownership of all contraband found. He was not prosecuted on a CDS possession of paraphernalia charge.

Kristopher Jason Lascalleet, 34, Hagerstown was found guilty on a CDS possession of marijuana charge and fined $157.50. The charge stems from an incident in which he was stopped by the Natural Resources Police for driving a water craft without the proper lights. When contact was made with Lascalleet, he was reportedly intoxicated. After failing to complete all sobriety tests given by the officer, he was arrested. At the time of the arrest, a wooden smoking device was allegedly found in his pants pocket.

Denis Louis Dalton, 39, Oakland, was granted a probation before judgment (PBJ) verdict on a CDS possession of paraphernalia charge stemming from an incident in February 2005. He was sentenced to one day of unsupervised probation and fined $157.50.

When a search and seizure was executed by members of the Narcotics Task Force and Garrett County Sheriff's Office at a Herrington Manor Road residence, two smoking devices, a bag of suspected marijuana, and identification for the residents were reportedly recovered. Dalton was not prosecuted on a CDS possession of marijuana charge.

Trista Dawn Sines, 22, Swanton, was given a stet verdict on a CDS possession of not marijuana and CDS possession of paraphernalia charges. The charges stem from an incident in June during which Garrett County sheriff's deputies investigated a reported suspicious person in the Loch Lynn area. Sines was stopped while walking, and upon investigation she was revealed to be in possession of a spoon with suspected heroin residue on it, a needle, and a syringe. The conditions of her stet are that she obey all laws.

Nadia Marie Kacz-kowski, 20, Bel Air, was given a stet on a CDS possession of marijuana charge stemming from a traffic stop on I-68 in July. Maryland State Police were the arresting officers. The conditions of her stet are that she successfully complete treatment.

GARRETT COLLEGE NEWS BEAT

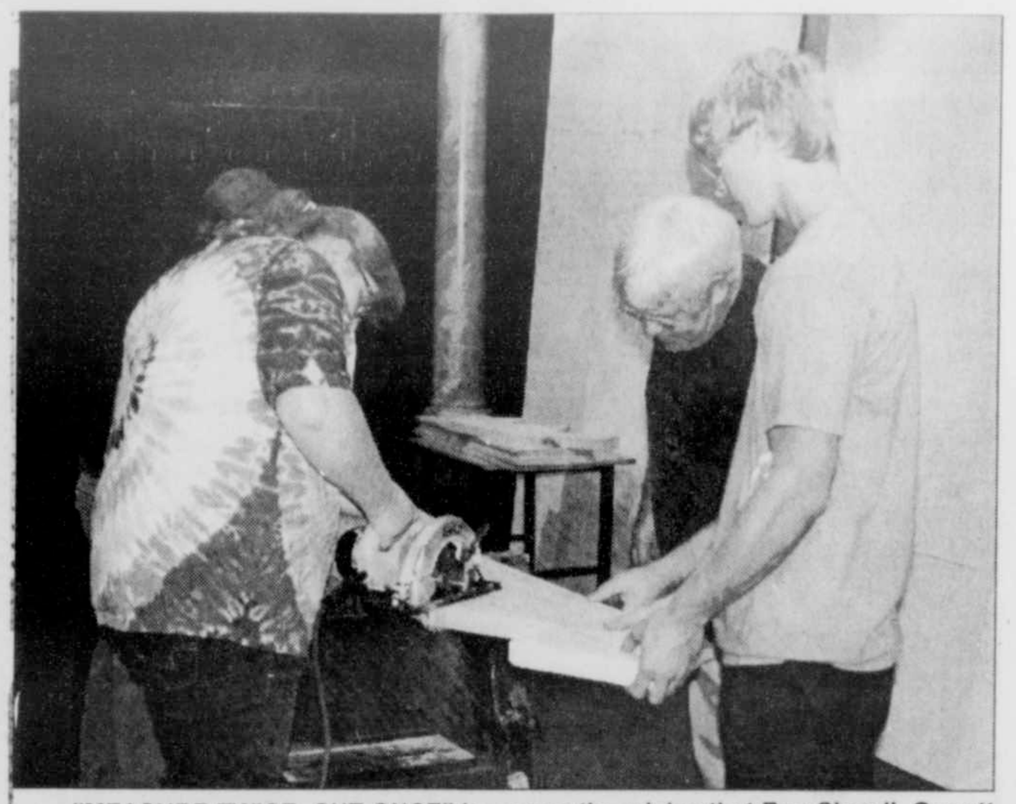
www.garrettcollege.edu



"MEASURE TWICE, CUT ONCE" is among the advice that Ben Sincell, Garrett College professor of speech and theater, may have been sharing when this photo was taken as he coaches students who are building a stage set for the upcoming production of The Little Foxes at Our Town Theatre in Oakland. Ellen Lauver, left, wearing her protective glasses, guides the saw along the penciled line as Sincell, center, encourages her, and classmate Matthew Lundquist steadies the board. Many of Sincell's students get hands-on, real-life theater experience because of the educational relationship between GC and Our Town Theatre. See story.

Garrett College Pays Tribute To Vets

by Peggy Santamaria

This Veterans Day the Garrett College community salutes all of those who dedicate their lives to military service. College president Dr. Richard MacLennan took the opportunity to publically thank all veterans for their sacrifices and commitment.

"We owe a debt of gratitude to the men and women in the armed forces," Dr. MacLennan said. "Each day they put themselves in harm's way to keep us safe. Garrett College joins in the celebration of having veterans as a part of our student body. It is an honor for us to be able to assist veterans in pursuit of their educational goals."

Garrett College particularly recognizes and honors the students on campus who are veterans or family members of veterans. Through the educational benefits portion of what is commonly referred to as the GI Bill, veterans are allotted funds to attend college and, in some cases the veteran may transfer the benefits to a family member.

Fifteen students are enrolled at GC this semester under various chapters of the GI Bill. They are pursuing a variety of majors, including adventure sports management, business information technology, juvenile justice, social and behavioral science, natural resources and wildlife technology, radiology, and nursing.

"We are very pleased to be able to work with our veterans and help them achieve their educational goals here at Garrett College and move on to a brighter future," said Kathy Fauber, financial aid and veterans affairs counselor at GC. "In addition to the GI Bill, there are additional benefits and scholarships for veterans interested in pursuing postsecondary education."

Among other resources available are the Veterans of the Afghanistan and Iraq Conflicts Scholarship Program, the Edward T. Conroy Memorial Scholarship Program, and the Army Women's Foundation Legacy Scholarship Program. For more information on financial aid and scholarships at Garrett College, persons may telephone 301-387-3057 or go online to www.garrettcollege.edu.

We Support Our Troops

GC Theater Students Showcase Their Skills At Our Town Theatre

by Peggy Santamaria

With a clanking whirr and a puff of sawdust, the steel teeth of the circular saw bite into the thick wood plank which will become the stringer for a staircase.

"That's right. Just keep it on the line while you cut," said Ben Sincell, professor of speech and theater at Garrett College, as he attentively coaches Ellen Lauver as she makes the cut.

This is his Fundamentals of Technical Theater: Stagecraft class, and the students are working on a set that will be used in the upcoming production of The Little Foxes at Our Town Theatre in Oakland.

For 30 years Sincell has shared his trademark enthusiasm and energy with students at Garrett College, along with his lifetime dedication to theater and to his community.

When Our Town Theatre (OTT) was founded about 13 years ago, a mutually beneficial relationship was established between the college and the theater. A non-profit organization, OTT's mission is to provide affordable, high quality theater experiences for the Garrett County community. Its membership program provides funding support along with grants from the Maryland State Arts Council and the Garrett County Arts Council. The theater also collaborates with the Garrett County Board of Education, Garrett College, local government, and businesses.

This relationship with Our Town Theatre has allowed Sincell to throw open the doors of the classroom and lead his students into the larger community of Garrett County to hone their technical theater skills and earn real-life experience in their craft.

"Theater in itself is a collaborative art," he said. "People with all different skills are working together. They are working toward a unified fine-art experience."

About a dozen of Sincell's students are currently pounding nails and mixing paints to build sets for The Little Foxes production. Every semester, GC's theater students have the opportunity to take part in the adventure of mounting a stage production. The GC students are usually involved in off-stage activities. They use their skills is diverse ways.

"They might work the lights, oversee the sound system, build sets, like they are doing for this production, or help make costumes," Sincell said, adding that for some students operating a sewing machine is a daunting experience.

Some of Sincell's students in acting classes win roles in the Our Town productions.

"The students who are in the plays get their parts through auditions that are open to the whole community," he explained.

Jane Avery, founder of OTT and artistic director, says that she enjoys working with the Garrett College students.

"Over the years, numerous students from GC have been involved with our productions – actors, costumers, tech assistants, scenery builders, audience members, and critics are some of the positions they have filled. For our production of The Little Foxes, GC has furnished four actors as well as our stage manager and the scenery construction team. They are great kids, and we are enjoying their presence and their talents," Avery said.

Avery also notes the benefits the students derive from this "apprenticeship" kind of relationship.

"The students are able to undertake a real 'theater' feeling and experience in an easy-going, friendly environment. Most of them love working here," she said.

Garrett College theater students have the opportunity to blend learning with experience.

"Ben Sincell is one of the most creative, yet competent, teachers I have ever known," said Avery. "His

Evening Open House Slated At Garrett College

Garrett College will hold an evening open house for the public next Thursday, Nov. 18, starting at 6 p.m. This event provides an opportunity to visit the McHenry campus to learn about unique programs of study, transfer opportunities, scholarships, and financial aid, according to a GC spokesperson.

Visitors will have the chance to speak individually with key staff members, including Ann Wellham, dean of marketing and admissions, and Rachelle Davis, director of admissions. Cissy Van Sickle, director of student financial aid and veterans affairs, will provide information on applying for scholarships and financial aid.

Current Garrett College students will be on hand to talk with visitors about their experiences with the programs, instructors, staff, and the college community environment in general. Campus tours will also be offered.

To register to attend the open house, persons may visit the Garrett College web site at www.garrettcollege.edu or telephone 301-387-3044.

Family Activities Slated Next Week At Hickory Center

The Hickory Environment Education Center, 604 Pride Parkway, Accident, will be open for family activities on Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 17 and 18, between 5 and 8:30 pm.

"Winter Bird Feeders" will be held from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. This seasonal activity will allow families to construct simple bird feeders from gallon milk containers.

Each family should bring as many clean milk jugs (with screw-on caps) as they need for their feeders. Hickory will supply wire for hangers, dowel rods for perches, and seed for each bird feeder made. Basic tools needed to construct the feeders will also be available.

In addition, handouts will be provided that show the most common birds found at feeders in Garrett County.

A planetarium show – "Rusty Rocket's Last Blast" – will be offered from 7 to 8 p.m.

"Join Rusty's last class of rocket rookies as they explore how rockets work, relive some great moments in space exploration, take a quick tour of our solar system, and discover how very far it is to even the nearest planets," said center coordinator Bruce Taliaferro. "For example, it would take 7,000 years for a pizza to be delivered 3.5 billion miles to Pluto."

This program is specifically designed for the younger members of the class, but adults may even learn something new and have a "bit of fun along the way," Taliaferro noted.

For more information, persons may call the center at 301-746-8461.

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the 13th year, The Republican newspaper and the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland are asking for your help. Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is the WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM?

The GFWC Civic Club of Oakland and The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM is basically neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds are being used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special corps of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Members of the Civic Club of Oakland are taking the families shopping at Wal-Mart. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $125 per child.

The Civic Club of Oakland is again heading up the volunteer/shopping coordination. Many volunteers are working together to make sure the children of Garrett County stay warm this winter.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

- It was British playwright Tom Stoppard who made the following observation: "Skill without imagination is craftsmanship and gives us many useful objects such as wickerwork picnic baskets. Imagination without skill gives us modern art."

- You've probably had some experience with hail at some point in your life, but probably not with hail like this: The heaviest recorded hailstone in the world fell in Bangladesh in 1986; it weighed a whopping 2.25 pounds. The largest hailstone, which fell earlier this year in South Dakota, measured 8 inches in diameter. Be glad your car — or your head — wasn't in the way.

- William Henry Harrison, the country's sixth commander-in-chief, had the shortest tenure of any United States president. He died of pneumonia just 32 days after taking office.

- In 1666, the Great Fire of London destroyed 13,200 homes, 87 parish churches and St. Paul's Cathedral, and it left some 70,000 people homeless. It also provided the impetus for the beginning of the insurance industry. After the conflagration, Nicholas Barbon, a well-to-do doctor, realized how much of his wealth was flammable. A year after the Great Fire, he began the world's first insurance company.

- The men and women who venture into space have to adapt themselves to changing environments both when they enter space and when they return home. Many astronauts and cosmonauts say that one of the most difficult things to adjust to when returning to earth from space is the fact that when you let go of something, it falls to the ground.

- If you're a longtime football fan, you might not be surprised to learn that between 1983 and 2006, the average weight of NFL players rose by 10 percent.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

- On Nov. 19, 1863, President Abraham Lincoln delivers one of the most famous speeches in American history at the dedication of the military cemetery at Gettysburg, Pa. Using just 272 words, Lincoln brilliantly and movingly articulated the meaning of the conflict for a war-weary public. His address lasted just two minutes.
- On Nov. 18, 1883, American and Canadian railroads begin using four continental time zones to end the confusion of dealing with thousands of local times. However, it was not until 1918 that Congress officially adopted the railroad time zones and put them under the supervision of the Interstate Commerce Commission.
- On Nov. 21, 1927, Time magazine puts the Holland Tunnel on its cover. The tunnel, which runs under the Hudson River between New York City and Jersey City, N.J., had opened to traffic the week before, at the stroke of midnight on Nov. 13. The toll was 50 cents per car in both directions.
- On Nov. 16, 1945, the United States ships 88 German scientists to America to assist the nation in its production of rocket technology. Most of these "volunteers" had served under the Nazi regime. The voluntary nature of the scheme was somewhat undercut by the admission that the scientists were in "protective custody."
- On Nov. 20, 1955, Bo Diddley introduced himself and his namesake beat to the world with his television debut on "The Ed Sullivan Show." Sullivan was so furious with Diddley for not opening with Tennessee Ernie Ford's "Sixteen Tons" that Sullivan banned him from future appearances on his show.
- On Nov. 15, 1965, at the Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah, 28-year-old Californian Craig Breedlove sets a new land-speed record — 600.601 mph. His car, the Spirit of America, cost $250,000 and was powered by a surplus engine from a Navy jet.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q: I have a collection of old Raleigh cigarette coupons that were given as premiums years ago. Do they have any value? — *Albert, Evansville, Wyo.

A: Cigarette coupons were extremely popular throughout the 1940s and well into the 1950s. Raleigh cigarettes were produced by the Brown & Williamson Tobacco Company, which was eventually purchased by RJR Nabisco. Some of the earlier coupons have a large "903," which was the post-office box in Louisville, Ky., where the stamps could be redeemed. To find out if your stamps have retained any value, I suggest you get a copy of Warman's Tobacco Collectibles: An Identification and Price Guide by Mark F. Moran. Several copies are available at www.amazon.com for $10 or less.

Write to Larry Cox in care of King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475, or send e-mail to questionsforcox@aol.com. Due to the large volume of mail he receives, Mr. Cox is unable to personally answer all reader questions. Do not send any materials requiring return mail.

Diabetes Complications Prevention & Treatment

Diabetes is an abnormality of glucose metabolism. If uncontrolled, it often leads to health related complications. Type 1 diabetes is a deficiency of naturally occurring insulin. Type 2 diabetes (sometimes called adult onset diabetes) results in insulin resistance and decreased secretion of insulin. Hyperglycemia, or high blood sugar, is a sign of decreased insulin activity. Vascular complications sometimes occur. Microvascular complications include retinopathy, neuropathy, and nephropathy. Retinopathy results from damage to the blood vessels in the retina, which can lead to blindness. Nephropathy is kidney damage, and can lead to kidney failure. Neuropathy is nerve damage, which can show up as numbness or tingling sensations. Macrovascular complications include heart disease and stroke.

Insulin helps prevent both microvascular and macrovascular complications. Exenatide (Byetta) and pramlintide (Symlin) are injected before meals to stabilize blood glucose after eating. Sufonylureas, such as glipizide (Glucotrol), work to improve the production of insulin and to prevent microvascular complications. Metformin (Glucophage) is prescribed for persons with type 2 diabetes, and works to improve the body's use of insulin and to prevent macrovascular complications.

That We Might Be Free

Our Veterans risked their lives to serve our country and protect our freedom. Each time we cast our ballot...whenever we express a political opinion without fear of reprisal...every week as we worship freely let us remember the months and years they sacrificed as they defended the rights which we enjoy today. This Veteran's Day, honor the selfless men and women who have paid with a portion of their lives that we might be free.

Breathing Lessons

kHow much of your life is consumed with worrying about the future or regretting the past? Many of us worry excessively about things which we have no control over, since we cannot change the past, and most of our fears of the future never come to pass. The real problem with spending time worrying about tomorrow or ruminating about the past is that it spoils our enjoyment of the present moment. A good way to bring our focus to the present moment is to concentrate on our breathing, and simply enjoy the sheer sensation of breathing in and breathing out. Get into a comfortable position, either sitting or lying down, and focus on your breathing, making a conscious effort to make it slow, relaxed, and deep. Breathe in deeply and slowly and then breathe out just as slowly. Our breath is truly our life and focusing on breathing is a way to savor that life. Just focus on the here and now of breathing, relaxing and enjoying the moment. And, thank God for the gift of life and the present moment, filled with the simple pleasure of just breathing in and breathing out, a truly divine act.

And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and the man became a living being.

Not the fall's 'Lone' failure, but still a big one

By Jay Bobbin

James Wolk

Q: I really enjoyed the series "Lone Star," but it has not been on for the past few weeks. Has it been canceled? If so, why? –Dean Bickford, Arlington, Wash.

A: "Lone Star" became instantly legendary – and not for a reason that star James Wolk and the rest of its cast would have preferred – since the ratings for its premiere were catastrophically low. Fox decided to give it another week, to determine whether there was hope of those numbers going up. It quickly became clear there wasn't, so the network pulled the plug, shuffling the already produced episodes that remained off to a late-Saturday slot.

That set in motion a big shift in Fox's fall programming plans that saw "Lie to Me" called back into play a month before its season premiere was slated, and the start of the second year of "Human Target" delayed from Oct. 1 to Nov. 17. Hopefully, this also answers the slew of "What happened to it?" queries we received about the latter show.

Q: Can you tell me if there are any plans for more "Jesse Stone" TV movies starring Tom Selleck? –Scott Buller, Columbus, Ohio

A: Not only are there plans, the next one – the seventh, titled "Jesse Stone: Innocents Lost" – already has been completed, though no airdate has been set yet, and production on an eighth is in the works. Complicating matters a bit is Selleck's other current venture for CBS, the Friday police-family series "Blue Bloods," which has gotten off to a strong start.

The network has wanted to get that show going substantially before scheduling another of his "Stone" projects to air, and his work on the new series also will affect when filming on No. 8 can begin. However, the good news is that Selleck made the continuation of "Jesse Stone" – on which he's also an executive producer and frequent writer – a condition of his agreeing to do "Blue Bloods."

Q: We have wondered about the return of "Cold Case." We had heard a rumor that it might not be back this season but didn't read anything definite. –Camille Grupy, Parkton, N.C.

A: It's definite that it won't be back. Anything you might have seen about its possible return must have been before CBS set its schedule for the current season in May, since the long-running Kathryn Morris series was officially canceled then. Repeats continue on TNT and in syndication, though.

Christmas Child Team Announces Collection Dates

The Operation Christmas Child (OCC) team of the West Virginia Panhandle area, which includes Garrett and Allegany counties in Maryland, is joining once again this year with children and adults throughout the United States to fill shoeboxes with Christmas gifts. Team members have announced their collection schedule.

OCC is the largest outreach to children in the world, according to Linda Glotfelty, local church coordinator

"It is a kids-helping-kids project that uses simple gift-filled shoe boxes to let hurting children know that they are loved and not forgotten," Glotfelty said.

Since its inception in 1993, 77 million boxes filled with toiletries, toys, and other items have been delivered to children around the world.

"For most of these children, this was their first Christmas present ever," Glotfelty said. "Last year, the West Virginia Panhandle packed about 12,000 shoeboxes. Our goal this year is 15,000 boxes of love and joy."

Local individuals, community groups, and churches that would like to participate in OCC and those that are currently preparing boxes are asked to call Glotfelty at 301-387-6118 or Carolyn Livengood, community coordinator, at 301-387-6826 to register their contributions.

Area participants may bring their shoeboxes to their closest relay center during the following dates and times:

Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, Accident – Nov. 15–22, 9 a.m.–noon. The relay coordinator is Diane Yoder, 722-570-1701.

Pleasant View Baptist Church, Oakland – Nov. 15–19, 11 a.m.–3 p.m.; Nov. 20 and 21, 10 a.m.–noon; and Nov. 22, 10 a.m.–noon. Debbie Welch, 301-334-8515, is the coordinator.

Grace Memorial Church, Cumberland – Nov. 15–19, 9:30 a.m.–4 p.m.; Nov. 20, 10 a.m.–2 p.m.; Nov. 21, 9 a.m.–3 p.m.; and Nov. 22, 9–11 a.m. The relay coordinator is Shirley McKinney, 301-777-1670.

Agape Women To Gather At St. Matthew's

Agape, a Gathering of Women will meet this Saturday, Nov. 13, at 10 a.m. at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland. All women, regardless of their church affiliation, are welcome.

"For this gathering, we will discuss the inevitable losses women face in their lives, but also the gains that can be the result," said Rev. Pam Fahrner.

Comprising about 50 women, the group has been meeting for over three years. Agape gatherings typically last about two hours and are held every six weeks for the purpose of sharing discussions and building relationships between women of the various faiths represented in Garrett County.

Typically, reading materials are e-mailed to members about a week before a gathering, allowing women to come prepared with questions and comments.

"Compassion and openness are hallmarks for the women comprising this group," noted Fahrner. "Respect for open expression of disparate viewpoints is a major component facilitating the always interesting topics and discussion."

Beverages are provided, and participants may bring snacks to share if they wish.

There is no cost to participate in this group. For information, persons may contact Fahrner at phfahrner@comcast.net or call 301-387-6313.

One could hang this photograph upside down and viewers may not even notice. Can you find the geese? As Thanksgiving approaches, it might be best that they do find a way to camouflage themselves, along with their turkey cousins, as they may otherwise end up as the main dish next week, or next month. AMATUER STARGAZER'S DISCOVERY LAUNCHES NEW RESEARCH — The 1979 discovery of a supernova made by Garrett County resident Gus Johnson, has received renewed interest from astronomers and the national media. It is believed that the supernova, star SN 1979C in galaxy M100, has become a black hole and will be the first studied in its early stages since the advent of X-ray telescopes. Pictured above is the supernova discovered by Johnson within the galaxy M100. Pictured on the right is Johnson, posing with one of his many telescopes, at the Discovery Center, where he gives presentations on astronomy. See story for more information.

Service Reduction Affects State Park Holiday Schedule

As part of Maryland's Furlough and Temporary Salary Reduction Plan, state parks and other public lands managed by the state will be closed during service reduction days for the holiday season. Public use parking lots, buildings and other facilities will not be available on those days.

The holiday closing schedule is as follows: Nov. 24, service reduction day, Dec. 23, service reduction day, Dec. 25, Christmas Day, and Dec. 30, service reduction day.

All state park camping and cabin reservations will be honored on those days. Law enforcement personnel will be on duty during the holidays and service reduction days.

In addition to regular holidays (Thanksgiving Day, Native American Appreciation Day, Christmas Day and New Year's Day), all DNR offices will be closed on service reduction days as well.

On May 21, 2010, Gov. O'Malley issued the "Fiscal Year 2011 State Employees' Furlough and Temporary Salary Reduction Plan," detailing the continuing, urgent need to reduce state budget expenditures through a combination of a temporary reduction in salaries, furloughs, and service reduction days.

It is estimated that the furlough and salary reduc-

Man Charged With Several Sex Offenses, Assault

A Kitzmiller man has been arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on a District Court warrant charging him with several sexual offenses.

William Nicholas Evans, 25, is charged with third-degree sex offense, fourth-degree sex offense, and second-degree assault. The charges stem from an investigation that determined Evans to have had a sexual relationship with a 15-year-old female.

He was taken into custody to await a bond hearing.

Man Arrested In Connection With Area Burglaries

Investigators with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office arrested a West Virginia man Monday in connection with several burglaries in the Kitzmiller area.

David Lee Armstrong, 19, Elk Garden, is charged with the burglary of a storage building located off Kitzmiller Road that occurred in July. Over $7,000 in tools were reportedly stolen from the area. He is additionally charged in connection with the burglary of a garage off North Hill Road, from which a mitre saw and other items were stolen.

He was taken into custody to be held on $25,000 bond.

Commissioners Hear Update Report On HART Animal Adoption Center

HART for Animals president Mike Pellet presented an update report to the Garrett County commissioners on Tuesday about his group's proposed adoption center. The facility is to be constructed along Bumble Bee Road on 6.5 acres of county-owned property.

"For the past two years, we've been working hard to privately fund the HART Animal Adoption Center," Pellet said. "Thanks to the lease from the county, we have the property."

He noted land has been cleared, a driveway has been installed, and final designs have been submitted by the architect.

"Our goal is to break ground the first quarter of next year," Pellet said.

The president showed Commissioners Ernie Gregg and Fred Holliday architectural renderings of the center. Pellet said the facility will house 60 dogs, 20 puppies, 40 cats, and about 20 or 30 kittens.

The first phase of the center will cost about $600,000, with the total cost of the project being $1.2 million. Pellet noted all work has been done with private funds and donations.

"We've raised about $300,000 so far, and we have some other commitments," he said. "So, within the next month or two, we think we'll be pretty close to the initial $600,000, which will get us up and running."

In the meantime, he said, the nonprofit organization continues to work with the county's animal shelter by rescuing pets threatened by overcrowding issues. The facility has a limited amount of space, and, therefore, some dogs and cats are euthanized to make room for others entering the facility.

Over the last seven years, however, HART has rescued more than 4,000 shelter pets by transporting them to rescue groups and no-kill facilities in the mid-Atlantic region.

"So far this year, we've rescued 513," Pellet said.

Every Wednesday, a HART volunteer visits the

Planning Dept. Provides Bldg. Permits Report

Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development staff members provided an update report on their recent activities and projects for the county commissioners on Tuesday.

Permits and Inspections Division chief Jim Torrington reported that the number of commercial permits issued between Jan. 1 and Oct. 31 of this year increased by nearly 281 percent, compared to the same period last year. This is mainly because of wind turbine construction, he noted.

In 2009, 21 commercial permits for taxable structures were issued during the first 10 months of that year. Eighty were issued for that same period this year.

The builder declared value of this year's structures is nearly $156 million, or an increase of about 1,971 percent, when compared to last year's value of $7.5 million.

Director John Nelson noted that Torrington's office has received preliminary concept plans for four Marcellus shale drilling sites: one along Frazee Ridge Road and three along Old Morgantown Road.

He said the Marcellus Gas Advisory Committee met for the first time on Monday. It was primarily an orientation event in which group members reviewed information and went over what their re-

Two Local Young Women Receive Highest FFA Degree At Convention

Kara Savage and Ashley Rodeheaver received the American FFA Degree at the 83rd National FFA Convention in Indianapolis last month. It is the highest degree awarded by the National FFA Organization, and recognizes leadership abilities and outstanding achievements in agricultural business, production, processing, and service programs.

Reportedly, fewer than one in 154 FFA members advance through their local chapter and state FFA degree programs to earn this national degree.

Both girls received a gold American FFA Degree key and a certificate in a blue leatherette frame.

Savage is the daughter of L. Deane and Nancy Savage. She is currently attending Garrett College, with plans to transfer to Frostburg State University in the fall of 2011.

She is a member of the North Garrett FFA Chapter under advisor Richard McCrobie.

Savage is the 2010 Garrett County Farm Queen, and was the 2008 Autumn Glory Festival Queen.

She received the State FFA Degree in June 2009.

She has shown dairy animals at numerous local, state, and national shows, and has won numerous grand champion dairy showmanship awards, the grand champion swine showmanship award, and the reserve grand champion rabbit showmanship award.

She was a premier dairy exhibitor numerous times at both the Garrett County Fair and the Garrett County Holstein Show. She has shown numerous grand champion dairy animals, grand and reserve grand champion market lambs, and won the grand champion market swine ribbon two years in a row.

Savage's other awards include the Baity Ridder Memorial Award for Outstanding Youth at the Gar-rett County Fair, the Scott Glotfelty Humanitarian Award for outstanding community

I-68 Wreck Ends In DUI Arrest Of Female Driver

An Emmittsburg resident was charged with driving under the influence following a two-vehicle accident on I-68. The Friday wreck was investigated by Maryland State Police.

Investigation revealed that Charlene Ann Sigg, 52, had been traveling west on I-68 in a 1996 Honda Accord, when a 2002 Chevrolet Cavalier attempted to pass her on the left. The Cavalier was driven by Tyler John Friend, 18, Accident.

When Friend attempted the pass, Sigg's vehicle swerved into his path. Friend was able to stop his vehicle safely on the shoulder of the road. Sigg lost control of her vehicle, which skidded and overturned. It came to rest on its top in the median of the road. She was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released for minor injuries. She was then arrested for DUI and operating an uninsured vehicle.

Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department and Northern Rescue Squad also responded to the 11:15 p.m. scene.

Local Stargazer's 1979 Discovery Making National Headlines Again

by Kyle Lantz

Swanton resident Gus Johnson has received national media attention recently for a discovery he made over 30 years ago. Johnson, now 72, is a self-taught astronomy enthusiast who in 1979 first noticed the explosion of a star nearly 50 million light years away. The sighting of this supernova, which gained Johnson media attention at the time, has become significant again, as scientists now believe it to be their first look at the birth of a black hole.

Johnson's supernova, SN 1979C, named for the year of its discovery, is the nearest object of its kind and will allow observers the world over to gather new information. Though astronomers understand how black holes form, nobody had ever observed it actually happening in the wake of a supernova until now.

As a star dies the core falls in on itself and the outer layers of the star are blown off in a massive explosion called a supernova. Supernovas are bright enough that they can outshine the galaxies they are in for weeks at a time. These exploding stars do not always form black holes, but when they do they become objects so massive their gravity can prevent even light from escaping.

When asked about the supernova and the exploding star's subsequent transition into a black hole, the modest Johnson felt compelled to remind the public that it was the French astronomer duo of Charles Messier and Pierre Mechain who in 1781 discovered the galaxy (M100) which contained his supernova.

In fact this galaxy so fascinated Johnson that he had been pointing his telescopes in its direction regularly since 1967. This might explain his ability to recognize instantly the addition of one small white dot in the night sky.

Stargazing through an 8-inch reflector telescope on that April night in 1979, Johnson noticed something a bit different about M100. "I did not remember seeing that star before," Johnson recalls.

After he recognized what he assumed was a supernova, Johnson did not immediately inform others of his discovery, but waited another night to confirm his findings. After he contacted a group of astronomers in Cambridge, Mass., who networked with two other observatories in Asiago, Italy, and Kitt Peak, Ariz., Johnson's suspicions were found to be correct. It was a supernova. The last discovery of a similar nature was spotted in 1054, but predated the X-ray telescopes

Several Taken To Hospital Following Three-Car Accident

Three people were transported to Western Maryland Regional Health Center, Cumberland, on Saturday following a three-vehicle collision in Grantsville. Maryland State Police were the responding officers.

Samuel Lehman Hollis, 72, Morgantown, W.Va., was the driver of a 1993 Chevrolet truck. He reportedly attempted to enter onto Rt. 669 from the auction house located on Springs Road, when he failed to yield right of way to a southbound 2005 Buick Century, driven by Lela Yoder, 86, Springs, Pa. Both vehicles were pushed into the northbound lane, at which time the Buick was struck head-on by a southbound 2001 Dodge Ram, driven by John C. Collins, 43, Somerset, Pa.

Yoder, Hollis, and Collins's passenger, Valarie Ann Collins, 43, were all taken by Northern Rescue Squad for treatment of their injuries. Grantsville Fire and Rescue also responded to the 10:30 a.m. scene. Hollis was cited for failure to yield right of way to oncoming traffic.

Third Annual Festival Of Trees Set Next Week

Garrett County's third annual Festival of Trees will be held Wednesday, Nov. 23, through Saturday, Nov. 27, at the Oakland Community Center, formerly the Armory.

The kickoff begins with a T'was the Night Before Preview Party and Auction. The party begins on Wednesday at 6:30 p.m., with a chance to eat and visit the guests and exhibits. A live auction begins at 8:15 p.m. with award winning items and others going for sale.

"This is a great chance to save time with your own personal holiday decorating. You can purchase a one-of-a-kind themed tree, centerpiece, wreath, or gingerbread house to decorate your home or office," noted a festival spokesperson. "Last year, several people purchased items and donated them to the hospital, their church, and shut-ins."

Tickets are available online through PayPal and/or by calling 301-334-6255. The $25 ticket also includes a special collector ornament (to the first 150), silent auction items, live auction, cash bar, plus admission to the remainder of the festival with ticket stub.

The festival will be open 4 to 8 p.m. on Thursday with reduced admission.

"Family Day" will be on Friday with a combination of family activities and crafts, Frosty's Funland, Santa's Bakery, and festival characters. Guests can dine with the Festival of Trees characters from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Characters include a snowman, a gingerbread man, an elf, a tree, and reindeer. Lunch requires a special $10 ticket and includes lunch, a special craft, a gift from the characters, and festival admission. Guest may also have sundaes with the characters featuring Lakeside Creamery ice cream and a build-your-own-sundae bar. Guest may also place silent bids on the remaining exhibits not purchased on Wednesday.

The festival culminates on Saturday with Kids' Day, beginning with breakfast with Santa. There are two different tickets this year – one for 9 to 10 a.m. and a second for 10 to 11 a.m. Doors open to regular admission at 10 a.m. for activities in Frosty's Funland and Santa's Bakery. Reindeer games are scheduled from 2 to 4 p.m., with the second annual Sundaes with Santa scheduled from 2 to 3:30.

"The best thing is watching the kids have a great time with all the activities," said the spokesperson. "Many stand with their parents watching the trains in the Train Garden – thanks to Tom and Karen Myers – or staring at the unbelievable details in the Gingerbread Village."

Sponsors of the event are: Special Olympics Maryland/Deep Creek Dunk, 104.5 KHJ, 92.3 the Train, 1050 AM WMSG, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, Christmas Chalet, Newman Funeral Homes, Mtn. ## E. Neff Named To WQED Multimedia Board Of Directors

Oakland resident Edward Neff has been elected to a three-year term on the board of directors of WQED Multimedia in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Former president and owner of the Compass Company Inc. insurance and risk management consultants, Neff sold the firm in 2007 to Park Strategies LLC in New York and continues with it on an "of counsel" basis. He has been an active member of several national insurance associations, serving on the board of the Society of Charter Property and Casualty Underwriters (CPCU).

A native of Wheeling, W.Va., Neff has a long history of volunteer involvement in the communities where he has lived. He is a past chair of the board of the Wheeling Symphony and helped establish the Community Hospice there. For many years, he was a member of the board of the Pennsylvania-based Presbyterian Homes Inc., which operates retirement communities and senior services in a five-state region.

In upstate New York, he served on the board of the Eddy, a hospital consortium, and the Troy Savings Bank Music Hall, a renowned "acoustically perfect" venue. While in New York, he was chair of the board of the Arts Center of the Capital Region and WMHT Educational Telecommunications, the public broadcaster serving eastern New York and western New England.

Neff was first introduced to Deborah Acklin, president and CEO of WQED Multimedia, at a national meeting of PBS station managers and board chairs, where she learned that he was a member of WQED and planned to retire with his wife Jeanne to their home at Deep Creek Lake. That connection began a continuing dialogue about public broadcasting that has led to his invitation to serve on the board.

WQED Pittsburgh was founded in 1954 as the nation's first community-supported broadcaster. The people of WQED create, produce, and distribute quality programs, products, and services to engage, educate, inform, and entertain the public within their community and around the world.

Man Driving On Suspended Is Charged

An Oakland man was charged by Garrett County sheriff's deputies with driving on a suspended license following a Saturday traffic stop.

Matthew Norman Swapp was stopped on E Street, Mtn. Lake Park, for an equipment violation, when he was discovered to be operating on a suspended. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

NAMED ADVOCATE OF THE YEAR – Each year during National Domestic Violence Awareness Month (October), the Dove Center of Garrett County recognizes a citizen or organization outside its own staff and board of directors by presenting the center's Advocate of the Year award. The honoree is described as "a person who consistently goes above and beyond to further the missicn of the agency." Receiving the award this year was Don Sincell, editor of The Republican newspaper. Heather Hanline, executive director of the center, said that Sincell's efforts demonstrate the theme of the month, "Call it what it is." "We chose this theme to call attention to society's tendency to minimize domestic violence by calling it anything but 'domestic violence,'" Hanline said. "Mr. Sincell has written many excellent editorials and articles on the topic of domestic violence, and has reported the facts in a responsible, matter-of-fact way. This is very credible, because the first step to eradicating a problem is to recognize that one exists." Hanline thanked Sincell for "making the community aware of the vital services offered by the Dove Center for victims of domestic violence and sexual assault." Pictured from left are Dorothy Tuel, immediate past chairperson of the Dove Center board of directors; Jan Finkel, current chairperson; Sincell; and Hanline.

What a Coincidence!...

Last week's issue of this newspaper carried a front-page photograph and a news story about an informational program that is being presented by the Savage River Watershed Association (SRWA) at Rt. 40 Elementary School this evening. The focus of the program will be drilling for gas in the Marcellus shale in our region, with particular emphasis on the great concerns about the process that has come to be known as fracking, and the potential harm it can pose to vital water resources in the drilling areas. Several state-level environmental experts will be among the presenters.

Then just yesterday our newsroom received word that Dallas-based Chief Oil and Gas has scheduled "an informational meeting for local officials and the landowners involved in the path of our proposed wells in Garrett County," as stated by Kristi Gittins, Chief's vice president of public affairs. The meeting will be held at Friendsville Town Hall – guess when – this evening! What a coincidence! Maybe Kristi and her folks were totally unaware of the SRWA meeting tonight. Perhaps it was the only time slot that was available at the busy, busy Friendsville Town Hall. Right.

As of this date, we have no specific information to discredit Chief Oil and Gas. The company may be reputable to the nth degree. But we can't help feeling that this little "scheduling conflict" looks so clearly like a brilliant red flag. It seems so blatantly obvious that the company officials in no way want any owners of Marcellus shale-rich property, particularly in the Friendsville area where they have several wells planned, to attend tonight's SRWA program. It tends to make one ask such questions as "What are they afraid of?" and "What do they have to hide?"

With all of the ill-preparedness of the Garrett County commissioners prior to and during the invasion of the wind-turbine companies into the county, it is our sincere hope that our new commissioners will be far more proactive when it comes to the gas-drilling arena. To current commissioners Gregg and Holliday, who are still in charge, we give credit for at least appointing a gas drilling task force, the membership of which seems to be relatively balanced, with representation from a number of agencies, organizations, and businesses. It is crucial that this task force be effective; that it makes absolutely certain that there are sufficient regulations in place to completely protect our environment; and to make the drilling companies 100% libel for any damages.

Ultimate protection for our county will be impossible without some decisive actions by our elected state representatives, Senator Edwards and Delegate Beitzel. We will be watching – oh, so carefully – when the next General Assembly opens this January.

The harvesting of gas via this new technology could indeed by a much-needed economic boon to Garrett County. But if our environment is contaminated in the process, it will all be for naught.

Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

Federal laws are heard in federal court and require that lawyers be registered with the federal court system. A client is prudent to select a lawyer with particular subject-matter expertise.

The Hatch Act, generally speaking, is an administrative matter filed specifically with the U.S. Office of Special Council. However, bearing in mind that during this election untold votes were cast without a duly informed public (aka unfair competition), specific Hatch Act violations may be legally affixed to federal class action.

The Hatch Act's synoptic application in this instance:

An officer or employee of a state or local agency is subject to the Hatch Act if he performs duties in connection with an activity financed in whole or in part by federal funds. The Hatch Act applies to employees of private, nonprofit organizations if OMB contractually states that the recipient organizations are deemed to be state or local government agencies for purposes of the Hatch Act.

The Hatch Act defines partisan as referring to a political party. Thus, under the Hatch Act, an election for public office is a partisan election if any candidate is running as a representative of, for instance, the Republican or Democratic party. An employee covered by the act may not be a candidate for public office in a partisan election.

A nonpartisan election may turn into a partisan election when a candidate solicits or advertises the endorsement of a partisan political party or uses a political party's resources to further his or her campaign, and these actions may rebut the presumption that an election is nonpartisan, and thus indicate that the election is a partisan one. While each case is fact specific, the board has consistently held that it is less about the title used, and more about the actions of the candidate. The general analysis is whether the candidate acted in concert with a partisan political party.

As far as the other allegations made in the recent letter in this paper, I have written extensively on the county's HIPAA violations. I leave it to those who vied for change in systems' governance to use their own personal knowledge in regard to transparency, performance standards, arm's-length transactions, and employment law.

Sincerely,
Susan Athey-Oxford

To the Editor:

I enjoyed the editorial on 10-11-10 very much, but it did not go far enough.

Do they know what patriotism means? It's to respect what our veterans have done for us in all wars. It has gotten so we cannot even stand facing the flag, hand over heart during the playing of the National Anthem or Taps. People seem to be unable to remove their hats and turn the d--- phones off. It should be enforced within our schools. We could start with the teachers, but this will bring in the crazy ACLU.

To the Editor:

Thank you for mentioning the soldiers having been left out of the election concerns. The recent voter outrage against the government was outrageously lacking in ideas for fixing things. Angry loud voices brought no thought to the problems. The huge amounts of money and the energies could have been better spent in constructive ways – like researching and offering ideas for campaign finance reform so that we can keep our government from being sold out to Big Money Wall Street and corporations that send our jobs overseas – to improve their bottom line.

Our political system isn't functioning anymore for the ordinary people. Now the system is set up to support the corporations and the lobbyists who work for them. The lobbyists pay congressmen to support corporate interest and then they retire and become lobbyists themselves. The Supreme Court changed the playing field and the power now goes to those with money. Corporations are now officially "people" who can contribute to influence elections. Small business people and regular working folks have lost their power. We no longer have the good wager or buying power to help ourselves. We don't count. We can't afford to buy their products, while plenty of others through the world can. Steel is made overseas and sold there, too, as other economies grow.

Reagan, Clinton, the Bushes, and Obama, all complicit. We really need to be reminded of President Eisenhower's speech as he left office, warning about the country being taken over by the military industrial complex and its need to make money off perpetual wars. He was right, and the corporations learned that idea well.

Now we have the pharmaceutical, medical insurance, fossil fuel, etc., industrial complexes. It's a game they play to lobby us into ignorance with no power as they gain and grow. They beat the drum to promote "social issues discord" to distract us from our real problems. Our Christian values are distorted and result in home-grown terrorism.

Let's focus on the home front – Stop the wars and the creation of more money for the military industrial complex, a positive idea that would decrease the debt and terrorism abroad. We need to return to American values of innovation and research and development to create jobs and wealth for everyone. Let's march against war. Our soldiers are dying out there, and for what?

Sincerely,
Cynthia S. Knight

You have a real jewel in your backyard: Husky Power Dog Sledding. Several weeks ago, my husband and I took our 15-year-old daughter and her three friends on an adventure that they will never forget. We took them dog sledding!

There was no snow, but the dogs didn't mind. The sled runs on wheels when there is no snow, and the dogs pulled with just as much determination as if there had been snow. Linda and Mike Herdering have a kennel with 17 northern breed dogs near Accident. They provide thrills by the minute with their dog sledding rides and visits to the dogs.

They are exceptionally knowledgeable about the dog sledding. Their mission is to educate and give their guests an exciting adventure. We are already talking about our next trip to visit Husky Power. This time, I hope I get to ride!

with which to study it.

Born in the coal and steel town of Vandergrift, Penn., Johnson became interested in astronomy at an early age. Johnson's love for the science dates back to his middle school days. "I was going through the encyclopedia in the classroom and some artist had made a picture of Mars as seen from one of the moons. Something about that captured my fancy and I've just been studying stars ever since," he noted.

Johnson, who has no formal education in the field of astronomy, actually received his education in English literature. A former middle school teacher, Johnson never felt comfortable at the helm of a public school classroom. His philosophy was incompatible with the work. "I was too easy going; I treated kids the way I wanted to be treated. You can't do that with many children," Johnson related.

When asked why he did not pursue his education in astronomy, Johnson mentioned that he did not inherit his father's gift for calculation and that his math skills were not up to the task. Johnson's father was an accountant for a Carnegie-Illinois steel mill in Pennsylvania.

Perhaps equal to his love for a star-filled night is Johnson's interest in the natural world here on Earth. He is semi-retired and can be found on most days at the Discovery Center located at Deep Creek Lake, where he gives presentations on astronomy to anyone who will listen, and while on the subject truly seems in his element.

Scheduling for Johnson's astronomy presentations, which usually take place once or twice a month in the summer, can be found at the web site http://discoverycenterdcl.com/discoverycenter.aspx. Every Aug. 12, Johnson hosts a meteor party where he teaches interested individuals about the Perseid meteor shower.

Caroline Blizzard, director of the Discovery Center and colleague of Johnson, especially enjoys watching the astronomy enthusiast interact with interested young minds. "With his hat turned backwards and an excited look, Johnson shares his encyclopedic knowledge with any child who will listen," Blizzard stated.

The DNR employee uses a collection of his personal high-powered telescopes when instructing and feels that children should be encouraged to begin studying the stars when they are young.

Johnson moved to his current home on the Deep Creek Lake shore in 1961, leaving behind the bright lights of the city so he could better observe the stars. "Stars are a heritage we're losing," Johnson feels. He worries that an excessive amount of light could threaten the ability for younger generations to follow in his footsteps.

Johnson has been taking this newfound media attention in stride, stating that "it's fun but becoming a little tiring."

county shelter and identifies adoptable animals. Then on Friday or Saturday, a volunteer at his or her own expense transports the adoptees to rescue organizations that have room for them.

About 1,200 animals are brought to the facility each year. Pellet said HART's goal has been to "substantially reduce" the number of pets euthanized at the shelter.

"But a year ago, we recognized we weren't making any headway in the total numbers coming into the shelter," Pellet said. "So, we opened a low-cost spay/neuter clinic in McHenry."

The facility is open three days a week for low-income pet owners. Two retired veterinarians from Pittsburgh, Pa., volunteer at the clinic, and a third vet charges HART only half the normal fee. About 800 animals have been spayed/neutered at the clinic so far this year.

"Which means we probably prevented 4–5,000 puppies or kittens that were unwanted," Pellet said. "Hopefully, that will show up in the future as a reduction in demand on the county shelter."

He also noted that 99 percent of the pets that are brought to the HART clinic have never been to a veterinarian before, and, therefore, 99 percent have never had a rabies vaccine.

"So, in addition to the spay/neuter aspect, we're also giving the rabies [vaccine], which is a public health issue," Pellet said.

He reported that the clinic has been very successful, and is "breaking even" financially, thanks to contributions.

The president also reported on a recent problem facing HART's rescue operations. All shelters are full and rescues are reaching capacity level in the mid-Atlantic because people are abandoning animals for economic reasons. As a result, facilities are now demanding that HART test and treat the pets they bring in for such diseases as feline leukemia and respiratory problems.

"This is now costing us additional funds, above and beyond what we are spending on the spay/neuter aspect," Pellet said.

The medications and test kits have cost HART about $2,700 so far this year, he noted. As HART is providing a benefit to the county, shelter, and public, Pellet asked if the commissioners could help cover that expense, especially as it applies to animals rescued from the local shelter.

The president also asked if the county could help HART with its grant applications in the next few months. He indicated a county staff member would have much more expertise than HART members at writing grants.

Commissioner Gregg noted that grant funding is becoming scarce and awarding competitive, and indicated a staff may be able to help HART.

Commissioner Holliday acknowledged that HART needed help with the applications, but said the county would look into Pellet's two requests and see if they could be worked out.

Holliday and Gregg's last public session as commissioners will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 7, at 9 a.m. An informal reception for them is planned on that date.

The new commissioners will be sworn in on Tuesday, Dec. 14, at 9 a.m. at the courthouse.

Gov. Says Fall Great Time To Plant A Tree

Gov. Martin O'Malley reminded Marylanders Tuesday that fall is an ideal time to plant a tree. Trees purify air, decrease polluted runoff and increase property values. To add even more value, Marylanders can save $25 on the purchase of a tree and win prizes for registering trees online.

"Planting a tree is a small investment with a huge payoff," said Gov. O'Malley. "By planting a tree, Maryland families can leave a green legacy, creating a smarter, greener future for our children."

O'Malley first launched Marylanders Plant Trees in April of 2009 to give residents an accessible opportunity to make an impact in the natural world. In cooperation with participating nurseries, the program continues to offer coupons worth $25 off the purchase of a native tree costing $50 or more, redeemable at nearly 70 nurseries across the state.

"Fall is the best time to plant a tree," said DNR Secretary John Griffin. "Planting as the weather changes gives trees the chance to take root during the winter and prepare for spring when they bud."

The Marylanders Plant Trees program is again offering prizes for residents who register their planted trees online. The program will then raffle off gift cards redeemable at participating Maryland nurseries, a locally grown Christmas tree, and a yacht tour of the Chesapeake Bay. All participants who register trees planted from May 1 to Apr. 30 are eligible.

DNR is also continuing the Marylanders Plant Trees school challenge for a second year. Schools will compete by planting trees and registering them on the program web site. The grand prize for the school that plants and registers the most trees is a program by the Maryland Park Service's Scales and Tales. This year's challenge will include all trees planted from May 1 to Apr. 30.

To help schools with the challenge, the Marylanders Plant Trees web site contains location specific guidance for selecting, purchasing and planting trees, as well as a tool to calculate the benefit of the trees planted. Eligible trees planted for the challenge can be registered by the students and parents online in the name of their school.

The program's web site is trees.maryland.gov.

NOTHING FISHY ABOUT THIS

With the incidence of hearing loss increasing as a function of age, it never hurts to follow dietary advice that may help preserve hearing. One such protective measure involves eating fish, particularly fish rich in omega-3 fatty acids. According to the Blue Mountains Hearing Study, people over the age of 50 who reported eating at least two servings of fish per week had a 42 percent lower risk of developing age-related hearing loss ("presbycusis") than those who rarely ate fish. It was also noted that the higher the omega-3 intake, the lower the risk of hearing loss. The reason for the benefit rests with the fact that omega-3s may help preserve microcirculation in the cochlea (the inner ear).

In addition to a dietary approach, two important steps you can take to help protect your hearing are wearing ear protection in loud, noisy environments and having your hearing checked regularly to stay on top of possible hearing loss. Hearing tests are easy, comprehensive, painless ways of evaluating this precious sense. If you've never had a hearing test, or if it's been awhile since your last one, take the time today to give us a call at AUDIBEL.

P.S. If you have any doubts about your ability to hear clearly, it makes good sense to schedule a hearing test to know where you stand.

RICHARD H. TRACEY

Richard H. "Dick" Tracey, 74, Oakland, formerly of Carroll County and Pittsburgh, Pa., passed away Sunday, Nov. 14, 2010, at his residence.

Born July 30, 1936, in Pittsburgh, he grew up in the construction industry, beginning work while still in high school. He settled in the mechanical field and evolved with the changing times to integrate energy management into the trade.

His passion for quality and commitment to excellence led him to an outstanding engineering career with Ryan Homes, Ryland Homes, and as a consultant for over 50 years. He was recognized as an industry leader and was invited to serve as a board member on various national building energy committees. He received numerous awards and honorary degrees throughout his career.

He married Christine M. Duvall on Feb. 8, 1982, and began the greatest chapter of his life story – one filled with happiness, pride, and satisfaction that comes from knowing true love.

He was a wonderful father to his three sons and stepdaughter, Richard Tracey and wife Maureen, Donald Tracey and wife Mary, Daniel Tracey and wife Tracy, all of Enterprise, Fla., and Kary Scalise, Greensburg, Pa. He took pride in his eight grandchildren, Megan and Christopher, Lauren and Travis, Erik and Shannon, and Christopher and Kristina.

Friends will be received at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, 318 E. Oak Street, Oakland, on Saturday, Nov. 20, at 11 a.m.

A luncheon will follow the service at Will O' the Wisp, 20160 Garrett Highway, Deep Creek Lake.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to the National Parkinson Foundation, 1501 NW 9th Ave., Bob Hope Rd., Miami, FL 33136-1494.

HOSPITAL ADDS SCHEDULING SERVICE – Garrett County Memorial Hospital now has a centralized scheduling office to assist patients with the scheduling of specific procedures at the hospital. The office is located on the first floor and will be staffed Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Scheduling can be done in person by visiting the office or by calling 301-533-4180. "We are excited about this new service and think it will be a great help to our patients," said Kathy Rhoden, director of patient financial services at the hospital. # Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Some politicians don't understand that Social Security and Medicare are essential safety nets. Is America willing to see our older citizens dying quicker to save money?

American people are concerned about big spending, but let's face it, the huge percentage of federal spending is by the Pentagon, and until we get out of those failed and extremely costly wars around the Persian Gulf, that is billions of dollars every year. I heard that some candidates supported the start of another war with Iran to "stimulate the economy."

The Iraq and Afghanistan wars didn't show any sign of a stimulus effect, except maybe for the company that's manufacturing the predator drones.

Maybe America reduced its unemployment somewhat because thousands of young Americans aren't looking for jobs; they're just trying to stay alive.

Believe me, Iran would be a much more dangerous enemy than the pitiful nations of Iraq and Afghanistan. Iran's population united in its support for the radical Iranian government.

The only solution to international problems with some in office is just more aggressive military activities, and that truly leads to more nations who hate America, and many more political radicals who want to attack the only way they can, through terrorism.

America is frustrated by the slow economic recovery. But we have seen three quarters of economic growth, so we are on the verge of a solid recovery.

Why was this election the most expensive ever? One reason is that the Supreme Court decided to allow outside groups to give unlimited amounts of money without revealing who gave that money.

Many ordinary Americans like me contributed at a rate of $25, but that can't compete with the billions of dollars donated by big business like AIG, United Health, and BP Oil. Is that good for America? Obviously not.

One sure thing about the election is that money talks – big time.

It is really quite amazing that the Armistice happened, and that Germany survived World War I. It was at exactly 11 a.m. on Nov. 11. And of course across America and probably most of Europe, church bells were ringing joyously. The first massive, modern war at last was over.

Years later, the church bells rang in memory of that great moment. Our late Ferne Beachy's birthday was Nov. 11. And when she was a little girl, she thought they were ringing in observance of her birthday.

By the way, I missed another important birthday: Ferne's sister Beulah Moon's is Nov. 13, same as my Aunt Dorothy Quaintance, who is enjoying a visit from her daughter-in-law and her little grandson from South Korea. Her son is deployed in the Middle East.

When I was a little girl visiting my Glotfelty grandparents, Oral and Emma, whom we called Pappy and Babble, one of my favorite things to do was go through the big boxes filled with old family photos and old letters. One I especially remember had a big emotional impact. It was from my Great Uncle Rob from France during World War I. He mentioned that he wanted to see his brother, and how he was longing to do some haymaking and see Bittinger soon.

But he never came home. His photograph in his military uniform shows a very handsome young man. And he had a fiancée, Mary Selby. I wonder what happened to Mary and if she ever married or had any children; maybe one named after her long lost love. It's hard to believe that World War I was nearly 100 years ago.

He is buried at the Glotfelty/Gladenfelder home place, and his grave stone is the most impressive of any stone. My grandparents never forgot the brother who did not come home safe from World War I. And I'm sure my dad was named for him. That means that two generations of Glotfeltys had a namesake of Robert Emerson Glotfelty. The eldest son of Rodney and Marci Glotfelty is the other one. He's now living in Baltimore with his sister Blakely. They are both involved with the Teach America Program that is designed to enthuse new, younger teachers in the poorest inner-city neighborhoods. Robby is teaching biology and Blakely is teaching third grade.

I believe our nation's deficit will not make such big progress in a few years when the Baby Boomers' children get their feet in their careers. There is a second Baby Boom, and most are still in college, so they do not make much money and therefore do not pay much in taxes, but that will be better pretty soon.

I noticed last evening an unusually large and bright crescent moon. It was so remarkable that I planned to mention it. It slipped my mind, but luckily I saw it again, and it was just as remarkable as I thought.

The recent cruise ship incident confirmed what I have always believed about cruises. It would be the last kind of vacation that I would choose for myself. It has zero appeal to me. What you would get is like floating time in a Las Vegas hotel without anything surrounding you. It's not like you are in a big hotel in a big city, where there are all kinds of things available around you.

The cruise industry promises great and virtually unlimited dining. And of course, there are many bars on big cruise ships. But that is about it. That's a poor way to spend a week. And that is if everything goes well. But what if you had no electricity and no hot water, and no cooked food – just Spam? And no air conditioning?

Although it's a little bit cold out here in rural Bittinger, we are much luckier than those in the upper Midwest. They are experiencing high winds and about a foot of snow, even before we have reached the middle part of November. We do sometimes have real winter in the first half of November, but not this year.

Monday, Nov. 22, in 1963 demanded more class and dignity than anyone could expect in a first lady. No doubt all have seen Jackie Kennedy's performance in the most difficult circumstance. I look forward to reading the new book by the Secret Service men who were on duty in Dallas on that sad day nearly five decades ago.

All of America watched the event that surrounded our president. The funeral procession was from the White House to the Capitol with a flag-draped coffin on a horse-drawn caisson.

I remember the endless procession of Americans from all ethnic backgrounds walking past it. It was the purest display of our government's honor and majesty. It is sad to think that those dreadful days represented our greatest moment of unity.

But I still felt a little of that unity on Jan. 10, 2009, at the inauguration of President Obama. It seemed that to many Americans (not all), he represented a moment full of hope.

It was another really good game for West Virginia University in Morgantown, where the Mountaineers beat their conference rival Cincinnati. If they continue with this kind of play, they will have a good chance to win the Big East championship.

That will make my girls Caitlin and Mere very happy. And they will be home this weekend; home with Mother. I can hardly wait to see them in the driveway.

I'm really glad I'm not in Minnesota for a couple of reasons. After about a foot of snow last weekend, they got another seven inches on Saturday night, and wind, too. I'm also sure that I could not live around people who elected Michele Bachmann.

I heard from Carol that the University of Maryland Terrapins men's basketball team played this afternoon on Comcast Sports Network, but I can't find that on my channel list. Luckily,

Garrett County Joins Chestnut Revival Efforts

Thanks to the efforts of Bruce Taliaferro, coordinator of the Hickory Environmental Education Center, Garrett County will be involved in the restoration of the blight-stricken American chestnut tree.

Arrangements were made in October for pure American chestnut seedlings, from the American Chestnut Foundation representative in Allegany County, to be sent to Garrett County. Those seedlings are now planted at the Hickory Center.

Taliaferro hopes to establish a program of studies similar to those in Carroll County, where 18,000 middle and high school students learn tree identification, measure tree growth, study tree DNA, and analyze other data from established plots.

In addition to this first plot of young trees, the Hickory Center is expecting American-Chinese hybrid seedlings to be planted when they become available.

According to Taliaferro renewed hope for the American chestnut has come after ACF members crossed the tree with its blight-resistant Chinese counterpart.

This hybrid composed of 15/16ths American chestnut and 1/16th Chinese chestnut is then crossed with a pure American chestnut. The idea is to develop a chestnut tree as resistant to the blight as the Chinese chestnut, but having all of the characteristics of the original American species.

ACF has done the bulk of this cross-breading, which is the latest of its chestnut revival efforts that date back to 1983.

At the foundation's annual meeting Taliaferro first established the contacts with the group that would allow Garrett County to develop its own chestnut plots.

"At the moment, we have 21 pure American chestnut seedlings planted. I'm waiting for information from ACF concerning the purchase of hybrids. We have room in our plot for an equal number of the hybrids," Taliaferro stated.

"Although Garrett County is years behind Carroll County in this process it is a great program that we can adopt to provide real research opportunities for our students," he continued.

THE HICKORY CENTER AND TACF SEEK AMERICAN CHESTNUT REVIVAL – The Hickory Environmental Education Center has recently planted 21 American chestnut trees, pictured above, procured from the American Chestnut Foundation. The Hickory Center is also making arrangements to plot 21 American-Chinese hybrid trees, which the TACF has crossed with the hope of proliferating the all-but-gone American chestnut. ## Rescue Squad Slates Soup Sale, Christmas Bazaar

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad will be sponsoring a soup dinner on Saturday, Nov. 27, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. to benefit the Garrett County Food Bank. The meal will be held at the squad building in Friendsville.

Guests may eat in or take out. Bowls and quarts will be available. Soups will include chili, chicken noodle, and ham and bean.

The dinner will coincide with the Christmas Bazaar, which will feature numerous craft vendors. All children are welcome to attend and make a Christmas decoration for free, as well as visit Santa, who will be there from noon to 1 p.m.

"Although it may not be visible to everyone, hunger is an issue in Garrett County." said a rescue squad spokesperson. "There are many parents who have to struggle to provide for their families, as well as elderly citizens who have to decide whether to pay for their medication or buy food."

Non-perishable food items will be collected during the event. Food items will also be collected from now until Dec. 11 at various businesses and churches in the Grantsville, Friendsville, and McHenry areas. Donors may also drop off food items in the bins outside the Grantsville and Friendsville stations. Elementary school students are also participating in this event this year.

St. Mark's Early Service To Continue Through November

St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland, will continue to offer 8 a.m. worship services on Sundays during the month of November.

"We have been asked to offer another worship service opportunity for those who have work or other obligations that make it difficult for them to attend our regular Sunday worship service at 10 a.m.," noted Pastor Dr. C. Scott Robinson.

The early service uses an abbreviated version of the regular liturgy and usually lasts about a half hour. St. Mark's will evaluate whether attendance numbers justify continuing the early service beyond November. Visitors are welcome.

St. Mark's is a congregation of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. It is located at the corner of Second and Center streets, across from the library. For further information, persons may call 301-334-2668.

The Arts

WVU PRESENTING HISTORIC DRAMA – The West Virginia University Division of Theatre and Dance is now staging a play titled The Compleat Stage Beauty by Jeffrey Hatcher that explores the possible repercussions of a significant event in theatre history, that of the entry of women as actresses. Set in the year 1660, London, the story opens as the English monarchy has been recently restored, and the city's theatres are reopening after an 18-year ban. As audiences have become accustomed to the actresses of France and Italy during that time, the traditional all-male acting companies of Shakespeare's day are now obsolete. "The sexy, violent transition as male 'stage beauties' give up the limelight to the first English actresses is playfully imagined in this play," said director Philip Beck. The show is for mature audiences only, Beck cautioned. It opens tonight, Nov. 18, at 7:30 p.m. in the Gladys G. Davis Theatre of the Creative Arts Center, Morgantown. The show will be given tonight and tomorrow, Nov. 19, and then will resume after the university's Thanksgiving break, with shows on Nov. 30 through Dec. 3 at the same time, and a matinee performance on Dec. 5 at 2 p.m. For tickets, persons may call 304-293-7469.

Regional "Rethink Recycling" Awards Are Announced

Thirty-four students from Northern and Southern Garrett County high schools competed in the 6th annual regional "Rethink Recycling" Sculpture Contest earlier this month. Prizes were awarded for first and second place for each grade entered (10th–12th).

First-place prizes were awarded to Northern High School students Ashley Brenneman, 10th grade; Josh Tichinel, 11th grade; and Keesha Fazenbaker, 12th grade.

Second place prizes were awarded to NHS students Bayley Smoot, 10th grade; Megan Sines, 11th grade; and Sarah Friend, 12th grade.

The students used a wide variety of items – including newspapers, soda cans, CDs, cardboard, and wood – to create a jeep, typewriter, an alligator, bird, and other creatures.

This year's judges, Dr. William Yant, Debra McCombs of the Garrett County Arts Council, and Sonia Pratt, retired art director of Southern High School, commented on the creativity and unique materials used to create the sculptures.

"This year the entries were outstanding," said county recycling coordinator Kimberly Madigan. "I did not envy the tough job our three judges had in selecting the first and second place winners."

The regional contest was made possible by donations received from Coca-Cola Enterprises, Garrett 8 Cinemas, J.P. Trucking, Junior Woman's Civic Club, Madigan's Auto Sales, Lakeside Creamery, Mtn. Laurel Garden Club, Ours Auto Salvage, Rrhamco Inc., Smiley's Pizzeria, and Pine Lodge Steakhouse.

In addition, the Garrett County Arts Council awarded an Opportunity Grant in support of this event. Selected sculptures from the students will be displayed at the council's Gallery Shop in Oakland from this Saturday, Nov. 20, through Saturday, Dec. 4.

To find out more about the recycling program in Garrett County, persons may contact Madigan at 301-387-0322 or kmadigan@garrettcounty.org.

A TYPEWRITER, JEEP, AND "CANAGATOR" placed first in the regional "Rethink Recycling" Sculpture Contest. During this sixth annual event, local high school students were invited to use their creative talents and turn soda cans, newspapers, wood, and other recyclables into works of art. First-place prizes were awarded to 12th grade Northern High School student Keesha Fazebaker for her typewriter; Ashley Brenneman, 10th grade, NHS, for her Jeep; and Josh Tichinel, 11th grade, NHS, for his "Canagator," which was made of numerous Mountain Dew cans. See story for details.

The BookWorm

HOLY GHOSTS

by Gary Jansen

C. 2010, Tarcher/Penguin, $25.95; 256 pages

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

When you die, where do you go?

Some people say we're just put in the ground and that's that. Others are taught that there's a celestial "waiting room" for you to stay in, just for a bit. And while most religions promise a heaven for the good-hearted and a hell for the bad guys, we can't, unfortunately, go check things out first.

But what if the deceased had the option to hang around awhile? Author Gary Jansen's church taught that there was no such possibility, but in his new book Holy Ghosts, he tells how he learned otherwise.

Growing up in his mother's Catholic faith, Jansen says he "always felt drawn to God." He faithfully attended Mass and briefly considered the priesthood. But his was not your usual Catholic-kid childhood.

When Jansen was small, the family moved into a crumbling fixer-upper in a Rockville Centre, Long Island, neighborhood, conveniently close to a Catholic Church and two Catholic schools. The house was ancient, and it creaked and banged. Jansen remembers the thump of footsteps in the attic and the tinkle of breaking glass, but they were only sounds. His father always maintained that the house was "settling," but Jansen's mother quietly told her son one morning that she'd seen a ghost.

The story stuck with Jansen as he grew up, married, became a father, and bought his childhood home in which to raise his own family. The thumps never went away. The footsteps continued. Glass broke where there was no glass. And then, the electric sensations began to plague Jansen, and his 3-year-old son became scared of his own bedroom.

Was there such a thing as ghosts? Jansen, an editor of religious books, began to look into his faith for answers. Though the "official" tenet of the church is that the only spirit is the Holy Spirit and that ghosts don't exist, Jansen found several learned Catholic scholars who believed differently.

As the weirdness escalated, a colleague threw Jansen a lifeline: A woman in Ohio, a real-life inspiration for a national TV show, claimed the ability to see ghosts and could, via telephone, help usher them "beyond." But she didn't like what she saw when Jansen called.

Because, indeed, Jansen's house was haunted.

Think Halloween is for heathens? Not so, as you'll see in this thoughtful, heavily researched, and definitely spooky little memoir.

Jansen seems to be trying hard to maintain his skepticism in the telling of this tale. It's easy to imagine him whistling in the dark and clinging to his bravado by his fingernails during the whole ordeal, but I never got the impression that he was trying to scare me with his book. Instead, he merely presents his story and while he, himself, appears convinced (I won't tell you which way), he lets his readers dangle a little in the end.

If you're looking for a grown-up, slightly shivery story that takes you from Bible to banshee, Holy Ghosts is your book. For sure, this will get you into the Halloween spirit.

THANKSGIVING MEAL

Gortner Union Church invites the public to share in a Thanksgiving meal on Tuesday, Nov. 23, at the Pleasant Valley Community Center beginning at 6 p.m. Those attending are asked to bring a covered dish to share. Music will be provided by the Mullett family.

FARM BUREAU MEETING

The West Virginia Farm Bureau met last weekend at Days Hotel and Conference Center, Sutton, for the 91st annual meeting. Topics covered were the election of officers, business reports on what the future may hold for farms and food, and efforts to enhance the position of farmers today. There was also time designated for food and fun.

The Farm Bureau is currently sponsoring a mobile science lab, which makes its rounds with Helen Hardman, MA, at the helm. The lab visits West Virginia schools for a stay of one week at each site, allowing the students to see firsthand results from some of the common practice, learn about how food is grown, and how to eat healthy. Students also learn about stewardship of water and land, and what will actually happen if the farms continue to disappear. This past school year, the van visited Kingwood Elementary School and worked with the fifth graders there.

Attending the meeting from the Aurora and Eglon areas were Delores and David Stemple, John and Florence Minnig, Claude and Jean Winters, and Tony Lewis. Preston County president Phillip Gregg and wife Janet, county secretary/treasurer Rebecca Shackleford and husband Bill, and Sen. David Sypolt were also in attendance, along with field representative Bill Aiken, Garrett County.

UNION SENIORS

The Union District Senior Citizens had a turnout of 30 for the annual Thanksgiving turkey dinner on Nov. 11 at the United Methodist Memorial Building. Betty Fint provided the opening devotions with two readings, "Live This Day Only, Let Tomorrow Go" and "Dishwasher's Grace" from Taste of Home magazine.

President Janice Tackett suggested that Christmas cards be sent to the ACLU to remind them that people want their religious rights to remain. A shopping trip is planned for Dec. 15 to Clarksburg, and the group will be leaving the U.M. Memorial Building lot at 8:30 a.m.

Juanita Stemple was named Senior of the Month for November. Thank-you cards were sent to J. Rogers Fike for the recent tour of his trophy room, as well as to Sid Murphy for his recent gifts of supplies. Non-perishable food was brought to the dinner. It was requested that this be done again at the December meeting, with all proceeds to benefit the Terra Alta Food Pantry. The next meeting will be a Christmas themed ham dinner.

PERSONAL

Betty Bolyard, Eglon, underwent heart catheterization last week and will be undergoing surgery later.

Orville Kight, Mt. Grove, has been quite ill with a headache and will be going for an evaluation by a specialist. Sinus surgery failed to help, and his niece, Teresa Mallow, is staying with him to assist him.

Virginia Bolyard, Eglon, fell at her home Saturday evening and was taken by Union Ambulance to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of an injured shoulder. Her arm and shoulder were treated, and following a Monday visit to an orthopedic surgeon, she returned to the home of her daughter, Kathy and Danny Moats, Eglon. Visiting this weekend is Viriginia's other daughter, Kim Moats.

Ryan Feather visited recently with his parents, Denny and Betty Jo Feather, Eglon. He is taking training to obtain a master's degree in his field of computer work.

Gary, Julie, Grayson, and Madison Baker, Virginia Beach, Va., came this weekend to Preston County, where they visited with his mother in Kingwood, as well as his father and stepmother in Fairmont. Julie and the children came to visit in Eglon with Julie's parents, Tom and Linda Lewis.

Janice Tackett, Aurora, visited this weekend with her daughter and family, Tammy, Steve, Hannah, and Adam Potter, Jacobeth, Pa.

Thank You!

I would like to thank all my family and friends for making my 90th birthday celebration so special!
I appreciate all the lovely cards and gifts I received so much.
Thanks again!

"Several animals including the black Lab mix and a few cats from last week were adopted, but the recently featured sweet female blue heeler is still available, as well as some black cats, a big orange tabby, and a few kittens," said the spokesperson. "Hay is now available for free in limited quantities for your dog houses. Only take a small part of a bale, as we want there to be enough for everyone's dog houses. It is provided courtesy of the Garrett County Humane Society, not the county shelter." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Photos courtesy of the Humane Society.

Huskies Edged By Miners In West Region Playoffs, 16-9

After upsetting the previously undefeated Miners of Mountain Ridge, 26-14, in the regular season, the Northern High School varsity football team could not quite repeat that accomplishment in a 1A West Region semifinal game, as the Huskies were edged 16-9 by the top-seeded Miners last Friday in Frostburg.

The Huskies seemed en route to a second big win over the home team, as they held a 9-0 lead early in the second quarter. But they had that much of a lead for just 14 seconds on the game clock, as the Miners began their rally via an 86-yard kickoff return for a touchdown.

The Northern defensive unit controlled most of the first half of action, allowing the home team only 25 yards of offense in the entire first half.

Meanwhile, the Huskies' offense, led by junior quarterback Patrick Sines, did its part by maintaining possession of the ball for the majority of the first half. Sines completed 11 of 13 passes for 130 yards, all in the first half, with one of those completions being a 19-yard scoring aerial to Kyle Rosenberger at the 7:37 mark of the first quarter. The run for the conversion by Sines was stopped short, and the Huskies led 6-0.

The Mountain Ridge defense did a better job against Sines in the second half, as he completed just three more passes for only an additional 11 yards.

The Huskies took their 9-0 advantage when Justin Durst booted a 25-yard field goal at the 9:48 mark of the second quarter to cap an 88-yard, 12-play drive. But that would be the final points of the night for the visitors.

It was following Durst's field goal that Anthony Spataro returned the ensuing kickoff 86 yards, and Evan Logue booted the conversion to cut the Huskies' lead to 9-7 with 9:34 remaining in the first half.

The remainder of the second stanza was scoreless, but Spataro's big return seemed to begin to turn the tide in favor of the Miners, who also were able to begin to use their superior size and numbers to wear down the Huskies.

The defensive units seemed to switch efforts in the second half, as the Miners limited the Huskies to only 39 yards and two first downs over the third and fourth periods.

The Miners got the ball on their own 27-yard line to start the second half after they were called for an illegal block on the kickoff. They marched down the field via 13 straight running plays, but the Northern defense stiffened, forcing Mountain Ridge to go for a field goal. Evan Logue's successful attempt from 24 yards out with 2:35 left in the third quarter gave the Miners their first lead of the game, an advantage that they would not relinquish.

The next Miner drive, which covered 97 yards, would prove to be the final nail in the Huskies' coffin, as Jarrod Harper capped the 12-play effort with a three-yard touchdown run to extend the Miners' lead to 16-9 with 5:37 left in the game. The PAT kick was blocked.

The next drive by the Huskies was stopped when a trick play involving a pass from Brian Farrell back to Sines fell a yard short on fourth down.

The Husky defense stopped the Miners again to give the offense one final try in the waning moments, but Sines fell victim to a sack and time expired.

Harper, who had only 17 yards rushing in the first half, finished with 110 yards on 15 carries, while teammate Josh Vaughn picked up 65 yards on 10 carries after gaining only four yards in the first half.

Standouts on defense for Northern were Mason, Zach Meyers, Jason Opel, and Garrett Rayner.

"They are a tough, scrappy team," said Miner head coach Roy DeVore. "We knew it was going to be another tough game with them. Fortunately for us, we played much better this time, especially in the second half. I think we were able to wear down their offensive line in the second half."

Northern head coach Phil Carr essentially agreed with that assessment.

"They did wear us down by late in the game," he said, "and the kickoff return obviously really hurt. But I think we proved that we can play with anybody."

The Miners were 7-0 when they traveled to Northern late in the regular season, and their loss to the Huskies is only the second defeat so far this year, as they will take a 9-2 record against Fort Hill this Friday. The Sentinels crushed Smithsburg, 42-6, in the other regional semifinal.

The Huskies finished with an overall record of 6-5. Coach Carr is out of town this week and was unavailable for further comment.

Lakers Whip CCAC-South, PSC Before Being Mauled By Cougars

Opening their season with a pair of impressive wins in their own Railey Realty Tournament this past weekend were the members of the Garrett College men's basketball team, who rolled to a 82-45 rout of CCAC-South on Friday, and then handed Potomac State College a convincing 108-85 defeat.

Last night, however, the Lakers were dominated by visiting Frederick CC, the top Division I team in Region XX, and fell by a 105-73 margin.

Kory Gibson, a former standout at Northern High School, led the Laker offense against the outmanned CCAC-South team on Friday, as he recorded 19 points. Frank Holloway added 15 points and grabbed a team-high nine rebounds, while Joe Dubuche also netted 15 points, nine of which came from three-point range. Rodney Clark dished out eight assists, had four steals, and chipped in with five points.

Andrew Carrington with 10 points was the only CCAC player who reached double figures. Napoleon Snow and Ryan Hart each scored eight points.

"We played well considering this was our opening game," said Laker head coach Dennis Gibson. "They were really undermanned inside, and we were able to stay ahead of their defensive movement throughout the game."

In Friday's other contest, Potomac State topped Montgomery-Germantown, 85-79.

With a total of 13 long-range buckets, five Lakers finished in double figures the following night in Garrett's relatively easy win over Potomac State.

Jordan Gipson reached the 20-point mark and had six rebounds, while teammate Callum Jenkins was right behind with 19. Clark, who hit four three-pointers, recorded 13 points in the second half and finished with 16. He also, for the second game in a row, had eight assists. Holloway had a double-double night with 12 points and 14 rebounds, and Theo Dubuche contributed 10 points.

Leading the 2-1 Catamounts with a game-high 21 points was Darrell Patterson. Simeon Denny recorded 15 points, while Tyrone Smith and Ishmail Sesay each scored 12.

Coach Gibson said that the absence of Catamount center Mo Newby (knee injury) was significant.

"Without Mo inside, we were able to get the edge in the rebounding department, and that turned into the biggest difference in the game," said Gibson.

The Lakers dominated the boards, pulling down 47 rebounds, including 17 offensive grabs.

The Lakers held a comfortable 52-35 advantage at intermission, and successfully fended off a brief offensive run by the Catamounts with about nine minutes left in the game.

"Rodney Clark ran the offense and played consistently for much of the time," said Gibson. "His efforts, as well as those of Jeff Stem and Steven Mackay, are crucial for us to have a successful season. We learned last year with the injuries to sophomore Shawn Greenfield and Stem that you have to have depth at point guard."

In Saturday's other contest, Montgomery-Germantown topped CCAC-South, 68-59.

In last night's Maryland JUCO Conference loss to Frederick, the Lakers trailed by only nine points, 46-37, at intermission, but the Cougars pulled away in the second half to record the lopsided win.

Leading the top-ranked Cougars in scoring was Anthony Hubbard, who hit a game-high 25 points, while Mike Hemsley recorded 21 points. Teammates who also reached double figures were Pat Kelly with 13 and Mitchell Weedon with 10.

Top scorer for the Lakers was Rodney Clark with 17 points; however, those were all recorded in the first half, as he got into foul trouble soon after the break.

Kory Gibson and Jordan Gipson each netted 13 points for Garrett, while Theo Dubuche grabbed five rebounds.

"We got off to a poor start and just didn't take care of the ball," said Coach Gibson. "This was one of our worst home losses in recent history, but we will learn from it and move on."

It was the third win in as many starts for Frederick.

The Lakers will travel to Penn Highlands CC in Pennsylvania this Saturday for a 2 p.m. game, and be back on their own floor next Monday against Baltimore City Community College. Tip-off for that game is set for 7 p.m.

RAMS TO BECOME HOKIES – Two of Garrett County's best-ever high school wrestlers have both signed letters of intent to attend Virginia Tech next fall, where they will continue both their academic and wrestling careers. Both two-time Maryland state champions and nationally ranked among the top 10 in their respective weight divisions, Lex Ozias and Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel, seated left to right above, are senior members of this season's Southern High School team. The two have been key to the Rams' having won back-to-back Maryland 1A/20 team championships, and the squad will likely be favored to make it three titles next spring. They are pictured with their head coach Dave Taylor. The Virginia Tech wrestling program is currently ranked among the top 20 in the nation. See story.

Jakob Scheffel, Lex Ozias Both Sign Letters With Virginia Tech

Two outstanding senior wrestlers at Southern High School will join the Division I wrestling team at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University (Virginia Tech) in Blacksburg, Va., next fall.

Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel and Lex Ozias signed National Letters of Intent this month to wrestle for the Hokies, who are currently ranked 17th among the nation's 80 Division I college wrestling programs.

The two have been competing together since elementary school, and have been key members of the Rams' team during its two most-successful high school seasons. Under head coach Dave Taylor, the Rams won back-to-back Maryland state championships in 2009 and 2010, and will defend the state title in the upcoming season.

"It is an honor to have both Bubba and Lex in the practice room and on our team to make the whole team better," said Taylor. "They have worked extremely hard. Many times, kids with great talent coast through their high school careers in any sport. The testament to Bubba and Lex is that they've worked very hard – in season and in the off-season – to get even better, which is why they have the opportunity to move on to the Division I college level."

Scheffel and Ozias are both nationally ranked in the Top 10 by Intermat.com. Scheffel is ranked fifth in the country in the 171-pound weight class, while Ozias is ranked seventh nationally in the 145-pound weight class. Both are two-time Maryland state champions, and both achieved All-American status at the premier national high-school tournament in Fargo, N.D. Scheffel also won the National High School Coaches Association Junior Nationals championship last spring, while Ozias placed third there.

Making a decision about where to wrestle in college was a long and complicated one for both athletes, according to Taylor. Scheffel received interest from West Virginia University, the University of Maryland, Cornell University, and Kent State University, while Ozias considered Old Dominion University, the University of Maryland, and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

"It's a really difficult and important decision, and you want to be 100 percent sure," said Scheffel. "I chose Virginia Tech because it was a decent proximity to home, I really got along with Coach Kevin Dresser, I really like the team, and the campus is nice."

Scheffel will major in civil engineering.

Scheffel's older brother George "Brutus" Scheffel is a freshman member of the West Virginia University team.

Ozias plans to major in natural resources conservation, with an emphasis on recreation management.

"I picked Virginia Tech because I felt I fit in there and it was the place where I could do my best wrestling," he said. "The campus is great and the wrestling room is tough, so it keeps you motivated to work hard."

Virginia Tech head wrestling coach Kevin Dresser was an NCAA champion wrestler the University of Iowa, a perennial wrestling powerhouse. In his four seasons as coach at Virginia Tech, the team has improved significantly, and Dresser says his goal is to move into the Top 15 this year.

"These guys are coming to VT at a very exciting time in our program's history," said Dresser. "We plan on getting both Bubba and Lex on campus this summer to start training for their college careers. Our staff is excited to get our hands on these guys to get them ready for the next level. In the meantime, they need to focus on continuing to get better at wrestling and to also have a very dominating senior year in the state of Maryland."

FRATZ SIGNS LETTER OF INTENT – Kaitlynn Fratz, an outstanding athlete in several sports at Northern High School, has signed a National Letter of Intent to continue her academic and basketball career at the University of Pittsburgh, Johnstown Campus. Fratz, a senior, is the first female basketball player from Northern to ever receive a full athletic scholarship. She is planning to pursue an education degree and become an elementary/special education teacher. Seated with her in the above photo are NHS assistant coach Pete Brosnihan, left, and her head coach/father Steve Fratz. Standing from left are NHS athletic directors Tracy Brenneman and Phil Carr, principal Gary Reichenbecher, Kaitlynn's mother Tracy Fratz, and assistant principal Paul Edwards.

Numbers Rise In Fall Turkey, Early Deer Harvests

Turkey hunters harvested 171 turkeys in western Maryland during the week-long fall turkey season, according to the Maryland Department of Natural Resources' preliminary results. This year's numbers account for a 14 percent increase in harvest from the 2009 total of 150 birds taken in Washington, Allegany, and Garrett counties.

Deer hunters reported 25,324 deer for the period Sep. 15 to Oct. 31, up 4 percent over last year's take of 24,384 for the same period.

Garrett County reported the highest fall turkey harvest (76), followed by Allegany (62), and Washington (33) counties. The DNR suggests the modest increase in harvest may be a sign that some hunters have taken advantage of the recent change in the turkey bag limits.

There were some changes that have been added to the hunting season this year. One such change is that a turkey taken in the fall is not counted toward the spring bag limit as in the past. The number of fall turkey hunters and turkeys harvested has been declining for many years, and this change in the bag limit is not expected to negatively impact the turkey population.

Crossbows are legal for the entire deer archery season statewide. For the months of Sep. and Oct., archery hunters reported 3,164 white-tailed deer and 94 sika deer taken with crossbows, compared to 8,888 white-tailed deer and 249 sika deer taken with vertical bows.

Overall, the archery harvest dropped 3 percent to 12,395 for the early portion of the season.

A new regulation permits sika deer hunting during the antlerless-only muzzleloader season. Hunters who took advantage of the new regulation reported taking 37 antlerless sika deer.

Muzzleloader hunters enjoyed excellent weather conditions for much of the Oct. season, and reported 12,397 white-tailed deer and 532 sika deer, up 11 percent over last year's early season deer harvest.

Hunters have tallied 9,079 antlered deer and 16,245 antlerless deer so far this year.

"We are very satisfied to see hunters taking so many antlerless deer," said Pete Jayne, DNR's associate director for game management. "Harvesting antlerless deer is a critical part of our deer management plan. Hunters and landowners need to focus on antlerless deer if we are to meet our deer management goals."

LOCAL SHOOTOUT PARTICIPANTS ADVANCE – A number of young local soccer players participated in the West District Shootout on Oct. 9, several of whom then advanced to the state shootout held at Ocean City. Two from that event have now qualified for the regional level shootout, which will be held in Carlisle, Pa., in March. Pictured from left, front row, are: C.J. Davis, who placed second in the boys' under-12 division at the Hagerstown event; Josiah Hebb, who won the boys' U-10 division at Hagerstown and placed third at Ocean City; Keyara Rhodes, who won the girls' U-8 division at Hagerstown and placed third in the state event; and Jake Mullins, who finished second in the boys' U-8 at Hagerstown and third at Ocean City. In the second row are: Shiann Lynch, who was second in the girls' U-10 at Hagerstown and second at Ocean City; Bailey Stephens, first in girls' U-14 at Hagerstown and at Ocean City; Zachary Shreve, first in boys' U-14 in Hagerstown and fourth at Ocean City; and Courtney Roth, first in girls' U-12 in Hagerstown and at Ocean City. State champions Stephens and Roth will compete in the regional shootout in Carlisle.

Dick Bender Joins Clemson Univ. As Men's Basketball Dir. Of Operations

BENDER ON CLEMSON UNIV. SIDELINES — Coach Dick Bender is a native of Grantsville and has recently joined the Clemson University men's basketball coaching staff. Bender is now director of operations for the program and is pictured above with one of his players. See story for more information.

Dick Bender has begun his first season as director of operations for the men's basketball program at Clemson University. The Grantsville native is a 1981 graduate of Northern High School who, went on to earn his bachelor's degree from Western Maryland College in sociology in 1986. Bender furthered his education, earning a master of arts in teaching from DePauw University in 1989.

While playing for Western Maryland, Bender received two varsity letters and was named team MVP as a senior in 1986. That season he ranked third nationally in Division III free throw percentage.

Bender brings 24 years of collegiate coaching experience, including 18 at the Division I level, to the Clemson staff. He began his collegiate coaching career at DePauw in 1987, where he helped the DePauw Tigers to a four-year record of 80-30.

DePauw was ranked No. 1 in the Division III polls on two occasions during his tenure. In 1990, Bender helped the Tigers to a national runner-up finish in the NCAA Tournament.

After his stint with DePauw, Bender served as an assistant coach at Radford University from 1991 to 97. The Highlanders of Radford compiled the top conference record and non-conference record of all the teams in the Big South during Bender's four seasons with the program. He was part of the coaching staff that guided Radford to a 73-72 upset over Louisiana State University during the 1993-94 season.

Bender left Radford in 1997 for a position on the staff at Indiana State University. Bender served as assistant coach for 10 seasons (1997-2007), helping the Sycamores to consecutive 20-win seasons with NCAA Tournament appearances in 1999-00 and 2000-01.

In 1999-2000, Indian State University compiled a 14-4 record in the Missouri Valley Conference and won the regular season title. ISU then won the MVC Tournament the following season. The Sycamores went on to upset No. 4 seed Oklahoma by a score of 70-68 in the first round of the 2001 NCAA Tournament.

Bender was also part of the ISU staff that defeated perennial power Indiana University in back-to-back seasons. The Sycamores defeated the Hoosiers in Bloomington by a score of 63-60 in 1999, Bob Knight's final season as head coach, and then repeated their success against Indiana in 2000 with a 59-58 buzzer-beating win at home.

Bender, most recently an assistant at Tulane from 2007 to 2010, was the top assistant coach at DePauw University when Clemson's current head coach, Brad Brownell, was a player from 1987 to 1991.

"Dick is 'tremendous, he's just unbelievably loyal," Brownell said. "He coached me in college and worked for Royce Waltman for the better part of 14 years in two stints at DePauw and Indiana State. Dick has tremendous basketball knowledge, especially with motion offense.

"Dick is unbelievably organized. He will serve as my chief of staff in terms of running this program. He will keep me pointed in the right direction. He'll make sure our players are taken care of in a lot of ways. He's got so much experience in dealing with people. He'll be a good confidante for me in a lot of different situations."

"Having coached Brad at DePauw, I'm extremely excited about being a part of his staff," Bender went on to say of his new head coach. "We've had a good relationship for many years. We've remained extremely close. Throughout his career, we've called each other for advice. I'm just elated he's kept me in mind enough to think that I could help his staff at Clemson."

Bender and his wife Beth have two sons: Dalton(18) and Dillon (16).

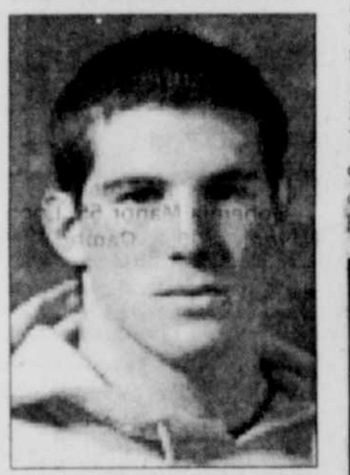
Stough Winner For Wilkes Univ. At Tournament



Dustin Stough, a 2009 graduate and former standout wrestler for Northern High School, recently won the championship in the 174-pound division at the Monarch Invitational Wrestling Tournament held at Kings College in Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Stough, a sophomore, pinned Jeff Goldhagen of York College in his first bout, then earned a 6-3 decision over Michael Sheeham of Gettysburg College in the quarterfinals. He then recorded a 7-3 point victory over Gettysburg's Jared Leon, and in the finals, gained a 9-2 decision over Shane Parcel of Roger Williams University.

The tournament included eight teams, with 17 grapplers in the 174-pound division. Wilkes captured the team championship with 155 points, followed by Roger Williams University, York, Oneonta State, Rochester Institute of Technology, Kings College, Gettysburg, the University of Scranton, and Muhlenberg.

Last year as a freshman, Stough placed fifth in the 165-pound division of the same tournament. His freshman season was cut short, however, because of a fracture to his hand. At the time he had compiled a record of 15-10.

A mechanical engineering major, Stough is the son of Scott and Terri Stough, Friendsville.

Firearm Deer Season Opens November 27

Maryland's two-week deer firearm season will open Saturday, Nov. 27, according to the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), which reports that hunters usually take nearly half of the annual deer harvest during this popular Maryland tradition.

"The two-week firearm season is the main event for most deer hunters," said Brian Eyler, deer project leader for the DNR. "It's a great opportunity for family and friends to spend time together in the woods, and the substantial harvest helps manage our deer population."

Deer hunting regulations vary between Maryland's two Deer Management regions.

Region A consists of Garrett and Allegany counties and, new this year, a portion of Washington County west of Clear Spring. The white-tailed deer firearm bag limit for Deer Management Region A is one antlered and one antlerless deer. However, no more than two antlerless deer may be taken on public lands in Region A with any combination of the bow, muzzleloader, and firearm bag limits, excluding the Junior Deer Hunt Day.

Region B includes eastern Washington County and the remaining 20 counties. The firearm season bag limit for Region B is two antlered and 10 antlerless deer.

Hunters are urged by Eyler to carefully inspect all tree stands before using them. A full-body safety harness should be used while climbing into or out of a tree stand and while in the stand. DNR strongly recommends using a sliding knot, commonly known as a prussic knot, attached to a line that is secured above the stand. This allows the sponsibilities will be.

Nelson also reported that Garrett County Planning Commission members have reviewed and submitted their comments on the Environmental Protection Agency's Chesapeake Bay Impaired Waters and Total Maximum Daily Loads (TMDL) draft.

He indicated that the TMDL acronym will be heard quite a bit in the next few years. Based on the EPA's TMDLs, jurisdictions within the bay watershed and sub watershed must establish plans to address ways to reduce such pollutants as phosphorus and nitrogen. Nelson noted that Maryland and Washington, D.C., are the only jurisdictions whose plans have been deemed "legitimate" by the EPA. The other bay watershed states have received negative comments about their plans from the EPA.

Nelson said the agency has established target dates for its reductions. The agency wants the pollutants reduced by 60 percent by 2017 and 100 percent by 2025. The director noted, however, that Maryland has taken an "aggressive" approach to the reduction. The state plan calls for a 70 percent reduction by 2017 and 100 percent by 2020.

The director indicated that even though very little of Garrett County is within the bay watershed, the state plan and its regulations will have a strong impact on the entire county, including the areas of agriculture, new growth, and economic development.

He said the Garrett County Planning Commission, western Maryland officials, and the Maryland Association of Counties have reviewed the state plan and made similar comments. Those include funding problems involving the control measures, the negative impact on development and farming, and the cost of upgrading treatment plants

STUDENTS ENJOY 5th QUARTER EVENTS – Throughout the month of October and into November, students have gathered after Southern High School football games for "5th Quarter," sponsored by Mtn. Top Youth for Christ. Businesses and individuals from the Oakland community have volunteered time, talent, and finances to help sponsor the events, which have included snacks and door prizes. After the Northern vs. Southern football game on Nov. 5, students from both schools were invited to participate in the final event of the season in the SHS gym and cafeteria, and over 200 students attended. Some of the students are pictured above. Games included three huge inflatables such as a boxing ring and a bungee run. Lighting effects were also used, and local band Redefined in Red provided music. A 32-inch flat-screen television was donated by Electronic Diagnostic Center and given to winner Alora Taylor, who is pictured below with Jeff Hay. Sponsors included Totally Teasin' Salon, Book Mark'et, McDonalds, Rudy's, High Mountain Sports, Tharp Group, Shaffer Ford, Team One Auto, Nationwide Insurance, State Farm Insurance, Master-Craft Printers, Lohr Distributors, Fraternal Order of Police, Walmart, Sam's Club, Wellspring Family Medicine, Woodmen of the World, Electronic Diagnostic Center, Light Moves Entertainment, and radio stations WKHJ, SPIRIT 101, WFRB, and WLIC. "5th Quarter would like to continue our endeavor to help students have a good time by providing a safe and fun place after school events," a spokesperson said. "We are thinking about continuing into the guys' and girls' basketball season, but will only be able to do this with the support and help of individuals and businesses in the community." Persons who would like to contribute may contact Jeff Hay at 240-321-5844.

Short-Term CDL Training Slated In Grantsville

Garrett College's Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute (MTDI) in Grantsville is now accepting applications for the next series of courses geared toward training individuals to obtain a Class A or B commercial driver's license (CDL) in a short time frame.

The weekday option starts on Nov. 29 and will be offered in a 7½-week time frame, Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m.–4 p.m. The weekend session will start on Dec. 4 and run 15 weeks on Saturdays and Sundays from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

This program offers a professional truck driving curriculum for the purpose of qualifying students for entry level positions as drivers in over-the-road or local-driving vehicles.

"The short-term training is an intense, fast-paced program," said MTDI directory Terry Beachy.

While attending this 30-day, 210 hours of training, students will receive instruction in pre-trip inspection, various skills in the yard, and over-the-road instruction, along with a basic overview of map reading and log books.

At the completion of training, students will be taken to demonstrate at their local Motor Vehicle Administration office to obtain a CDL license.

No prior education or experience with trucks is required. The entry requirements are as follows: the applicant must have proof of high school diploma (transcript), GED, or passing score on his/her ASSET test; must currently possess a valid driver's license and be at least 18 years of age; must be able to pass a Department of Transportation (DOT) physical and drug screen; and must communicate in the English language sufficiently, as required by DOT.

"This training can allow a person to move ahead to a well-paying career with unmatched job security," Beachy said.

For further information on this training opportunity and available scholarships, persons may contact Beachy at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

PLAN NOW TO SAVE ON HOLIDAY SPENDING

by Lynn Little
Extension Educator
Family and Consumer Sciences

If you usually find yourself in January and February facing a stack of bills from holiday shopping, resolve this year to not let your spending get out of control. The holiday season is a time to share, enjoy family and friends, and give more of ourselves. By planning, you can be creative and thoughtful, yet stay within your budget.

Plan your holiday budget based on what you can realistically afford. Look at your finances. Have you saved for holiday expenses? Or, will the gifts need to be purchased from regular monthly disposable income? Do you plan to pay cash or use credit?

Make a list of the friends, family, and others you would like to remember with a gift. Place a dollar amount by the name of each person on your gift list. Be certain you also allow for other holiday expenses, such as decorating, entertaining, gift-wrapping, and postage.

Overspending is easy. Advertising increases during the holiday season, and stores offer expanded inventories. Since so often holiday shopping is impulsive, be sure you shop with your list and consider paying in cash. If time permits, separate "shopping" trips from "spending" trips. Use shopping trips to get ideas, make a list of alternatives, check prices, and comparison shop.

Online shopping can be less time consuming and may help your holiday season be less stressful. It is easier and faster to do some comparison shopping online, and there are likely to be many coupons and shipping deals available. Online shopping can also help you avoid frantic, last-minute binge shopping.

Be certain you understand refund policies, and don't forget to include shipping charges in your budget. If you plan to do your holiday shopping with a credit card, consider using only one credit card and keeping a running tally of your expenditures. Keeping track of purchases as you make them can help you stay within your budget. Using multiple credit cards for holiday purchases makes it easy to lose track of holiday credit card purchases.

Avoid buy-now, pay-later offers, designed to encourage you to spend money you don't have. These plans usually charge high interest from the date of purchase if you can't pay the bill in full by the end of the no-interest period, or if you are just one day late with a payment.

Creative ways to give during the holidays can save you money. Try giving the gift of service. Offer to baby-sit, run errands, shovel snow, iron, and tutor or do housekeeping.

Teach your children the value of giving. Have them donate used toys and clothing to charity. You may also be able to take a tax deduction.

Start now to control spending for the holidays. With advance planning, your chances of not overspending improves greatly, and you may be better able to control the temptation to spend too much as an expression of love.

Spending more than you planned can add stress to the holiday season and after. Try to remember that thoughtfulness can be far more important than price.

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Warm Winter Clothing for Needy Children

The Republican newspaper and the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland are now engaged in the 13th year of Warm the Children. The program provides new winter clothing and footwear for Garrett County children in need. Because the program is a function of the newspaper and of volunteers, every penny donated goes toward the purchase of these items. The following individuals and/or organizations donated to the fund this week. An advertisement with information about how to contribute can be found elsewhere in today's issue.

Beef Dinner Set In Salisbury, Pa.

Salisbury Ambulance Service and the Salisbury Fire Department's Ladies Auxiliary will host an "all-you-can-eat" roast beef dinner at the Salisbury, Pa., Fire Department on Sunday, Nov. 28, from 11 a.m. until sold out or 2 p.m.

The public is welcome, and tickets will be sold at the door. Take-outs will also be available.

The cost will be $8 for adults and $4 for children. The menu will include roast beef, mashed potatoes, noodles, gravy, corn, green beans, coleslaw, homemade bread, assorted cake, and assorted beverages.

MODEL RAFFLED OFF TO BENEFIT B&O — Bruce Tharp, director of the Tharp Group, has made available to the Oakland B&O Station Museum committee a Z-scale model train set to be raffled off for the benefit of the museum. The train set includes a Northern Pacific model locomotive with a tender, two freight cars, and a caboose. The set comes complete with 12 sections of track, a rerailer, and a power pack. It is a Macklin set from Germany. It retails for around $400 and is intended for serious collectors or model train enthusiasts. Because of the small size of the gauge, the set is not recommended for children under 12 years of age. Raffle tickets are $1 each (or 6 for $5) and are available at the Garrett County Historical Society Museum, the Oakland Town Hall, Proudfoot's Pharmacy, Gregg's Pharmacy, and the Helbig Insurance Agency. The drawing will be held just in time for Christmas on Saturday, Dec. 18, at Proudfoot's Pharmacy in conjunction with the House of Hope food drive. Pictured above with the model is former Oakland Mayor and chair of the B&O Station Asa McCain.

MAJORITY RULES!

HEALTH DEPARTMENT PROMOTES MAJORITY RULES PROGRAM — Two Health Department employees Kathy Elliot and Sadie Liller presented the details of the Majority Rules program to the Oakland Rotary Club at last Thursday's club lunch meeting. Majority Rules is a federally funded program administered by the Health Department that has been implemented in the schools of Garrett County. The program urges young people not to use marijuana and now claims that 82 percent of county students do not use the illegal drug. Pictured above, from left to right, are Elliot, Rotary Club President Jim Carmack, and Liller.

MAYOR SPEAKS TO LIONS – A recent guest speaker for the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club was Oakland mayor Peggy Jamison, who gave an overview of all departments in Oakland and the challenges facing the town. She highlighted businesses that have opened in the last year and new businesses and projects planned for next year. There were also three new members inducted: Paul McIntyre, sponsored by John Williams; Andrew Orr, sponsored by Paul Macy; and Glenn Tolbert, sponsored by Jeff Gilbert. ## BITTINGER

I called Direct TV customer service, and they told me that the channel was Comcast Mid-Atlantic. I'm glad I could find it because I need to get to know the new roster of players. Just when I got somewhat familiarized with the University of Maryland and WVU football teams, now it's a whole new game.

But Maryland looked very good. They bested the University of Maine by about 30 points. So far the Terps are 3-0.

Now for the Steelers' game. It is pretty important that they win this one to stay on top of the American Football League. Tonight, their opponent is the New England Patriots. Those two teams dominated most Super Bowls in the last decade, except last year the big winner was New Orleans. I'm glad they won.

I liked Troy Polamalu from my first sight of him. It seems that he can always be depended upon to make some orchestrated play just when the Steelers need a big boost. He is able to run down any offensive player with the ball, and he's made some amazing tackles. He also seems to instinctively know when an airborne ball is nearby, and he often picks it off.

The best-known thing about him is his flowing locks. Most female fans like his hair. Like me, Joan Beitzel told me that he is her favorite player. But not Jack, mainly because he does not care for his hair.

In the pre-game show, he said that he did not make a decision to grow his hair long. During his college days, he was just too busy or lazy to get a haircut. But that was before he met his wife, and she loved it. I hear his hair is insured for one million dollars.

Troy's position is safety. I don't understand what that position does, but if Troy is a good example, it's whatever is necessary.

Troy and his young wife, also of South Pacific origin, have two sons under 2 years old. He says he is totally enjoying being a father, and helps with the babies' care, but he faulted himself for not having as much time to devote enough to his family.

I don't think there is another trait as powerful as how a person wears his hair. I realized something as I thought about this subject. 1965 was almost a watershed year in style. That is the year that I entered as a seventh grader at Northern High School. Looking at old yearbooks, many of us changed in appearance in that year. Prior to that year, the major heartthrob was Elvis Presley, with his hair that was long on top and cropped close on the sides and back.

But in 1964, something happened in America. The British invaded, meaning the young Beatles arrived on "this side of the pond." And their primary characteristic was a mop of somewhat longer, unruly hair.

I remember the 1964 Bittinger 4-H Club's fair float had the theme "Fads pass, but 4-H lasts forever" on the hay wagon. We had four guys wearing Beatles' wigs and holding guitars. On the other side of the wagon, another group of guys sported normal hair styles. Then a group of girls turned away the Beatles guys and approached the 4-H guys.

But it was in a time of changing social aspects. The majority of young men from Bittinger sported crew cuts or flat tops, stiffed with "butch wax."

My whole childhood was spent with a pixie cut, quite short. And that was the hairdo worn by Sally, Cindy, and my sister Carol. That pretty much was my parents' decision.

In about eighth grade, I started to grow my hair. It took about two years to get it to be longer than shoulder length. That's how it was in my senior pictures. And it got somewhat longer around the time of my marriage. But like Troy, most of the time I just didn't bother to get a haircut. I do feel more powerful with longer hair.

But Troy didn't have an outstanding game last evening. In fact, it was the least effective that I have ever seen a Steelers' team. But they still are an excellent top team, and I have a good feeling that they will get into the playoffs.

Altar flowers at Emmanuel Lutheran Church last Sunday were given by Dorothy Teets in memory of Russell Teets.

The Women of the ELCA at Emmanuel have chosen the Dove Center in Oakland to be the "Christmas Family" for 2010. Congregational members are asked to participate by bringing unwrapped gifts to be placed in a Christmas box by Sunday, Dec. 5.

Rev. Michael Tamorria was guest preacher at the three churches of the Bittinger Parish on Sunday while Pastor and Cindy Richardson are on a family vacation. Rev. Tamorria is former pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Frostburg.

FRIENDS OF DEEP CREEK LAKE COLLECTING WATERSHED DATA — There are many road culverts that channel run-off into Deep Creek Lake. The Friends of Deep Creek Lake, with volunteers from Garrett College and direction from the county, seek to locate all such culverts. The group aims to gather specific data on each and with Deborah Carpenter, county GIS specialist, create a useful map for the Roads Department and resource for watershed protection. Students from Garrett College will be out during the winter months and plan to map all roads in the watershed area before spring. ## KES Butterflies

Vlad's wife died in April of 2007, and he remained on at the property, even in the worst of recent winters.

Now he has opted to live with family members in California at least through the winter, and the home has been sold to Aaron and Christie Cropp. Interestingly, the property had been in the Cropp family since the Revolutionary War, when an ancestor was granted the deed for his service in that conflict. So it has effectively been returned to its original owners. However, the Cropps greatly value their friendship with Vlad, and have offered him a continuous place to stay whenever he wishes. He said he hopes to spend the summers there, staying in a second dwelling on the property.

The students of Kitzmiller are now well-versed in the plight of butterflies, and appear to be earnest in their efforts to help save the insects. The teachers said there are tentative plans for the children to return to the area in the spring, both to see if their flowers have bloomed, and more importantly to have the chance to see thriving Baltimore checkerspots.

LOCAL DAR PRESENTS WREATH AT VETERANS DAY CEREMONY – The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was represented by its Service for Veterans chairman and special delegate Ellen Doctor, who presented a wreath at the 51st annual Veterans Day Observance ceremony. Sponsored by the Kawanis Club of Bethesda and the American Legion of Oakland, Doctor attended the ceremony on Nov. 11 in Bethesda's Veterans' Park. Six organization officials spoke, as did the newly elected Congressman Chris Van Hollen. The keynote speaker was Col. Michael Mann, U.S. Army deputy provost marshal general for the U.S. Army Corrections Command. Col. Mann spoke of the dedication of the soldiers he served with in Afghanistan and the military wounded he has met recently at Walter Reed and Bethesda Naval hospitals. Most of these individuals, he noted, would go back if they could, in order to serve their country. He stressed their honor, their love for their family and country, and the emotional strength they possess.

BOE SIGNS VETERANS DAY PROCLAMATION – The Garrett County Board of Education signed a Veterans Day Proclamation at last week's monthly meeting. In proclaiming the first Veterans Day in 1954, President Dwight Eisenhower called on all citizens to "solemnly remember the sacrifices of all those who fought so valiantly – on the seas, in the air, and on foreign shores – to preserve our heritage of freedom and let us re-consecrate ourselves to the task of promoting an enduring peace so that their efforts shall not have been in vain." Veteran Ron Friend (center), commander of American Legion Post 71, was presented with the proclamation by board president Rev. Dr. Donald Forrester (left) and school superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets (right).

COLOR GUARD AND DRILL TEAM COMPETE — The Southern Rams' color guard and drill teams competed in a tri-state meet at Preston High School on Saturday. The teams took third place overall among the five schools represented the 70 cadets at the event. Sophomore Dylan Nazelrod led the color guard in the competition that required them to memorize and perform a 43-step sequence. The other color guard members were students Johnathan Potts, Emily Nazelrod, and Robert Locke. The drill team, led by junior Christine Hall, conducted the unarmed 41-step squad sequence. In addition to Hall, the team consisted of Emily and Dylan Nazelrod, Locke, Carl Cosner, Potts, and cadet Sgt. Maj. Jesse Paugh. "This was a tough competition," said the cadets' coach, ret. Lt. Col. Sheaffer. "The cadets worked hard and their willingness to do so was evident." The JROTC competed again on Tuesday against other division 1A schools in the Academic and Leadership Bowl. The academic team answered SAT math and English questions while the leadership team dealt with questions on leadership theory. These competitions are available to students enrolled in JROTC and take into consideration the skills and interests that students have.

Dear Bob and Beverly,
I want to take the time to thank you for all that you did to make my move possible. Without your guidance and direction, I would have had a very difficult time selling my house in Oakland. At a time when my emotional level was quite tense you very calmly walked me through the necessary steps to get my house properly listed for sale, and then you very purposefully followed through to make sure that the sale was handled properly. Most especially I appreciated your very professional attitude and expertise when we had that "glitch" at closing. You allowed me to complete my move with confidence that the final details would fall into place. Thank you so much for your hard work, effective communication, and patience with me in accomplishing the task of selling my house!
Most sincerely, Lowell Leitzel

Kitzmiller School Students Do Their Part To Sustain Butterflies

by Mary Sincell McEwen

The children of the Kitzmiller Elementary School embarked on a unique quest on a bright and chilly day last month, loading onto buses and heading up the mountainside to an expanse of land where butterflies gather.

The area is the Woodhill Sanctuary, a 15-acre easement now designated as a Maryland Environmental Trust (MET) and the Allegany Highland Conservancy butterfly sanctuary. The area is a preserve for several rare, threatened, or endangered butterfly species, including the Baltimore checkerspot, the official insect of the state of Maryland, so named in 1973.

Vladamir Dupre sought the designation for the property, which was owned by him and his late wife Elizabeth for many years. Dupre said he was thrilled to be able to contribute to the preservation of the endangered butterflies.

"We consider it a privilege to be a part of the efforts of the Maryland Environmental Trust to maintain and manage natural habitats for the people of Maryland to enjoy and learn from," Dupre said.

In that vein, he invited the children of Kitzmiller up to the property and gave them a mission — to help seed the area with flowers to which the butterflies will be drawn, and which will provide for the insects a safe haven.

While once common throughout the state of Maryland, the Baltimore checkerspot, along with numerous other species, is losing ground annually. Butterfly specialists Richard Smith and Pat Durkin, both active butterfly researchers with the MET, guided the Kitzmiller students last month in their mission the at Woodhill Sanctuary. They explained to the children that this unique area was one of only eight locations where the state butterfly colonies now survive. In fact, Woodhill has the largest concentration of the butterfly in the state, and possibly in a multi-state region, Durkin said.

The butterflies require freshwater marsh habitats, with shallow waters and a variety of flowering plants. Expansion and development throughout the state have greatly damaged such areas.

"The marsh-like conditions these butterflies need can be destroyed in a second," Durkin said. "It doesn't take much to ruin their habitat."

She and Smith have researched the plight of Maryland butterflies for many years, both participating in the Maryland Rare and Endangered Butterfly Survey in 2002-2003. Their research led them to the mountainsides of Garrett County where undeveloped land helps to sustain the insects.

To help with that, the students were instructed to gather seed pods of all sorts of flowers, and put them in paper bags. The flowers to come from these seeds are vital to butterflies, who seek the nector to survive.

Once collected, the children were led to a wide-open field. Smith showed the students how to crack open the various pods. Then he sent them out across the field to spread the seeds across the grounds.

The children scattered out across the meadow and did as they were told, with seed pods flying in all directions.

Durkin explained that the field is considered a "low-grade meadow," and can be upgraded to the next level if seeded with many varieties of flower. Then as the flowers bloom in the spring, the new butterflies can be well-fed and protected.

Dupre obviously enjoyed the activities of the day, watching the children romp on the property that has been his own sanctuary for years. The father of six children and grandfather to 10, Dupre is a family-oriented man. He has stewarded the property for more than 25 years. He and his wife Elizabeth lived in Bethesda, and Vlad wished to find a piece of property where his family could be together.

"I had looked for years to find the right place," he said, and was led to Garrett County upon the suggestion of a friend. He found the mountaintop location perfect, and his family has indeed gathered there since. The property is a combination of natural woodlands and meticulously designed garden areas with various nature-inspired statues made by family members.

SOMETHING TO SMILE ABOUT – The current plight of the butterfly, especially about seven particular species including the Maryland state butterfly, is perilous right now, as their habitats are being destroyed across the country. However, a site in Garrett County will remain a safe haven for the insects, as it has been named a butterfly sanctuary by the Maryland Environmental Trust and will never be developed in a way that will destroy the delicate conditions required by the unique insects. The children of Kitzmiller were able to take part in some of that preservation effort, under the smiling eye of property steward Vlad Dupre, pictured at left, who enjoyed an afternoon with the children last month, along with butterfly experts Dick Smith and Pat Durkin, also pictured. See story.

Five Members Of Troop 55021 Receive Girl Scout Silver Awards

The Black Diamond Council recently presented the Silver Award, the second highest achievement in Girl Scouting, to five members of Troop 55021. They are Christine Carpenter and Stephanie Owens of McHenry, Alexandra "Alex" Miller of Grantsville, and Shelby Simmons and Christa Bowser of Accident.

The troop is led by Debbie Carpenter and assistant Tracy Simmons.

"The Silver Award symbolizes outstanding accomplishments and a commitment to excellence," Debbie said. "It helps girls build skills, explore careers, gain leadership skills, and make a commitment to self-improvement and community involvement."

In order to receive the awards, girls must complete a number of requirements, including a project that shows community involvement.

"The girls are encouraged to select a project that will help the community, a project that is close to their hearts," Debbie said. "Then they devise a plan and put that plan into action with direction and support from adults; however, they are required to do all the legwork for the project themselves. I am so very proud of these girls."

For her Girl Scout Silver Award project, Christine chose to help the Garrett County Animal Shelter. She organized a food drive at Foodland Fresh in McHenry.

Christine asked Coldwell Banker for the use of its mascot dog suit and gained permission from Foodland Fresh in McHenry to conduct the event in front of the store.

Christine collected many food and toy items for the shelter animals, delivered them, and then volunteered at the shelter for the remainder of the summer. While at the shelter she cleaned the shelter, cleaned the animal cages, and took care of the animals.

Christine is the daughter of Debbie and Dale Carpenter. She has been a Girl Scout since 2003. She is a 10th grader at Northern High School, a member of the JV girls' soccer team, and a lieutenant in the school's JROTC program.

She is a consistent honor roll student and is very active in her local church, teaching younger children and participating in missionary trips.

"Christine plans to pursue a career in the veterinary field and has always had a heart for animals," Debbie said. "She tackled this project with enthusiasm and has discovered that working with animals is a lifelong passion."

Alex is the daughter of Jeff and Maxine Miller. For her project, she chose to collect and personally deliver new clothing and toys for the children of the QuZhou SWI in QuZhou, China. Alex was adopted from this orphanage when she was 11 months old, and when she was adopted she had four worn shirts, three pairs of split pants, and two pairs of mismatched socks.

For her project, Alex decided to give the children some new things. After her trip to China, Alex presented a program to the Women's Fellowship at her church, made a PowerPoint presentation that she saved to disc and gave to her former kindergarten teacher to use at Accident Elementary School, and wrote an article about her trip for Mei Magazine, a special publication for Asian adoptees.

Alex has been a Girl Scout since 2004. As a Cadette, she has earned a number of additional awards, including the Leadership Award, Leadership in Action, Cadette Challenge Award, From Dreams to Reality, the Community Service Bar, and the Golden Trefoil Award.

An honor roll student, Alex is a seventh grader at Northern Middle School, where she is a member of Student Council, the school band, and the Fiery Snow Bricks FIRST LEGO League team.

She is also a member of the ICE soccer team and a student at Dixon's Dance Studio. Alex is a member of the Meyersdale Church of the Brethren, where she helps with the nursery.

She also participates frequently in community service activities and has given of her time to help with the food pantry in Meyersdale, Pa., a recent blood drive at the Springs Mennonite Church, and by collecting donations for Heifer Project International.

"Alex was adopted from China herself and has a heart for the children there," Debbie said. "She has the drive to accomplish anything she sets her mind to, and I'm looking forward to witnessing her continued accomplishments."

Shelby, Christa, and Stephanie worked together to complete the requirements of their award by doing work at the new McHenry location of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. Together the three girls sanded walls, swept, vacuumed, and mopped floors. They pressure washed the deck and cleaned every window in the house. They also cleaned the ambulance bay.

"They admit that it was very hard work, but said that the appreciation expressed by the rescue squad made it more than worth it," Debbie said.

Shelby is the daughter of Tim and Tracy Simmons. She has completed five years and is in her sixth year in Girl Scout Troop 55021 as a senior Scout and a freshman at Northern High School . She is a member of Deep Creek Baptist Church, where she also attends youth group regularly. She is also a member of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad Auxiliary and was crowned as the first Junior Miss Fireprevention of Allegany and Garrett County for 2009-2010. She went on to win the MSFA Junior Miss Fireprevention of Western Maryland title for 2010.

Christa is the daughter of Fred and Denise Bowser. She is in her third year as a Girl Scout in Troop 55021. She is a freshman at Northern High School, where she maintains an A/B average and is a member of the Envirothon Club. She is also a member of Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad Auxiliary, and attends youth group every Wednesday at Deep Creek Baptist Church.

Stephanie is 13 years old and is the daughter of Sandy Brown and the granddaughter of Pat and Charlie Brown. She attends Northern High School and enjoys cheerleading, softball, and volleyball, and is a member of the EMS club.

"Christa, Shelby, and Stephanie have had many opportunities to help with the local emergency services departments in both the fire and rescue squad arenas," Debbie said. "All three have been certified in CPR and first aid, and have shown that they have an understanding and appreciation for the work done by the fine volunteers in our county."

All five of the girls now plan to pursue the highest award available in Girl Scouting – the Gold Award.

GIRLS SCOUTS RECEIVE HIGH HONOR – The Black Diamond Council recently presented the Girl Scout Silver Award, the second highest achievement in Girl Scouting, to five local girls: Christine Carpenter and Stephanie Owens, McHenry; Alexandra Miller, Grantsville; and Shelby Simmons and Christa Bowser, Accident. All five are members of Girl Scout Troop #2363, led by Debbie Carpenter and assistant Tracy Simmons. Debbie is shown above presenting the award to Alexandra, far left, and Christine. Left to right below are Christa, Shelby, Debbie, and Stephanie. See story for details.

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the 13th year, The Republican newspaper and the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland are asking for your help. Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is the WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM?

The GFWC Civic Club of Oakland and The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM is basically neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds are being used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special corps of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Members of the Civic Club of Oakland are taking the families shopping at Wal-Mart. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $125 per child.

The Civic Club of Oakland is again heading up the volunteer/shopping coordination. Many volunteers are working together to make sure the children of Garrett County stay warm this winter.

Humane Society Offering Special Monopoly Games

TUX HAS FINISHED HIS CHRISTMAS SHOPPING – The Garrett County Humane Society mascot appears to have purchased several of the specialized Monopoly games that the group is offering this holiday season. Brochures listing the types of games available and an order form will be displayed at area businesses from Friday, Nov. 19, through Wednesday, Dec. 8. Games will be delivered before or by Dec. 17. Story for details.

The Garrett County Humane Society will be selling several new varieties of specialized Monopoly games this holiday season. In the past, the group offered mostly animal themed games, but now shoppers can chose from over 50 themes.

There are about 10 animal games (cat, dog, farm, etc.), plus an additional 12 specific dog breed games (beagle, Westie, Lab, etc.). Also, there are 29 miscellaneous themes, such as lighthouse, Bible, and baseball, from which to choose.

The big games are $24 each, and Puppy-opoly/Pony-opoly are less. Brochures listing the types of games available and an order form will be displayed at area businesses from Friday, Nov. 19, through Wednesday, Dec. 8. Games will be delivered before or by Dec. 17.

"If you need a game before that date, please contact the Humane Society directly," noted president Lisa Baker.

The following locations will have the information available: Pineview Veterinary Hospital, Countryside Animal Hospital, Casselman Veterinary Services, Curves of Oakland, and HART's Spay/Neuter Clinic in McHenry.

"These games are not only family friendly and educational, they never become outdated," Baker said. "This year, give a gift that doesn't take batteries and provides hours of fun during the long winter months. Plus, your purchase provides much needed funds for us to continue to help homeless/neglected animals and helps us to continue our spay/neuter voucher program. We're a non-profit, volunteer organization, and we are the only group that responds to the 200+ animal neglect calls in Garrett County. If you do not want to purchase a game, you may make a special holiday donation through the mail. We appreciate any donation anytime."

Donations may be mailed to GCHS, 1124 Mary Drive, Oakland, MD 21550. For more information, persons may call 301-334-2738.

Together Again

I still can't believe they are already gone. It seems like forever but hasn't been long. When they left us I broke down and cried. The moment God took them, part of our soul died. The healing is hard and seems forever long. We comfort each other and remember the memories are not gone. We remember our time with them and all the fun times we had. Now we look ahead to Heaven where they are waiting, saying,"Don't be sad." We are here with the Lord and everything is ok. We are here forever and here to stay. We love you all and hope to see you all again. Together in Heaven. Together again."

Named Volunteer Of The Month At Garrett Memorial

Lucille Ludvigsen was recently chosen as the November Volunteer of the Month at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

She has been a volunteer at the hospital for nearly 12 years and volunteers weekly in the VIVA Office. She worked as an administrative secretary at the Garrett County Board of Education for over 40 years prior to joining the volunteer ranks at GCMH.

"Lucy is very reliable, dependable, and thorough. If you give Lucy a task, you know it will get done and be done right," said Wayne Johnson, coordinator for the office volunteers. "It is an extreme pleasure to have worked with Lucy these past 11 years and hopefully several more."

Volunteers recognized as a Volunteer of the Month are nominated and chosen based on their outstanding performance and dedication. Applications to become volunteers at GCMH are available by calling 301-533-4041.

November Named National Family Caregivers Month

November has been designated National Family Caregivers Month by the National Family Caregivers Association. Recognized by President Clinton when he signed the first proclamation in 1997, NFC Month has been proclaimed by an American president annually ever since. Many states and local municipalities have proclaimed November NFC Month.

"Daily, more than 65 million family caregivers in this country fill the vital role of caring for a loved one," commented a spokesperson. "Family caregivers are the most familiar with their care recipient's medicine regimen, they are most knowledgeable about the treatment regimen, and they understand best the dietary and exercise regime. Through their effort, their loved ones are able to stay at home for as long as possible."

National Caregivers Month was designated to thank, support, educate, and empower family caregivers. The objective is to raise awareness of issues, celebrate the effort of those who are family caregivers, educate them about self-identification, and increase support for family caregivers.

Turning Trash Into Trimmings

by Peggy Santamaria

A recent flurry of activity at Garrett College reminded everyone that it is almost time for the Festival of Trees, which will begin next Wednesday, Nov. 24. Students, faculty, and staff have created a veritable Santa's workshop, where recycled objects are being ingeniously transformed into vibrantly colorful tree ornaments.

This project is just one of the activities that the college Green Education Awareness Committee offers to students, faculty, and staff to increase consciousness of recycling and repurposing in an effort to reduce the human footprint.

"Our theme again this year is 'I'm dreaming of a green Christmas,' with the focus on reducing waste by reusing or recycling all sorts of items," said Dana Shimrock, Garrett College library director, chair of the Green Education Awareness Committee, and the leader of the merry band of ornament makers. "This is the second year we have adopted this theme of recycling to create decorations. It can be a wonderful challenge to the imagination to convert something rescued from a trash can into an artistic expression," she said.

"Scraps of paper and bits of ribbon, aluminum cans and old magazines, light bulbs and bottle corks no longer look like something to discard," said Ann Wellham, dean of marketing and enrollment and Green Committee member. "This event has been a wonderful opportunity to let one's imagination flow. We are getting even more creative and doing a bit of research to get new ideas."

The 2010 Garrett County Festival of Trees will open at the Oakland Community Center (former armory) next Wednesday at 5:30 p.m., with an auction set to begin at 8:30 p.m. The Garrett College green dream tree earned a red ribbon for its creators at the 2009 festival.

"We hope to be able to take home another ribbon this year, but our true goal is to raise as much money as possible for the Dove Center during the auctioning of our tree," said Ellen Sheaffer, Garrett College librarian and Green Committee member. "Many of these ornaments are truly one of a kind and are very creative."

"We really encourage people to take part in the Festival of Trees. This will be the third year for the festival, and it has already become a very special community event," said Shimrock.

For information on the Festival of Trees, persons are invited to go online to www.fotgc.com.

Former GC Student Sgt. Mike Beck Exemplifies Nike's Ad, "Just Do It"

by Peggy Santamaria

The year was 1974. Young Mike Beck made the choice to keep his full-time construction job to support himself rather than return to the classroom and complete high school. He dedicated himself to his job, earned his paycheck, and became independent.

As the years passed, Beck began thinking about other types of work he might enjoy. He followed up on some job listings and was discouraged.

"I found that things had changed since I started working," he said. "It was no longer so easy to find a job. I didn't graduate from high school, and all the jobs out there were requiring a diploma."

Disappointment niggled at the back of his mind, but he soldiered on at work, proving that he had the stuff of a good employee. Beck's work ethic, skills, and wisdom of maturity spoke to the fact that he would be a welcome addition to any workplace. But he lacked the one thing to allow him to prove his worth – a high school diploma.

"I thought about going back to get a diploma," Beck said. However, the demands of life always seemed to trump any such plans. He knew that Garrett College offered a program for people in his position. He knew he could attend classes, polish up his skills, and take the Graduate Equivalency Diploma testing. Finally he made the choice to pursue this avenue.

It had been many years since Beck left the high school classroom. There were some mental hurdles to overcome in returning to the world of being a student at age 32.

"I just had it in my head that I was going to do this," he said. So he did. He now considers this one of the best decisions he ever made in his life.

Beck praised the teachers of the Adult Basic Education curriculum at Garrett College. He credits instructor Jeannie Gilbert for her dedication to each student.

"She really cares about the students. She worked with each of us individually to find our strengths and weakness," he said.

With the support of the GC staff, Beck achieved his goal. He earned his diploma, and a new world opened to him. It took a few more years, but Beck finally found what he had been looking for.

"I learned that there was an opening at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and thought that was something I would really like to do," he said.

The sheriff's office job went to applicant Michael Beck. He was on his way to a new life.

Beck is devoted to his new career and has brought to it all the knowledge and skills of his years of employment.

"If I hadn't done it, if I hadn't taken the classes, I wouldn't be where I am today. I'm now a sergeant and a first-line supervisor. I have also become a certified trainer and coordinator of in-service training for the sheriff's office," he said.

After many years of work, Sgt. Mike Beck has found his calling to serve his community.

"You can do whatever you set your mind to," he said. "You just have to stick with it."

The Adult Basic Education program offered through the Garrett College Division of Continuing Education and Workforce Development offers support and training to those wishing to improve their quality of life through education. To learn more about these opportunities, persons are invited to visit the college web site at www.gar-rettcollege.edu or telephone Patricia Baer at 301-334-8304.

PROUD OF HIS SERVICE to the community is Sgt. Mike Beck of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, who says that he is grateful to the supportive instructors at Garrett College who helped him reach his goals. See story.

Rotary Club To Distribute Items For Area Needy

The Grantsville Rotary Club recently announced the kick-off of its annual effort to collect items to be distributed to the needy for Christmas. Last year, this effort distributed food certificates as well as gifts and toys to numerous local families.

Gifts and toys are provided for children age 16 and below. Each family also receives a food certificate to be used at Foodland. Deliveries were made to 70 families in the Grantsville and Friendsville areas in 2009.

The primary method of obtaining gifts and food for these families is through donations. Displays and trees are placed in businesses and other locations throughout the community with tags indicating what is needed. For example, the tag may read, "small toy fire truck, age 8." Individuals wishing to help may remove a tag, purchase the item, attach the tag to the gift, and place the gift under the tree from which the tag was removed.

Tags are also provided on all trees in Grantsville as a reminder that monetary donations are also needed to purchase food certificates.

Joe Bender of the Grantsville club reported that gift tag trees for the Grantsville area are located at Beachy's Pharmacy, the Grantsville branch of the Ruth Enlow Library, Penn Alps Restaurant, First United National Bank & Trust, First Peoples Federal Credit Union, and M&T Bank.

Persons who wish to help but cannot obtain a tag may call Bender at 814-662-4366.

Monetary donations are also appreciated. Checks should be made payable to the Grantsville Rotary Christmas Project and mailed to Grantsville Rotary, Attn. Joe Bender, 1317 Springs Road, Springs, Pa., 15562, or dropped of at any tree location.

"The collection period runs only through Dec. 8 (approximately three weeks)," Bender said. "Therefore, those who are interested should act now."

Deliveries will be made to homes on Saturday, Dec. 11.

GIVING BACK TO RUBY – In appreciation of the care they received, and in memory of their infant daughter Rilynn German, Bill and Brittany German, Oakland, decided to show their appreciation for that care by "giving something back" to the neonatal intensive care unit at Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va. Rilynn was a patient in that unit following her delivery. Nurse Rebecca Tilley personally purchased receiving blankets and placed them in Rilynn's incubator. "That made us feel great," said Brittany. "It was so nice to have someone go out of her way to make our little girl's stay a little more pleasant. Bill and I decided to collect receiving blankets with the hope that it would help other families." With help from friends, family members, and co-workers, the Germans collected 674 blankets and 20 infant hats, which they delivered to the unit. In the photo above with the Germans is Dr. Josh Dower, palliative care physician at Ruby Memorial.

NOTHING FISHY ABOUT THIS

With the incidence of hearing loss increasing as a function of age, it never hurts to follow dietary advice that may help preserve hearing. One such protective measure involves eating fish, particularly fish rich in omega-3 fatty acids. According to the Blue Mountains Hearing Study, people over the age of 50 who reported eating at least two servings of fish per week had a 42 percent lower risk of developing age-related hearing loss ("presbycusis") than those who rarely ate fish. It was also noted that the higher the omega-3 intake, the lower the risk of hearing loss. The reason for the benefit rests with the fact that omega-3s may help preserve microcirculation in the cochlea (the inner ear).

In addition to a dietary approach, two important steps you can take to help protect your hearing are wearing ear protection in loud, noisy environments and having your hearing checked regularly to stay on top of possible hearing loss. Hearing tests are easy, comprehensive, painless ways of evaluating this precious sense. If you've never had a hearing test, or if it's been awhile since your last one, take the time today to give us a call at AUDIBEL.

P.S. If you have any doubts about your ability to hear clearly, it makes good sense to schedule a hearing test to know where you stand.

Planted in the House of the Lord

Winter is just around the corner. The potted plants that sat outside have been carried in before the first frost. Now they shine like emeralds in the sunny window, thriving in the warmth. We experience seasons of "winter" in our lives, when we are overcome with doubt, frozen with fear. We can come into God's house and warm our hearts. Psalm 92:12-13 promises "... the righteous will flourish... planted in the house of the Lord."

What Is Courage?

The American Heritage Dictionary defines courage as "the state or quality of mind or spirit that enables one to face danger, fear, or vicissitudes with self-possession, confidence, and resolution; bravery." Notice that this definition does not require a lack of fear, but rather the ability to face danger or fear with confidence and resolution. To be completely lacking in fear would be foolhardy, and perhaps even pathological. Indeed, it is now known that certain brain disorders can result in people either being overly fearful or being insensitive to fear, that is, being fearless in situations where they should be fearful. But, it would be wrong to suggest that courage is simply the brain state where one is appropriately attuned to fear. Rather, there is an appropriate level of courage for each individual. Soldiers and police officers must be able to show grace under fire, while ordinary folks are allowed to get a bit "freaked out" when the bullets start flying. We should think about the level of courage appropriate to our lives. It might take courage to really be ourselves, or the courage to open up and tell others how we really feel. And whatever it is, we should take pains to put it into practice; we don't become brave by doing one brave act but rather by continually acting bravely.

So do not fear, for I am with you; do not be dismayed, for I am your God. I will strengthen you and help you; I will uphold you with my righteous right hand.

R.S.V. Isaiah 41:10

Treatment for the Lung Condition COPD

Chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) is a condition resulting in obstructed airways of the lungs and breathing difficulty. Emphysema and chronic bronchitis are types of COPD. The airways of persons diagnosed with COPD are narrowed and broken down. Symptoms include cough and wheezing. Smoking can lead to COPD.

Although treatments are available for the alleviation of the symptoms of COPD, there is no cure available. Bronchodilators work to make it easier to breathe. Short-acting beta agonists, such as albuterol (Proventil, Ventolin), are bronchodilators commonly prescribed. Ipratropium is a short-acting anticholinergic medication that works to improve lung function and the ability to breathe. These medications are available as a combination inhaler, known as Combivent. Long-acting bronchodilators, such as salmeterol (Serevent) and formoterol (Foradil), are taken on a regular basis. Long-acting anticholinergic medications, such as tiotropium (Spiriva), may also be prescribed to help improve lung function and the ability to breathe. Inhaled corticosteroids, such as fluticasone (Flovent), may be prescribed for reduction of inflammation of the lungs. It is important that those who smoke take steps to quit smoking to prevent or delay the progression of COPD.

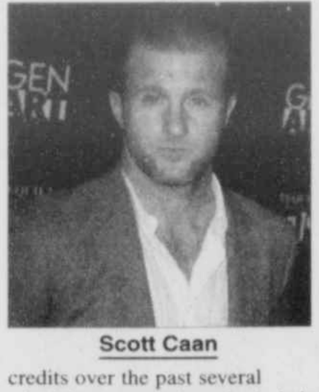
A second acting generation Caan help 'Five-0'

By Jay Bobbin

© Zap2it



Scott Caan

Q: The new "Hawaii Five-0" on CBS has Sean Caan playing Danno. He has such a strong resemblance to actor James Caan; is there a connection? –Mary Krason, Milwaukee

A: Actually, he's Scott Caan, and there's just about the strongest connection there could be ... since he calls James "Dad."

Q: What does the future hold for Kristin Scott Thomas, who starred with Harrison Ford in the movie "Random Hearts"? –Bob and Carol Creson, Norman, Okla.

A: There's undoubtedly a lot more work in her future, as the British actress (yes, despite her perfect American accent in "Random Hearts") has continued to work steadily since that film. In fact, she had a great run on the award circuit internationally for the 2008 drama "I've Loved You So Long," earning many nominations for best-actress honors.

Her other recent projects have included "The Other Boleyn Girl," "Easy Virtue" and "Confessions of a Shopaholic." She's currently back on screens in "Nowhere Boy," the biography of the young John Lennon, and she has a couple of movies now undergoing post-production work for release next year.

Q: Who is the actress who plays the reporter involved with Tom Selleck's character on "Blue Bloods"? She looks familiar, but I cannot find her name in the credits or on the show's website. –Lorrie Payne, Bridgeport, Ohio

A: She's Andrea Roth, a Canadian actress whose other major role of recent years has been as the Denis Leary character's estranged wife on the FX drama "Rescue Me." Her additional credits over the past several television seasons have included episodes of "Lost," "Dark Blue," "Criminal Minds" and "NUMB3RS."

Q: When will new episodes of "The Glades" begin? Please tell me they are going to continue the show. –Jean Neuman, Centennial, Colo.

A: They are. A&E Network has ordered a second season of 13 episodes of the Florida-based mystery series, and it's likely those tales will begin their run around the middle of next year. Matt Passmore and Kiele Sanchez are expected to return as the show's stars.

Q: I have been unable to find a start date for my favorite show, "In Plain Sight." Please tell me it's not canceled. –Mary Ball, Virginia Beach, Va.

A: It's not ... in fact, far from it. USA Network wants not just one but two more seasons of the series starring Mary McCormack as a federal marshal. The series traditionally has started up again in the spring, so you can expect that to be the case again, at least for its fourth season next year.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was Kurt Vonnegut, one of the most influential American writers of the 20th century, who made the following sage observation: "Laughter and tears are both responses to frustration and exhaustion. I myself prefer to laugh, since there is less cleaning up to do afterward."

• Snakes are sometimes born with two heads, but they don't survive long. It seems the heads fight each other for food.

• Pregnant women might be particularly interested in the following: The animal that is pregnant the longest is the African elephant, with an average gestation period of 660 days (though some pregnancies can last up to 100 days longer). The record for shortest gestation period is held jointly by three marsupials, including the American opossum, which remain pregnant for only 12 to 13 days.

• During this season of excess, it might be worthwhile to remember that the typical holiday meal contains more than 3,000 calories. It also might be worthwhile to remember that the suggested daily intake of calories for men is 2,500; for women it's 2,000.

• Americans' collective annual tab for dry-cleaning services comes to approximately $8 billion.

• If you're an arachnophobe, you might not want to read the following tidbit of information: Scientists in Madagascar recently discovered a new species of bark spider that spins webs over rivers and other bodies of water. What makes these webs noteworthy is that they are the largest ever recorded, measuring up to 82 feet across.

• Zachary Taylor, the 12th president of the United States, let his horse graze on the lawn of the White House.

• On Nov. 22, 1783, John Hanson, the first president of the Continental Congress under the Articles of Confederation, dies in his home state of Maryland. Hanson is sometimes called the first president of the United States, but this is a misnomer, since the presidency did not exist until 1789.

• On Nov. 28, 1925, the Grand Ole Opry, one of the longest-lived and most popular showcases for Country Western music, begins broadcasting live from Nashville, Tennessee. The showcase was originally named the Barn Dance, after a Chicago radio program called the National Barn Dance.

• On Nov. 26, 1931, the first cloverleaf interchange to be built in the United States, at the junction of US 1/9 and NJ Route 35 in Woodbridge, N.J., is featured on the cover of the Engineering News-Record. A piece on the under-construction Hoover Dam was relegated to the journal's back pages.

• On Nov. 24, 1944, 111 U.S. B-29 Superfortress bombers raid Tokyo for the first time since 1942. Their target: the Nakajima aircraft engine works. Despite the barrage of bombs that were dropped, fewer than 50 hit the main target, doing little damage.

• On Nov. 23, 1966, Elvis Presley's 22nd film, a rock 'n' roll musical called "Spinout" in which Elvis played a singing race car driver, opens in theaters across the country. "Spinout" was filmed on location at Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles and the Ascot Motor Car Racing Ground, a well-known dirt track nearby.

• On Nov. 25, 1980, Sugar Ray Leonard regains boxing's welterweight title when his opponent, reigning champ Roberto Duran, waves his arms and walks away from the fight in the eighth round, telling the referee "No mas, no mas" ("No more"). ## Collecting

Q: I have a collection of old Raleigh cigarette coupons that were given as premiums years ago. Do they have any value? — Albert, Evansville, Wyo.

A: Cigarette coupons were extremely popular throughout the 1940s and well into the 1950s. Raleigh cigarettes were produced by the Brown & Williamson Tobacco Company, which was eventually purchased by RJR Nabisco. Some of the earlier coupons have a large "903," which was the post-office box in Louisville, Ky., where the stamps could be redeemed. To find out if your stamps have retained any value, I suggest you get a copy of Warman's Tobacco Collectibles: An Identification and Price Guide by Mark F. Moran. Several copies are available at www.amazon.com for $10 or less.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Maryland Farm Bureau PAC Has 93% Success Rate

Of the 110 candidates endorsed by the Maryland Farm Bureau political action committee during the state's general election, 102 of them were elected. This 93% success rate is the highest the committee has had since it began 12 years ago, endorsing in the last three election cycles. The group endorsed only state delegate and senator candidates this year.

"We are pleased to have helped elect so many agriculture-friendly legislators in Maryland – those who understand agriculture and support our basic principles," said Harry Moreland, Maryland Farm Bureau PAC chairperson. "We are encouraged by our 93% success rate and hope to continue our relationships with those leaders."

Like all Farm Bureau programs, Moreland said that the PAC relied on "strong grassroots activity" to make its decisions. There were 550 candidate surveys sent out, and 217 were returned seeking endorsement. The MFB PAC endorsed 116 candidates in the primary election, winning 106 of those races for a 91 percent rating.

Maryland Farm Bureau president Pat Langenfelder said the candidate surveys are "a great tool" to get potential lawmakers thinking about the importance of the agricultural industry in the state.

"More and more candidates are paying more attention to farming issues before, during, and after the election," she said. "The urban and suburban candidates took the time to think and respond to the questions, and now we can follow up with information for them."

In addition to the endorsement success, Maryland Farm Bureau leaders said they were pleased with the accomplishments of attendees to its campaign schools held earlier this year. Three of the four political hopefuls who attended the one-day training were elected to local or state office, and a two-day training session had a good percentage of candidates and workers from successful campaigns.

"The campaign management schools have been a great tool for Farm Bureau," Langenfelder said. "We want to continue to help good people get elected to office."

Delegate-elect Charles Otto of Princess Anne in District 38A is a Farm Bureau leader who attended the training on his way to a successful bid for state office.

"I was encouraged to continue on as a leader, and Farm Bureau folks thought I was up to the task," he said. "It has been an education, and I am excited to get to Annapolis and serve my district and the agricultural industry."

Maryland Farm Bureau is a private, non-profit membership organization. It is controlled by its members through the democratic process and is financed by voluntary membership dues. It comprises over 34,000 member families that belong to the state's 23 county farm bureaus.

USDA ANNOUNCES EMERGENCY LOAN DESIGNATION

Alfred J. Lewis, West Virginia Farm Service Agency (FSA) state executive director, announced last week the eligibility of seven counties in West Virginia for FSA Emergency (EM) Loans.

"Public Law 98-258 provides for counties that are contiguous to another county that has been designated as a disaster area to also be eligible for EM Loans," stated Lewis. "On November 4, Secretary Vilsack designated 22 counties in Maryland (including Garrett County) as a disaster area as a result of drought and excessive heat that occurred June 1 through August 31, 2010. The West Virginia counties of Berkeley, Grant, Hampshire, Jefferson, Mineral, Morgan, and Preston are contiguous to the designated Maryland counties and are therefore eligible for assistance."

To be eligible for an Emergency Loan, the farmer must have suffered at least a 30% production loss or a physical loss, be able to evidence adequate repayment ability, and be unable to obtain adequate credit from other sources. Loans to one operation are limited to $500,000 outstanding principal balance at any one time or the amount of the calculated loss, whichever is less. Loans are also limited to owners and/or operators of not larger than family-sized farming operations.

Farmers in the eligible counties may apply for EM Loans up through July 5, 2011. Applications should be filed in the local FSA county office.

SPRUCE FOREST CHURCH GETS A FACELIFT – Taking advantage of the unseasonably mild weather this past week, Mark and Jeannie Griffin of QP Builders Inc. "spruced up" the historic church building in Grantsville that sits behind Penn Alps Restaurant and Spruce Forest Artisan Village. Built around the turn of the 20th century, the building served as the Pleasant Valley Methodist Church for 92 years. In 1995, it was slated for demolition, but was saved by the combined efforts of parishioners and the late Dr. Alta Schrock. It was relocated to its current site in the spring of 1995 and has been used for such venues as weddings, concerts, and exhibitions. Winter weather and the lack of maintenance funding in recent years led to deterioration of the exterior of the wooden structure. The historic church received a fresh coat of paint and some other much needed attention as the result of a partnership between Penn Alps (the building's owner), the non-profit Spruce Forest Artisan Village and community members. Photo by Julyen Norman, a Spruce Forest board member, who coordinated the effort to freshen up the old church in time for the Christmas in the Village weekend, scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Dec. 3 and 4.

Public Invited To Thanksgiving Meal, Christian Program

Bear Creek Church of the Brethren, Accident, will host a Thanksgiving covered-dish dinner and a contemporary Christian music concert on Sunday evening, Nov. 21.

"As there is no scheduled Saturday evening community dinner in November, the community is cordially invited to attend our dinner and music program," said a church spokesperson.

The turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes, beverages, and bread will be provided by the church for the 6 p.m. dinner. Guests may bring a covered dish, if desired.

Anita Shiflett will give the concert at 7 p.m.

The church is located at 1088 Brethren Church Road, just past Accident Elementary School.

Thanksgiving Fest Service Set By Shepherd Of Hills

The Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran congregation will host a community Thanksgiving Festival worship service on Tuesday, Nov. 23.

Pre-service singing will begin at 6:45 p.m., with the worship service following at 7. The service will be held at the Sitzmark Room (lower level) of Will O' the Wisp at Deep Creek Lake. Pastor Donald R. Thomas will preside. All are welcome.

Shepherd of the Hills is a mission congregation of the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA). Regular Sunday services are held at the Garrett 8 Cinemas at 9:30 a.m. For further information, persons may call 301387-0400, or visit the church web site at www.shepherdofthehills-lutheran.org.

Restoration Group Announces Gun Raffle Winner

The Mount Beulah Restoration Association of New Germany announced this week that Peter Frazier of Newburg, W.Va., won the group's recent gun raffle.

"The organization wishes to thank all those who participated in the raffle," said president Mark Pfaff.

The drawing took place at the regular meeting of the association at the Grantsville Senior Center. Frazier won the new Ruger 25.06 high grade bolt action rifle that was donated to the association by Dennis Rounds of Grantsville.

The association is rebuilding the Mount Beulah Church via fundraisers and donations. The roof has already been replaced. Proceeds from the gun raffle will go toward restoring the foundation, which is scheduled to begin sometime next year.

For questions concerning the organization or to donate to the tax-exempt restoration group, persons may call Pfaff at 301-707-5007 or treasurer Carol Warnick at 301-895-5735.

FTC Offers Buying Ideas For Holiday Shopping On A Budget

The holiday shopping season is almost here, and the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), the nation's consumer protection agency, wants to help you get ready. Whether you're shopping at the mall, online, or by phone or mail, our tips can help you shop smart and stay on budget.

Make a list and set a budget. List the people you plan to buy gifts for, the type of gifts you plan to buy, and how much you plan to spend. Include the cost of cash gifts, holiday travel, extra food, wrappings, decorations, greeting cards, and postage. If it relates to the holiday season and it costs money, add it to your budget.

Shop around. A "sale" price isn't always the "best" price. Some merchants may offer a sale price on the item you want for a limited time. Other merchants may offer items at a discount every day.

Look for price-matching policies. Some merchants will match or even beat a competitor's prices.

Carefully consider bargain offers that are based on purchases of additional merchandise. For example, "Buy One, Get One Free" or "Free Gift with Purchase." If you don't really want or need the item, it's not a deal.

Clip coupons. Coupons are useful when they save you money on what you're already planning to buy. Check coupons for any restrictions. For example, do expiration dates apply, or do you have to spend a certain amount before you can use the coupon? Some retailers will accept expired coupons, and even coupons from their competitors. Check with the retailer before you leave home to learn their policy.

Ask about sale adjustments. If you buy an item at regular price and it goes on sale the next week, can you get a credit or refund for the discounted amount?

Consider layaway. Layaway purchase plans are designed for people who want to buy merchandise without using credit or paying the full price immediately. When you use layaway, you typically make a deposit – usually a percentage of the purchase price – and pay over time until you have paid for the item in full. In exchange, the retailer holds the merchandise for you. To avoid problems, get the store's layaway policy in writing.

Keep an eye on your wallet. Don't flash cash. Keep an eye on your credit or debit card during transactions, and get them back as quickly as possible. If your cards are lost or stolen, report the loss or theft immediately to the card issuers.

Use credit and debit cards with care. Save your receipts. You need them for returns and exchanges. Check credit and debit card sales and return receipts against your monthly bills and statements, and report any problems to the credit card issuer promptly.

Ask about refund and return policies. Many merchants may have different refund and return policies for sale items. For example, clearance merchandise may be on final sale, meaning no

GCC Band Holiday Concert Scheduled For Dec. 5 At GC

"Christmas in the Mountains" is the title selected for the annual holiday concert of the Garrett Community Concert Band, which will be presented on Sunday, Dec. 5, at 2 p.m. in the Garrett College auditorium.

The program will comprise a wide variety of seasonal music, from traditional to classical to jazz to movie medleys, according to Moe Turrentine, conductor. There will also be music with an international flavor, as well as one number in celebration of the Jewish holiday of Hanukkah.

MAKING MUSIC FOR THE HOLIDAYS will be the Garrett Community Concert Band, which will present its annual holiday concert on Sunday, Dec. 5, at Garrett College. The band, under the direction of Moe Turrentine, is pictured above "in action" during its Independence Day concert, which is presented annually on the campus lawn of GC. Photo by John McEwen.

The concert will open with the patriotic number "An American Fanfare" by Rick Kirby, and then immediately "switch gears" with Johann Sebastian Bach's classic "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" chorale from his Cantata #147.

Stan Applebaum's snappy "Toboggan Ride" will follow, after which will be the Mannheim Steamroller's arrangement of "Away in a Manger." The first half of the program will conclude with a concert suite from the popular Tom Hanks movie "The Polar Express."

HANDICAPPED ACCESSIBLE

TUX HAS FINISHED HIS CHRISTMAS SHOPPING – He purchased several of the specialized Monopoly games that the Garrett County Humane Society is selling this holiday season. In the past, the group offered mostly animal themed games, but now shoppers can chose from over 50 themes. There are about 10 animal games (cat, dog, farm, etc.), plus an additional 12 specific dog breed games (beagle, Westie, Lab, etc.). Also, there are 29 miscellaneous themes, such as lighthouse, Bible, and baseball, from which to choose. The big games are $24 each, and Puppy-opoly/Pony-opoly are less. Brochures listing the types of games available and an order form will be displayed at area businesses from Friday, Nov. 19, through Wednesday, Dec. 8. Games will be delivered before or by Dec. 17. "If you need a game before that date, please contact the Humane Society directly," noted president Lisa Baker. The following locations will have the information available: Pineview Veterinary Hospital, Countryside Animal Hospital, Casselman Veterinary Services, Curves of Oakland, and HART's Spay/Neuter Clinic in McHenry. "These games are not only family friendly and educational, they never become outdated," Baker said. "This year, give a gift that doesn't take batteries and provides hours of fun during the long winter months. Plus, your purchase provides much needed funds for us to continue to help homeless/neglected animals and helps us to continue our spay/neuter voucher program. We're a non-profit, volunteer organization, and we are the only group that responds to the 200+ animal neglect calls in Garrett County. If you do not want to purchase a game, you may make a special holiday donation through the mail. We appreciate any donation anytime." Donations may be mailed to GCHS, 1124 Mary Drive, Oakland, MD 21550. For more information, persons may call 301-334-2738.

Cook And Bake Your Way To Healthier Eating This Season

(ARA) – The arrival of the cooler weather means different things to many different people – football season, the vibrant colors of the changing leaves, hot chocolate, snuggly sweaters, and a vast array of festive flavors that reinvigorate cooking and baking routines.

Surprisingly, these seasonal comfort foods don't have to wreak havoc on your waistline. Many of this season's hottest flavors are naturally low in calories, and even offer essential vitamins, minerals, and fiber to help you take small steps towardshealthier eating while enjoying the foods you love.

"Many Americans face the challenges of eating healthy all year, but maintaining motivation during the winter months is particularly hard," says Hope Warshaw, registered dietitian and author of "Diabetes Meal Planning Made Easy," published by the American Diabetes Association. "My clients are always asking about simple ways to stay on track. I recommend making small changes to existing routines – such as cooking and baking with a fiber-enhanced product like Splenda® No Calorie Sweetener Granulated with Fiber – as an easy way to watch your daily fiber intake add up, gram by gram."

Warshaw also recommends taking smart shortcuts, wherever possible, and incorporating high-nutrient ingredients into your favorite seasonal dishes. With the right knowledge, cooking and baking with a little boost of fiber has never been easier.

Pumpkin

As the "star" in many holiday baked goods such as pies, muffins, breads, and more, pumpkin is definitely one of the season's most delicious and nutritious flavors.

Give your favorite pumpkin recipe a fiber boost by ditching the sugar and baking with Splenda with Fiber, Granulated, a no-calorie sweetener for foods and beverages with three grams of fiber per tablespoon.

"With this product, you get a two-for-one bonus – more fiber with less added sugars," says Warshaw.

Beans

Nothing signals the arrival of sweater season like a bowl of chili that warms you from the inside out. Give your chili a fiber makeover by opting for kidney and black beans and tossing in some fiber-rich Swiss chard.

Cut calories by skipping the meat or using lean turkey and give your dish an added twist by adding butternut squash and lightly garnishing with pine nuts. The end result: a dish that will keep you full and satisfied all day.

Apples

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away." This saying has never rung more true – the apple and its skin are among nature's fruits that are highest in fiber.

Skip the season's candy apples that line grocery store shelves and go for some homemade baked apples instead. Cut down on added sugars by baking your cored

CHORAL SOCIETY PRESENTING "CHRISTMAS JOY" CONCERT – The Garrett Choral Society, under the direction of Julie Turrentine, will present J.S. Bach's Magnificat along with a number of other Christmas works in this year's concert. Christmas Joy, the title of the concert, will be presented on Saturday, Dec. 11, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 12, at 2 p.m. This year's presentation will be given at St. Pater at the Lake Catholic Center, located along Mosser Road near McHenry. The Magnificat, which will be presented as the first half of the program, is a major vocal work of Johann Sebastian Bach. The text is the canticle of Mary, mother of Jesus, as told in the Book of Luke. There are 12 movements, and the work will feature soloists Dave Callis, Betsy Dempsey, Beth Mankin Moore, Jim Tong, and Mary McEwen, along with a duet by Jane Nolan and Judy Bertsch, and a trio by Carolyn Deverse, Mary Lee Moore, and Joan Lambert. A wide variety of Christmas choral works will be presented in the second half of the program, including "Patapan," "The Frozen December," "Lux Aurumque," "Joy to the World," and a percussion-augmented piece featuring the men titled "Betelehemu," with soloist Royce Warnick. The Con Brio singers, an octet, will present a unique rendition of favorite songs from the Nutcracker Suite. Tickets are available now from any choral society member, or at Jan Florist or Gregg's Pharmacy, both in Oakland. They are $10 for adults and $5 for persons 18 and younger.

Be A Savvy Holiday Shopper

(StatePoint) – Holiday shopping can be fun. But it can also be tiring and consume time better spent with the family.

If you're looking to maximize your holiday enjoyment, try employing a few savvy tips that will make you a smarter consumer.

Take Inventory

Before setting out to the mall or visiting your favorite shopping web sites, take inventory of what's left over from last year. This may include gift wrap and trimmings, but you may also come across gifts you bought but never actually gave.

In addition, make a list of people you must buy for and those you'd like to buy for. Then establish your budget and determine how much you'll spend on each person on your "must" list before moving to your "maybe" list.

Know Before Buying

Conscientious shoppers know their bank balance before buying anything. Nowadays, this is easy to do with text messages from your bank at your request.

Look for sales on things you need, but avoid buying discounted items you don't need; it's a notorious trap for blowing any holiday budget. And know the refund and exchange policy for gifts that you're not sure about.

Celebrate Favorite Memories With Keepsake Gifts

(ARA) – As the holiday season approaches, you're starting to think of gift ideas for everyone on your list – from family and friends, to those people who've touched you or your family's lives in a special way.

You would like to give each one on your list a truly personal gift that will be remembered and cherished long past the holiday season.

One way to do this is to create custom photo gifts online using your own digital photos or artwork. Think of a special photograph that captures a fun memory or important milestone and use that image to create an affordable gift that they will use and treasure every day.

Whether you choose a puzzle, a deck of cards, keepsake box, or coffee mug, you're creating a one-of-a-kind gift that celebrates a unique memory that you share. You don't need to have special design talents to be creative; you can use online tools like www.jostens.com and click on photo gifts to quickly and easily add your treasured artwork or photos to a great keepsake gift.

If you're in need of some fun photo gift ideas, here are a few suggestions from Jostens, a company with a rich history of helping people share their unique stories and connections:

* Keep their favorite vacation memories going long after the trip when you turn their coffee mug into a memorable keepsake they'll want to show off every day.

* Scan your precious old family photos to create timeless gifts such as a keepsake box crafted in beautiful hardwood with a glossy mahog-

Five Useful Ways To Ensure A Quality Charitable Experience This Season

by Jeff Rasley

Giving money to a worthy cause should be a personally satisfying experience, but for many people donating money is nothing more than the impersonal act of writing a check. Busy folks might not have the time to be active volunteers in their favorite charitable organizations, but with these five easy suggestions anyone can personalize their donation.

1. Give Directly

Consider donating directly to a worthy cause versus a big bureaucratic charity that simply divides up your donation among many different organizations. In this way you decide which particular charity is worthy of your donation. Why leave that personal decision up to someone else?

2. Take the Time to Decide

It's your hard earned money. Spend the time and consider what cause or organization you really care about. If you did have time to devote to a cause or to do volunteer work, how would you spend that time? What stirs your passion? If you love animals, consider your local Humane Society. If educating children is your special passion, you should be able to find a charter school to assist. Of course a religious organization that promotes your faith is worthy as well.

3. Ask to See Results

Modern technologies offer many ways to monitor the direct results of your charitable donations. Reports with digital photos can be e-mailed by staff in response to requests from donors. Most organizations have web sites that are regularly updated with news about projects and organizational initiatives. Every donor has the right to see how one's money is spent.

4. Read the Reports and Look at the Pictures

You don't need to immerse yourself in the financial mi-

Five Useful Ways

nutiae of the charitable organization to feel involved. Enjoy the photos of those kids playing in the shoes you donated. Watch the online video of the well being dug in that remote mountain village. If you don't have the time to pound nails, you can still enjoy the photos of the house going up.

5. Require Accountability

If you're not an accountant and don't want to audit the books of your chosen charity, don't. Just ask to see proof that your money has been used in the way you directed. When you give money to the athletic department of your alma mater to purchase new jerseys for the basketball team, there is nothing wrong with asking for a team photo showing off the team's new outfits.

Tracking your donation to make sure it has carried out your wishes is your right. And don't be afraid to ask what percentage of the nonprofit's receipts goes to administrative overhead. Any organization that has hefty administrative costs may be more focused on paying its personnel than fulfilling the mission.

Americans are the most generous givers in the history of the planet. Whipping out the wallet or checkbook to support worthy causes is a regular exercise of many Americans. The transaction can end as nothing more than a simple transfer of funds, or it can be the beginning of a satisfying relationship. When the charitable donor and the charitable organization engage in mutual sharing, both sides will find the relationship more meaningful.

St. Mark's Slates Annual Children's Christmas Pageant

St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland will host its annual children's Christmas pageant on Sunday, Dec. 19, during the regular church service, which begins at 10 a.m. This year's program is titled The Christmas Tree, written by Susanne Hudson, and will feature children from pre-kindergarten age through high school.

The service will include special music by the young people, who will play chimes and sing Christmas carols. The pageant will serve as the message for the day, according to Dawn Lewis, superintendent of the Sunday School program at St. Mark's.

A coffee hour, sponsored by the Sunday School, will be held immediately following the service. The theme for the coffee hour will be a birthday party for Jesus. The Sunday School will be collecting "gently used" toys for the Dove Center, so all are encouraged to bring a "gift for Jesus" to the party.

For more information, persons may call the church at 301-334-2668.

Affordable Holiday Home Decorating Ideas

(ARA) – Family, friends and good times – the holidays are here again. While your budget may not be what it was in years past, there's no reason to trim back your holiday decor.

All it takes is a little imagination and some inspiration from decorating experts to create fun, affordable holiday decorations. Here are a few holiday decorating ideas to inspire you.

Revive last year's decorations with new colors. You don't need to spend a fortune on store-bought decorations to add a little sparkle to this holiday season.

Change the color palette of older ornaments and decorations with a coat of Rust-Oleum Ultra Cover 2X spray paint in colors like colonial red, hunter green, key lime, or apple red.

Decorate your entryway for the holidays. In addition to stringing holiday lights, use spray paint to create an impressive pathway to your home's entrance. Paint a wreath silver or gold for a contemporary holiday look.

Or add a whimsical touch to patio planters. Use painter's tape to guide you in painting alternating red and white stripes. Your planters will look like candy canes that came straight from the North Pole.

Create a snowman doorstop. Transform a brick or paver into a festive door stop for less than $10. This quick and easy project is a great gift idea you can do with the kids. Thoroughly clean a brick or paver block and paint it with a coat of Rust-Oleum Universal in gloss pure white.

When dry, give your snowman earmuffs. Hold the brick or paver vertically and glue black puff balls on both sides of the brick. Connect them with a black pipe

Be Savvy

You should also get a receipt for your records and a gift receipt. This makes exchanges and refunds easier for you and less awkward for your recipients.

Have Back-up Plans

Savvy consumers know things don't always go as planned. Consider buying extended service contracts, especially for technology and appliance items. Some consumer publications warn against these without fully understanding the benefits.

Unlike basic warranties which only cover defects in workmanship and materials, extended service plans cover normal wear and tear and protect against failures due to environmental factors like heat, dust and humidity.

"Unlike manufacturers, which only provide support during normal business hours, most extended service plans offer service and troubleshooting support 24 hours a day, seven days a week," says Jamie Breneman, contributor to TheSavvyShopperBlog.com and spokesperson for N.E.W. Customer Service Companies.

Service contracts also cover things warranties don't, such as damage from power surges. And when repairs are needed, service plans guarantee all technicians coming into your home are well-qualified and fully screened. The plan also pays for itself since it only costs 10 to 20 percent of retail price.

To learn more about the difference between warranties and extended service plans, visit TheSavvyShopperBlog.com or newcorp.com.

Post-Holiday Savings

Black Friday and Cyber Monday aren't the only days to save. Get a jump-start on birthdays and holidays like Valentine's Day by scouring bargain bins for returned and discounted merchandise. Electronics and other boxed merchandise that's been opened cannot be resold at full price, and you might just find that gift you wanted for half price.

Keeping these tips in mind while shopping this holiday season can not only help you save money, but gain peace of mind. And isn't that really what the season is all about?

The Paw-fect Holiday For Pets: Seasonal Tips For Pet Parents

(Family Features) – This holiday season, share seasonal celebrations and traditions with the entire family, including four-legged family members. According to a national PetSmart survey, 72 percent of pet parents include their pet in holiday festivities.

"The holidays are about being with our loved ones — and that includes our pets, too," said PetSmart veterinarian and pet care expert Dr. Robyn Jaynes. "Whether it's including your pets in a family photo, taking them on a family trip or giving that perfect holiday gift or treat, it's important for pet parents to consider the unique behaviors of each and every pet."

As families everywhere kick off the season, PetSmart has a few simple tips to help pet parents make it a safe and enjoyable time for their pets.

Put Up Pet-Friendly Decor

Keep your pet's safety in mind and help furry friends steer clear of dangerous decorations.

– Holiday lights mean extra electrical cords and plugs. For pets, these items are tempting "chew toys." Taking extra time to tape down or cover cords will help prevent shocks, burns or more serious injuries.

– Christmas trees are sure to attract a pet's attention. Secure Christmas trees to keep them from toppling over if a pet should try to climb them, use them as a scratching post or simply bump into them.

– Forgo small ornaments, especially balls, bells, and tinsel that are attractive to pets, but deadly if consumed.

Protect Your ID And Money This Holiday Season

(StatePoint) – The holidays can be a wonderful time for shoppers who enjoy bargain hunting or admiring festive window displays. But it can also be prime hunting season for identity thieves.

According to a recent report from Javelin, the number of identity fraud victims in the United States jumped in 2009 by 12 percent from the previous year to 11.1 million adults – the highest increase since the survey was first conducted in 2003.

"Whether shopping online or in stores, all consumers need to be vigilant," says Shelley Solheim, director of financial education at Capital One. "By taking a few simple steps, shoppers can help protect themselves both online and at the mall, and safeguard their personal information from identify thieves."

To protect consumers during the holiday shopping season, the experts at Capital One are offering these simple tips.

At the Mall

No matter where you shop, be careful during the hectic holiday season.

* Streamline your wallet: Before shopping, clean out your wallet and take only credit cards, checks, and/or cash that you need. Never carry your Social Security card in your wallet.

* Be aware of your surroundings: Be conscious of other shoppers standing nearby when you are making purchases. Identity thieves have been known to copy credit card information or take pictures of cards on their cell phones.

* Don't leave valuables in your car: Your car's glove compartment isn't a secret hiding place. Wallets left in glove compartments account for thousands of credit card thefts every year.

Shopping Online

Be vigilant in cyberspace, especially when shopping on a web site that's new to you.

* Only use secure sites: When you're asked to provide payment information, the beginning of a web site's URL address should change from http to shttp or https, indicating that the purchase is encrypted or secured.

* Consider how you'll pay: Credit cards generally are a safe option because they allow buyers to receive credit from the issuer if the product isn't delivered. Don't ever send cash or use a money-wiring service because you'll have no recourse if something goes wrong.

* Use caution with social media: Retailers increasingly use social media to promote deals and disseminate coupons. But scammers also use these sites, often masquerading as a friend to deliver malicious links that allow hackers to steal personal information. Be suspicious of any message or promotion you did not sign up to receive, and instead of following links, go directly to a store's web site.

* Keep your password private: When selecting a password for an e-commerce site, do not use commonly known information, such as family names, birthdates, or numbers from your driver's license or Social Security number.

If your are a victim of identity theft, make sure to report it immediately to one of the three credit reporting agencies – TransUnion, Experian, or Equifax – and file a police report.

For more tips and advice on preventing and reporting identity theft, visit moneywise.org.

HARD TACK CANDY

3 cups granulated sugar
1 cup white corn syrup
1 cup water
Flavoring (peppermint, cloves, cinnamon, etc.)
Powdered sugar

Put first three ingredients in heavy saucepan. Stir until dissolved, then cook until candy thermometer reaches 300°. Add desired amount of flavoring. Pour onto buttered cookie sheet. When candy starts to get hard around the edges, pull up into pieces with fork and snip off with scissors. Drop in powdered sugar or put on cookie sheet until dry. Do not allow pieces to touch until dry. Peanut butter, nuts, or coconut may be added if desired. For butterscotch flavor, add 1/2 cup butter and pure vanilla flavoring. You'll need to work fast so the candy doesn't become too hard.

The Kitzmiller Empowerment Group has announced that a Trim-a-Tree program will take place during this year's Christmas season. All proceeds from the bow project will go toward Kitzmiller Christmas Cheer. The finished tree will be presented at the annual town Christmas celebration, slated for Dec. 3.

With donations to the Trim-A-Tree program, the empowerment group will decorate a Christmas tree at the Kitzmiller School with bows to honor, remember, encourage, and support loved ones. Bows are $5 each.

There will be one name per bow, and the choices are as follows: red, remember; white, support local police, fire, and rescue personnel; gold, honor; and red, white, and blue, support the country and military.

The tree decorating and old-fashioned Christmas celebration will take place Dec. 3 at 6 p.m. at the Kitzmiller School. The program will feature Christmas caroling, sleigh rides, refreshments, the bow recognition service, and pictures with Santa.

All are encouraged to purchase bows to honor and support loved ones, and to support the organization.

MODEL TRAIN BEING RAFFLED OFF TO BENEFIT B&O STATION — Bruce Tharp, director of the Tharp Group, has made available to the Oakland B&O Station Museum committee, a Z-scale model train set to be raffled off for the benefit of the museum. The train set includes a Northern Pacific model locomotive with a tender, two freight cars, and a caboose. The set comes complete with 12 sections of track, a rerailer, and a power pack. It is a Macklin set from Germany. It retails for around $400 and is intended for serious collectors or model-train enthusiasts. Because of the small size of the gauge the set is not recommended for children under 12 years of age. Raffle tickets are $1 each (or 6 for $5) and are available at the Garrett County Historical Society Museum, the Oakland Town Hall, Proudfoot's Pharmacy, Gregg's Pharmacy, and the Helbig Insurance Agency. The drawing will be held just in time for Christmas on Saturday, Dec. 18, at Proudfoot's Pharmacy in conjunction with the House of Hope food drive.

Holiday For Pets

Traveling With Furry Friends

Many families travel at this time of year. Whether pet parents are taking their pets along or leaving them at home, it's important to make sure their pets are safe and comfortable.

– Pet parents who board their pets should look for facilities that are clean and have friendly, responsive staff and strict policies on health and safety issues.

– If pets are included in a family's travel plans, many resources can help you find hotels that accommodate pets. Visit www.pets-welcome.com for more information.

– Many products are available to keep pets safe in the car, including harnesses and barriers that secure pets in the back of the vehicle.

Help Pets Get Camera-Ready

Just like the rest of the family, pets need to look their best for the holiday photo or the traditional shot on Santa's lap. Try these tips to prepare your pet:

– For pets that enjoy dressing up, holiday outfits such as a reindeer or Santa costume, cable knit sweater, elf hat, or jingle bell collar are festive.

– Having treats or special toys on-hand can keep pets from getting anxious while in line and also help them behave during the photo.

To find out when and where you can have your pet's photo taken with Santa any finish.

* Grandparents take great pride in showing off photos of their grandchildren, and you can make it really easy for them by creating a Jostens calendar. You can choose between a 12-month or 18-month calendar, and print images of all the grandchildren from the past year for them to admire and lovingly display in 2011.

If you have children in school, teachers and coaches may also be on your list.

* Art projects are a big part of elementary school, and you can recognize your son's teacher this holiday season by having his favorite drawing from the year printed onto a magnet or luggage tag. It will also help his teacher bring back fun memories of their time together even after your son has moved on to the next grade.

* For a great coach's gift, take a camera to your daughter's practice to capture a few images of her training with the coach. Pick out the best action image and put it on a water bottle. This idea also would work for music teachers, dance instructors or any other mentors sharing their expertise with your child.

Celebrating the great moments in your life and sharing them with friends, family, and mentors is a fantastic gift idea. Every time the recipients see the gifts, they'll think of those special stories and feelings the photo or artwork recalls and the special person who created it just for them.

Visit www.jostens.com for more ideas on personalized gift ideas.

Great "Green" Gifts For All Kinds Of Guys

(ARA) – Reusable shopping bag for mom, recycled glass earrings for your best friend and an iTunes gift card for your 12-year-old niece – when it comes to generating green gift ideas for the females on your holiday shopping list, you just zip along. Then there are the guys. . .

We may never know why it's more difficult to shop for men. Whether they're car guys, sports fanatics or techies, coming up with just the right gift for the men in our lives can stymie even the most creative shopper, especially if you're trying to put a little "green" under the tree.

If it's the thought that counts, buying green is the way to go; and with more quality green gift options, it's never been easier. So if you want the men in your life to be a little greener, without sacrificing features, quality or style, here are some green gift ideas, categorized by types of guys:

The Gadget Guru

Tech guys love to get their hands on every cool new gadget as soon as it hits the market. Your chances of getting him something major that he doesn't already have are pretty slim, so go the route that has served women well for centuries – accessorize.

All those gadgets need power, so consider a USB-compatible solar charging device. These chargers use solar power to juice up virtually any gadget that has a USB power port. You can find ones made for cell phones, MP3 players and practically any other digital product. Google "solar charger" to start your search.

The Sharp Dresser

Is he convinced that the song "Sharp Dressed Man" was written just for him? Clean shirt, new shoes. . . for the well-dressed man, green can be more than just a color. Thanks to clothing made from materials such as recycled water bottles, you'll be doing good, while making him look good.

Well-known men's apparel brand Haggar offers chinos, cargos, and dress pants made with Repreve, a recycled fiber made from recycled plastic bottles. Featuring a straight, contemporary fit, these pants look good and feel great. Check them out at retailers across the country, including Macy's, JCPenney, Kohl's, and Belk.

The Outdoorsman

Does he spend hours, days even, perfecting the landscape at the house? Hardware and home improvement stores can be a great place to find solar powered pathway lights so he can showcase his masterpiece.

Or if he likes to garden, consider getting him a composting kit. Compost is the ultimate act of green gardening, using leftover vegetable scraps and other items to help create a nutrient-rich, all-natural fertilizer.

If he loves to explore the great outdoors, camping gear such as backpacks that convert solar power into electricity, hand-cranked radios, and flashlights that power up with

Claws, visit www.petsmart.-com.

Keep Pets Calm and Comfortable

The holiday season can be hectic for pets with the hustle and bustle of parties, travel and family dinners. To ease pet stress, pet parents should be mindful of the following:

– Pets may not understand why their usually quiet home is filled with people and noise. Provide pets with a quiet place to retreat.

– Pet parents often think they're "treating" their pets with table scraps from their holiday meals. The danger, say PetSmart veterinarians, is that dogs can become seriously ill from human foods because they do not have the same digestive system or nutritional needs as people.

– For the most part, pets should stay indoors during the cold winter months. Some dogs may not adjust as well to the cold weather, so pet parents may consider sweaters to keep their pets warm.

The Best Gifts for Four-Legged Family Members

With an estimated 71.4 million pet-filled homes in the U.S., many pet parents will be searching for the perfect pet gift this holiday season. PetSmart offers special toys, treats and other great gifts that will make your pet wag their tails with joy. This year's must-have gifts are:

– Chance and Lucky – The adorable holiday collection includes stuffed animals, ornaments, slippers, boxed cards, or gift cards, which are perfect to celebrate the holiday season and support a good cause, too. Ten percent of all purchases will be donated to PetSmart Charities to save the lives of homeless pets. The collection ranges from $5 to $20.

– Fisher-Price – Inspired by classic Fisher-Price icons, the whimsical toys for dogs feature items such as the Xylobone, Chatter Pup Telebone, and Ruff-a-Stack. Available in two sizes – small ($7.99) and large ($11.99).

– Martha Stewart Holiday Collection – The holiday Nordic Fair Isle sweater from the exclusive Martha Stewart Pets collection keeps your four-legged family members cozy during the cold winter months. Available for just $19.99.

– Stockings for Dogs and Cats – PetSmart's classic holiday value pack stockings are filled with an assortment of toys for cats and dogs. Pet parents can pick a theme that matches their pet's personality, such as the merry pink gingerbread-man or the classic red and green reindeer. Price ranges from $4.99 to $19.99.

Band Concert

Gino Mauricci will be the soloist in Howard Rowe's "Hanukkah, Festival of Lights."

The program will conclude with a jazzy rendition of "Up on the Housetop," arranged by Paul Clark, and a rousing fanfare piece by Robert Longfield titled "And the Mountains Echoed: Gloria!"

Tickets for the concert, which may be purchased at the door, are $8 for adults and $2 for students. Children under age 6 are admitted free of charge. Proceeds go for the purchase of music, supplies, and instruments, and also to help finance the GCC Band's scholarship program, which awards college scholarships annually to area students.

Immediately before the concert, during intermission, and immediately following the Dec. 5 concert, various music-related gift items will be for sale by the band in the GC auditorium lobby.

The GCC Band is a non-profit group which also receives some funding assistance through the Garrett County Arts Council.

a few good shakes are all great options.

The Handyman

Sure, he's gone through the house caulking and sealing every possible crack where heat could escape, and he's replaced every incandescent bulb in the house with compact fluorescent lights (CFLs). But does he yearn to do even more to conserve energy and reduce your home's carbon footprint?

Buy him his own voltage measuring device. All he has to do is plug an appliance into the device and it will display exactly how much power in kilowatt hours the appliance uses. He'll be able to tell what items in the house are the surprising power gobblers, and calculate electrical expenses down to the day if he so desires.

The Internet has made finding green gifts easier than ever. With a simple online search and a little creativity, you can find the right eco-friendly gift for practically every kind of guy on your list.

cleaner across the top to mimic earmuffs.

Next, add a face. Draw eyes and a mouth with a marker and glue on a button nose. Tie on a small piece of fabric for a scarf and you have a snowman doorstop.

Count down to the holidays with a custom chalkboard calendar. Use pieces of wood from your local craft store, or from around your home, and coat them with Rust-Oleum chalkboard paint. The tint base gives you an array of color options like fresco red, school house green, peapod green, and banner blue. It creates a writable, erasable chalkboard surface that's perfect to count down the days until Hanukkah or Christmas. Erase and use again year after year.

Don't Overlook These Holiday Tasks

(StatePoint) – The holidays can be a stressful time for even the most organized among us. It's easy to overlook that gift for the boss's wife, nutmeg for the eggnog, or batteries for your kids' new toys.

Forgotten errands can dampen your family's holiday sprit, and last-minute purchases can add up, often blowing that carefully planned budget.

So, in addition to compiling your list of who's naughty or nice, here's a list of holiday tasks to help keep your season stress free:

Scour Deals

We all know that discounts, coupons, and sales abound during the holidays. Unfortunately, not every deal is a wise purchase. There's often a reason unsold merchandise is on sale.

Also, in order to avoid the bad gift trap, keep a list in your wallet of people for whom you need gifts. Then when you spot a sale item, check if anyone on your list would like it. You may also want to keep a list of gifts you can give to party hosts, such as scented candles, gourmet coffee, or picture frames.

Power Up

Don't forget to stock up on the right batteries for all those electronic gifts. High performance alkaline batteries typically deliver long-lasting performance. Choose a trustworthy brand that provides more power for your dollar, such as Panasonic, which offers a wide variety at value prices and has cranked out 150 billion batteries since 1931.

To get the most out of batteries, store them in a cool dry place. Don't mix alkaline and heavy duty, or old and new ones, as this can result in leakages, according to the experts at Panasonic, one of the world's largest battery manufacturers. Maximizing battery usage is key, so you don't miss that priceless holiday snapshot or have that new videogame handset die before setting a new high score. It's all about playing more without paying more.

Buy Trimmings in Bulk

Essential trimmings, like wrapping paper, tape, ribbons, and bows, can be expensive when bought separately and at the local pharmacy. Instead, make a list and buy in bulk. Store leftovers in a box for next season. Consider buying more right after the season ends, to take advantage of special post-season sales for next year.

Stock the Cupboards

Stock up early on cooking essentials like flour, butter, onions, chicken stock, sugar, and cinnamon. Nobody wants to make a run for vanilla halfway through a recipe!

By not forgetting these often-overlooked holiday tasks, you will make your season a lot less stressful and full of good cheer.

Happy Thanksgiving!

SWOOPING IN FOR A COOT SNACK – Eagles in Garrett County are on the prowl this time of the year for whatever variety of migrating [illegible]d happens to be taking a break on the surface of Deep Creek Lake. [illegible] Versteegen watched the eagle try to grab one of these traveling [illegible]rican coots. Versteegen said this is the third year in a row he has [illegible]tched the eagles go after this particular water fowl. He has seen [illegible] eagles catch large fish, and one time did witness the great bird flying off with a coot. This year the eagle was unsuccessful. "It tried unsuccessfully for about 45 minutes. After 15 minutes it sat in a tree along the shore, resting, and looking for about 10 minutes," Versteegen said. "At one time it dove after a coot, but missed it, and then sat in the water like a duck for about three minutes before taking off again." The great bird eventually gave up and moved on. Versteegen said the photo was taken from his deck with a 300mm lens. Another bird will be "enjoyed" this week by millions of Americans — the turkey, which Benjamin Franklin thought should be the country's official bird instead of the one shown here. To all our readers we wish a very happy Thanksgiving.

A PREVIEW OF THINGS TO COME – The Maryland State Highway Administration is prepared for anything Mother Nature may have in store this winter, according Charlie Gischlar, SHA Communications. The administration has stockpiled tons of abrasives and deicing materials, has hundreds of snow plows at the ready, and will implement a new proactive anti-icing strategy involving salt brine and an organic material called "beet juice." See story. The Keyser's Ridge SHA garage crews may soon get a chance to try out that plan, as snow is in the forecast this Friday. But, hopefully, the white stuff won't be nearly the amount pictured above, as residents are still reeling from the more than 260 inches of snow that fell on the county last winter. ## Schedule Is Announced For 12th Annual Joy Of Christ Celebration

The 12th annual Joy of Christ Celebration is scheduled for Monday–Friday, Dec. 6–10, at the Oakland Community Center. This event is free to the general public, and each evening features multiple-Christmas themed performances by local, regional, and national artists.

"There's no excuse for not coming," said event organizer Paul Browning, "as admission, a meal, children's activities, and even the performers' albums are provided by sponsoring businesses and churches."

The goal of the event is to provide the community with a non-denominational break from the commercialism of Christmas by focusing on the birth of Christ through free concerts, activities, and community interaction.

There will be at least three concerts each evening. (See schedule.)

Among the groups will be the Garrett Highlands Pipes & Drums. The band has been performing in concert and parade for over 30 years throughout the region.

"You are invited to attend and learn why it is believed that the shepherds at the time of Jesus' birth may have played bagpipes," Browning said.

Frostburg State University professor Dr. Greg Latta, a multi-instrumentalist and singer/songwriter, will also perform. He is an award-winning banjo player, a three-time winner of the Mid-Eastern U.S. hammered dulcimer champion, and two-time runner-up in the National Hammered Dulcimer Championships held at Winfield, Kansas.

Latta performs an eclectic mix of Irish, traditional and contemporary folk, Broadway, bluegrass, and original music. His diverse performances have included a private performance for the Hungarian Presidential Cabinet, and performances at the U.S. Olympic Canoeing and Kayaking Trials, the Rocky Gap Country Bluegrass Festival, the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, numerous school performances, and a performance with the prestigious modern dance company Dance Alloy of Pittsburgh.

Vocalist Sharon Honsaker has been singing publicly since she was a child. She performs mostly at regional churches and hymn-sings. She lives in Masontown, Pa., with her husband Darwin and son Ryan.

Also scheduled to perform is Just 4 Fun, a group that formed in 2004. This quartet has participated in annual shows and provided

Extension Educator Offers Advice To Landowners Before Leasing To Drillers

by Glenn Tolbert

Since 2007, more than 100,000 of Garrett County acres have been quietly leased for natural gas production, since the new process now commonly referred to as fracking provides a method of harvesting natural gas from the Marcellus shale that is sitting underneath much of the county.

The stakes can be very high. National media report that the type of drilling about to occur here can bring individual landowners anywhere from $5 to $2,000 per acre.

"I don't think that anyone here is getting that high-end money," said Mikal Zimmerman, who should know. Working through the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, it is her job to advise landowners who are approached by representatives of natural gas companies.

Zimmerman's advice is fairly straightforward to anyone finding a natural gas rep knocking on their door: "Do your research," she said. "Talk to your neighbors and see what they've been offered. Do something that I call 'unification,' which is seeing if you can put your properties together to negotiate a lease jointly and have one drill site for all of the properties."

Zimmerman also advocates having an attorney look over any would-be final agreement before signing it.

The fact that Garrett County is about to become a large producer of natural gas was the topic of a meeting last Thursday night, held at Route 40 Elementary School. Nearly 100 people attended, with their primary reason for doing so perhaps best summarized by local resident Natalie Atherton: "I'm here because I want to learn about what impact natural gas drilling can have on our drinking water, rivers, and lakes," she said.

Atherton went on to argue that the permitting process should be slowed until any potential damage done by the drilling can be studied.

That seemed to be the theme of Thursday's meeting: "Not enough is known, and we need more study."

There were no representatives of Chief Oil and Gas present, the company that is ready to begin drilling in the Friendsville area, and nu-

Northern Student Wins Maryland Sculpture Contest

A local student created the "Best Overall" sculpture in the ninth annual state "Rethink Recycling" Sculpture Contest, held last Friday in Baltimore, the Garrett County Solid Waste and Recycling Division and GC Arts Council has announced. The event was sponsored by the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE).

Josh Tichinel, an 11th grade student at Northern High School, took home the grand prize, a 64G Apple iPad, for his creation titled "Canagator." The alligator was crafted from more than 700 green aluminum soda cans.

The category winners, who received Nook eReaders, are as follows: Creativity – Justin Femiano, South Carroll High School, Carroll County; Workmanship – Lizelle Roose, Century High School, Carroll County; Use of Materials – Jasmine Elberfeld, Century

SHA Ready For Winter Operations; Will Introduce "Pro-Active" Strategy

The Keyser's Ridge garage of the Maryland State Highway Administration is ready for the snow forecast for Garrett County on Friday, according Charlie Gischlar, SHA Communications, Baltimore.

"We're totally ready for anything Mother Nature sends us," Gischlar said.

Western Maryland – Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties –received an average of 156 inches of snow last winter. Garrett County alone, however, received more than 260 inches.

Currently, there are 7 tons of rock and solar (sodium chloride) salt at the ready in the three SHA "salt barns" located in Garrett County. Statewide, there are 340,000 tons of the materials in 96 barns. Gischlar noted that SHA will try to restock those supplies after every storm.

Statewide, SHA also has 35,000 tons of abrasives (sand, etc.), 60 tons of calcium chloride, 675,000 gallons of salt brine, 50,000 gallons of magnesium chloride, 4,500 gallons of potassium acetate (used in automated bridge anti-icing systems), and 30,000 gallons of Geo Melt 55 at the ready for the 2010-2011 winter season.

Gischlar also reported that SHA will introduce a new "proactive" anti-icing strategy in Garrett County and elsewhere in the state this winter. Prior to or at the onset of snow, SHA crews will spray salt brine (liquid sodium chloride) on I-68, Rt. 219, and Rt. 40 in order to prevent snow and ice from bonding to the pavement.

Gischlar noted that motorists may be alarmed or puzzled to see crews spray what appears to be water on the road. But this brine has a freeze point of -6° F. It costs approximately seven cents per gallons to produce.

The fairly new product called Geo Melt 55, a de-

A COMMUNITY PULLING TOGETHER – The Accident Community Planning Group – with the support of local churches, the local library, Accident Elementary School, and Thrivent Financial – put together 25 Thanksgiving baskets for individuals and families in the Accident community. Pictured, left to right, are Barb Speicher, George Haenftling, Barb Fike, George Lander, and Joyce Lander filling the boxes, which were distributed throughout the community on Saturday. "Each year the Accident Community Planning Group sponsors this event, and each year it continues to grow," said Sharon Custer, prevention specialist, Garrett County Health Department. "What a good feeling to be able to take food to those in the community." Activities of community planning groups are supported in part by funds from the Health Department to promote healthy living and prevent risky behaviors.

"CANAGATOR" WINS GRAND PRIZE – Northern High School junior Josh Tichinel won the grand prize in Baltimore during last Friday's state "Rethink Recycling" Sculpture Contest for his "Canagator," an alligator made of more than 700 soda cans and other recyclable items. The contest was sponsored by the Maryland Department of the Environment, and Josh received an iPad from MDE Secretary Shari Wilson for his efforts. See story for details. Pictured above, left to right, are Bailey Umbel, Josh with his iPad, NHS student/contestant Bayley Smoot, Alec Smoot, and Dillon Russell. ## Half Of Garrett County Youth Feel That Marijuana Is Risky

According to the Garrett County Health Department, a recent survey of area youth revealed that 52 percent of high school seniors believe that they are at moderate or severe risk of harming themselves if they smoke marijuana regularly. That number has decreased over 20 percent since 2004. "This seems to be a huge drop," stated Lucia Barger, a data analyst from the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families.

The same survey revealed a higher percentage (68) of the same group believe smoking more than one pack of cigarettes puts a person at moderate or severe risk of harming oneself. This may indicate that local students are getting the Health Department's message about the negative consequences of cigarette use, but not its message concerning the negative effects of smoking marijuana.

As Kendra Todd, the director of health education at the Health Department, pointed out, "One of the reasons the perception of risk related to marijuna use among youth has decreased may be the inconsistent messages they are getting about marijuana use from the media, friends, family, and even authority figures—especially the messages about the legalization of marijuana."

"As a public health official, I am very concerned that the public has confused the debate over so-called medical marijuana with the actual public health threat of marijuana use," stated Bob Stephens of the Health Department, while discussing the 2009 National Survey of Drug Use and Health. "Marijuana is a gateway drug, and the fact remains that youth who use marijuana before age 14 are six times more likely to meet the criteria for past year illicit drug abuse and dependence than those who begin using after age 18."

Clara Shockly, an addictions therapist with the Garrett County Center for Behavioral Health, agreed. "I have seen more lives ruined by marijuana use than any other substance," she said.

"In the progression of drug abuse, a person usually starts out with marijuana or alcohol use, which begins to change the brain chemistry, and in turn often leads to addiction to other substances," said Kathy Beals, clinical supervisor for the Center for Behavioral Health. "Many of our clients say marijuana is no big deal and want to fall back on using it when they are in treatment for harder substances like heroin and cocaine. This is a big problem because these clients are never really clean and more frequently relapse."

Studies show marijuana use is on the rise both locally and nationally, and the Garrett County Drug Free Communities Coalition is attempting to address some of these problems by focusing many prevention activities on marijuana this year. The coalition is concerned because marijuana use, especially among youth, is considered a forerunner of larger drug problems in a community.

Persons interested in the work of the Drug Free Communities Coalition may receive information on activities and meeting dates by calling 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111.

Drivers Charged With DUI, DWI By GC Deputies

Garrett County sheriff's deputies made two arrests this week involving drinking and driving charges. The following incidents are unrelated.

Briana Nikol Garlitz, 24, Grantsville, was reportedly stopped on National Pike for speeding last Wednesday. Following an investigation, she was charged with driving under the influence, DUI per se, and driving while impaired.

In a separate incident, deputies responded to Mtn. Lake Park for a reported hit-and-run accident on Sunday. The suspected vehicle was later located at the Oakland Wal-Mart. It was revealed that Joshua Jay Freeland, 22, Terra Alta, W.Va., had been operating a 2008 Dodge Ram in Mtn. Lake Park, when he struck two parked vehicles. He then reportedly fled the scene.

He was subsequently charged with DUI, DUI per se, DWI by drugs, alcohol, or drugs and alcohol, controlled dangerous substance (CDS) possession of marijuana, CDS possession not marijuana, and CDS possession of paraphernalia. He was taken into custody to await a bond hearing.

Juvenile Taken To Hospital Following Vehicle Accident

A Grantsville juvenile was transported to the Western Maryland Regional Health Center in Cumberland Tuesday following a single-vehicle accident on I-68.

The 17-year-old Grantsville driver of a 2001 Ford Focus was traveling west on I-68, when the vehicle failed to negotiate the curve on Exit 14A, Keyser's Ridge. The vehicle hit a drainage ditch and became disabled. The juvenile transported was the passenger of the car.

Maryland State Police and Northern Rescue Squad responded to the 8 a.m. scene.

Steering Problem Causes Single-Vehicle Accident

Garrett County sheriff's deputies are investigating a single-vehicle accident that occurred on Upperman Road, south of Deer Park.

Anita Janette Rhodes, Garrett County, had been traveling east, when the vehicle's steering component reportedly failed, causing the car to cross the westbound lane and hit a retaining wall. The vehicle rolled and came to rest on the passenger side.

Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department and Southern Rescue Squad also responded to the scene.

New Grants To Benefit Garrett Streams, Rivers

Gov. Martin O'Malley announced recently that the Board of Public Works has approved a total of $46,332.18 in agricultural cost-share grants in five counties, including Garrett County, for 11 new water quality projects. The projects are meant to prevent soil erosion, manage nutrients, and safeguard water quality in streams, rivers, and the Chesapeake Bay.

According to the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the efforts across the five counties will prevent approximately 749 pounds of nitrogen, 66 pounds of phosphorus, and 163 tons of soil from entering the bay and its tributaries.

The MDA states that in Garrett County the $1,404.38 granted for fencing will provide an estimated nutrient reduction of 34.16 pounds of nitrogen and 4.58 pounds of phosphorus from entering local waterways that eventually make it to the Chesapeake.

These projects are funded by state general obligation bonds and are not part of the MDA's general fund budget allocation.

"Farmers have consistently gone above and beyond to help improve the quality of our bay and these cost-share grants help them continue to do their part to protect natural resources for future generations, preserve open space, and maintain the rich agricultural heritage of our state," mentioned Gov. O'Malley.

For the past 25 years, the Maryland Agricultural Water Quality Cost-Share Program has been providing farmers with grants to cover up to 87.5 percent of the cost to install conservation measures known as best management practices, or BMPs, on their farms.

Since the program started in 1984, farmers have spent over $14 million of their own money in combination with more than $100 million in state and federal funds to install over 20,000 water quality BMPs.

For a summary of the recent grants, those interested may visit www.mda.state.md.us/pdf-/11-17-10-_bpw_macs.pdf.

MLP Man Arrested Following Traffic Stop In Oakland

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested a Mtn. Lake Park man last Wednesday following a traffic stop on Hutton Road, Oakland.

Deputies stopped a 1989 Ford Bronco for inoperable taillights. Investigation revealed that the driver, Robert Vincent Miller, 35, was driving on a suspended Maryland license, for which he was charged. He was released after signing his citation.

Second W.Va. Man Charged In Area Burglary

A second West Virginia man has been arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in connection with a Kitzmiller burglary.

Forum Scheduled On Health Care Reform's impact

A forum to explain the impact health care reform will have on rural citizens, communities, and businesses will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 14, at five locations in the state from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Those locations are the Garrett County Health Department, Oakland; University of Maryland 4-H Center, College Park; Eastern Shore Higher Education Center at Chesapeake College, Wye Mills; Wor-Wic Community College, Salisbury; and College of Southern Maryland, Prince Frederick.

Each location will have its own facilitators and conduct its own discussion.

"Our goal is not to endorse or oppose the federal Affordable Care Act," said Dr. Bonnie Braun, University of Maryland Extension specialist, endowed chair and director of the Herschel S. Horowitz Center for Health Literacy, and chair of the Rural Maryland Council. "Our goal is to explain the law so Marylanders can respond knowledgeably. This is a very lengthy bill. We want to make sure that rural residents throughout the state understand what the law says so they understand how the law could impact their personal and professional lives."

The statewide forum is sponsored by the University of Maryland School of Public Health, Hershel S. Horowitz Center for Health Literacy, University of Maryland Extension, the Rural Maryland Council, and the Maryland Rural Health Association. It is made possible by a USDA Rural Health and Safety Grant.

There is no fee to attend any of the five forums, but registration is required by Tuesday, Dec. 7. For more information, a complete agenda, or to register, persons may visit rural.state.md.us.

Goodness Wins...

Because the negative things in life seem to draw more attention, it is good to at least occasionally spend a few minutes pondering and appreciating the huge number of good things – of blessings – that most of us have, but take for granted much of the time.

We often express and hear various lamentations about life in Garrett County – how it's too rural, it's too cold, it's too far away from the cities, that there's "not enough to do," that there aren't enough good jobs, that everyone knows "your business," etc., etc. Some of these criticisms are perhaps legitimate, but when one begins to make a list of the wonderful things about life in Garrett County, the negatives are quickly trumped.

Garrett County is among the most beautiful locations in the country. We have a relatively clean environment. We have just about every kind of recreation one can imagine. We have excellent schools. We have a low crime rate. We have outstanding health care. We have, in general, a financially healthy county government. We have an excellent system of roads. We have a fascinating, colorful history. We have numerous active, volunteer service organizations. We have many churches. We have much to offer in the area of artistic expression and creativity.

Perhaps most importantly, we have a community of generous people who care about each other; people who give and give – often beyond their means – to address the needs, pain, and suffering of others. Life can be so difficult at times, but it is truly wonderful that there are so many fine people around who will reach down and pick us up when we haven't the strength to do so ourselves.

Undoubtedly there are other items that can be added to both of these lists, but it stills seems that the goodness of life in Garrett County easily outweighs the negatives. Thus, as we gather around our dining tables, it seems that there is indeed much for which we can and should be thankful.

(P.S. Apologies to all of those linguists out there for using the word "libel" in last week's editorial, when it should have been "liable." The writer really does know the difference.)

Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

Now that the play The Little Foxes is over, it is time for Our Town Theatre to get its act together for the next production, which will be presented in late January. Tentatively scheduled (weather permitting) for January 28, 29, and 30, the production will be a collection of scenes and monologues from ancient Greek plays which we will call It's Greek to Me! Auditions are scheduled for November 29 and 30 from 7 to 9 p.m., or by special appointment which can be made by calling Jane at 301-334-5640, ext. 3.

The main purpose of It's Greek to Me! is to expose our local audiences and actors to some of the most famous literature the world has ever experienced. We will explain different scenes and monologues, as well as present them, and we will show how the roots of dramatic presentation were established 2,500 years ago. To do this, we will need to establish a company of actors of ages 16 and above; some may want a tiny walk-on; some may wish to tackle a monologue or scene – all will be important to the production, which will be compiled for the number and ages of the actors.

We will be rehearsing piecemeal, which means that the actors will only need to show up for an hour or two a week – whatever works in their schedule – for most of the rehearsal period. The final week before the production will involve the entire cast in evening rehearsals.

If you are a fan of Greek literature, if you've always wanted to try your hand at acting, or if the winter doldrums make you want to spruce up your life with some interesting activity, please join us at auditions for It's Greek to Me!

Sincerely yours,
Jane B. Avery

To the Editor:

I want to extend my thanks to you for your several thoughtful editorials on the unknowns and the dangers of drilling into the Marcellus shale. I think there are more of them than are being publicly discussed.

I attended the meeting at the Friendsville Town Hall last week run by Chief Gas and Oil and attended by our representatives, Sen. Edwards and Rep. Beitzel. We were inundated with assurances that all would be just fine, that this is Maryland, not Pennsylvania, and that the Maryland DOE (Department of the Environment) will make sure that nothing bad happens. I am still not convinced that nothing will happen to my water supply once the drilling begins on the two ridges on either side of my valley.

In addition, I started checking on the Internet about drilling and was appalled to see the number of gas well fires that have occurred in Pennsylvania. Is Garrett County ready to handle a major gas fire? Have any emergency preparations been considered for residents in the neighborhoods of these well sites? And what are the short- and long-term public health consequences of this amount of drilling? Are we ready for this?

Sincerely,
Marilyn Moors
Friendsville

To the Editor:

Something must be in the air! Either Mr. Sincell has gotten wise in his old age or I have. I'm not sure which; probably both. Incredibly, I find myself in total agreement with his editorials, particularly the one about the shenanigans in the recent election but, more important, his perception of the shenanigans surrounding Marcellus shale.

First, let me say that this is not a "sour grapes" letter. I think of myself as a winner because I accomplished what I set out to do. Education, Marcellus shale, and zoning are being discussed publicly, and that's a good thing. As to how those issues are handled by the newly elected commissioners, that's another matter. I voted for Jim and Gregan. Bob didn't get my vote because, well, I decided to vote for myself.

Heretofore, the people have been virtually shut out of the decision-making process. Hopefully, that is about to change.

School closings have been discussed behind closed doors at school board meetings. The zoning issue has been misrepresented and misunderstood. Until very recently, shale has been a non-issue.

At the meeting at Route 40 Elementary School, I advised the commissioners-elect to make this a priority item and begin having well-publicized meetings to get input from the people. I got an enthusiastic applause. After the meeting I spoke with one of the commissioners-elect, who said that he would have to discuss it with the committee first. Now I'm thinking, "What committee?" but didn't respond because I also thought, "Oh no! Here we go again." I hope that I misunderstood.

The same person commented that it sounded like I was now supporting county-wide zoning. I am opposed to county-wide zoning! There are enough laws, rules, and regulations on the books to address almost any situation. Anyone who has ever had to have a well drilled can tell you all of the steps that you have to go through to get approval. And that's for a little water well! The same process should be applied to any well, including gas wells. The problem has been that the existing laws have either been circumvented, totally ignored, or treated as "an exception" for various and sundry reasons.

We have a new beginning, so to speak. It is now time for the people to (in quoting one of the people attending the meeting) "get up off your #*&" and demand the change that we deserve."

George Falter

To the Editor:

Thanks to the Savage River Watershed Association for the information meeting on Marcellus shale drilling last Thursday. It was well attended, demonstrating the seriousness of the issue and concerns of county residents. We heard extremely troubling information about the potential environmental damage that can result from such unregulated drilling. Before drilling proceeds in a matter of months, there must be procedures to minimize risk of environmental damage and mechanisms to hold drilling companies accountable when there is damage.

Your November 18 editorial highlighted a troubling sequence of events. When the public meeting was announced, one drilling company organized an invitation-only meeting for land owners at exactly the same time. It is even more troubling that our Annapolis representatives, who voted for pro-drilling legislation, attended the behind-closed-doors, invitation-only meeting organized by the drilling company.

Thanks to the initiative of some Garrett residents, the meeting was forced to be an open meeting. Apparently, the representatives of our fire and police services invited to the closed-door meeting decided not to participate in the pubic meeting. Why is that?

These are a disturbing set of events, but I left the meeting feeling cautiously hopeful for two reasons. First, there was a number of land owners attending the public meeting to learn about fracking and the potential impact it could have on the entire community. After the meeting, several were talking about learning everything they could about the process and the potential environmental damage to their own land, to their neighbors' land, and ultimately to all citizens in the county. They are aware that they are part of a greater community and their actions impact their neighbors. Thank you.

Let's find a way for individuals to make money from their land, without destroying the property rights of their neighbors and possibly turning Garrett County into a wasteland, uninhabitable because of drinking water polluted by chemicals and salt.

Second, all three of the newly elected county commissioners attended this public meeting. They demonstrated their commitment to learning about this issue. It will be the most critical issue they deal with over the next four years; the very future of the county is in their hands. They also saw the concern of their neighbors about this issue. There is a sliver of hope our county government might address the public interests of all citizens, and not just the special interests of a privileged few.

Sincerely,
Michael Bell

To the Editor:

Wind energy comes at a very high price. Hopes and dollars are being wasted on this technology, because wind-energy plants cannot generate power on-demand or on a human-defined schedule. The reason is that wind speed varies over time. Small variations in wind speed lead to significant variations in electric power production.

When developers tell the public that their plant will provide electricity for so many homes and businesses, one needs to know whether they are talking about nameplate capacity or average capacity. Even under optimum wind speeds, wind-energy plants seldom produce at 100%. Every wind turbine has a range of wind speeds, typically 30 to 55 mph, at which it will produce at its rated, or maximum, capacity. These wind speeds occur erratically and are unpredictable.

In the best locations, the ratio of the actual output of a power plant over a period of time and its output if it had operated at full nameplate capacity the entire time should be 30-40%. However, the actual capacity factor is often 15-30%. These plants produce little or no power 60% of the time!

Wind plants need to be backed up by conventional power plants (coal, natural gas, oil, or nuclear) to prevent blackouts. During periods of high electrical demand, the probability of power blackouts increases as the fraction of electric power produced from wind increases.

As consumers, we want electricity to be available on demand, 24/7. Wind power is not dependable. Unless it is backed up by other energy sources, blackouts will occur. Fossil fuels are often consumed to back up wind energy. Wind is simply a fuel saver for conventional power plants, but because of the high cost of the wind generators, it is a losing proposition economically.

Tax incentives and subsidies have been critica' in the growth of the wind-generation industry. Little wind energy would be installed today without these generous government subsidies; in other words, your tax dollars! Wind is inherently an uneconomic electric energy source. It is not a viable energy program, but essentially a tax play. Why would rational consumers pay taxes to promote more expensive and unreliable electric power?

The money being paid out for leases and utility taxes on wind-energy plants is coming out of your wallet or purse. Are scenic beauty, natural environment, and people's health and happiness in western Maryland worth the sacrifice? It is time for a moratorium on building more wind "farms."

To the Editor:

I am breaking with our PAWS tradition of writing a thank-you letter during the Christmas season, and instead using the Thanksgiving holiday as an opportunity to express our sincere thanks to the generous residents of (and visitors to) Garrett County for their support during the past year.

The PAWS mission is to give financial help to families who want to spay and neuter their pets. I also thank The Republican for its help during the year with our articles and ads.

The only way to effectively address the problem of unwanted and discarded dogs and cats is not to look for ways to save them from the shelters, but to prevent the problem in the first place. That's where spaying and neutering helps.

But too many people who want to prevent their pets from having unwanted litters can't afford the vet bills for the necessary procedures. Between the financial assistance that PAWS provides to eligible families, and the low-cost spay-neuter clinic that HART for Animals runs in McHenry, we truly are making an impact on this problem. In addition, if they prefer, residents can take their pets to any vet in the county, and PAWS will pay for about two-thirds of the cost of the procedure.

More information is available online at www.garrettpaws.org, including how to get a beautiful Christmas tree this season with half of the proceeds going to PAWS.

Last spring we had another successful Passion for Pets Challenge, with help again from local DJ Jonny Rock, who generously volunteered his time and talent, with local restaurants donating tips on special karaoke nights to PAWS. I also thank the small number of hard-working people who volunteer so much time and energy to operate the PAWS programs.

If any of your readers would like to help us this Christmas season to provide assistance to even more Garrett County families, they can send their tax-deductible donations to PAWS, P.O. Box 745, McHenry, MD 21541.

Thank you all again!
Sincerely,
Tom Hertz
President, PAWS

To the Editor:

Perhaps you can relate to this story:

John awoke and climbed out of bed. Yawning, he put on slippers and robe and walked downstairs, muttering about the need to rake the leaves and clean out the gutters. Opening the refrigerator, he pulled out a carton of milk and a container of yogurt, opened the cabinet and pulled out a box of cereal. Clicking on the television, he watched the morning news while munching on Cheerios.

After breakfast, he dropped the dirty bowl and spoon into the dishwasher and climbed the stairs to the bathroom. In the hallway, he stopped and turned the thermostat up before climbing into a warm shower. Twenty minutes later, he was rushing to brush his teeth, squeeze into a pair of pants that seem to shrink with each wear, and drive to work. A day filled with meetings, reports, and conference calls ended, and he walked to the neighborhood restaurant for dinner with friends and neighbors.

That evening, he checked his e-mail and received a request to help a family that were homeless because of a fire, and another request to feed a family in need. He thought about his complaints at dinner about having an "awful" day and realized that he actually had so much for which to be thankful.

His pants are tight because he has enough to eat. He is rushing in the morning because he has a job. His lawn needs raking and his gutters need cleaning because he has a home. He is able to turn up the thermostat to keep warm. He has a neighborhood and he has friends. In a few moments he realized that he had, in fact, had a pretty good day – and year, for that matter.

But 2010 has been challenging for many families throughout our region. A poor economy has robbed many people of their homes, jobs, and basic necessities. This holiday season, please think of your personal blessings and consider helping those less fortunate right here in your community.

Your gift to United Way is more powerful than you can imagine, and your dollars go to work right here where you live, addressing major needs in our community. Send a tax-deductible contribution or pledge to United Way of Garrett County, P.O. Box 394, Oakland, MD 21550.

Mary Beth Pirolozzi
Executive Director
United Way

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to the county commissioners requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Commissioners:

I have written you and many other elected officials on several occasions in the recent past about Garrett County residents not being able to receive Washington, D.C./Baltimore/Maryland area TV stations. I would like to inform you that today I received a very nice letter from Senator Barbara Mikulski. In her letter, she wrote:

"I am in receipt of your most recent correspondence concerning receiving Baltimore and Washington area TV stations in Garrett County. In response to your concern, I have requested that FCC chairman Julius Genachowski review this issue. I have taken the liberty of forwarding him a copy of your correspondence and signed petitions so that he will know the precise concerns of the residents of Garrett County.

"I have also requested that Mr. Genachowski respond to you directly, providing me with a copy. Thank you again for bringing this to my attention."

The "most recent correspondence" that Senator Mikulski is referring to was collectively sent to her, Senator Cardin, Congressman Bartlett, Senator Edwards, Delegate Beitzel, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, and to you. To date, I have heard back only from Senator Mikulski.

I also continue to receive copies of the petition with signatures from the residents of Garrett County. As of this date, I have over 500 signatures on petitions, and I am aware that there are many additional petitions out there with many more signatures on them.

If you have not done so already, I sincerely hope that you, as well as our other elected officials, will take appropriate action that will result in all of the Garrett County residents being able to receive the Washington, D.C./Baltimore/Maryland area TV stations, in addition to those we already receive. After all, we are residents of Maryland.

Sincerely,
Charles N. Hoffeditz, Ph.D.

Maryland Travel Mirrors Nationwide Intentions For Thanksgiving Holiday

As with Americans across the country, more Marylanders are projected to travel for this Thanksgiving compared to the number during last year's holiday, according to AAA Mid-Atlantic. Nearly 850,000 Marylanders are expected to take a trip of at least 50 miles away from home for the Thanksgiving holiday, an 11.8 percent increase from 2009. The Thanksgiving holiday travel period is defined as Wednesday, Nov. 24 to Sunday, Nov. 28.

"As the economy appears to inch its way on a path to recovery nationally and locally, the outlook for Thanksgiving travel is bright this year," said Ragina C. Averella, manager of public and government affairs at AAA Mid-Atlantic. "Many Marylanders seem to be in a better financial position this holiday than they were a year ago, and as a result, are more confident to travel this holiday, especially given the underlying desire to be with family and friends."

Automobile Travel Projected to Increase by Double Digits

As is traditional for the Thanksgiving holiday, trips by automobile will be the dominant mode of transportation for holiday travel, with 95 percent of the state's travelers, or nearly 811,000 people, forecast to drive to their destination, which reflects a 12.2 percent increase from last Thanksgiving's figures.

"Although Maryland's average price at the pump is 26 cents higher than last year, the rise in fuel prices is not sizable enough to discourage travel, especially since the increase is expected to be offset by the somewhat healthier economic position of households this holiday relative to last year," said Averella. "By nature, car travel is often more affordable, more convenient, and allows for greater flexibility, which will likely minimize the increase at the pump in the minds of many travelers this year."

Maryland's current average price for gasoline is $2.87 per gallon.

Air Travel Expected to Increase Slightly

Air travel generally accounts for a smaller share of total travel and is expected to account for slightly over 3 percent of overall travel, with nearly 29,000 Marylanders flying, an increase of 3.7 percent over last year.

"Improvement in the economy has led to increased travel demand, and as a result, airlines have been able to slowly increase capacity after nearly two years of reduced volume," Averella said. "However, the increased demand for travel is also driving up the price for air travel, so holiday travelers will face higher average air fares compared to last year."

Airfares over Thanksgiving are expected to increase 4 percent on average from last year.

Trips by other modes, including rail, bus, and watercraft, will be the primary means of travel used by only 1 percent of all travelers, with usage of these modes projected to remain flat compared to last Thanksgiving's figures.

Median Spending is $601; Average Distance Traveled Expected to Decline

Based on a survey of traveler intentions, the average distance traveled by Marylanders this Thanksgiving holiday is expected to be 938 miles, a 13 percent decline compared to a year ago when the intended average miles to travel was 1,071.

"It appears this year that Marylanders are traveling closer to home, as only 45 percent will be traveling more than 700 miles to their destination, compared to 59 percent in that category last year," Averella said.

Median spending for the holiday trip is expected to be $601. Last year's survey reported average spending by Marylanders at $796 per trip. Thanksgiving travel tends to be less expensive compared to other travel holidays because of its emphasis on visiting family and friends, as well as the Thanksgiving meal. A majority of survey respondents (78 percent) reported that the main purpose of their upcoming trip is to visit with friends or family.

AAA's projections are based on economic forecasting and research by IHS Global Insight. The Boston-based economic research and consulting firm teamed with AAA in 2009 to jointly analyze travel trends during the major holidays. AAA has been reporting on holiday travel trends for more than two decades.

AAA Mid-Atlantic is based in Wilmington, Del., and serves nearly 4 million members.

SHA Ready

sugared sugar beet molasses, may be blended with the brine. The mixture will be used in Prince George's, Montgomery, Anne Arundel, Charles, Calvert, St. Mary's, Washington, and Allegany counties. SHA will also continue to use the product where it was piloted last year in Howard and Frederick counties.

Also known as "beet juice," this organic material lowers the freezing point of the brine to –30° F. It also enables the brine to adhere to bridges and road surfaces better and for longer periods of time, which will extend the brine's effectiveness.

Gischlar stressed that wildlife is not attracted to the molasses, as the product is not very pleasant smelling and contains no sugar.

Manufactured by SNI Solutions Inc. of Geneseo, Ill, Geo Melt 55 has been used for winter operations for nearly 10 years in other states, including Virginia, New Jersey, Illinois, Ohio, Iowa, and Washington, D.C. According to SHA, the light brown material is environmentally safe, costs $1.60 per gallon, and does not stain roadway surfaces.

SHA has added three new salt brine producing machines for this winter, for a total of 11, and has increased salt brine storage to 66 locations throughout Maryland.

The administration has eight truck-mounted liquid applicator spray tanks that will spread the brine or brine/beet juice blend on the pavement.

In addition to its fleet of salt spreading/snow plowing dump trucks, SHA will deploy 550 truck-mounted saddle tanks. This equipment is used to pre-wet salt with salt brine or liquid magnesium as the salt is spread on highways. According to Gischlar, pre-wetting salt helps it adhere to the pavement (reducing waste), go into the brine solution quicker (making salt more effective), and work at lower temperatures.

"Nearly all of SHA's fleet of single-axle dump trucks are equipped with this technology," he said.

To help move snow, SHA has 69 wing plows. A wing plow is an additional plow mounted on the right side of a plow truck or grader. The extra plow allows crews to clear more snow from the road and should, in one pass, increase efficiency.

Citizens may call 1-800-327-3125 for general winter highway conditions during winter storms. They can also log on to roads.-maryland.gov and click "Contact us." There is an online submission form to report any issues pertaining to SHA-maintained highways.

The SHA emergency operations number is 410-582-5630, and the MdTA (toll roads and bridges) number is 410-537-1234.

GROUNDBREAKING HELD FOR NEW BANK – Clear Mountain Bank staff and board members, supporters, and local officials broke ground last Thursday for the construction of a new banking office along Garrett Highway at the former Garrett County Roads Department site in Oakland. "We're excited to officially break ground on our new Oakland office," said Brian F. Thomas, Clear Mountain president and CEO. "Our new facility will provide more convenience and improved access for our customers." Construction of the new office is expected to be completed in September of 2011. The facility will include 10,000 square feet of space on two stories, with an expanded customer service area, five banking offices, and five teller windows. The building will feature extensive stone and glass throughout, a fireplace, and a community conference room located on the second floor. Upon completion, the new bank will replace Clear Mountain's current, smaller Oakland office located at 12599 Garrett Highway. Left to right are Jeff Gosnell, Gosnell Inc.; Thomas; Garrett County commissioner Fred Holliday; Nicole Christian, president/CEO Garrett County Chamber of Commerce; Oakland mayor Peggy Jamison; Garrett County commissioner Ernie Gregg; and Jonna Frazee, Clear Mountain Bank branch manager.

Do not stand at my grave and weep...
I am not there. I do not sleep.
I am a thousand winds that blow,
I am the diamond glints on snow.
I am the sunlight on ripened grain,
I am the gentle autumn's rain.
When you awake in the morning's hush
I am the swift uplifting rush
Of quiet birds in circled flight.
I am the soft star that shines at night.
Do not stand at my grave and cry...
I am not there. I did not die.

Garrett Co. Realtor Receives Nationally Recognized Award

Sandi Flockhart, sales associate with Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, has been awarded the Accredited Buyer's Representation designation by the Real Estate Buyer's Agent Council in association with the National Association of Realtors.

Flockhart joins more than 30,000 North American real estate professionals who have earned the ABR designation. All were required to successfully complete a comprehensive course in buyer representation and an elective course focusing on a buyer representation specialty. The eligible real estate agents also submitted documentation verifying professional experience.

"Although this desig-nation is highly respected, there are very few ABRs serving Garrett County," said Ruth Seib, broker for Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Reality. "Buyers who are interested in working with an agent who is trained to look out for their best interests appreciate the opportunity to work with Sandi."

REBAC, founded in 1988, is the world's largest association of real estate professionals focusing specifically on representing the real estate buyer. There are more than 40,000 active members of the organization world wide. The NAR is the world's largest professional realtor association, representing over 1,000,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.

Aurora Celtic To Perform At OTT's Christmas Market

Aurora Celtic will be among the musicians playing for Our Town Theatre's fourth annual Christmas Market on Saturday, Dec. 4, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at St. Peter's Parish Social Hall in Oakland.

Aurora Celtic, with members Michael Broderick, Alice Fleischman, and Aaron Martin, will perform between 1:45 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. The local group's new CD, Edge of the World, will be sold at the market, along with Fair Trade coffees, teas, and chocolates.

"From the hills of West Virginia, Aurora Celtic plays evocative, energetic traditional music for guitar, fiddle, Irish flute, mandolin, tenor banjo, and pennywhistles that bridges the cultures of Scotland, Ireland, and Appalachia," a band spokesperson said.

The musicians of Aurora Celtic are multi-instrumentalists who have played throughout the Mid-Atlantic states, at the Kennedy Center, and in Europe. All three have played in numerous musical groups with a wide range of styles, such as classical, Appalachian, Celtic, and bluegrass.

Broderick has a master's in music performance and ethnomusicology, and is a prolific composer and arranger, contributing a great deal of original material to the mix. He is the accompanist for St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland, playing organ and piano, among other instruments.

Percussionist Karl Waite, son of member Alice Fleischman, has studied Irish bodhran at the Augusta Heritage Workshops. He provided a wide array of traditional Appalachian and African hand percussion on the Edge of the World CD, the spokesperson noted.

In addition to teaching private students, Fleischman and Broderick have both studied every summer with traditional Irish master teachers at the Augusta Heritage Workshops at Davis and Elkins College, the Swannanoa Gathering at Warren Wilson College in North Carolina, at the Boxwood School in Nova Scotia, Zoukfest in Albuquerque, N.M., and the East Durham Irish Music Camp in New York.

Items available at the market this year will include a wide range of handmade gifts from local artists. Guests may also eat chili and have Fair Trade coffee at the Christmas Cafe, and take home decorated plates of Christmas cookies from the annual OTT Bake Sale.

GCC Band Will Present Holiday Concert Dec. 5

"Christmas in the Mountains" is the title selected for the annual holiday concert of the Garrett Community Concert Band, which will be presented on Sunday, Dec. 5, at 2:30 p.m. (rather than at 2 p.m. as previously reported) in the Garrett College auditorium.

The program will comprise a wide variety of seasonal music, from traditional to classical to jazz to movie medleys, according to Moe Turrentine, conductor. There will also be music with an international flavor, as well as one number in celebration of the Jewish holiday of Hanukkah.

The concert will open with the patriotic number "An American Fanfare" by Rick Kirby, and then immediately "switch gears" with Johann Sebastian Bach's classic "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" chorale from his Cantata #147.

Stan Applebaum's snappy "Toboggan Ride" will follow, after which will be the Mannheim Steamroller's arrangement of "Away in a Manger," featuring Tom Simpson on trumpet. The first half of the program will conclude with a concert suite from the popular Tom Hanks movie The Polar Express.

Another Mannheim Steamroller arrangement of "Carol of the Bells" will start the second half of the concert, and will be followed by a Latin medley titled "A Calypso Christmas." Simpson will perform a trumpet solo in the next number, Douglas Wagner's arrangement of "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas," and concert master/clarinetist Gino Mauricci will be the soloist in Howard Rowe's "Hanukkah, Festival of Lights."

The program will conclude with a jazzy rendition of "Up on the Housetop," arranged by Paul Clark, and a rousing fanfare piece by Robert Longfield titled "And the Mountains Echoed: Gloria!"

Tickets for the concert, which may be purchased at the door, are $8 for adults and $2 for students. Children under age 6 are admitted free of charge. Proceeds go for the purchase of music, supplies, and instruments, and also to help finance the GCC Band's scholarship program, which awards college scholarships annually to area students.

Immediately before the concert, during intermission, and immediately following the Dec. 5 concert, various music-related gift items will be for sale by the band in the GC auditorium lobby.

The GCC Band is a nonprofit group which also receives some funding assistance through the Garrett County Arts Council.

Church Groups, Landon's Library Presenting Play

Landon's Library and several local churches are collaborating to present a children's Christmas play titled The Beginning of the Story.

The story focuses on Mortimer the mouse, who learns about the birth of Jesus Christ and "experiences Christ's love and grace," a spokesperson said. The play includes traditional Christmas hymns and a nativity scene.

The first performance will take place during the monthly Landon's Library play date at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, on Dec. 4 at 11 a.m.

The next performance will take place at St. Paul's United Methodist Church on Dec. 5 at 9:30 a.m. The play will then be a part of the annual Joy of Christ celebration at the Oakland Community Center on Dec. 6 at 6:30 p.m. The final performance will be on Dec. 19 at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Oakland, beginning at 11:15 a.m.

The public is invite to attend any or all performances.

Lakers Roll Over Penn Highlands, But Then Fall To Baltimore City

The men's basketball team of Garrett College Lakers bounced back from its first loss last week by snapping host Penn Highlands' (Johnstown, Pa.) two-game winning streak, as the Lakers coasted to a 93-55 win.

The celebrating was short-lived for Garrett fans, however, because the Lakers then dropped a home Maryland JUCO contest to Baltimore City on Monday, 80-71.

In the lopsided win over Penn Highlands, the Lakers had five players finish in double figures. They were paced by 6-4 wing Jordan Gipson with 17 points, while Kory Gibson connected for 15 points. Vladimir Vukovich, Garrett's 6-8 sophomore center, had a career-high 13 points, along with eight rebounds. Callum Jenkins and Rodney Clark also reached double figures with 12 and 11 points, respectively.

Leading the Lakers' rebounding effort was 6-7 freshman forward Jenkins with 12 boards. Freshman guard Steven Mackay distributed five assists, and Kory Gibson provided four assists and three steals.

Penn Highlands was led in scoring by Devin Richardson, who hit a game-high 20 points., and Tyler Smith with 12 points.

The Lakers held a 42-31 advantage at intermission and were never seriously threatened in the second half, out-scoring the Black Bears by a 51-24 margin in the second half.

The Lakers had a strong start against the 7-1 Panthers of Baltimore City on Monday, as they were up by as many as eight points in the first half, but the visitors led by one point, 33-32, at the break.

The Lakers had an excellent shooting effort from inside the arc, hitting 26 of 46 attempts, but made good on only four of 17 from three-point range and just four of six from the foul line.

The Panthers actually won the contest at the charity stripe, from which they netted 17 of 21.

Clark emerged as Garrett's top scorer, hitting 21 points, while Jenkins and Gipson each finished with 11 points. Jenkins also led the squad in rebounds with eight, and Gipson had four steals.

Brandon Belt and Micah Fraction each drained 22 points for the Panthers, while Kendall Williams and Eric Barksdale each contributed 11 points.

The Panthers took a 10-point (73-63) lead after a layup by Fraction with 4:52 left in the game. Garrett rallied back to get within four, 73-69, with 1:39 left, but BCCC kicked up both its offense and defense for the win.

"We need to run our offense more consistently and force the refs to give us some fouls down low or in the traps they were setting for us," said GC head coach Dennis Gibson. "We can get better, but we have to buy into what we are doing as a team."

The 3-2 Lakers will return to action next Wednesday at Harford CC.

The undefeated Catamounts of Potomac State (5-0) took control of Friday's game quickly and never looked back, as Chelsea Holcomb finished with 21 points to pace the offense. Twelve of her total came on four three-point shots.

The visitors jumped out to a 17-1 lead in the opening minutes before the Lakers went on an eight-point run. PSC held a 29-19 advantage at halftime, and then outscored the Lakers by 46-24 margin in the second half.

Offers Advice

merous phone calls to the company were not returned.

In fact, the company held its own invitation-only meeting at Friendsville Town Hall at exactly the same time the meeting at Rt. 40 school was conducted.

The new technology used to extract natural gas from shale involves sending a drill bit and pipe down into the earth approximately 8,000 feet, through the water table. The drilling mechanism allows the operator to drill horizontally far and wide from the drill site on the surface. The drilling companies claim that since it is operating so deep, there is little chance of harm to the water table. The fracking process, which involves pumping water and toxic chemicals under extreme pressure, frees the natural gas hidden in the shale, and the gas is then brought to the surface. The fracking liquid is then retrieved and placed in holding tanks.

The Marcellus shale layer is enormous, and natural gas companies claim that it contains enough gas to provide an adequate supply for the nation for the next 20 years. The Marcellus shale layer can be found under the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, and Virginia. The first drilling in Garrett County is set for the Finzel area; however, as yet no permits have been granted by the state of Maryland.

According to the Chief Oil and Gas web site, the company hires contractors and employees from the areas around its operations, thus providing jobs to many economically depressed areas in the aforementioned states.

The Garrett County commissioners recently appointed a gas drilling task force that has begun meeting and discussing what steps should be taken to guarantee safety to the local environment.

Landowners seeking advice on this subject are invited to contact Mikal Zimmerman by telephone at 301-334-6960 or by e-mail at mzimmer8@umd.edu.

Rabid Skunk

puppies.

The skunk was found in the puppies' pen on October 23. The property owners killed the skunk and notified Health Department personnel.

The skunk was sent to the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Rabies Laboratory in Baltimore and tested positive for the rabies virus. Environmental Health Services was notified on Nov. 5 of the positive results.

The puppies were younger than 3 months of age, the minimum age for rabies vaccination, and were not currently vaccinated. The owners of the dogs decided to euthanize them rather than place them in the required double cage quarantine for six months. There was no human exposure in this case, according to the Health Department.

As reported in The Republican on Oct. 28, another rabid skunk was found in the Oakland area on Oct. 13. This skunk also entered a pen containing three puppies that had just reached 3 months of age and had not yet been vaccinated for rabies. The owners of these puppies also decided to euthanize rather than quarantine them.

"The public is, once again, reminded to verify the vaccination status of their dogs, cats, and ferrets," said a spokesman. "The Health Department will not hold low cost rabies clinics again until spring of 2011. Pet owners need to contact local veterinarians to obtain protection for their animals."

He added that, as always, should there be an incident involving wild animals, property owners are directed not to touch surfaces that could be contaminated with saliva or spinal fluid for two hours after an incident. Should pets need to be handled, gloves should be used.

Persons having questions regarding rabies are asked to call Environmental Health Services at 301-334-7760.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Some of my most treasured memories involve Thanksgiving since I come from a large, very close extended family; especially my father's Glotfelty family, since my grandparents still lived on their home place. They built a new house very close to the site of the old Beachy School, at the end of our big hayfield, during the 1950s.

Emma and Oral raised their children in that old house. I guess it dated back to the end of the 19th century or very early 20th century, but it didn't have indoor plumbing. There was an outhouse, and also a free-flowing spring down a hill from the old house. That was the most worrisome aspect of my grandmother's life as the mother of little children. When one of them was out of sight, she had to rush down to the spring to make sure he/she did not fall into it.

The farm I grew up on was always used as the home place, so naturally any family that was living within a couple hundred miles from here would always bring their children to Grandmother's house for all major holidays: Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter. It was a pretty big houseful. Besides my family's five children, there were another two Englar boys and Dorothy's two smaller sons.

When Uncle Ralph Hummel's family was living in Pittsburgh, where I think he did his residency period for his M.D., they also came to share the holidays. They had three children. So there were Pappy and Babble's 12 grandchildren, plus their parents, which was another six people, plus my bachelor uncle, Pappy Dale. Plus Alma Ordenfedor, who become the long-term caregiver and housekeeper after my grandmother suffered several strokes. She definitely became a member of the family.

That kind of family gathering was very common during my growing up years. I'm sure there was also a big one at Lawrence and Annie Buckle's farm. They were the grandparents of the Teets girls, Vicki, Nancy, and Judy, and parents of the very recently late Audrey Nesline.

I only heard about her death today. Her son Larry Nesline has his family home on the home farm. It was a bit of an awkward time for a major funeral at Emmanuel Lutheran Church because our Pastor Randy and his wife Cindy Richardson were basking in the sunshine in the Bahamas. Actually, they plan to spend a lot of time underwater diving. I think they planned to be back on the 20th, which was Saturday. So maybe Audrey's funeral arrangements worked out all right.

I was not aware when I was young of how lucky I was. Yes, I realized what a wonderful set of parents I had, and was completely happy on our farm, especially once I got a mount, my little Shetland pony Misty. She gave us three or four wonderful foals. The first one was Flicka, who arrived on the first day of summer vacation after my fourth grade year.

I can still hear my mother's voice singing out, "Joan, get up, because Misty has something for you!" There couldn't be a better way to start summer vacation than that. And we eagerly waited for her to foal, because that meant that my little sister Carol would have her own pony. And Flicka was a great pony.

We first trained her to pull a pony cart. A kind of big horse show in Cumberland had a division for roadster ponies, which is really for the hackney, a high-stepping, fast-trotting pony breed. But my grandmother made a set of peach and white jockey-type outfits, which was the correct attire for the drivers. Flicka wasn't serious competition for a blue ribbon against a real roadster pony, but she performed perfectly. And no one could say that they did not look very cute: a little girl about 7 years old driving a tiny pinto Shetland pony pulling a regular pony cart among those bigger, faster, flashy hackneys.

Then we trained her to jump. They made a big impression at the Maryland State Fair 4-H Horse Show, competing in the small pony division. The announcer made a point of saying that they were the first Garrett County entry in a jumping class there. And my cousin Mike Englar, who was quite the photographer, took a perfect picture of Carol and Flicka jumping in perfect form.

My Glotfelty cousins used to exchange names for Christmas presents, and Mike hoped and prayed that he would draw Carol's name. When he drew her name at Thanksgiving, he just gave a big thumbs-up to his mother and said, "Yes!"

Judging from that photograph, Flicka and Carol should have been in contention for a ribbon. But they at least showed the rest of the state that they couldn't count out the entries from Garrett County. That may have been the first time Carol and Flicka competed in a class over fences. And they did wonderfully. We were lucky to have a grandfather who knew how to do the French braid at the top of the tail, because he used to do it on his carriage horses. It was amazing to watch his 80-plus-year-old fingers do that intricate pattern.

I never really took for granted all the blessings during my younger days. But as I am writing this, the tears come hard and fast.

I can't believe that I am in deep mourning, like after my beloved Glotfelty grandparents died. Yes, they lived very long lives, to about 90. But now I am faced with the possible killing of the place where I am always trying to escape the pain in my life. That is the very rare and unique piece of the Appalachian Mountains. All of my lifetime, I wandered and explored the tableland between Meadow Mountain and Negro Mountain. The woods included lots of old growth lumber, but most of the oldest trees are long gone, hauled away in lumber trucks. I remember hickory and hemlock trees towering over the landscape... huge trees, gone, the ground around them scarred deeply from the heavy machinery.

Maybe the most precious place of all to me was the big blackberry patch where my grandfather took us every August to pick gallons of big, fat, juicy blackberries, which were his favorite food. Nearby the blackberry patch were many little patches of wetlands. In early May, one was absolutely filled with the thickets of sphagnum moss and every color of violet, hundreds of the big, deep purple ones or indigo blue ones. It was one of the most beautiful places I ever saw. And it was a small, perfect, and intimate place.

I'm afraid it will not be there for my future grandchildren to absorb into their souls.

There were only a handful of people who rode my Little Joe over a jump: a few riding students who wanted to learn to jump. He was perfect for that because his jumps were so smooth, and he rarely ever refused a fence. So for a first-time jumping rider, it would be a confidence-building experience. Rodney was not a horse enthusiast, but Carol learned to jump on Joey. And I remember one time Barry just rode him and Joey decided to give him a little thrill. He took Barry over the rail fence along our pasture. But once he experienced it, he probably did it again. And Scott enjoyed jumping Joey. But only Carol ever competed over fences on him.

We had gone to a pretty big show in Chambersburg, Pa. I rode Joey in two classes, which he won easily. But I let Carol ride him in the Junior Jumpers class, because I was over the age limit. Anyway, I was willing to share him with her.

That class was big and competitive. In the first round, several horses scored a clear round. That meant a jump-off, in which the jumps were raised several inches higher. It went into three jump-offs. The fences were 4 feet, 3 inches. That's a pretty big jump. And Dad told Carol, "You're not here to go for the blue. There is

Adorable Adoptables

nothing wrong with a second place." But they just cruised around the course with no faults, and that took her to win the class.

I don't know when I first looked into his dark blue eyes as a baby foal beside his mother. You can tell a lot about horses if you look in their eyes. But I wasn't very experienced with horses when I saw his eyes and found the perfect partner for me. And he was for 31 years. Unfortunately, the day I had to get him put down was the day before Thanksgiving, so this holiday holds much pain as well as happy memories.

It is the most beloved individuals who are gone that make us cry the hardest with our wonderful memories. We cry because those times are gone forever. That is why I have my list of things that I'm thankful for, like my grandparents, parents, aunts, and uncles, who enriched my life. This includes a host of friends of many different kinds who had a real effect on the person I became. I do feel thankful just to know them.

But in spite of all those old friends, still no one means as much to me as my three daughters, whom I was lucky enough to see this weekend, and they will be back in a couple of days. All their cousins will be home, too. The 10 grandchildren of my mother Ruth DiPaolo will be reunited on Thanksgiving. I do miss them almost as much as my own.

It is true that Little Joe was born with an unusual talent for jumping, but that is only a small part of why he achieved so much. It is what we learned together about the relationship between two beings. Our relationship as based first on deep love and never-failing trust. You really can't force a horse to do much of anything if he does not want to do it. No amount of whips or spurs will do it. You can't force a horse to jump something that he doesn't like the looks of.

When I took my B pony test, one thing we had to do was exchange mounts with other candidates. And the other rider did not know how lucky she was to draw Joey. She approached him laden with whips and sharp spurs. I told her, "No, don't use that on him, because you don't need them."

When it was her turn to jump, she did not take my advice, and when he felt the spurs and then the slap of the whip, he took off about five feet before the jump. She barely stayed on his back, and she was left far behind. So she failed.

When he was too young to ride, we took long walks through the fields and woods around here, and I led him over any fallen branches or logs.

Then once I was on his back (bareback), we started jumping up to 5 feet high. But he trusted my judgment if I told him I wanted him to jump something, including cars, picnic tables, and all kinds of poorly constructed obstacles built by me. If I told him to jump something, he did.

One of the most amazing was a soft hedge probably 7 feet high. He was never trained to just brush through the highest part. It was unnecessary to clear it. But he executed it perfectly. He didn't believe in touching any jumps. That was very lucky for me, because he approached a 6-foot high jump made of telephone poles bolted together. If we had hit that jump at the speed he was going, which was a full gallop of about 30 mph, they would have had to scrape us off. We made some mistakes, but luckily none were fatal.

I dreamed from a pretty young age to be on the Olympic team mounted on Joey. But that was the one thing we were not perfectly matched for. I mean, I was a somewhat large girl, while he was an unusually small horse, just barely over the number which an equine is considered a pony rather than a horse. But he was definitely a small horse.

But we shared the Olympic ideals of higher, wider, and swifter. We had to settle for the highest equine competition we could compete in, considering our financial situation and any number of obstacles.

But I believe we were about as big a success as anyone could expect us to be. We at least gained a wide reputation of excellence without many resources. Yes, we did it our way. Well, maybe because of one of the few riding instructors I ever had.

She sternly told me, "Don't be a big fish in a small pond." And that pushed me into some wonderful experiences in some very big ponds, even if I only played small roles in some big deals.

As much as I love my lifelong home, I experienced many fantastic happenings far from home. But I can't even bear to think that I will have to leave my home.

Still, I am truly grateful that I was able to spend some time with quite a few of the national icons and even a few international figures on things like Saturday Night Live and all of those original shows when they hit the American culture like a runaway train: Gilda Radner, Chevy Chase, John Belushi, and Bill Murray.

Then I was able to be associated with a truly historic Broadway hit, and celebrate with them at what was undoubtedly the most prestigious party in Manhattan.

Another special memory of mine is an outdoor concert in Central Park in New York City. It was the first reunion of that great folk music group, Peter, Paul, and Mary.

I couldn't wait to hear how Caitlin's human slavery fundraising event went last night. How well did it go? They raised $900! It was partly from some matching funds, and a few big checks from supportive professors who attended it. But that was big money, and it was enough to pay the way to school for several girls at risk. So it is true that you can't fix all the problems by yourself, but each of us can make a difference.

Even if Caitlin and her friends save three young girls at risk of becoming sex slaves and provide a future for them, I don't think there is a better way for you to spend your time. I am very proud of her.

Another complicated issue is the gas deposits, which are about one or two miles underground. When I asked our Maryland state delegate about it, he said, "What's wrong with people getting some money?" Let's face it. Money is not the only thing that's important. You can't put a clear dollar value on our natural ground water supply. And some areas where they used the fracturing methods to extract it are experiencing some real problems.

So if any of the several gas companies approach a local Bittinger landowner, you should get the whole story before you sign anything.

The Garrett County Cooperative Extension Office in Oakland has on staff a knowledgeable educator: Mikal Zimmerman at 301-334-6960. Give her a call before you sign anything. And spread the word among your neighbors, because I'm surprised at how many Garrett County residents do not read The Republican.

We really cannot risk our most precious natural resource – water.

I know the Nature Conservancy will stand behind me and our special piece of nature. And I am making some phone calls to alert them so they can assemble a good legal team. Individuals can feel powerless against powerful special influences. I know I felt that sense of powerlessness.

The daughter of Gerry and Jackie Snelson, Corey, recently achieved her PhD in genetics. This is the new frontier related to health, and it may save countless lives; a real boon for preventive medicine. There are many kinds of research, and we must invest in them. The result will be a new kind of America, and provide some valuable solutions to problems like the energy crisis.

Rev. Alex Black was guest preacher at the three churches of the Bittinger Parish on Sunday while Pastor Randy and Cindy Richardson are on a family vacation. Rev. Black, a resident of Fairmont, W.Va, is a retired bishop of the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America.

The Bittinger Parish will celebrate Holden Evening Prayer services on Wednesdays during Advent. The first service will be on Dec. 1, beginning at 6:30 p.m. at Emmanuel.

A new program called "Be an Advent Friend" is planned at the Bittinger Parish. Anyone wanting to participate in this fun activity is asked to submit his or her name to the parish office or to the pastor on or before the first Sunday of Advent. Names will be randomly matched and Advent Friends assigned that first week of Advent.

Members of the Bittinger Parish contributed devotional readings which were compiled into a booklet, "Advent Reflections," which will be available for distribution Sunday morning.

Thank You

In the spirit of Thanksgiving, the family of Kody Lewis would like to give a belated thank you to the following involved during the time of his accident.

First of all I want to thank God for sparing him that day. I want to thank Joel and J.J. McDaniel and Robert Puller for pulling him from the car and saving his life. Thank you to Mrs. Shaffer, MD State Police, Bittinger VFD, Deer Park VFD, Northern Rescue, HealthNet, and Ruby Memorial. I was not at the site so I hope I haven't missed anyone.

Special thanks to Robin Spiker for contacting me immediately. Thanks to our close family and friends and surrounding churches for the prayers, cards, phone calls, gifts, visits, and entertainment. Thanks to Rev. J. Rogers Fike and Rev. Ivan Ackerman for your visits and prayers. Thanks to Oak Park Church Prayer Shawl Ministry for the shawl and prayers.

And finally thank you to Brent and Dusty for being by my side. I love you both.

Hazards, Harmful Chemicals Found In Holiday Toys

by Alexis Gutter
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Health advocates recommend parents spend extra time researching holiday season gifts this year, as recent reports show some toys may supply surprises beyond sheer fun.

Maryland PIRG, a public advocacy organization, hosted an event this week at the Sinai Hospital of Baltimore, during which it released its 25th annual "Trouble in Toyland" report on potentially toxic and unsafe toys.

Many toys have been found to include polyvinyl chloride, or PVC, which has been linked to early-onset puberty, reproductive disorders, and learning disabilities, said Jenny Levin, a Maryland PIRG associate.

PVC is typically found in plastic toys and is used to make them more malleable, Levin said. She said that while the chemical is not exclusive to toys, eliminating exposure where possible is the goal.

"It's not that this exposure through toys alone can be directly attributed to rising rates of chronic illnesses," Levin said. "We're being exposed to chemicals in many places. Whether it is through toys, food, air or bloodstream in the womb, when added together, exposure gets higher."

Whether it's a doll's hair or paint on a toy gun containing harmful chemicals, or toys with small pieces not marked as choking hazards, advocates urge parents to be mindful of purchases.

"Toys are safer than ever before, but there are still toys that slip through the cracks," Levin said. "Parents need to be vigilant when they're shopping. They should check retail lists and know exactly what they're looking at."

In a Nov. 18 report, the Center for Health, Environment and Justice targeted toy retailer, Toys R Us, for selling products containing PVC. Of the 60 toys tested for the report, only one was labeled for containing PVC, though more than 70 percent showed they likely contained the chemical.

Furthermore, in order to see the warning on the box of the only product labeled for PVC, the consumer would have to begin opening the box, said Moira Bulloch, director of communications for the Center for Health, Environment, and Justice.

A Toys R Us representative declined to comment. Bulloch said retailers are not the original source of the problem, the manufacturer is. She said the reason for Toys R Us being targeted for the report is its responsibility to consumers.

In 2009, about 70 percent of households with children under 12 shopped at Toys R Us, according to the report.

"You can find toxic toys in stores across the country, but parents are not able to put pressure on manufacturers one by one," Bulloch said. "They are interacting with retailers like Toys R Us. Toys R Us has quite a bit of clout on the market for manufacturers."

But manufacturers complain that advocacy organizations like Maryland PIRG are pointing out problems without providing ideas for improvement.

Almar Sales manufactures a tiara that fell under Maryland PIRG's scrutiny for containing lead. But the level of lead is below the legal limit, said Allen Ash, vice president of Almar Sales.

"It's impossible to ban all lead from these products," Ash said. "It's like saying you can't have rubber in tires. If advocacy groups can find a way to produce products without lead, we'd be happy to discuss that."

Health professionals are also concerned about hazardous toys. Sinai Hospital Dr. Anthony Caterina suggests that parents be aware of toys with sharp objects, loose pieces, and cracked paint.

"We want our children to have a good holiday experience," Caterina said. "The best holiday experience is a safe one."

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Warm Winter Clothing for Needy Children

The Republican newspaper and the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland are now engaged in the 13th year of Warm the Children. The program provides new winter clothing and footwear for Garrett County children in need. Because the program is a function of the newspaper and of volunteers, every penny donated goes toward the purchase of these items. The following individuals and/or organizations donated to the fund this week. An advertisement with information about how to contribute can be found elsewhere in today's issue.

Garrett County
SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

DECEMBER SUN – As December begins, the sun appears in front of the stars of Ophiuchus, moving a degree a day eastward relative to the stars. The sun moves into the star group Sagittarius on Dec. 18. The sun remains in Sagittarius through the middle of Jan. 19. So in December the star groups Ophiuchus and Sagittarius are lost in the sun's glare. The star group Capricornus can be seen low in the southwestern dusk. On the other side of the sun is the star group Scorpius, appearing briefly in the southeastern dawn sky. In early December, sunrises in Garrett County are at about 7:20 a.m. while sunsets are at about 4:55 p.m. (9.6 hours of daylight). Around the end of December, Garrett County's sunrises are at about 7:38 a.m. and sunsets occur at about 5:05 p.m. (9.5 hours of daylight). So during December, the stars are last seen at around 6:45 a.m. (early dawn) and then reappear at about 5:50 p.m. (late dusk).

DECEMBER MOON – December starts with the moon appearing as a crescent in the southeastern dawn sky to the right of the planet Saturn. On Dec. 2, the crescent moon appears to the right of the brilliant planet Venus in the southeastern dawn. On Dec. 5, the moon swings from the morning to the evening side of the sun. On Dec. 6, a very slender moon may be seen near the planet Mercury very low in the 5:20 p.m. southwestern dusk. The evening moon will appear half full on the evening of Dec. 13. This moon shape is best for spotting the moon's craters and mountain ranges with optical equipment. On that very same evening, the moon appears above the very bright planet Jupiter. The moon is full on the evening of Dec. 20, then appearing in the star group Taurus. Early the next morning, the full moon will enter Earth's shadow. The lower left edge of the moon will touch Earth's deep shadow at 1:33 a.m. At 2:41 a.m. on Dec. 21, the moon will be entirely in Earth's shadow. At 3:17 a.m., the moon will be at its darkest, usually colored brown or orange (heavily filtered light going around the edge of Earth). By 5:02 a.m., the moon will have completely escaped Earth's shadow. On the evening of Dec. 27, the moon appears half full in the southern dawn sky.

DECEMBER PLANETS – The five nearest planets are easily seen by eye during the year, four of them shining steadily in contrast to the twinkling stars. Mercury can be seen low in the southwestern dusk in early December. Venus is prominent in the southern, eastern dawn; Venus rises three hours ahead of the sun in December. Above and to the right of Venus is the planet Saturn. Jupiter is the bright point of steady light in the evening sky, appearing in the southwest in mid evening.

DECEMBER STARS – The Big Dipper begins to emerge low in the north-northeast. The two topmost stars point left and upward to the North Star, a modest star suspended about half way up in the north. (Earth's polar axis very nearly points to this star, causing the North Star to appear to be "stuck," while the other stars, moon, and planets roll around it.) High in the north is Cassiopeia, a tilted "M" shaped group of five moderately bright stars. The brightest evening star group is Orion, the brightest star group seen through the seasons. On the left top side of Orion is pinkish Betelgeuse, a supergiant star. On the lower right side of Orion is white-blue Rigel, a smaller, yet much hotter star. Orion's belt points down and left to Sirius, the night's brightest star. Nearly overhead is white-blue Vega, in the west. The second brightest evening star is golden Capella, seen in the northeast. To the right of Capella is the 7 Sisters star cluster, resembling a tiny dipper (not the Little Dipper). Below the 7 Sisters cluster is the bright orange star Aldebaran, marking the eye of Taurus, the Bull. The bright planet Jupiter shines in the south. Below and to the right of Jupiter is Fomalhaut, the bright star marking the mouth of the Southern Fish.

DECEMBER PROGRAMS – The Frostburg State Planetarium is open most Sundays, with free programs starting at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. on Dec. 5, 12, and 19. The Planetarium is in Tawes Hall 203, across the street from the Compton Science Center and near the Performing Arts Center. The December program is titled "Christmas, Hanukkah, and Kwanzaa," covering these special December occasions. Also included is an introduction to the evening skies of winter. Persons are advised to come early, as seating visitors after the program starts is difficult. Also featured is a tour of the Science Discovery Center at 5 p.m. and 8 p.m., where there is a large display of preserved animals from five different continents. To receive a Planetarium schedule (or bookmark), persons may telephone 301-687-7799 and give name and mailing address.

'Talking Turkey' Not As Easy In Recession Time

by Laura L. Thornton
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON - Locally-sourced turkeys may be on the rise, but locally-sourced advice on how to cook the birds is not.

A Maryland home cook used to be able to call a county extension office of the University of Maryland and talk with a home economist about how to cook a Thanksgiving turkey. But these days, with budget woes triggering staff cuts in government offices across the nation, home economists have been economized almost out of business.

Not too long ago, there was at least one food science educator on the staff of each county's University of Maryland Extension office, said Nick Place, associate director of the extension.

"But over the past few years, because of budget cuts, we no longer have the luxury of staffing those positions," he said.

Instead, the extension is "moving toward the cluster program, so that educators have responsibilities across multiple regions," Place said.

That way, if someone calls into a county extension office looking to "talk turkey" but there's not a certified food specialist in the office, the caller is referred to a specialist in another county extension office who is certified.

The University of Maryland Extension is a public education service run by the state's two land-grant universities (at College Park and Eastern Shore) to make their resources available to Maryland residents.

With an extension office in each county and one in Baltimore City, Maryland's Extension service has been serving Marylanders since the mid-1910s, Place said.

"It's the front door to the university," he said.

In earlier decades, the extension offices had "homemaker clubs" where county residents could learn about the proper procedures for canning and pickling fruits and vegetables, and for cooking poultry, said Crystal Terhune, a family and consumer scientist with a background in social work and financial management at Caroline County's Extension Office. Now, those clubs are mostly gone.

Caroline County's Extension Office doesn't have a food specialist on staff, so when county residents call the office with questions about food preparation and cooking, Terhune directs them either to a food specialist in another county, or to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's meat and poultry hotline.

"Better to send them to where I know someone will pick up the phone and answer the question right away," Terhune said.

The head office of the University of Maryland Extension used to have a nutrition and food safety professor on staff from the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, but that position has been vacant for the past few months.

Because of budget constraints, "positions are not automatically filled when somebody retires or leaves," said Liat Mackey, an educator and licensed dietician and nutritionist at the extension office of St. Mary's County.

"We're hoping that we'll have a (new) food safety specialist who will provide some leadership for our food safety program," she said. But that's not likely to happen any time soon.

New Initiative To Jump Start Atlantic Wind Farm Projects

by Nicole Dao
Capital News Service

BALTIMORE – Interior Secretary Ken Salazar announced a "Smart from the Start" initiative Tuesday designed to speed up permitting of wind energy projects along the Atlantic coast.

The program will make the offshore wind farm leasing and construction pro-cess easier for rapid development, said Salazar, joined at a press conference at Fort McHenry by Gov. Martin O'Malley and other officials.

"The wind potential off the Atlantic coast is staggering," he said. "With the right investments and the right planning, Atlantic wind can help power major cities . . . creating tens of thousands of manufacturing and engineering jobs in the process."

O'Malley, who has made developing renewable energy a focus of his administration, agreed that the new initiative is the first step toward the United States breaking free of its reliance on foreign energy.

"I feel that we have to do our part for America's energy independence," O'Malley said. "And that's why Delaware and Maryland have been joining together over these last few years to push the envelope . . . to be leaders in harnessing offshore wind for the sake of a cleaner, greener, healthier country and planet, but also for the tremendous job creating potential that is involved in harnessing offshore wind."

Along with the Bureau of Ocean Energy Management, Regulation, and Enforcement, state partners will identify potential "Wind Energy Areas" for development off the coasts of Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, Virginia, Rhode Island, and Massachusetts within the next 60 days.

"Having the Wind Energy Areas will help focus the developers' attention on areas with fewer potential conflicts," Salazar said.

So far, several leasing applications have already been filed in New Jersey and Delaware.

Over the next six months, the program will gather environmental and geophysical information for potential developers, a task they would have done themselves prior to the initiative.

The initiative will also simplify the leasing process so that additional leases can be added in 2011 and 2012. The bureau is proposing a revision to leasing regulations that will save 6 to 12 months in the process.

Currently, under the Energy Policy Act of 2005, developers are required to submit a proposal, which is then determined as either a competitive or noncompetitive lease, according to the bureau. Both lease types go through a Request for Interest process that reviews competitive interests of developers for a particular lease area.

The bureau is proposing that noncompetitive leases should not require the Request for Interest condition because of redundancy.

"A process that is 7 to 9 years long is simply unacceptable, so the process we're announcing today hopefully will contract the timeframe that allows a developer to move forward within [reason]," Salazar said.

Officials were unsure how much shorter the process might be under the new initiative.

A year ago, O'Malley, along with former Virginia Gov. Tim Kaine and former Delaware Gov. Jack Markell, agreed to a partnership that encouraged developing offshore wind energy in the region, hoping to capitalize on the mid-Atlantic's offshore wind resources.

Generating energy from offshore wind turbines would bring Maryland closer to accomplishing the governor's environmental goals, which include a commitment to producing 20 percent of the state's energy from renewable sources by 2022.

Last month, developers unveiled a $5 billion undersea transmission cable project that could link a Maryland wind farm planned off the Worcester County coast to the mainland electric grid upon completion in 2020. The completed cable will have the capacity to carry 6,000 megawatts of energy, enough to power 1.9 million homes, according to a press release.

Maryland officials said the project has the potential to create as many as 4,000 jobs in manufacturing and construction during a five-year development phase, and as many as 800 permanent jobs.

"The offshore wind industry in the United States is open for business," said Jim Lanard, president of the Offshore Wind Development Coalition.

Lanard said potential developers should be hopeful that the wind industry will progress very soon.

"This is a very important step today, and it is the signal that we've been waiting for, for many years," Lanard said.

THE B&O RAILROAD STATION TO OPEN FRIDAY — The B&O railroad station will be open this Friday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. The station has been decorated, and there will be refreshments. Raffle tickets will be on sale for a unique Z-gage model railroad set valued at $400.

Wins Contest

High School; and People's Choice – Jenna Rayman Notre Dame Preparatory School, Baltimore City.

Contest judges were Baltimore Magazine senior editor Suzanne Loudermilk, retired art teacher and working artist Barbara L. Cox, and MDE director of legislation and policy Heather Barthel.

Josh won the regional "Rethink Recycling" Sculpture Contest, held earlier this month at Garrett College, for his grade level. Other regional winners who participated in the state contest were Ashley Brenneman and Bayley Smoot, 10th grade; Megan Sines 11th; and Keesha Fazenbaker and Sara Friend, 12th. All are students at NHS.

"We are very proud of the students who participated in the state contest in Baltimore," said Kimberly Madigan, GC recycling coordinator. "It was a privilege and an honor to return to Garrett County with the 'Best-In-Show' award."

The state and regional contests challenge Maryland high school students to use recycled materials in artistic and innovative creations. More than 60 entries from 19 different high schools across the state contained such items as plastic bottles, soda cans, old records, broken mirrors, newspapers, cardboard, and buttons. Using these recyclables, the young artists made a globe lamp, chimes, a jeep, a typewriter, and other innovative sculptures.

"Recycling is more important than ever," said MDE Secretary Shari T. Wilson. "Reducing waste helps to protect our waters and the Chesapeake Bay. In addition to preserving natural resources and reducing pollution, recycling saves energy and reduces the greenhouse gases that contribute to climate change."

Sponsors who donated prizes, funding, and refreshments for the state contest were the American Cleaning Institute; Constellation Energy; Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia Beverage Association; Maryland Recycling Network; Rehrig Pacific Company; Giant Food; and Integrated Waste Analysts Inc.

The regional contest and travel to the state competition were made possible by donations received from Coca-Cola Enterprises, Garrett 8 Cinemas, J.P. Trucking, Junior Woman's Civic Club, Madigan's Auto Sales, Lakeside Creamery, Mtn. Laurel Garden Club, Ours Auto Salvage, Rrhamco Inc., Smiley's Pizzeria, and Pine Lodge Steakhouse.

An Opportunity Grant was awarded by the Garrett County Arts Council in support of the regional event. Josh's sculpture and others created by Northern and Southern High School students are on display at the council's Gallery Shop in Oakland through Friday, Dec. 3.

To find out more about the recycling program in Garrett County, persons may contact Madigan for more information at 301-387-0322 or kmadigan@-garrettcounty.org.

YOUNG LOCAL ARTISTS' WORK TO BE FEATURED ON CARDS – Oakland residents Becky Diller and Cody Sullivan are two of the featured artists in the 2010 West Virginia University Children's Hospital's Cards of Hope Collection. The cards are the main funding source for the Cure Kids Cancer Fund, a project of WVU Children's Hospital that ensures patients are provided state-of-the-art medical care, as well as psychological and social support for them and their families. Card sales also benefit the Beads of Courage program, which allows pediatric cancer patients the opportunity to tell their cancer stories through strings of beads. Becky, 16, is the daughter of Marilyn and John Diller. She was diagnosed with acute myeloid leukemia in 1996 and is now in remission. She is a 12th grade home-schooled student. Outside of school, Becky likes horseback riding, art, bead jewelry, and rabbits. Her card, "Three Wise Cats," above, is sponsored by Aker Construction Inc. "I've always loved cats, so every year I do a different design that has cats on it," Becky said. Cody, 17, son of Dean and Sharon Sullivan, was diagnosed with Burkitt's lymphoma in 1997 and is now in remission. A senior at Southern Garrett High School, Cody enjoys computers and musical instruments. Cody's card, "Enjoy the Holidays," below, is sponsored by Med Express. It features a train pulling a load of toys. "When I think of Christmas, I think of trains under the Christmas tree," Kody said. The cards are sold in packages of 20 with 21 envelopes, and they may be purchased in packages of one design or the collection package of all 10 designs, which contains two of each card. All packages are $15. They can be purchased online at www.cardsofhope.com or by phone: 304-598-4346, ext. 2.

Area Girls Invited To Register For 2011 Miss Western Md. Pageant

The board of directors of the Miss Washington County/Miss Western Maryland Scholarship Foundation has extended an invitation to area young women between the ages of 13 and 24 to compete in the upcoming annual production and competition. The event will be held on Saturday, Feb. 12, at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of the classroom building on the campus of Hagerstown Community College.

Many scholarships and gifts will be awarded. Over $7,000 in scholarships was awarded last year, with every contestant receiving a scholarship.

"This competition is an ideal way to earn scholarships, gain self-confidence, meet new friends, and have fun," said a spokesperson.

Four winners will be selected – Miss Washington County 2011 and Miss Western Maryland 2011 and their teen counterparts, Miss Washington County Outstanding Teen 2011 and Miss Western Maryland Outstanding Teen 2011. The winners will represent the four-county area in the annual Miss Maryland Scholarship competition and the Miss Maryland Outstanding Teen competition in June.

In order to compete for the western Maryland titles, a contestant must live, work, or attend school in the state of Maryland. In order to compete for the Washington County titles, a contestant must have been a Washington County resident for the past six months. The five areas of competition are interview, eveningwear, physical fitness in swimsuit for Miss, physical fitness in sportswear for Teens, on-stage question, and talent. There is no entrance fee for Miss and a nominal fee for teens.

The Miss competition is for young women ages 17 to 24 and at least a high school senior. The teen competition is for teens ages 13 to 17, but not a high school senior. All interested contestants will be required to attend an orientation on Saturday, Jan. 8, from 8:30 a.m. to noon at the Ramada Plaza Hotel, Hagerstown. Parents are welcome to attend. Professional photos will be taken at 8:30.

This competition is part of the Miss America Scholarship Program and Miss America Outstanding Teen Program, which is the largest source of scholarships for young women in the world, awarding over $45 million last year on the local, state, and national levels.

Interested Miss contestants should contact Sandy Miller at 301-791-5974 for more information and to register for orientation. Teens should contact Jennifer Peiffer at 301-331-4781. Only a limited number of contestants may participate.

IT'S TIME!

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the 13th year, The Republican newspaper and the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland are asking for your help. Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is the WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM?

The GFWC Civic Club of Oakland and The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM is basically neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds are being used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special corps of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Members of the Civic Club of Oakland are taking the families shopping at Wal-Mart. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $125 per child.

The Civic Club of Oakland is again heading up the volunteer/shopping coordination. Many volunteers are working together to make sure the children of Garrett County stay warm this winter.

The Republican and the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland

To make a donation, please complete the coupon below, cut it out, and mail it along with your tax-deductible contribution to the address noted. All checks should be made out to Warm the Children.

Donations should be postmarked by December 6, 2010. Those collected after December 5 will be saved for next year's campaign.

entertainment for various events in Maryland, West Virginia, Ohio, and Pennsylvania.

Kevin McKenzie (lead) and Roger Anderson (bass), are members of the Chorus of the Potomac in Cumberland. Lisa Tompkins (tenor) and Wendy Anderson (baritone), sing in a women's quartet, Chordially Yours.

Just 4 Fun is also a member of the Mixed Harmony Barbershop Quartet Association (MHBQA).

Maria Rose and Danny Elswick will also present a concert. They have performed throughout the country as a duo at many festivals, conventions, and military and corporate events.

They were inducted into the Midwest Country Music Hall of Fame, and received the Gospel CD of the Year Award in August 2009.

Their performances cover a wide variety of music, including "oldies," country, originals, patriotic, Christmas, and gospel.

The Zimmerman Family has been playing together for over a decade in church worship music groups and a light schedule of church-related concerts.

"We invite you to a fun an rockin' Christmas at the Community Center, featuring many of your favorite tunes," said a spokesperson.

THE ZIMMERMAN FAMILY

MARIA ROSE

The group features Katie Zimmerman, vocal and drums; Amanda Zimmerman, piano, keyboard, and vocals; Lorne Dougherty, bass and vocals; Justin Zimmerman, drums, guitar, and vocal; Chrissy Zimmerman, vocals; and Craig Zimmerman, guitar and vocal.

Pianist Jenny Wilson's jazz trio will perform a wide variety of jazz. The trio is enhanced by Wilson's vocals and flute. Influenced by artists such as Shirley Horn, Diana Krall, and Bill Evans, the trio combines older standards, contemporary jazz, pop tunes, and originals into a set of creative and spontaneous arrangements.

Based in Morgantown, W.Va., the group performs regularly at clubs, restaurants and festivals in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Maryland.

Wilson, a native of Queens, N.Y., began her musical training with her father who was a jazz guitarist. She went on to study piano, dance, flute and guitar. She has worked in theater and as a performing musician since the age of 12. Her formal training includes studies with jazz pianist Art Lande, a bachelor's degree in flute performance, studies at the Winterthur Konservatorium in Switzerland, and a master of music degree in jazz studies from West Virginia University.

Her husband/fellow band member Nathan Wilson performs regularly with Pittsburgh's avant garde theater group, Squonk Opera. He has performed and recorded with Squonk nationwide and abroad in Korea, Germany, and Belgium.

Drummer Mic Fries has a degree in applied percussion from West Virginia University and was a member of the Armed Forces band in Annapolis.

Scotch Mist, a musical duo consisting of Lynne Dale on Celtic harp and Roger Dale on recorders, will also perform. The duo performs Celtic, folk, and light classical music in Maryland, West Virginia, and Northern Virginia at a variety of weddings, Celtic gatherings, concerts, and other occasions.

Lynn, a graduate of Mansfield University, Mansfield, Pa., has taught music and served as organist and choir director in New England, the mid-Atlantic region, and Washington State. In addition to her public performances, she gives private lessons in Celtic harp, piano, guitar and Appalachian dulcimer. She is music director at St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Cumberland.

Roger has been involved with music since his high school days in Minneapolis. He began playing recorder while at the University of Minnesota, and plays the full family of instruments. He has taught and performed in California and throughout the mid-Atlantic area. Locally, he founded and directed the Consort Antigua, a quintet of medieval and renaissance instrumentalists.

Another Joy of Christ duo will be the Durst Brothers, a country and gospel group that specializes in the traditional country and gospel sound. Rodney has been performing for several years as a solo act, and has written and recorded four gospel albums and two country albums.

He and his brother Dennis recently recorded Sure Enough Good Time. The first single from this album, "Words Of Love (Mama's Song)" is a tribute to all Christian mothers and was released nationally and internationally. It became the No. 2 song for the month of May on Glory Train's Top 80 International Gospel Music Chart.

Over the last three years, the Durst Brothers have performed in numerous churches and nursing homes in the tri-state area.

Chester and Isolina Gaither will also give a concert, featuring their award-winning original songs. The Gaithers have been named "International Duo of the Year" three consecutive times by the Country Gospel Music Association, and Isolina was named "2005 Female Entertainer of the Year."

The Gaithers have travelled throughout Canada, Australia, the Philippines, and the United States.

"They will also offer a message of encouragement, as they tell how they overcame drug addiction and many other obstacles in life," said Joy of Christ spokesperson.

Magician Scott Humston of Mt. Dora, Fla., has been invited to perform for the White House and hundreds of schools, churches, and corporations, including Warner Brothers Records and Southwest Airlines.

Overcoming a speech-related birth defect to become a full-time speaker and performer, Humston now devotes his life to the art of motivating through entertainment. He holds a bachelor of arts degree in communication studies and dramatic arts. He started performing magic shows at the age of 13.

"I've always had a desire to inspire people," the Humston said. "I was born with a birth defect known as a cleft palate. Chances are that you, too, know someone with this 'defect.' I have had six surgeries, years of speech classes, and lots of braces. I overcame this defect, in part, because my parents, teachers, pastors, and others encouraged and inspired me and taught me that I could accomplish great things."

Old Idea...New Setting

© istockphoto.com/[illegible]

When the Pilgrims held their first Thanksgiving celebration, it wasn't a new idea, it was a new setting. On a strange shore, barely settled and surrounded by dangers, but grateful for the bounty God provided, they found a way to say thanks to Him. Wherever we are, whatever our circumstances, He provides. Take time this week to say "Thank you, God". Worship with family and friends and honor that first Thanksgiving celebration.

God's Rules for the Land

In Old Testament times there is a transition from a nomadic herding lifestyle to a settled agricultural one, and the tension between these ways of life is represented symbolically in the story of Cain and Abel and their respective offerings. Once the Israelites had become farmers a clear set of rules was laid down for the land and how it was to be tended (Cf. Leviticus chapter 25). God decreed a land Sabbath every seventh year to let the land lie fallow. After every seventh cycle of seven years, that is, every fifty years, there is a jubilee year where the land is given the customary year to rest and ownership (or tenancy) of the land is "reset." Inherent in these rules is a dual respect for the land and for the poor. God is in effect saying that the land shall be given a periodic rest and also that debts be forgiven, slaves freed, and the ownership of the land be transferred back to those who may have had to sell it. Our land, indeed our entire planet, is moaning under the weight of our harsh treatment of it, from oil spills and other toxic wastes to global warming. Even if we have retained the idea of the Sabbath for ourselves, which is doubtful, we have lost sight of giving the earth a Sabbath. Perhaps we should give the earth a rest, and give some of it back to the poor, remembering that we do not ultimately own the land anyway, it is God's earth and not ours in the first place.

The land shall not be sold permanently, for the land is Mine; for you are strangers and sojourners with Me. And in all the land of your possession you shall grant redemption of the land.

New K.J.V. Leviticus 25:23-24

Pulmonary Hypertension: A Potentially Serious Health Problem

Pulmonary hypertension is high blood pressure occurring in the arteries of the lungs. The condition can lead to heart failure due to weakening of the heart over time. It is estimated that approximately 50,000 to 100,000 persons in the United States are affected. Symptoms include difficulty breathing during exercise, chest pain during exercise, and fatigue. Typically, the cause is not known; howeve, genetics, certain medications, and certain other conditions may play a role in the development of pulmonary hypertension. The condition is serious and may be fatal if not treated.

Oxygen therapy may be used for pulmonary hypertension. Anticoagulant medications, such as warfarin (Coumadin), may be prescribed to reduce the risk for development of blood clots. Diuretics may be prescribed to reduce fluid retention. Vasodilator medications work to open blood vessels that are narrowed. Iloprost (Ventavis) is a vasodilator that is inhaled every few hours. Endothelin receptor antagonists block the effects of the substance endothelin which causes blood vessel walls to narrow. Bosentan (Tracleer) and ambrisentan (Letaris) are endothelin receptor antagonists. Both medications also have the potential to cause damage to the liver.

Smits' 'Outlaw' has been set free by NBC

By Jay Bobbin

© Zap2it

Jimmy Smits

Q: What has happened to the new program "Outlaw," starring Jimmy Smits? – Sharlene North, San Antonio

A: Unfortunately for the Emmy-winning actor, the NBC drama became one of the fall season's earliest casualties. After promising returns from the Wednesday debut it was given, the show's fortunes fell fast once it moved to its regular Friday slot, the instant success of CBS' competing "Blue Bloods" being a big factor.

As the weeks went on, the ratings for "Outlaw" indicated a downward spiral from which there was little hope of recovery, so NBC shut down production on the show, then played off the remaining episodes on Saturdays ... pretty much a sign that a network has lost faith in a first-run show, since that low-rated night largely is reserved for repeats.

Q: I was wondering if the actor who plays McGee on "NCIS" is on a diet or if he is ill. –Elaine Bradley, Rancho Santa Margarita, Calif.

A: We've been getting many queries about Sean Murray's appearance. Reportedly, during a vacation, he began eating healthier and just kept it up ... thus the dramatic weight loss that clearly has many of his fans concerned about him.

Q: I wanted to ask how the series "Blue Bloods" originated. My father was a fourth-generation police officer. –Elaine Flanagan, Wallagrass, Maine

A: The basic concept for Tom Selleck's Friday CBS drama came from veteran producer Leonard Goldberg ("Charlie's Angels," "Fantasy Island"), who then brought in former "Northern Exposure" and "The Sopranos" writer-producers Mitchell Burgess and Robin Green to flesh it out. They're named as the literal creators of the police-family series, and Goldberg's interest in that premise may owe to nothing more than his declaration that his favorite shows always have been police shows and family shows. Thus, this current hybrid of those genres exists.

Q: What happened to the ABC show "Shark Tank"? Will it be coming back on the air, and if so, when? –Marilyn Ferraiuolo, Ridge, N.Y.

A: It will be back, but at this writing, no date had been set for that. Interestingly, ABC had several editions of the show set for last summer, then pulled them – which didn't make the program's future seem promising. However, right on the heels of that, the network announced an order for eight new episodes. Jeff Foxworthy and entrepreneur Mark Cuban are scheduled to sit on the panel of business "sharks" for three episodes each.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was journalist, entrepreneur and philanthropist Esther Dyson who made the following sage observation: "The Internet is like alcohol in some sense. It accentuates what you would do anyway. If you want to be a loner, you can be more alone. If you want to connect, it makes it easier to connect."

• In China, the Beijing Traffic Management Bureau, which issues license plates, has recently stopped allowing the number 4 to appear on the tags. Evidently the number sounds like the word for "death" and is therefore considered to be unlucky.

• Here's a startling statistic: If your family is average, you throw out about $600 in unspoiled food every year.

• If you're planning a vacation sometime in the near future, you might want to keep in mind Travel & Leisure magazine's most recent city rankings. These rankings didn't involve food or culture, though. For this particular list, readers voted on the cities with the most- and least-attractive people. If you enjoy people-watching, head to Charleston, S.C., which reportedly boasts the most attractive populace, followed by San Diego and Savannah, Ga., in second and third places. The U.S. cities with the least attractive residents? According to the survey, they're Memphis, Baltimore and Philadelphia.

• Have you ever wondered what the largest irrigated crop in the United States is? It's not soybeans, wheat or even corn; it's grass, mostly in lawns, parks and golf courses.

• In Turkey, a traditional Muslim wedding lasts anywhere from four to seven days. During that time the bride's family and the groom's family participate in separate celebrations, and the bride and groom are not allowed to see each other until the ceremony at the end.

Moments in time

• On Nov. 30, 1886, the Folies Bergère in Paris introduces an elaborate revue featuring women in sensational costumes. The theater spared no expense, staging revues that featured as many as 40 sets. Among other long traditions, the show's title always contains 13 letters and includes the word "Folie."

• On Dec. 5, 1933, the 21st Amendment to the U.S. Constitution is ratified, repealing the 18th Amendment and bringing an end to the national prohibition of alcohol. Mississippi, the last dry state in the Union, ended Prohibition in 1966.

• On Dec. 4, 1945, in an overwhelming vote of 65 to 7, the U.S. Senate approves full U.S. participation in the United Nations. Some senators proposed a resolution designed to force the president to receive congressional consent before approving U.S. troops for any U.N. peacekeeping forces. The resolution was defeated.

• On Dec. 1, 1955, in Montgomery, Ala., Rosa Parks is jailed for refusing to give up her seat on a public bus to a white man, a violation of the city's racial segregation laws. Parks' refusal was not merely brought on by her tired feet, as is the popular legend. Local civil-rights leaders had been planning a challenge to Montgomery's racist bus laws for several months.

• On Dec. 3, 1967, 53-year-old Lewis Washkansky receives the first human heart transplant in Cape Town, South Africa. After surgery, he was given drugs to suppress his immune system and keep his body from rejecting the heart. He died 18 days later from double pneumonia.

• On Dec. 2, 1972, the Temptations earn the last of their four chart-topping hits when "Papa Was a Rollin' Stone" reaches No. 1 on the Billboard Hot 100. Earlier hits by producer-songwriter Smokey Robinson were "The Way You Do the Things You Do" (1964) and "My Girl" (1965).

• On Nov. 29, 1981, actress Natalie Wood, who starred in such movies as "Rebel Without a Cause" and "West Side Story," drowns in a boating accident near California's Catalina Island. It was believed she somehow slipped overboard while untying a dinghy attached to the boat.

Collecting

Q. I have a doll that has hard feet and hands, but legs and arms that are filled. Is this doll worth selling, and if so, who would buy it? The doll is not ancient, but old. — *Jean, Farmville, Va.

A. Dolls don't have to be "ancient" to be valuable. Think early Barbies.

There are several excellent reference books about dolls and their values. I especially like 200 Years of Dolls by Dawn Herlocher (Krause, $29.99), and the Blue Book: Dolls and Values by Jan Foulke (Hobby House Press). Most dolls have markings that identify the maker. When you have that piece of information, you can date your doll and possibly find out its current value. Debra Gulea buys, sells, restores and appraises dolls and might be able to help you. Her address is 20 North Main St., P.O. Box 705, Mullica Hill, NJ 08062.

Due to the large volume of mail he receives, Mr. Cox is unable to personally answer all reader questions. Do not send any materials requiring return mail.*

THE KANGAROO KIDS Precision Jump Rope Team of Howard County, along with Food Supplement Nutrition educators from the University of Maryland Extension, recently taught the JumpSmart curriculum to after-school providers. Kangaroo Kids is a competitive jump rope team that offers similar trainings throughout the area. Their mission is to promote physical fitness and goodwill by example and by demonstration of their jumprope skills. Staff from Partners After School at Grantsville and Meadow Mountain Youth Center were involved in the training. JumpSmart is a hands-on, interactive nutrition and physical activity program that targets youth 9 to 13 years old. After-school students learn basic to advanced jump rope skills for individuals, partners, and groups. A jump roping program and the skills learned can then be part of physical activity for winter months, and any time of year. The nutrition component of JumpSmart is designed to help youth choose healthy foods for meals and snacks. Nutrition lessons involve up-to-date information about healthy foods and hands-on food preparation. JumpSmart is intentional programming to target over-weight, diet and sedentary lifestyle issues facing youth today. The Food Supplement Nutrition Education Program developed JumpSmart in collaboration with University of Maryland Extension, Maryland State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, the After-School Institute, Kangaroo Kids and USA Jump Rope Federation. The group is pictured above performing for the After-School staff from Garrett and Allegany counties. Below, Abbi Kifer, FSNE project leader in Garrett County, learns to Double Dutch. For more information about Food Supplement Nutrition Education Programs, persons may contact the University of Maryland Extension in Garrett County at 301-334-6960.

MUSIC TO CHILDREN'S EARS
Cochlear implants, which replace the function of the inner ear, can provide 90% normal hearing to children born with impaired hearing that cannot be helped by hearing instruments. However, because they have never heard sound, before undergoing the procedure, children receiving cochlear implants must slowly acclimate themselves to hearing prior to beginning to speak. Now, recent research suggests that these children can be helped by music therapy. According to a study involving children ages two to three years, those receiving eight music therapy sessions after cochlear implants engaged in more spontaneous, frequent, and prolonged communication than children not exposed to music. It seems that music bridges the gap between the new world of sounds and the silence that children knew.
Don't let a hearing impairment keep you or your child on the outside looking in. Help is available in many forms, from cochlear implants to tiny hearing instruments, but all begin with a comprehensive hearing evaluation by a hearing specialist. AUDIBEL carries state-of-the-art testing equipment and a full range of today's innovative hearing aids designed to bring back the sounds of life to the hearing impaired.
P.S. Communicative interactions are critical to the development and acquisition of language by youngsters.

Members and their families met on Nov. 8 in the Maple Spring Church basement for their annual Achievement Night. A carry-in meal preceded the program.

Jesse Schalker, former club president, welcomed the group. The 4-H pledge was recited by all. The executive committee presented the evening's devotions. The club officers – Haley Rocha, president; Chelcee Rinker, vice president; Trevor Spaid, secretary; Danielle Blamble, treasurer; Jonathon Blamble, reporter; Sydnee Vandevender, recreation; and Savannah Arnett, music – were installed by leader Linda Lewis, and each was presented a pin.

Perfect attendance awards were given to Savannah Arnett, Jonathon Blamble, and Jesse Schalker by the club's secretary, Trevor Spaid. Faithful attendance awards were given to Danielle Blamble, Derek and Samantha Chambers, Tyler Pomeroy, Alex, Chelcee, and Matthew Rinker, Brooke Uphold, and Haley Rocha.

Jonathon Blamble was recognized as the first member to complete his talk and demonstration. Jackie Blamble presented awards to Jesse Schalker as our Outstanding Older Member and to Sydnee Vandevender as our Outstanding Younger Member.

From the recent County Achievement Night on Nov. 6, certificates were given out to all the photo contest winners (Trevor Spaid, Jesse Schalker, Haley Rocha, Sierra Evans, Trevor Lipscomb, and Jonathon and Danielle Blamble) and poster contest winners (Jonathon Blamble, Jesse Schalker, and Trevor Lipscomb), whose entries went from county to state for competition.

County Award Medals were won by Jonathon in forestry and outdoor education and recreation, and Danielle Blamble in food and nutrition. The club received a certificate for being an outstanding small club in project completion (100%). The club's secretary and treasurer's books each received a blue ribbon, as did the club.

Our Outstanding First Year Member selected this year was Savannah Arnett. Head "H" was Chelcee Rinker; Heart "H" was Tyler Pomeroy; Hand "H" was Danielle Blamble; and Health "H" was Haley Rocha.

All members were given golden four leaf clover pins at the conclusion of the program. Door prizes were drawn and enjoyed by all. The next club meeting will be Dec. 13, at 7 p.m. at the Eglon Memorial Building.

Financial Focus

Charitable Giving: A "Win-Win" Activity

Thanksgiving is a good time to be thankful for those charitable, educational and religious groups that provide your community with valuable services. And now may be a good time to consider supporting these groups because, if you contribute before the year is over, you may "do well by doing good" through valuable tax deductions.

To illustrate the benefit of these deductions, let's assume you're in the 25% tax bracket. If you give $100 to a qualified charity, you can deduct $100 (with a tax benefit of $25) when you file your taxes. Consequently, the real cost of your donation is just $75 ($100 minus the $25 tax savings).

As you consider your charitable gifts, keep the following points in mind:

- You must donate – not just pledge. You can make a pledge to donate, but the amount is not deductible until you actually pay it.
- You must contribute to a qualified charitable group. For your gift to be deductible, it must go to a qualified tax-exempt organization – either a religious group or a group that has received 501(c)(3) status from the IRS. If you're unsure if the group you want to support is tax-exempt, just ask.
- You must itemize. To claim a charitable deduction, you must itemize deductions on your taxes.

Thus far, we've talked only about cash gifts. But you may have other financial assets, such as stocks, that you can give to charitable groups, and these gifts also can earn you tax benefits. For example, suppose you give $500 worth of stock in XYZ Company to a charitable group. If you're in the 25% tax bracket, you can deduct $125 when you file your taxes for 2010. But by donating the XYZ stock, you avoid paying any capital gains taxes you might have incurred if you had sold the stock yourself.

Making charitable gifts now may help you reduce the size of your estate and potentially lower any future estate tax burden on your heirs. Right now, federal estate tax laws are in flux, but it's possible that, one day, your estate might be large enough to generate estate taxes. If you wanted to formalize your charitable gifts and help your estate planning, you might consider establishing a charitable remainder trust. Under such an arrangement, you'd place some assets, such as stocks or real estate, in a trust, which could then use these assets to pay you a lifetime income stream. When you establish the trust, you may be able to receive a tax deduction based on the charitable group's "remainder interest" – the amount the charity is likely to ultimately receive. (This figure is determined by an IRS formula.) Upon your death, the trust would relinquish the remaining assets to the charitable organization you've named. Keep in mind, though, that this type of trust can be complex. To establish one, you'll need to work with your tax and legal advisors.

In any case, be generous during this season of giving. You'll be helping a charitable group accomplish its worthy goals, and you may be helping yourself when tax time arrives.

Edward Jones, its employees and financial advisors are not estate planners and cannot provide tax or legal advice. Please consult your attorney or qualified tax advisor regarding your situation.

Local Realtor Achieves NAR's Green Designation

Lori Malcolm from Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty was recently awarded the National Association of Realtors (NAR) Green Designation, the only green real estate professional designation recognized by NAR.

Malcolm achieved this prestigious designation after completing 18 hours of course work designed specifically for realtors. The courses were created in collaboration with a multidisciplinary team of industry experts from across the country, ensuring designees gain comprehensive knowledge of green homes and buildings, and issues of sustainability in relation to real estate.

More specifically, Malcolm was trained in understanding what makes a property "green." She helps clients evaluate the cost/benefits of green building features and practices, distinguishes between industry rating and classification systems, lists and markets green homes and buildings, discusses the financial grants and incentives available to homeowners, and helps consumers see a property's green potential.

"Living green is about making healthy choices that are also easy on your wallet," said Al Medina, director of NAR's Green Designation. "NAR Green Designees have the necessary resources and relationships to effectively work with you on your next green project."

The Green Designation was developed in response to growing consumer awareness of the benefits of resource-efficient homes and buildings. The designation helps consumers who care about energy efficiency and sustainable building practices identify realtors who can help them realize their green real estate and lifestyle goals.

"Malcolm has gained the knowledge and the tools necessary to become a trusted green resource for Garrett County and other Maryland counties," said Medina.

For more information, persons may visit www.deepcreekrealty.com or e-mail Malcolm at Lori.Malcolm@ColdwellBanker.com.

SADD CHAPTER HELPS STUDENTS SUPPORT NEW DRIVING LAW – Nearly 200 Northern High School students recently pledged to be safe drivers and comply with the new law not to talk on a cell phone or text while driving. Northern SADD (Students Against Destructive Decisions) members visited lunch shifts and collected pledges while reminding students of the new driving law. As part of this SADD campaign, Jackie Frazee won a drawing for a Bluetooth hands-free device donated by U.S. Cellular in McHenry. She is pictured above in the front. Standing, left to right, are SADD members Bailey Tiemersma, Kristina Beiler, Janessa Beitzel, Haley Moon, and Veronica Platter. Members not present for the photo were members Ashley Travis and Derrick Maust, and advisors Sharon Custer and Brenda Sisler, Garrett County SADD coordinator, GC Health Department. SADD's unique approach involves young people delivering education and prevention messages to their peers through school and communitywide activities and campaigns according to the needs of their particular locations. "Independent studies have shown that students in schools with an established SADD chapter are more aware of the risks of underage drinking, other drug use, and impaired driving," according to a Health Department spokesperson. "Students in schools with a SADD chapter are also more likely to hold attitudes reflecting positive reasons not to use alcohol." Any middle or high school student interested in joining a SADD group may contact Sisler at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111. GC SADD chapters are supported by funds from the Drug Free Communities Grant and the Maryland State Highway Administration.

Loch Lynn Church Of God To Present Back To The Manger

The Loch Lynn Church of God's Kidz Factory will present a musical titled Back to the Manger on Friday, Dec. 3, at 7 p.m. and again on Sunday, Dec. 5, at 6 p.m. The Cherub Choir, comprising children aged 5 years and under, will also be performing.

In the musical, the protagonist, Jackson and his friends discover a time machine in the basement of their church. After accidentally hitting a lever they embark on an adventure throughout the 20th century and learn how helping others changes lives. Seeing these changes, a spokesperson says, "Jackson comes to better know Christ, the true value of God's gift, and why Christians celebrate the birth of Jesus."

The church is also planning its 9th annual Great Gift Giveaway, which will be held on Dec. 2 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Dec. 3 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. This outreach will take place at the former church building, located at 121 E. First Ave. in Loch Lynn.

Haunted Hayride Deemed Success; Raises Over $2,000

The first Haunted Hayride, held at Broadford Park in October, yielded proceeds of over $2,000, according to coordinator and Oakland Town Council member Ryan Wolf.

Wolf said that the money will be shared by Cindy's Fund, the Girl Scouts, the Western Maryland Extreme All-Star Cheerleaders, Broadford Park, and various programs at Southern High School.

"We were also able to provide over 1,000 service learning hours to the students involved in the hayride," Wolf said.

Wolf noted his appreciation to the following for their support of the effort: Jessica Wildesen, David Wildesen, Jill Bosley, Humberson Homes for providing the tow vehicle, Randy Sharpless for providing the hay for the ride, Gary Lewis for providing one of the trailers, The Republican newspaper and WKHJ for helping to promote the event, and McDonald's for donating prizes.

"An event such as this would not be possible without the volunteerism and help that was generously given this year," Wolf said.

GARRETT COLLEGE NEWS BEAT

Garrett's Customized Trainings Support Workforce Development

by Peggy Santamaria

A rich aroma wafts from coffee cups held by many of the 125 people gathered around tables in the cheerfully lighted room. Trays of muffins and pastries, and pitchers of juice spread across tables along one wall. The day's event begins as the speaker welcomes those present to the Beitzel Corporation's annual refresher training at Garrett College.

Todd Schneider, safety director at Beitzel Corp., said he likes to present his trainings through Garrett College.

"We can bring in 125 employees at a time," he said. "There is space for an introductory full group meeting, and then there are multiple rooms for various break-out sessions.

He added that the GC staff is easy to work with. "They make it comfortable and are ready to accommodate our needs," he said.

Beitzel Corporation is one of the many area businesses that partner with the college to meet their employee education needs. The staff of GC's Division of Continuing Education & Workforce Development (CEWD) works closely with local business leaders to provide cutting-edge training in a professional venue.

In addition to offering long-term certification courses, Garrett's CEWD also facilitates short-term custom trainings.

"Our ultimate goal is to work with employers to provide a quality, cost-effective training experience for their employees," said Julie Yoder, interim dean, CEWD.

In many cases, these business owners have specific trainers they need to bring to their employees, but they may not have the equipment or space for the training. So the CEWD staff designs the training situation that will best suit their needs and provides the space and equipment to accommodate the people involved, Yoder explained.

"In other circumstances, we work with the employer to identify curriculum, hire instructors, and facilitate all of the details related to the training," she said.

The size and scope of trainings coordinated by the CEWD cover a wide spectrum. There may be as few as 10 participants or more than 100. The sessions that have been organized by the CEWD staff include such diverse topics as mine safety, snowboard judges training, career and vocational training, and learning supervisory skills.

"Those of us on staff who coordinate these individualized training sessions really enjoy doing it," said Connie Meyers, program director. "Each one we do is different, and each group has different requirements. We attend to even minute details, from arranging catering and break-time refreshments to providing any audiovisual equipment or support materials the group might need. These details all result in a successful training. It's exciting to see it all come together."

Trainings and meetings can be arranged at either the GC McHenry campus or at the new Career Technology Training Center in Accident. Persons interested in obtaining information about developing a training session or conference through Garrett College may telephone the Continuing Education/Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

Garrett College "Family" Expresses Thanks For Wide Variety Of Blessings

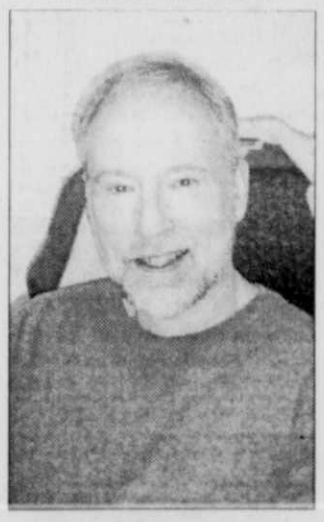
by Peggy Santamaria

AARON MILLER



DR. GREG JENKINS

LAMAR CLARK

MARGI PERFETTI

BROOKE BAIER

Thanksgiving – the word itself conjures images of people old and young gathered around a table to share a feast of roast turkey, sweet potatoes, and pumpkin pie. This is the day set aside to offer thanks for the joyful moments and special people in our lives.

Some students, and faculty and staff members of the Garrett College community shared their personal thoughts on what they will express gratitude for on Thanksgiving Day 2010. Without a moment's hesitation, each spoke first of their relationships with family and friends as that for which they are most thankful. Each one also spoke of particular reasons for giving thanks this year.

Aaron Miller, a U.S. Army veteran and GC student, says he is especially grateful this Thanksgiving. In previous years, military service has separated Aaron from loved ones. These separations are particularly difficult on holidays.

"This year I am thankful that I will get to spend the whole Thanksgiving Day with my family with no interruptions," he said.

Dr. Greg Jenkins, professor of English, said that, in addition to his family and friends, he is grateful for his position at Garrett College.

"It is both challenging and satisfying," he said. "Over time we realize that it's little things in daily life that mean the most. I am really grateful for the folks I have around me. Over the years I've lost people who were close to me. So I am all the more grateful for those who are still here and doing well."

Doma Yahaya, who will be graduating from Garrett College in a few weeks, has earned a full basketball scholarship to finish his college studies at West Virginia Tech. He thanks his family for the supportive role they have played in his life.

"My younger brother, the baby of the family, just got out of surgery," he said. "I am so happy that he will be able to be there to see me graduate."

Brooke Baier says she has always appreciated her close relationships with family and friends.

"This year in particular, my friends have meant a lot to me," he said. "My grandfather was very ill this year and hospitalized. They didn't know what was wrong with him, so I was very worried about him. My friends were supportive. They helped me get through that. My family will all be together for Thanksgiving. I'm looking forward to that," she said.

Lamar Clark, Garrett College Student Government Association vice president, said he is very thankful because he just learned that he will graduate next semester.

"I'm studying juvenile justice," he said. "After I graduate from Garrett, I will go on to get my degree in criminal justice at the University of Central Florida. So I'm one step closer to my goal of working in criminal justice. And I would love to coach a Little League team. Now that would be awesome."

Margi Perfetti, manager of the GC bookstore, says she is very thankful this year for her good health. Two years ago she faced a diagnosis of breast cancer. With the loving support of family and friends, she underwent treatment and met the challenge of regaining her health.

"I've always believed that you've got to keep a good attitude," she said. "I learned that from my mother. That is what I am doing every day. I look forward to sharing Thanksgiving with my family, and especially my little granddaughter."

SHS Names Students Of The Month

SHS OCTOBER STUDENTS OF THE MONTH — Southern High School has recently selected six individuals for Student of the Month in October. A student was chosen for superior performance in each of the categories of English, math, science, social studies, electronics, and financial management and economics. In the front row, from left to right, are: Andrea Davis, Jillian Yant, and Raeslee Weimer. For more information see story. In the back row, from left to right, are: administrative coordinator Brooks Elliot, Chase Sisler, Colin Gooding, Ram business partner representative Fred Gregg, and Samantha Johnson.

Faculty members at Southern High School have selected the following individuals as Students of the Month for October: English, Andrea Davis; math, Jillian Yant; science, Colin Gooding; social studies, Samantha Johnson; electronics, Chase Sisler; and financial management and economics, Raeslee Weimer.

Andrea Davis, a sophomore, is the daughter of Andy and Becky Davis of Swanton and has been recognized for her outstanding work in English.

Davis received numerous attendance awards while in elementary school, a Woodmen of the World award in the fifth grade, and multiple student of the month awards as a middle school student. She is also parliamentarian and chaplain of the FFA program and a member of the Folley Run Sportsman's Club and the Mountain Top Train Association.

Davis finds time to help with the ladies' auxiliary at the Chestnut Grove United Methodist Church, where she regularly attends services. She plans to attend college and nursing school after graduation in order to pursue a career as a pediatric nurse.

Jillian Yant, a freshman, is the daughter of Bill and Lori Yant of Oakland and has been recognized for her outstanding work in math.

Yant placed second in the Pittsburgh science fair, plays varsity soccer, is the freshman class president, and was the winner of a National History Day contest in which she designed a web site.

Yant also volunteers at the Homeless Animal Rescue Team clinic and is a member of the West Virginia Fusion soccer team. She plans to attend a four-year university and then participate in a graduate program in the field of science or medicine.

Colin Gooding, a junior, is the son of Kevin and Jennifer Gooding of Oakland and has been recognized for his outstanding work in science.

Gooding is involved in the mock trial program, is a member of the National Honors Society, has received awards in National History Day competitions, has received past Student of the Month awards, and is on the honor roll.

Gooding is also a Boy Scouts of America life Scout. He has not yet determined what college he would like to attend, but wishes to pursue a career as a law professor.

Samantha Johnson, a senior, is the daughter of Willard and Marylou Johnson of Oakland and has been recognized for her outstanding work in social studies.

Johnson is involved in theatre and will soon be performing in her sixth play. She also volunteers regularly at her grandmother's church.

Johnson would like to attend Frostburg State University and earn a degree in psychology while she continues her involvement in theatre.

Chase Sisler, a sophomore, is the son of Tim and Rhonda Sisler of Oakland and has been recognized for his outstanding work in electronics.

Sisler has competed in the science fair at the Carnegie Institute for the past two years. He attends the Mtn. Lake Independent Baptist Church, enjoys competitive fishing, and plans to attend Carnegie-Mellon University as an electrical engineering major.

Raeslee Weimer, a sophomore, is the daughter of Mike and Kim Weimer of Oakland and has been recognized for her outstanding work in financial management and economics.

Weimer is an honor roll student and member of the basketball team. She was the junior varsity team's MVP of the 2009-10 basketball season.

Weimer also races motocross and plans to earn a degree in either business or athletic training after high school.

League For Crippled Children Provides Various Free Services In Tri-State Area

The Cumberland office of the League for Crippled Children is a non-profit organization that offers free services to children birth to age 21 in Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania. The league offers 12 orthopedic and two orofacial clinics throughout the year. Physical therapy is available, and speech evaluations and therapy are offered daily. All league services are free to all patients.

According to Cathy Growden, executive director, the league had its beginning in 1926 through "a lady who had a great vision and huge heart for children."

"Anne Sloan realized an enormous need to treat children with orthopedic and particularly polio needs," said Growden. Through her invitation, Dr. George Bennett, orthopedic surgeon, from Baltimore held the league's first clinic. From this clinic grew a regular program known as the Maryland League for Crippled Children, with periodic clinics being offered throughout the year.

"The number of children needing care progressively grew and won the heart and support of Henrietta Schwarzenbach," Growden explained. "She organized a group of individuals to form an agency that ultimately led to a charter being granted, and the Allegany County League for Crippled Children Inc. was formed May 31, 1934. The league's name was changed to the League for Crippled Children Inc. in 2003.

Dr. Charles Silberstein, orthopedic surgeon from Johns Hopkins Hospital, held orthopedic clinics locally for the league from 1980 to 2006, and for many of those 26 years he conducted orthopedic clinics through the state of Maryland at the Garrett County Health Department.

"When those clinics were no longer funded by the state, all of his Garrett County patients were referred for him to follow at the League for Crippled Children office in Cumberland," said Growden. "He retired from holding league clinics in 2006, but his patients continued to be followed by several of his colleagues from Johns Hopkins."

The league has had several homes, with the first being at 59 Pershing Street in Cumberland. From 1940 until 1971, The old city jail, currently the Allegany County Chamber of Commerce office, was home to the league. Then in 1971, the league moved to the Regional Health Center for Allegany County along Willowbrook Road, which is now the site of the new Western Maryland Health Systems Hospital. The league is currently housed in the Willowbrook Office Complex Building along Willowbrook Road.

Growden said that 1997 was a "milestone year" for the league because in June of that year the league and the Cumberland Scottish Rite of Free Masonry formed the Scottish Rite Childhood Language Disorders Clinic, which is under the management of the League for Crippled Children. The clinic provides assessment and treatment at no cost to children who exhibit communication disorders.

"Then in 2004, through the leadership of Dr. Robert Carpenter, plastic surgeon, the Cumberland Cleft Clinic was formed," said Growden. It's mission statement is "to provide services for children with cleft lip and or cleft palate by a professional team consisting of a plastic surgeon, pediatrician, ENT, dentist, orthodontist, audiologist, social worker, speech therapist and nurse to help each child with these special health care needs lead active lives and participate as full members of their schools and communities."

"The league would not be the organization it is today if it were not for the organizations, businesses and individuals who have consistently demonstrated their compassion and love for children through their support and donations," Growden said.

For information or to have a child seen, persons may telephone 301-759-5200 or stop by the office at 12501 Willowbrook Road. The league office is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

VOICE AND DATA ON TELEPHONE LINES

by Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. How does DSL work? How can you talk on the phone and dial into the Internet using the same line?

A. DSL is short for digital subscriber line. It represents a way of sending digital information (a string of 1s and 0s) over a conventional telephone line. The "magic" of being able to talk at the same time as Internet data flows is because of the use of different frequencies for the two different tasks.

In a telephone conversation, your objective is to be able to understand what the other person is saying, and he must be able to understand you as well. Speech is composed of a mixture of sounds at different frequencies and their overtones. No matter who is saying it, the letter "A" sounds different from "E," because of the mix produced by your mouth, tongue, and lips. The distinctive quality of one person's voice compared to another's comes in details of the ratio of overtones-to-fundamental frequencies of a sound.

Because of the way the human ear works, all the important frequencies contained in what you're hearing are in the frequency range below 10,000 Hertz (Hertz = Hz = cycles per second). In fact, the great majority of sound-energy is below 2,000 Hz. Consequently, in order to transmit speech intelligibly, the telephone equipment need only transmit frequencies below 10,000 Hz.

In a telephone, your microphone converts sound waves to electrical signals, so when your speech contains a sound frequency of 1,500 Hz, the electrical signal will vary at 1,500 Hz as well. All sorts of different frequencies can be transmitted at once. There is a loudspeaker facing your ear that converts the electrical signals coming from the other person into sounds that your ear picks up. If high-frequency signals are lost in transmission, you don't mind, because the talk is still intelligible.

Meanwhile, the copper wires carrying electricity that represents the sound are able to carry much higher frequencies than are contained in a voice, so a lot of the available frequency band is not being used. DSL takes advantage of that opportunity: Data (the string of 1s and 0s) is transmitted at a much higher frequency than anything you could possibly hear. Both voice and data are carried by the very same wires without any difficulty.

But the totality of all that data-transmission produces an electrical signal that would produce a hissing tone if it reached your ear; so an electrical filter is inserted into the line to blockade the passage of all high frequencies. You need one such filter in the cord running to each telephone in your house, even though you have only one computer hooked into the line.

The limitation of DSL is that a pair of copper wires is limited in how high a frequency it can carry. A DSL signal is commonly around 750,000 bits per second (bps). If you try to send data at a faster rate (higher frequencies), the copper wire can't "pay attention" fast enough, the data gets jumbled, and some information is lost. In fact, if your line is noisy for some other reason, the transmission speed slows down (as the equipment is checking for errors), and you don't get the full benefit of DSL.

To transmit data at considerably higher speeds, it is necessary to send the signal via coaxial cable, where the means of signal transmission is different from simple conduction of electricity. The ultimate high-speed transmission is via fiber optics, and that is being used to carry millions of simultaneous transmissions without any interference. The communications going in and out of a modern commercial building are carried that way.

Trouble is, the great majority of homes are not served by fiber optics, but have only copper wires for telephone service. Fortunately, by now coaxial cables reach a good percentage of homes, and it's not difficult to arrange for both the telephone and the computer to transmit over cables. With the continuing improvement in transmission methods expected in the future, DSL will probably be obsolete someday. For now, however, it's an inexpensive way to have both telephone and Internet service using existing equipment.

Dr. Sheahen is a physicist who was educated at MIT. He lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may e-mail them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

New Law Changes Court Procedures For Traffic Tickets

When a new state law goes into effect on January 1, drivers who get a payable traffic ticket in Maryland will no longer be given an automatic trial date to appear in court. Instead, any driver wanting to go to trial to dispute a ticket will have to request a trial date from the District Court of Maryland.

Currently, Maryland law requires that a driver who gets a payable traffic ticket for an offense that does not require incarceration/jail time automatically receives a court trial date. When the new law takes effect Jan. 1, drivers who get a payable traffic ticket will have three options:

1. Pay the full amount of the fine;
2. Ask the district court for a waiver hearing for sentencing instead of a trial; or
3. Ask for a trial date at the district court.

Payable traffic violations include speeding, failure to obey traffic signs or signals, and failure to stop for a school bus. The new law includes all payable traffic violations for which no incarceration/jail time is required.

The other type of traffic violation in Maryland is "Must Appear." Examples of these violations are driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs or driving on a suspended license. "Must Appear" violations are not affected by the new law.

Drivers who get a payable traffic ticket must comply with the new law within 30 days by paying the fine, asking for a waiver hearing, or asking for a trial. If drivers do not choose one of these options within 30 days, they risk having their license suspended by the Motor Vehicle Administration.

Waiver hearings are for drivers who don't dispute the traffic ticket and want to plead guilty, but want to have a judge hear an explanation before being sentenced. A waiver hearing is held before a judge in district court, but it is not a trial and the law enforcement officer and witnesses will not be summoned to appear. At the hearing, the judge will hear from the ticketed driver only for the purpose of imposing a sentence.

Drivers who want to dispute their traffic ticket must ask for a trial date. Drivers must come to court for the trial, and all witnesses are summoned to appear to testify. The officer who wrote the traffic ticket also attends the trial.

Traffic tickets issued after Jan. 1 will have instructions about how to pay the fine, ask for a waiver hearing, or ask for a trial date. Drivers can ask for a waiver hearing or a trial date by marking that option on the ticket and mailing it to the district court location in the city or county where the traffic violation occurred.

If drivers opt to pay the traffic ticket fine, they may do so by mail, online by credit card at www.md-courts.gov, by telephone with a credit card at 1-800-492-2656, or in person at any District Court of Maryland location. The judiciary's web site also has more information about how the new law works, including a list of frequently asked questions and a link to district court locations by county.

OPEN HOUSE SET AT HISTORIC STATION – An open house event will be held at the historic B&O Railroad Station in Oakland on Friday, Dec. 10, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. The station has been decorated for Christmas, and refreshments will be served. Raffle tickets for a "Z" gauge model railroad set that has been valued at $400 will also be available. The drawing for the train set will take place on Dec. 18 in front of Proudfoot's Pharmacy. All proceeds from will be used by the town of Oakland to continue preparations at the station for the planned partnership with the B&O Museum of Baltimore, which will take over the operation of the station as a museum. The town will continue to own the facility in this partnership, and restoration work is still required before the arrival of B&O. The public is invited to attend, although the snow, which began yesterday, will be somewhat deeper by that time, as it is predicted to continue falling for at least the next seven days. ## 26th Annual Christmas In The Village Slated At Spruce Forest

The 26th annual Christmas in the Village at Spruce Forest Artisan Village is planned for Friday and Saturday, Dec. 3 and 4.

The village will once again be lit by hundreds of candles and warmed by wood fires in all of the studios and galleries.

Hosts from the Miller family will relate their family history, explaining why they came to this area, and how they survived and prospered while working with Native Americans and each other.

Hosts in the House of Yoder will also tell stories of their ancestors and give tours of the three-story German-style house.

Refreshments will be served in the House of Yoder, Miller House, and Hostetler House (John's Little House).

In the Compton one-room school, Miss Historic Maryland and volunteers from the Reading Council will read children's stories and help children decorate cookies.

In the church, seasonal music will be provided on Friday evening by the Allegany High School choir, the Northern High School concert band, St. John's Christian Church Joyful Ringers, and the Beachy Family Bell Ringers.

On Saturday, music will be provided by Betty Mattingly and Friends (old-time jam session), Frostburg State University Choir, St. John's Christian Church Joyful Ringers, and the Beachy Family Bell Ringers.

The pottery teaching studio will also be open on Friday from 4 to 8 p.m.

Hosts will include Virgil and Margaret Hershberger in the Miller House; Pam Dornberg and family, Mark and Linda Treasure and family, Jane Yoder, Elam Bender and Shirley Brandes in the Compton School House; Tom Hudson in the church; and Sue Rudd at Hostetler House.

Admission to the event is free, but donations will be accepted in jars and boxes in the cabins.

The public and press are invited to attend.

Presentations will originate from the University of Maryland College Park and be webcast to rural areas. Each location will have its own facilitators and conduct its own discussions.

There is no fee to attend any of the forums, but registration is required by Tuesday, Dec. 7. Registration is available online at rural.state.md.us.

"Setting up a location in Garrett County to view the webcast of the health care forum is an excellent way for all of us to learn more about the health care law and particularly how it will impact rural areas and each one of us," said Garrett County health officer Rodney Glotfelty. ## Grantsville Man Sentenced To Six Years In Prison

Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced a 20-year-old Grantsville man in Garrett County Circuit Court last week to five years in the Division of Corrections for a burglary charge and to one year for a theft charge. Ryan Edward Winebrenner's sentences are to run concurrently.

In May, Winebrenner was arrested by Maryland State Police and charged with a burglary of a residence along Old New Germany Road. The owners reported they had been away from their residence a short while, and when they returned, they found a rear door was kicked in and various property, including a cross bow and prescription medication, were taken.

In the second case, a man residing in the same apartment building as Winebrenner reported that various items of his property were discovered missing over the course of four days in early May.

Winebrenner was arrested after a variety of witnesses gave statements that he had sold or attempted to sell to them property that was identified as the victim's. Maryland State Police troopers and criminal investigators handled this case also.

Winebrenner had appeared in court in September and pleaded guilty to the charges. Sentencing was held last week after the court received a pre-sentence investigation report.

In an unrelated case, Lash Rocky Larue Lloyd Jr.,. 33, Oakland, admitted to violating his probation in two Circuit Court cases. In the first, Lloyd was on probation after being convicted in 2008 of failing to provide support to minor children. Judge Sherbin reimposed the one year sentence that was previously suspended.

In the second case, Lloyd was placed on probation in 2009 for connecting to cable television service without authority. At that time of conviction, he was sentenced to three months in the Garrett County Jail, with all of that sentence suspended except for four days.

After finding Lloyd in violation of probation, Sherbin reimposed the remainder of the suspended sentence and ordered that to run consecutively to the one year sentence.

In both cases, Lloyd was ordered to pay money, in the first for continued child support and, in the second, as restitution to the cable company. He violated his probation by failing to make payments and for failing to keep his appointments with the Division of Parole and Probation, according to the state's attorney.

Potential Christmas gifts of all varieties will be available at the event, which supports local artists (such as Christie Elmlinger of Oakland who created these dolls) as well as provides funds for Our Town Theatre. OTT offers a year-round season of theatrical performances and operates solely as a non-profit entity. Funds are used to maintain stage equipment, props, costumes, and the two facilities of the organization, the theatre and the Backstage building. Holiday music, food, and other entertainment will all be part of Saturday's event. See additional information on today's arts pages. Photo by John McEwen.

Garrett Choral Society To Present "Christmas Joy" Concert Dec. 11, 12

The Garrett Choral Society (GCS) will present its annual holiday concert, this year titled Christmas Joy, on Saturday, Dec. 11, at 8 p.m., and Sunday, Dec. 12, at 2 p.m. The presentation will be given at St. Peter at the Lake Center in McHenry. The church is located along Mosser Road, just past Garrett College, on the right.

Under the direction of Julie Turrentine, the GCS features nearly 50 singers from all areas of Garrett County and nearby West Virginia. The group's accompanist is Lynn Grimm, who will be joined on selected pieces by keyboard players Michael Broderick and Barb Peters. Moe Turrentine and Madonna Pool will provide percussion accompaniment.

The major work of this concert will be J.S. Bach's Magnificat, which is the canticle of Mary from the first chapter of the Book of Luke, verses 46-55. The 12-

Nutrition Grant Is Awarded To Southern High

Southern High School, along with schools in eight other Maryland counties, has been awarded a USDA grant of $30,000 to develop, prepare, and test market five days of nutritional meals for school lunches.

The funds will allow students to enroll in the program ProStart and participate in special culinary curriculum. Students will create Culinary and Healthful Enhancement of Foods (CHEF) teams, which will develop the nutritional school lunches.

As the program concludes and the schools share their results, CHEF teams across Maryland will have created a total of nine weeks of student-centric menus that meet nutrition requirements, use local produce and USDA foods (when possible), and are cost effective.

ProStart is a nationwide

Spotlight on Garrett County Non-Profits:

The Work They Do, The People They Serve

LANDON'S LIBRARY

This column, sponsored by the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland, is one of a series of articles about local non-profit organizations. The purpose is to inform citizens about the services offered by the organizations, and to let them know the volunteer opportunities available within these groups.

The Mission of Landon's Library

Landon's Library is a Christian, not-for-profit 501 (c)(3) organization established in honor of Landon Bryant Boal. In order to promote reading and bonding among parents and their children, Landon's Library has partnered with different organizations to provide free children's books to many families in Garrett County and surrounding counties.

Monthly Play-Dates

Landon's Library comprises many different activities and partnerships. One such event is the Landon's Library Play-Date, which is a monthly, fun-filled morning for children that provides them the opportunity to experience the magic of books through age-appropriate play and learning stations revolving around a monthly theme. Children experience books coming alive around them at each activity station.

Landon's Library Play-Date provides a safe, organized, educational, and fun environment for children ages 2-5 years old. Persons may visit the web site www.landonslibrary.org to sign up for the recurring event, which takes place the first Saturday of each month at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland from 10:45 a.m. to noon.

Partnerships

Landon's Library has partnered with Dolly Parton's Imagination Library through the Dollywood Foundation of Pigeon Forge, Tenn., and the Garrett County Reading Council. Each month, almost 2,000 children in Garrett County receive age-appropriate books in the mail to add to their own personal libraries. In order to register a child for this free opportunity, persons may log on to the web site noted above to obtain the necessary form.

Additional Projects

Landon's Library also sponsors Kindermusik children's classes, sets up a selection of books in selected public service offices, partners with the Oakland and Grantsville Rotary clubs to give books to children through the annual Christmas Project; and just this year began an annual Autumn Glory book giveaway by giving out more than 2,500 brand new children's books.

Through all of these activities and partnerships, Landon's Library has distributed more than 38,000 books to the children of Garrett County in just three and a half years.

"This is quite an amazing feat, of which Landon's Library is extremely proud, and honored," said Crystal Roberson-Boal, founder of the organization. "Books are the key to our children's futures."

Volunteering Opportunities

Landon's Library always welcomes new volunteers. Volunteers can be utilized in the following capacities:

Monthly readings to children at Landon's Library Play-Dates; assistance with craft stations at the play-dates; and assistance with book pick-up and delivery.

Those interested in volunteering are encouraged to contact Roberson-Boal at 301-334-2560.

Virginia Man Charged With DWI, DUI

A Virginia man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on several drinking and driving charges last Friday morning.

Glenn Edward Burden Jr., 52, Gloucester, was stopped for a moving violation at the intersection of Oak and Third streets in Oakland. Investigation reportedly revealed that he was driving under the influence of alcohol and prescription medication. He was also found to be driving on a restricted license.

Burden was charged with failure to drive right of center, DUI, driving while impaired by alcohol, DWI by drugs, and violation of license restriction. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

Two Transported To GCMH After Single-Car Wreck

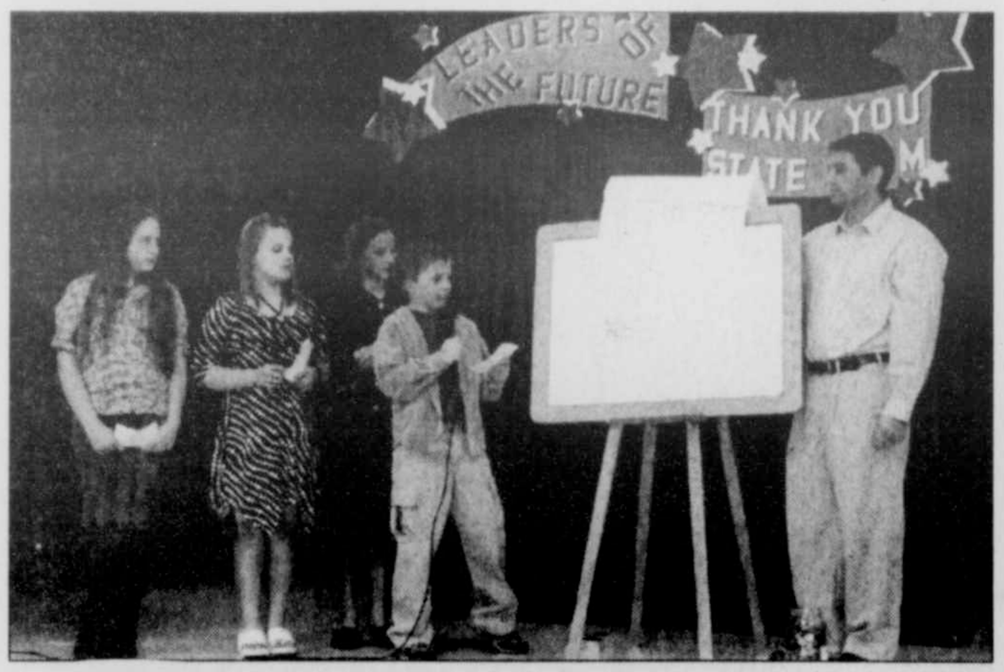
Garrett County sheriff's deputies investigated a single-vehicle accident that sent two people to Garrett County Memorial Hospital Tuesday evening.

Connie Lynn Schrock was traveling south on Garrett Highway in a 1996 Pontiac Grand Prix, when she reportedly lost control of the vehicle and struck a culvert off the southbound lane. The vehicle then continued south and struck four mailboxes before coming to rest in the center of Garrett Highway.

Schrock and passenger Tammie Gonzales, Gormania, W.Va., were transported to GCMH by Southern Rescue Squad. Charges are pending. Maryland State Police assisted at the 11 p.m. scene.



LEADERS OF THE FUTURE
THANK YOU STATE FARM

"LEADERS FOR THE FUTURE" is the name of a program that was recently held at Broad Ford Elementary School involving selected students in the fourth and fifth grades. According to program developer Jay Bonstingl of Columbia, the students who participated were those identified by their teachers as having leadership potential. "The program is not for the stars of the school, but those who have the potential to be," said Bonstingl. "Through this program, they learn what it takes to be a good leader and teammate." The 24 students selected were broken into six teams of four, and each group determined some kind of service project to plan and implement. At the conclusion they each made a formal presentation of their project and its results to parents and interested citizens. The projects included raising money to purchase new toys for the Dove Center, collecting toys for children in need, working to improve manners and behavior in the school and school cafeteria, raising funds for the county animal shelter, and providing homework help to the younger students. Pictured making its presentation above left is the team advised by teacher Dave Yoder. From left are Amy Schmidt, Rainey Norris, Brianna Welch, Quinn Iden, and Yoder. Pictured below with school principal Suzanne Sincell are Rob Michael, left, owner of the local State Farm Insurance agency, and Bonstingl. # Opportunity for Compromise...

Just before press time this morning, it was reported that President Obama seems ready to agree to keep the Bush-era tax rates in place for everyone at least temporarily, including the wealthy, with no New Year's increases. While continuing to be in the midst of an economic downturn, but with some indicators finally turning in a positive direction, it would not seem prudent to allow the current tax rates to expire and thus risk a backslide.

Many of those whose political philosophy lies to the far left – who are afflicted with the same tunnel vision of those to the far right – cannot get beyond their impression that the Bush tax rates do nothing but further line the cash-laden pockets of the nation's greediest, wealthiest, most uncaring individuals, those commonly referred to as the "fat cats."

There is indeed a percentage of the nation's wealthiest people who deserve this description, but there are millions of other people who unfairly fall into the "fat-cat" category based on the numbers. These are primarily small and not-so-small business owners, those who provide most of the jobs in our economy. With the lack of jobs being the primary negative economic indicator right now, it makes no sense to put a damper on what little job growth there is by effectively raising the taxes of the business owners.

On the other hand, it also makes no sense to cut off the unemployment benefits of several million Americans, which the now-Republican House has decided to do, claiming that the nation can no longer afford them. From a moral perspective, the government cannot simply cut these people loose and expect them to somehow survive without financial help. While there are always going to be deadbeats who have no intention of ever working and take every advantage of the system, many of our unemployed fellow citizens have lost their jobs because of the economy, and are going out every day trying to land a job. It has been reported that for every job that is currently available in the country, there are five people needing that job. Also, to cut off benefits during the holiday season is like rubbing salt into a wound.

In addition, from a purely economic viewpoint, it also makes sense to continue to provide these benefits. The people receiving them are certainly not squirreling the money away, but are almost without exception immediately spending it to cover their bills, which pumps several billion dollars right back into our struggling economy.

So there seems to be a golden opportunity here for a compromise between the House of Representatives and the White House. It is hoped that such comes to fruition soon.

Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to the Garrett County commissioners-elect requested that it appear in this column.

Commissioners-elect Raley, Gatto, and Crawford:

Nearly two years ago, the planning commission made a request to the commissioners that a moratorium on the siting and construction of industrial wind turbines be undertaken. The purpose of the moratorium was to provide the commissioners with a thorough and comprehensive review of major issues, including the very efficacy of industrial wind power, along with public health and safety concerns surrounding this matter, so that an informed policy process would be forthcoming. The commissioners refused this request by the commission and several citizens on more than one occasion.

The matter remains unresolved, and the industrialization and destruction of Backbone Mountain is nearly complete. Other projects along Four-Mile Ridge and elsewhere are in various stages of review and ultimately approval.

Few would argue that recent election results were a manifestation of serious concern about this issue. The ball is now in your court.

Therefore, it is respectfully requested that, upon your swearing-in as independently elected commissioners, you immediately introduce a resolution to cease and desist any and all permits/approvals related to the siting and construction of industrial wind turbines. No more time is needed to take this matter under advisement, as it has been discussed and debated for nearly seven years. Time is of the utmost importance before our mountain culture is forever destroyed. You have the legal authority to halt further devastation and exploitation of our Appalachian way of life by doing the right thing. All that remains is to do it.

Niccolo Machiavelli, in a 15th century treatise on the nature of public service, said it best:

"It must be considered that there is nothing more difficult to carry out, nor more doubtful of success, or more dangerous to handle, than to initiate a new order of things. For the reformer has enemies in all those who profit by the old order, and only lukewarm defenders in all those who would profit by the new order, this lukewarm-ness arising partly from fear of their adversaries, who have the laws in their favor; and partly from the incredulity of mankind, who do not truly believe in anything new until they have had actual experience of it."

Thank you for your consideration,
John N. Bambacus

To the Editor:

More than 14 years ago we built a home in Garrett County. We chose it for its natural beauty, quietness, and most of all, for the wonderful view we had of the mountains. Until this past summer, we felt we had such a paradise.

Now where we once could see the mountain ranges and breath-taking sunrises, we now see wind turbines. On a clear night where we used to see the moon and stars, we see the blinking red lights on the turbines.

So to those who promoted and brought these mountaintop monstrosities to Garrett County, I say thanks... thanks a lot.

To the Editor:

I'm glad so many people, along with the editor, are paying close attention to the words and actions of Chief Oil and Gas. We all must be aware of corporate shenanigans here on our doorstep, again. If you believe they are acting in good faith, go buy the Brooklyn Bridge, too.

I've seen three one-hour shows about problems in other states – Montana, Texas, and Pennsylvania – and it's the same story everywhere. For the company to say that we won't have the same problems here is ridiculous. We have the same geological structures, or they wouldn't be interested in drilling here. To think you could drill through the ground, set off explosions below, and not affect the land and water they drill through is bizarre. The underground formations are a jumble of cracked rock with water in between.

One thing that really gets my attention – The energy plan devised by then Vice President Cheney and friends directly exempted "fracking" from the safeguards of the Clean Water Act. That should put everyone on high alert.

This situation is so serious for the future health and beauty of Garrett County that we should all fill our properties with signs – sold nationwide – that read "Don't 'Frack' With Our Water'." If you think wind turbines ruin the view, how about gas burn-off flames, scalped land, and pot-holed roads, compounds filled with chemical tanks, no emergency safeguards, etc., and for only 20 years of gas? Does that really help our grandchildren?

Foreign fuel costs are a great part of our debt, and the world is running out of them, which is why we have the dangerous and dirty new ways of drilling. The "Debt Fueled-Easy Money" bubble has burst, so let's go "green" and create jobs through sound innovation.

I sure hope President Obama will stick up for the middle class and say no to the Republicans when it comes to continuing tax breaks for the wealthy. And, I don't want to hear class warfare here – the wealthy class won already. In the 20 years since Reagan, the percentage of money held by the wealthy has gone from 5% to 80%. God help the poor and the middle class.

Sincerely,
Cynthia S. Knight

To the Editor:

I live in New York state now, but I spent the first 18 years of my life in Garrett County. Later, although I lived and worked in the Baltimore area and my husband-to-be was from Baltimore, when I decided to get married, Garrett County was my choice for the wedding. I still have family and friends in the county, so I have a great deal of interest in the area.

I was recruited to New York in 1982 for a great journalism job, and once I saw the beautiful rolling hills and mountains, it reminded me so much of Garrett County, I knew I would feel comfortable. So my husband and I have been here since.

My point in writing is not to provide my life story, but some background and say I've done my gas drilling research. New York's Catskills, where we live, is like Garrett County in its beauty, but it's also like Garrett County because many city people are drawn here. It offers a respite from their hectic lives because of its beauty. Both areas count on those tourism dollars. Both, too, are being asked to deal with the Marcellus shale problem, whether to fight it or let the big natural gas companies ruin its beauty, air and water, and, therefore, its citizens' health and that of its pets, livestock, fish and aquatic life, and animals in the wild.

To me, it's a no-brainer, sinful. But don't take my opinion or rely on my research. Get on the Internet or go to the library and find some of the tons of information out there. I know a lot of people have been offered money to let the gas people rip up their roads and land with humongous trucks and equipment, not to mention the drilling, blasting, constant noise and toxic chemical mix hydrofracking uses, because that's what will happen no matter what the slick company people tell you and the pretty pictures they flash. Is it worth it? In that case, it all comes down to greed, doesn't it?

Your newspaper has a responsibility to get out and visit neighboring Pennsylvania and West Virginia, which have already seen the negative effects of gas drilling down in the earth thousands of feet. Do some real reporting, and print some real photos from places in those states that have already suffered.

Mary Humberson DeCicco

To the Editor:

Professor Gates is correct (letters to the editor, The Republican, November 29). Industrial wind is too inefficient and too taxpayer expensive to be worth it, and it is time for the public to take another look.

A recent White House memo released by the Wall Street Journal revealed how much the public is paying for wind turbine installations – a whopping 65%. With five-year double depreciation and other perks, the industry has only 11% of "skin in the game," according to the Office of Management and Budget and the Treasury, cited in the president's briefing. The people put up the majority of the money, but have no equity, as the briefing paper states.

As Gates points out, lacking base-load capacity, wind depends on immediately available backup energy when the wind fluctuates. This takes wind out of play in reducing greenhouse gasses because most of the time the backup is based on combustion of fossil fuel, and the turbines only produce approximately 30% of their rated capacity.

Add to this the cumulative loss of forest cover on highland ridge tops, ever increasing mortality to songbirds, raptors, and bats, and loss of the visual character of our mountains.

Industrial wind makes no sense. It functions as a tax-avoidance scheme for big companies.

To the Editor:

I would like to encourage everyone to attend Joy of Christ at the former armory in Oakland. This year, Joy of Christ is fortunate to have Scott Humston perform. While billed as a "magician," he is a Christian, and makes it clear that he does sleight of hand tricks in which he will spread the Gospel.

He took over New Dimensions Evangelism from Felix Snipes, and in the last 25 years over 200,000 people have made decisions for Christ. Besides being an outreach, his shows are just plain fun! He also uses puppets, comedy, and audience interaction to create a show you won't forget! He has performed at the White House, and even Charles Stanley, pastor of First Baptist Church of Atlanta, recommends his ministry.

Most of his shows are in the Southeast, and this is his first show in this area. I was able to see one of his rare northern shows in Pittsburgh in March, and I think anyone would enjoy his performance. At that show, he was at a Christian school teaching about attitudes. He used an optical illusion to "blow up" and then "shrink" the principal's head!

Scott and I were both students at Trevecca Nazarene University in Nashville. I am honored to be his friend, and I'm very excited that he is going to be in Oakland.

He will be performing at 7 p.m. next Monday, Dec. 6. It is free, and there is a free meal for all who come out. Before Scott's show there will be others performing, so be sure and come out at 6:30. You'll leave the show having had a great time and will know why you shouldn't touch the candy cane!

For more information on Scott, go online to www.scotthumston.com.

Deep Creek Marina Named Top 100 Dealer

Deep Creek Marina has recently received an award recognizing the company as a Top 100 Dealer. Last month at the Rosen Plaza in Orlando, Fla., Adrian Spiker, general manager of Deep Creek Marina, accepted the award sponsored by the magazine Boating Industry.

This marks the magazine's sixth-annual listing of Top 100 Dealers, which is "a much needed guide to those dealerships that provide their boating community with an industy-leading sales and service experience," said Matt Gruhn, editorial director and publisher of Boating Industry.

This marine dealer ranking compiles a group that collectively generates more than $879 million in annual retail sales, accounting for 2.9 percent of the overall U.S. boating market.

Over the past few years the industry has experienced losses of 30 percent in annual sales. The Top 100 Dealers, however, have lost only 14.5 percent of their average generated revenue.

While the numbers associated with these dealers may seem large the rankings are not solely based on volume of sales. Gruhn claims that selection for the rankings is based on overall business operations, customer service, marketing, and professionalism.

The 2010 Top 100 Dealers employ a combined 3,900 people and operate 244 retail locations across North America.

"This is such an honor to be considered among the best in the marine industry. There are so many great dealers in North America. To be considered as one of the best is very huge for our business," stated Spiker.

The meeting will close following the approval of bills and committee reports.

Man Charged With Assault, Reckless Endangerment

An Oakland man has been charged with several counts of assault following a dispute at a Steyer Gorman Road residence last Friday. Garrett County sheriff's deputies were the investigating officers.

It was revealed that Timothy Morris Tichinel Sr., 40, reportedly pointed a loaded shotgun at a 30-year-old male and his 7-year-old son. A warrant was obtained for Tichinel's arrest charging him with two counts of first-degree assault, two counts of second-degree assault, and three counts of reckless endangerment.

He was located on Saturday at a residence in Kitzmiller and taken to the District Court commissioner's office, where he was held on $25,000 bond.

Adorable Adoptables

THIS NICE SET OF FEMALE FELINES is currently housed at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. One is all white and has one brown eye and one blue eye. The other is a Siamese mix and has very soft fur. "They have to be adopted together," noted a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. Also looking for homes are a large, tailless male orange tabby (below left) that is very personable and a black/white female cocker spaniel that was picked up with no ID in Loch Lynn. "These and others are available for adoption," said the spokesperson. "Several dogs and kittens were taken to rescues by HART, making much needed room at the shelter. Please remember to put bedding in your outside dog boxes to keep your dogs warm. Straw is provided for free by the GC Humane Society, but only take a part of a bale per dog house so there is enough for everyone." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday.

4-H Club News

OAK HILL

by Emily Fratz, reporter

The regular meeting of the Oak Hill 4-H Club was held on Nov. 18 at the Accident fire hall. It began with pledges, officers' reports, and roll call.

Next, the group discussed plans for the upcoming Christmas party and exchanged names for gift purchasing. Members turned in stuffed bears for the club's contribution to the "Share a Bear" campaign.

Re-enrollment forms for 2011 were collected. Nominations were taken for 2011 club officers, and the following members were elected: Annie Fratz, president; Collin Fratz, vice president; Morgan Rush, secretary; Bailey Brewer, treasurer; and Emily Fratz, reporter.

Following new business discussions, Collin Fratz, Bailey Brewer, and Lindsay Brewer each gave a demonstration on their small bore hunter safety projects.

After the meeting was adjourned, younger members completed a craft project and a snack was provided.

The next meeting will also be the Christmas party, and is planned for 7 p.m. this Saturday, Dec. 4, at the Accident fire hall. Members are reminded to bring gifts for the gift exchange and their assigned food item for the covered dish meal.

Read. Then Recycle.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

CNN's Heroes of the Year is an annual program that spotlights ordinary people who are really making the world a better place, or like my daughter Caitlin, they try to change the world in the right way.

This Thanksgiving had plenty of reasons to count our blessings. Like a home to be sheltered in, because today is a pretty miserable day – cold, rainy, and icy. And I see that the rain is to turn into snow in the early morning hours.

It's nice to know that there are people who donate their time to serve a Thanksgiving feast to the most down and out folks.

This is reality television that I can enjoy and embrace, because no matter how bad things are across the globe, people are making a positive difference.

You no doubt heard Africa called the Dark Continent. But a young man from Kenya realized how darkness can prevent children from the rural underdeveloped part of his country from getting an education. They crowded around a little smoking fire trying to go over their lessons. So this young man decided to make "good lights" out of scrap and very cheap batteries. So far, he has been able to provide a thousand lights where people are very far from electrical power. His theme song is "This Little Light of Mine..." So now the Dark Continent is not quite as dark.

The program also featured celebrities who devote their time, energy, and money to worthy projects; like Jon Bon Jovi. He primarily focuses on rebuilding downtrodden neighborhoods, especially taking on the problem of the homeless. Can you imagine not having a place to go during miserable weather? For some, the only thing that shelters them from the sleet are a few sheets of newspaper.

Caitlin was very delighted to learn that the winner of the CNN Hero of the Year award was a woman from Tibet who was working to stop the trafficking of little girls into the sex trade. She built a place to provide a refuge for the girls she was able to free, and she is traveling across her country to all the small villages and telling everyone, "If some men come here and tell you that they have a good job in the city, like working in a café, the truth is very far from that."

I looked forward to this program, and it made me feel more hopeful that many good, love-filled people are working hard to make the world better. I wish all Americans had seen this program, because its message is, "Yes, we can!" Each one in his own way.

I want to do something to help, but I don't know how I could help.

It was a pretty exciting Steelers game last Sunday afternoon. It ended up in overtime. The Buffalo quarterback threw a picture-perfect pass into the end zone, which would have won the game, but the receiver just dropped the ball. The Steelers then kicked a field goal to win. So now the Steelers just need to beat Baltimore this Sunday evening.

It's not very fun wondering whether my Social Security check will come in when it's supposed to on Friday. But some elected officials don't care about keeping promises to the American people. They seem very reluctant to pass the renewal of unemployment insurance benefits. This money was paid in good faith when the person who earned it was employed.

The Bittinger Parish will celebrate Holden evening prayer services on Wednesdays during Advent. The services began on Wednesday evening at Emmanuel, and the second service will be held at 6:30 p.m. at St. John's of Meadow Mountain next Wednesday, Dec. 8. The prayer service will be followed by a soup and bread supper.

Emmanuel Lutheran Church will hold choir practice on Dec. 5, 12, and 19 immediately following worship service in preparation for the Christmas Eve service. Everyone is invited to come and join the choir.

The Women of the ELCA at Emmanuel will hold a Christmas tea on Sunday, Dec. 12, at 2 p.m. at the church. All women of the parish are invited to attend, and each person is asked to bring a finger food to share.

Congregational meetings will be held on Dec. 12 immediately following the service at each church of the Bittinger Parish. Congregational and parish budgets will be presented, and council members will be elected for the 2011-2013 term.

Failure To Yield Right Of Way Results In Wreck

Maryland State Police responded to a two-vehicle accident in McHenry that resulted in the transport of one driver to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Investigation revealed that Autumn Frazee, Friendsville, pulled out of the Garrett College parking lot into the path of a vehicle driven by Thomas Frazee, Rawlings, on Bumble Bee Road. Autumn Frazee was taken to GCMH by Northern Rescue Squad and was later cited for failure to yield right of way.

Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company also responded to the 3:40 p.m. scene.

DUI, DWI Charges Stem From Single-Vehicle Accident

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested a woman on drinking and driving charges following a single-vehicle accident at the intersection of Kitzmiller Road and Maryland Highway on Tuesday.

Investigation revealed that Shanna Rae Riggleman had been traveling north, when she failed to control her speed, causing her to hit the guardrail on the westbound shoulder of Maryland Highway. She was charged with driving under the influence, DUI per se, driving while impaired, and failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

Keena Yommer, Joshua Shaffer Marry In July 10 Ceremony

Keena Alyce Yommer and Joshua Andrew Shaffer were married on July 10 at Cornerstone Assembly of God in Boynton, Pa.

The bride is the daughter of Ken and Bonnie Yommer, Grantsville. The groom is the son of Lynn and Shelby Shaffer of Tyrone, Pa.

Pastor Shaun Ross officiated the wedding, and the Rev. Thomas Twigg offered communion.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and wore a strapless gown gathered at the side with cascading folds over exposed tulle. The pattern of lace and beading on the sweetheart bodice continued throughout the dress and train.

Miss Yommer carried a bouquet of fuschia Gerber daisies, and the groom, in a black tux with a white vest and tie, wore a matching boutonniere that complemented the bride's bouquet.

The bridesmaids carried bouquets of white Gerber daises and wore teal tea-length strapless dresses. The groomsmen wore black tuxedos with gray vests and ties.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Brandi Ross and Kristin Yommer, as matron and maid of honor, respectively. Bridesmaids were Corinne Moser, cousin of the bride; and Kim Goforth, Renee Marker, and Kelsie Marker, all friends of the bride.

The best man was Jonathan Harris, friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Andrew Brisbin, Josue Higueros, Chris Irvin, and Aaron Bell, all friends of the groom; and Jared Shaffer, brother of the groom.

The flower girl was Isabel Higueros, friend of the bride and groom. The ring bearer was Austin Ross, nephew of the bride.

Music for the prelude was provided by pianist Shalisha Nason, cousin of the bride, and the processional was performed by Chris and Allison Irvin, accompanied by Chris and Josue Higueros. Special music was offered by Andrew Brisbin, as well as both the groom and the father of the bride.

A reception followed at the Avilton Community Center.

The bride is a 2010 graduate of Valley Forge Christian College with a degree in pastoral counseling. The groom will graduate from Valley Forge Christian College in December with a degree in church music and music technology.

After honeymooning in Jamaica, the couple took up residence in Mohrsville, Pa., where the groom is the worship pastor at the Bridge Church and the bride is a teacher at the church preschool.

BROOKSIDE CHURCH PRESENTING CHRISTMAS COMEDY – The Brookside Church of the Brethren, located in Aurora, will present its annual Christmas program on Sunday, Dec. 12, at 6 p.m. The feature presentation will be a Christmas comedy titled Christmas in Cricket County, written by Eddie McPherson and co-directed by Patty Smith and Becky Rush. "In this social clash of the season, city cousins take a limo drive out to Cricket County for the reading of their departed uncle's will," Rush said. "Their country cousins welcome them into their holiday celebrations, even though these 'celebrations' are very unlike anything the city cousins are used to. This performance will leave you filled with laughter and the realization that it is better to give than to receive, especially if you are the one getting 'frog liver jelly.'" The evening's performance will also include an opening skit, The Christmas Box, directed by Heidi Quails. This skit is focused on the true meaning of the season, Qualls said, and is about helping others during this time of the year. Pictured are the cast members for Christmas in Cricket County. In front are Sabryn and Alexis Schoolcraft. Kneeling from left are John Quails, Bethany Rush, and Jeffrey Rush. In the back are Randy Smith, Tonya Schoolcraft, Donna Moats, and Phil Schoolcraft. ## Farm Service Agency Reports

Eric M. McCartney, County Executive Director
Preston County FSA Office

FSA REMINDS PRODUCERS TO VOTE IN THE 2010 ELECTION

Eric McCartney, executive director of the Preston County Farm Service Agency, reminds farmers in Local Administrative Area (LAA) 2, which includes Kingwood, Valley, and Portland districts, to vote in the 2010 county FSA committee election.

The committee is the most direct link between USDA Farm Service Agency programs and local producers, according to McCartney. County committeepersons administer USDA FSA programs on the local level, inform producers of program provisions, recommend necessary program changes, participate in county committee meetings, and perform other duties assigned by the state FSA committee. "So please take time to vote for the candidate who you think is most qualified to serve the farmers in your LAA," McCartney said.

Completed election ballots must either be postmarked or returned to the Preston County FSA Office no later than next Monday, Dec. 6. The Farm Service Agency encourages participation in the 2010 committee election by all under-represented groups in LAA 2.

The Preston County FSA Committee will tabulate LAA 2 election ballots next Wednesday, Dec. 8, at 9:30 a.m. in the Kingwood USDA Service Center, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza. This meeting is open to the public.

Eligible producers in LAA 2 who have not received an election ballot in the mail may obtain one by calling 304-329-1923, faxing 304-329-3056, or visiting the FSA office. Anyone interested in learning more about the Farm Service Agency may visit www.fsa.usda.gov/pas/default.asp online.

Pesticide License Update Meetings Offered In G'ville

The University of Maryland Extension will offer two recertification courses for farmers needing to update their private pesticide applicator licenses. The private applicator license requires that farmers attend a two-hour recertification course once every three years.

This year's recertification courses will be held on Monday, Dec. 6, at the Grantsville Library and on Monday, Dec. 13, at the Garrett County Extension Office in Mtn. Lake Park. Both meetings will be held from 6 to 8 p.m.

Persons with questions about certification credits should contact Willie Lantz at the Garrett County Extension Office at 301-334-6960.

For those interested in obtaining a private applicator pesticide license, a training to prepare for the test will be held on Jan. 10, 2011, at the Extension Office from 7 to 9 p.m.

The test is scheduled for Monday, Jan. 17, starting at 3 p.m.

Big Night By Jenkins Leads Lakers To 71-56 JUCO Win Over Harford

Behind a 22-point, 14-rebound performance by Callum Jenkins, the Garrett College men's basketball team coasted to a 71-56 Maryland JUCO victory last night over host Harford CC.

Despite the temporary loss of three players to injury, the Lakers jumped out to an early lead, were on top 39-33 at intermission, and out-scored their hosts in the second half by a 32-23 margin.

"Even though we were undermanned, we played very good defense and, because of our rebounding, were able to control the tempo of the game," said GC head coach Dennis Gibson.

Laker center Frank Holloway, Michael Johnson, and three-point leader Kory Gibson are all currently sidelined with injuries.

Jenkins was among three Lakers who finished with double-double efforts, as Jordan Gipson recorded 12 points and 13 rebounds, and Vlad Vukovic provided 11 points and 10 rebounds. Joe Dubuche also reached double figures with 10 points.

The Lakers outrebounded Harford by a 55-32 margin.

Callum had a great game," Gibson said, "but all of our guys played well. It was truly a team effort with some excellent defense."

Leading Harford in scoring was Lionel Perkins with 18 points, including a dozen scored from long range. Desi Johnson also reached double figures with 12 points and a team-leading five rebounds.

The loss dropped Harford to 5-3 overall and 0-3 in conference games.

The Lakers (4-2 overall, 1-2 JUCO) will host Westmoreland this evening, with the tip-off set for 7 p.m. They will travel to Keyser this weekend to play in the Potomac State College Tournament, facing CC of Beaver County on Saturday at 3 p.m. and then meeting Patrick Henry CC on Sunday. They will travel to CCAC South next Wednesday.

Laker Women Hampered By Fouls, Missed Shots In Two Road Losses

The Garrett College women's basketball team fell short on the road in two games this week, losing Monday night 71-34 to Allegany and again last night in a close game with Harford, 60-59. In both games the Lakers were plagued with fouls and missed shot opportunities.

In Monday night's action, Allegany's Larae Allen scored 21 points and had eight rebounds in the game at the Bob Kirk Arena. Allen sank nine shots, including a 3-pointer, and was the Trojans' leading scorer.

Teammates Kirkston Mitchell and Southern High graduate Torie Bosley scored 12 and 11 points respectively. Bosley also accounted for six rebounds in the win over the Lakers.

Garrett's Tanisha Williams' 13 points were complemented by Alice Abiya's 11, with the rest of the Laker squad scoring 10 points in the game.

The Trojans led 34-20 at halftime and continued to pull away after the break. The Lakers scored 14 points in the second half. Fouled 20 times in the contest, Garrett hit 9 of 21 free throws.

In the game at Harford last night the Lakers led in overtime, 59-58, when a flagrant foul under the basket sent Harford's Sharee Gaither to the foul line. Gaither hit both free throws with two seconds left and handed Garrett the 60-59 loss.

Lakers Abiya and Williams were again Garrett's offensive duo in last night's game. Abiya had 28 points and 17 rebounds, while Williams scored 16 points, 10 rebounds, four assists, and four steals.

For Harford, which trailed 26-14 at the half, Tiffany Taylor surged for a game-high 41 points. Taylor hit 11 of 26 field goals and 15 of 17 free throws.

Garrett, now with a record of 2-5 (1-2 JUCO), prepares to play at Howard on Saturday.

Stephens Selected To ESPN Academic All-American Team

Garrett County native Sarah Stephens has been named to ESPN's Academic All-American Volleyball Team. The selection makes her the fifth Frostburg State University athlete to win the honor.

Selections were made Monday by the College Sports Information Directors of America. Stephens is one of only 18 student-athletes awarded with membership to the All-American team, which consists of NCAA Division II and Division III players.

Stephens has also been named the Capital Athletic Conference Player of the Year, and in her four years at the university has helped FSU to four conference titles and an overall record of 114-26.

Ranked 16th in the nation in kills per set at 4.35 and 20th in the nation in points per set at 4.87, Stephens has finished her playing career ranked third in school history in kills with 1,598 and fifth in career digs with 1,159.

Stephens is a business administration major with a 3.96 grade-point average. She is a three-time All-Allegheny Mountain Conference academic honoree and a six-time dean's list student. Stephens has been honored by ESPN before and has received two CoSIDA ESPN The Magazine Academic All-District awards.

Heideman Invited To Down Under Sports Tourneys

Brittney Heideman, daughter of Garrett County native Julie (Tichnell) Stapleton, Nezperce, Idaho, and granddaughter of Larry and Janet Tichnell, Oakland, has been invited to represent the state of Idaho in the 23rd annual Down Under Sports Tournaments track and field events next summer.

The tournaments are hosted each June and July in Australia or New Zealand, with athletes from those two nations and the U.S. participating.

Heideman was invited to participate based upon her placing at the Idaho State High School Track and Field Meet last spring, and upon a recommendation from her coach. She competes in both the 100- and 200-meter runs.

She is now working to raise funds to finance her trip. Persons who wish to donate to her may do so by sending checks made out to ISSI and mailed to Julie Stapleton, 1819 Felt Road, Nezperce, ID 83543. All donors will be entered into a drawing for an all-expenses-paid trip for two to Hawaii and Australia. Persons desiring more information may telephone Janet Tichnell at 301-334-9763.

Down Under Sports was founded in 1989. Participating athletes also spend time sightseeing in Sydney and along the Gold Coast of Australia.

GC's Yoder Gains Recognition For Volleyball Efforts

Garrett College volleyball standout Jessica Yoder received All-Maryland Junior College Athletic (JUCO) Conference Honorable Mention last week, as announced by Maryland JUCO president Marc Ershler. This recognition ranks Yoder among the top 18 players from all Maryland junior colleges.

Ershler applauded the dedication and skills of the players selected for the All-MD JUCO volleyball honors.

GC coach Joanna Pennell praised Yoder's performance with the Lakers, noting that the 5-1 sophomore consistently demonstrated the good leadership, decision making, and communication skills required of the team setter.

"Jess was the leader of the volleyball team this year, both on and off the court," she said. "She averaged 19.7 assists and 17.6 digs per match. She led the team in aces as well with 3.89 per match. This was one of the top percentages in the Maryland JUCO conference," she said.

"On top of everything she did on the volleyball court, Jess is an excellent student. She has a 3.7 GPA and is always willing to be a tutor for the student athletes that might be struggling with their classes. She is the type of kid that I wish I could have a hundred of. She would do anything for anyone before even thinking about herself."

Yoder, who has been playing volleyball since fifth grade, took to the courts for the Lakers for the first time this year. She found the game to be played far more competitively than when she played in high school at Mtn. View Christian Academy in Springs, Pa.

"At first, it was difficult because we had not played together before. We had to learn to play as a team," she said.

The purpose of the Maryland JUCO Conference is to oversee and promote programs dedicated to the academic and athletic goals of its diverse institutions, while enhancing opportunities for balanced intercollegiate athletic programming. The conference provides organizational structure for its membership while strengthening commitments to the students and communities.

Consumer Guide To Long-Term Care Improved

Baby Boomers and people with disabilities increasingly have more choices about how they live their lives as they grow older or as their needs for assistance change. To reflect these new options, Maryland's Consumer Guide to Long-Term Care has been redesigned to emphasize "aging in place" by remaining at home, in the community, or a transitional facility, but includes information about traditional nursing home care.

"The state of Maryland was a pioneer in public reporting on nursing home performance with the publication of the Nursing Home Guide in 2001," said Dr. Rex Cowdry, executive director of the Maryland Health Care Commission. "This new guide continues that tradition."

From the 1960s to the 1980s, "aging in place" was replaced with aging elsewhere, mainly in nursing homes, according to Cowdry. During this time, homogenized families dissolved and dispersed geographically, women entered the workforce, and the traditional informal support system that allowed seniors to stay at home disintegrated and was replaced by more institutionalized settings, he explained.

However, since the 1980s, there has been a slow renewal of efforts to keep seniors and disabled individuals in their home or the community longer through the use of a myriad of community-based services.

"We know from surveys that people prefer to receive services in their home or community rather than moving to an institutional setting," said Bruce Kozlowski, director of the commission's Center for Long-Term and Community Based Care.

The guide emphasizes living at home or in the community by providing information on home modifications and community-based support services, including adult day care, home health, Meals on Wheels, congregate housing, and hospice. There is also extensive information on assisted-living facilities, continuing care retirement communities, and nursing homes, plus a myriad of links to other web sites. Where applicable, there are federal and state quality measures, satisfaction survey results, as well as photos of assisted-living and nursing home facilities.

Users of the web-based Consumer Guide to Long Term Care will find enhancements to the design that include:

- A facility search capability expanded to include locality, facility type, and services offered;
- A section on "Understanding, Planning, Preparing for, and Paying for Long Term Care";
- Information on home modifications to allow seniors and persons with disabilities remain in their home;
- Information on community support services, including senior centers, meal programs, resources for family caregivers, transportation, and technology assistance;
- A resource section that includes links to federal, state, and local sites that assist in answering questions about long-term care prescription drugs;
- Guidance on health insurance benefits, Medicare, and special transportation for persons with disabilities, and resources for family members or friends who help seniors and persons with disabilities;
- A "What's New" section featuring local news of importance to seniors and persons with disabilities; and,
- Improved navigation tools, such as drop down menus to select major information categories, pop-ups with definitions of terms, and easy to understand graphics.

The web address for the guide is http://mhcc.mary-land.gov/consumerinfo/longtermcare. Persons without Internet access may contact Carol Christmyer toll-free at 1-887-245-1762 for personal assistance.

Officers first contacted Shaffer during a routine patrol on Wills Mountain Road near Cumberland.

Michael Brian Heslop, 32, Friendsville, was charged on Saturday with driving under the influence of alcohol, driving under the influence of alcohol per se, driving while impaired by alcohol, and hunting under the influence of alcohol.

An NRP officer was patrolling the Savage River State Forest near Grantsville when he stopped a suspicious vehicle at Chestnut Ridge. Heslop was found operating the vehicle and suspected to be hunting and driving a vehicle under the influence of alcohol.

Also on Saturday, an NRP officer stopped a suspicious vehicle and discovered blood on the bumper and bed of the truck. Jeffrey Lane Savage, 42 of Elk Garden, W.Va., was suspected to be operating the vehicle under the influence of alcohol.

The officer recovered a loaded 30/30 caliber rifle from the vehicle. The investigation into the blood in the truck led the officer to Savage's hunting camp, where he discovered a deer that had been cut up and not tagged or checked in as required by law.

Savage was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, driving under the influence of alcohol per se, driving while impaired by alcohol, possessing a loaded weapon in a vehicle, failure to field tag a deer, failure to fill out a harvest record, failure to report deer, and removing the head and hide before checking in deer. The deer was seized and donated to a needy family.

Another Saturday arrest was reported when NRP charged James Michael Merson, 46, Eldersburg, with possession of a deer during closed season. The violation was discovered during a routine check of hunters in the Milt Dewitt Road area of Garrett County. The officer found two antlerless deer that had been harvested illegally.

Antlerless deer are not allowed to be harvested in Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties on private lands between November 27 and December 9. The illegal antlerless deer were donated to needy families.

Michael Joseph Andres, 52, and John Ryan Andres, 21, both of Frostburg, were charged last Thursday with hunting deer with artificial light and hunting deer at night.

The Andres vehicle was stopped on Church Run Road in Frostburg when the pair were observed shining a spotlight onto the field and woodlands. Officers seized a spotlight, a Remington 243 caliber rifle, a knife, and numerous rounds of ammunition.

A February 9, 2011, court date in Garrett County District Court has been set.

AN OPEN INVITATION!
If you have dismissed the idea of wearing a hearing instrument due to dissatisfaction with the way it worked or felt, you may want to give it another try. Since coming on the market in 2005, "open-fit" hearing instruments have revolutionized the way that people feel about hearing instruments. Not only are they more comfortable to wear and make the wearer's own voice more natural sounding, they are less noticeable than traditional behind-the-ear hearing instruments. As their name implies, open-fit instruments leave the ear canal open so that wearers do not feel as if their ears are stuffed. In fact, open-fit instruments address many of the objections that some people have toward hearing instruments. It's time to give one a try!
Success in wearing any kind of hearing instrument begins with the proper fitting of the most appropriate aid by a hearing specialist. A hearing aid that is appropriate to the impairment and well-fitted to the individual is more likely to be worn regularly—a key factor in bringing back the enjoyment of sound. If you'd like a hearing test to determine the state of your hearing, please feel free to call us at AUDIBEL.
P.S. Open-fit hearing instruments are most effective for people with mild to moderate hearing loss.

Earned Income Tax Credit Available For Many Working Taxpayers

by Lynn Little,
Extension Educator,
Family and Consumer Sciences
University of Maryland
Extension

One of the largest benefit programs for working taxpayers is also one of the most overlooked tax credits. It's called the Earned Income Tax Credit and, as the name implies, it's for people who work for a living but don't make a lot of money. This year some individuals and families may qualify for the credit for the first time because of unemployment or other changes in their financial, marital, or parental status during the past year.

Taxpayers with the earnings of or below $38,646 ($41,646 if married filing jointly) for families with two or more children; $33,995 ($36,995 married filing jointly) for families with one child; or $12,880 ($15,880 married filing jointly) if there are no children should check to see if they qualify.

You may qualify if your income was under $41,646 last year and you, or your spouse, had income from wages, self-employment, farming, or, if under the minimum retirement age, from disability retirement benefits paid under an employer plan. The amount of your EITC could be as much as $4,824, depending on how much you earned, your filing status, whether you have children, etc. Persons can find more information at www.irs.gov/eitc. The online EITC Assistant can help determine your eligibility and the amount of your credit.

To get the EITC you earned, you must file a federal income tax return and claim the EITC. IRS estimates that up to one in four eligible taxpayers fail to file and claim their credit. The extra dollars eligible taxpayers can get through EITC can make life a little easier, but you must file a tax return, even if you aren't required to file, and claim the credit to receive it.

Many communities have volunteer income tax assistance sites or local IRS taxpayer assistance centers, which will compute your EITC and prepare your return without charge. To locate a volunteer site, call the IRS at 1-800-906-9887. People should come prepared with the following items:

- Valid driver's license or photo identification (self and spouse, if applicable);
- Social Security cards for all persons listed on the return;
- Dates of birth for all persons listed on the return;
- All income statements: Forms W-2, 1099, Social Security, Unemployment, or other benefit statements, self-employment records, and any documents showing taxes withheld;
- Dependent child care information: payee's name, address, and SSN or TIN;
- Proof of account at financial institution for direct debit or deposit (i.e., cancelled/voided check or bank statement);
- Prior year tax return (if available);
- Any other pertinent documents or papers;
- To file taxes electronically on a married filing joint tax return, both spouses must be present to sign the required forms.

The Earned Income Tax Credit is the federal government's largest program benefitting lower earning workers.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

AIRPORT SCANNERS

by Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. Why do we have to get a scan at the airport that makes us look practically naked? Or else go through a body pat-down? I really don't want to fly airplanes any more. Can't they do something simpler and less intrusive?

A. It looks like help is on the way! The solution is to distort the image so much that it is no longer interesting for anyone to look at.

Distortion of images can be done very simply by computer. It's just a matter of geometrical mapping, which involves really simple algorithms in software. We all have seen different projections of the globe for many decades: The Mercator Projection, for example, is a rectangular map that distorts the extreme north and south, making Antarctica and Greenland look huge. A polar projection makes them look realistic, but the equatorial regions are all messed up. With modern computer software, you can switch around among different projects in an instant.

The exact same thing can be done with images of the human body. One familiar example of such a thing is a fun-house mirror, which makes you look tall and thin or short and fat, depending on exactly where you stand relative to the mirror; you can stretch your neck so thin that it vanishes. It would be fairly easy to install software in the TSA scanners to achieve those or other effects, and display a ridiculously distorted view of the person being scanned.

TSA employees have probably seen so many body images that they don't care or don't notice the body details anymore; they are looking for hidden chemicals or metal items. But the airport traveler who contemplates an accurate display of his/her own body considers that potentially embarrassing, and opts out of being scanned – which slows down the security line.

The way to obtain the cooperation of Jane Q. Citizen is to distort the image so much that no one can recognize anything at all. Then you could project it on the Jumbotron at a sports arena and nobody would care. Once the "social" side of the problem is cured, airport scanning will cease to be regarded as intrusive.

The Washington Post reported the following:

The fix would distort the images captured on full-body scanners ... but any potentially dangerous objects would be clearly revealed, said Willard "Bill" Wattenburg, a former nuclear weapons designer at the Livermore lab.... Wattenburg says the program is so simple that "a 6-year-old could do the same thing with Photoshop." He said the TSA scanners could be altered so that they "would record an image that ... would be totally uninteresting," but any potentially dangerous objects would be just as evident as they are now. Wattenburg said the new TSA machines could be readily reconfigured. "It's probably a few weeks' modification of the program," he said. "It's like changing the video card in your computer. They just strip out all the coding and put the very simple algorithm in. You could teach a kid how to do it."

The software solution was recognized at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory several years ago (2006), but the Department of Homeland Security wasn't interested until now. It's a shame that it takes a major public outcry to get such a simple correction implemented. It will probably take another year for it to come true, because there will have to be a cycle comprising: government request-for-proposals, submission of bids, evaluation by a committee, final selection, price negotiations, and awarding a contract. That entire process, intended to assure that nobody steals a single penny, is "standard operating procedure" – and what has caused the government to pay $600 for toilet seats.

Meanwhile, I'm sure the terrorists are rolling on the floor laughing at the enormous inconvenience being visited upon American travelers.

Medical Assistance Personal Services Program Helps Keep Independence

by Diane Lee, public information officer,
GC Health Department

Staying independent continues to be a big concern as the population ages. The Garrett County Health Department's Medical Assistance Personal Care Services Program is designed to help qualified residents stay in their homes by helping them with personal care.

"My personal care provider helps with my health," said Lois Brenneman-Erb, who has received assistance from the program for several years. "She enables me to be far more independent here than I could be otherwise."

Medical Assistance Personal Care Services Program (MAPC) is a state-funded program designed to qualify individuals to become personal care providers to go into clients' homes and help them with simple daily activities and household services directly related to medical needs. MAPC pays for a personal care provider and a registered nurse case monitor for eligible clients.

"When she leaves here, I feel relieved because so much has gotten done," Brenneman-Erb said.

A personal care provider must be at least 18 years of age, dedicated to helping others, responsible, reliable, and certified by a physician as capable of performing the needed tasks. The potential provider must undergo a criminal background test and be approved for employment.

The provider cannot be a member of the patient's immediate family (spouse, child, parent, sibling, in-law, or step relative) but grandchildren, nieces, nephews, and cousins may qualify as potential providers.

To qualify as a recipient for the MAPC services, a person must be eligible for medical assistance, elderly, chronically ill or disabled, under a doctor's care, a Garrett County resident, and in need of help with daily activities such as feeding, grooming, bathing, toileting, meal preparation, changing linens, personal laundry assistance, escort to doctor appointments, and limited shopping.

The registered nurse case monitor assists in locating a personal care provider, and meets with the provider and the client to explain the plan of care needed, and then monitors the care provided to the program participants.

"I have to give the registered nurse case monitor credit for lining up providers with the right person," Brenneman-Erb said.

As a special service, Garrett County Health Department offers a free adult evaluation and review assessment to any adult living in Garrett County. The Adult Evaluation and Review Services assess a person's medical and social service needs by doing a basic routine check-up, reviewing existing medications, and determining the need for assistance.

The evaluation team consists of a registered nurse and a licensed social worker. As part of the evaluation service, one of the team members will talk to the client and the client's family about the services that are available to help the person remain in the home. The team will determine if the person is eligible for the MAPC and refer him/her to additional county services if needed.

"I see cooperation between the agencies in Garrett County," said Brenneman-Erb. "They are not afraid to share information. I think you all have put your best foot forward and gone the extra mile."

For more information regarding the MAPC, persons may contact the Garrett County Health Department's Maryland Medical Assistance Program from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 301-334-7740 or 301-895-3111.

PERSONAL CARE PROGRAM AVAILABLE – Pat Foley, left, has worked as a personal care provider for the Garrett County Health Department's Medical Assistance Personal Care Services Program for many years. DIVINE HOPE CHURCH HAS NEW LOCATION — The Divine Hope Church will begin holding service at its new location, 110 Weber Road in the former Flowers by Webers building, on Dec. 12. The church recently purchased the building and is currently renovating it to meet the needs of the ministry. When renovations conclude, the church is expected to provide 150 seats, a large group area for the children's ministry, six multi-purpose classrooms, two offices, two bathrooms, and a full kitchen. The church anticipates the renovations may be completed within six to eight months. The Divine Hope Church's Sunday service times are 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., with children's ministry, for those at or below the fifth grade level, taking place simultaneously. Youth ministry service, for junior high and high school students, is provided at 5 p.m. on Sundays. The church is a non-denominational community organization that welcomes everyone. Casual dress is the norm. During service there is a live Praise Team which provides both traditional and contemporary praise music. The soup kitchen that was conducted the second Tuesday of each month at the former location has been temporarily suspended due to the relocation. The church expects to resume the service when completed renovations allow. A Christmas Eve service is planned to take place in the new facility at 6 p.m., and again at 7:30 p.m., on the holiday. The service will include candlelight and open communion. Participants will be directed to their parking spaces by the church's parking attendants. More than 75 posters and 32 table tents were designed and displayed in the school cafeteria with the help of health teacher Mrs. Stough. All activities were held during the week of Nov. 15, in coordination with the Great American Smoke-Out Day. Above with their winning posters are Keith Stahl and Natalie Johnson, who were presented free movie passes to Garrett 8 Cinemas. Also pictured are SADD students Bailey Tiemersma, Kristina Beiler, Janessa Beitzel, Haley Moon, and Veronica Platter. SADD students not present for the photo are Ashley Travis and Derrick Maust. ## IT'S TIME!

With the economic situation this year, we expect great need...

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the 13th year, The Republican newspaper and the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland are asking for your help. Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is the WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM?

The GFWC Civic Club of Oakland and The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM is basically neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds are being used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special corps of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Members of the Civic Club of Oakland are taking the families shopping at Wal-Mart. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $125 per child.

The Civic Club of Oakland is again heading up the volunteer/shopping coordination. Many volunteers are working together to make sure the children of Garrett County stay warm this winter.

Rare Condition Treated with an Enzyme

Pompe disease is characterized by a deficiency in a specific enzyme called alpha-glucosidase. It is a rare genetic condition that usually appears within the first several months of life. It may also first appear sometime during childhood. If the condition appears during adulthood, signs and symptoms usually begin during the 30s or 40s. Alpha-glucosidase normally functions to break down glycogen, or stored sugar, into glucose, or sugar. If glycogen builds up in the body, it can cause damage. Signs and symptoms of Pompe disease include severe muscle weakness, which can lead to serious difficulty breathing. This condition can be fatal. In infants with the condition, the heart and liver are also often affected.

Alglucosidase alfa is available as a treatment option for persons with Pompe disease. Myozyme (alglucosidase alfa) is used as enzyme replacement therapy. It can be given soon after birth and is administered intravenously every other week. Lumizyme (alglucosidase alfa) is approved for those 8 years of age and older with late-onset Pompe disease. The medication is given by intravenously infusion every two weeks. For older children and adults affected, a high protein and low carbohydrate diet can also be beneficial. Exercise therapy may be prescribed.

Advancing Through Advent

© istockphoto.com/Sjoerd

In this season of Advent, the four Sundays before Christmas, we celebrate an old truth, the coming of Christ. As we light a new candle on the traditional Advent wreath each week, we are reminded anew to prepare for the arrival of something momentous. Reflecting on an event that happened so long ago can reveal to us a new understanding of how to live our lives today. Prepare for Christmas in advance this Advent; attend your house of worship weekly.

Is Someone Watching Over Us?

Have you ever experienced the feeling that someone was watching you, even when you knew you were alone, or at least physically alone? Sometimes this feeling can be overwhelmingly powerful, and might even suggest to us that there is some other dimension that we are only partially attuned to. On the day that my grandfather died I had a very strong feeling of his presence, even before I received the news of his death, and in the days and weeks following his death many of my family members expressed similar experiences. This is a fairly common experience, and even atheists and agnostics will sometimes admit that they have had similar experiences, despite not believing in an afterlife. Sometimes this experience of someone being present with us extends to God, and in fact there are those who say that they experience God's presence on a daily basis. This is a powerful experience and a source of great comfort. We should try to keep the idea and the feeling with us that we are not alone, that God is always with us and that He loves and watches over us. We should return our love to God and try to live a godly life.

"Whither shall I go from thy Spirit? Or whither shall I flee from thy presence? If I ascend to heaven, thou art there! If I make my bed in Sheol, thou art there! If I take the wings of the morning and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea, even there thy hand shall lead me,and thy right hand shall hold me."

Daughter of 'Closer' keeps acting in the family

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: I watch "The Closer," and in one plotline, Kyra Sedgwick and Kevin Bacon's daughter, Sosie Bacon, played Sedgwick's niece on the show. I was impressed with her acting ability. Has she performed in anything else? –Pat Pochiro, Youngstown, Ohio

A: Her only professional credit before her run on her mom's TNT show was the 2005 movie "Loverboy," in which she played – of all things! – her mother's character at a younger age. And the director of that film just happened to be ... Kevin Bacon. At this point, then, Sosie's acting opportunities would seem to owe to her family connections.

That's not to say it always will be that way, though. Consider Mamie Gummer, daughter of Meryl Streep, who had a recent run on CBS' "The Good Wife." She'll also be a cast regular on "Off the Map," a forthcoming ABC series from executive producer Shonda Rhimes ("Grey's Anatomy").

Q: Why was Eddie Cibrian's character, Jesse, killed off at the start of this season of "CSI: Miami"? –Terry Loftus, Lakewood, Colo.

A: The actor's option for another year of the CBS crime drama wasn't picked up – in large part to make way for Adam Rodriguez to return to the cast full time as Eric Delko – so it was one season and out for Cibrian. With the way the cliffhanger left virtually all the regular characters in peril, having Jesse not survive the biological attack on the lab was a simple way to write Cibrian out of the show.

Q: Our DVR wasn't working right, and we missed the pilot episode of the new "Hawaii Five–0." Do you think they will rerun it when they take a break from new episodes? –Ginnie Schoenberger, Westminster, Md.

A: We're sure of it. Since this column is written several weeks before publication, that may have happened already, right after the end of the November "sweeps" period ... but if not, be on the lookout for it during typically repeat-heavy December. It's more than likely that CBS will be giving that update–launching episode another run soon.

Q: I am a huge fan of Fox News, and I have not seen Brian Wilson reporting from ashington, D.C., in a long time. Could you tell me where he is and why he is not on Fox anymore? –Jane Johnson, Dican, Okla.

A: Also Fox News' Washington bureau chief for a time, Wilson officially left the network in September, with plenty of unconfirmed speculation about the circumstances. Reportedly, he had been suspended as a weekend anchor since July, and he never went back on the air at Fox after that. He had been at the network since 1998, and at this writing, there was no word on his next job.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was comedian-turned-U.S. Senator Al Franken who made the following sage observation: "Mistakes are a part of being human. Appreciate your mistakes for what they are: precious life lessons that can only be learned the hard way. Unless it's a fatal mistake, which, at least, others can learn from."

• Those who study such things say that 1 percent of the world's lizard species have no males. The females reproduce by parthenogenesis, which produces offspring that are clones of their mothers.

• Amazon's Kindle, Barnes and Noble's Nook, Sony's eReader — it seems that everywhere you look these days people are reading onscreen. You may not realize, however, just how long digital books have been around. The first e-book was manually typed into a computer way back in 1971, when Michael S. Hart, the founder of Project Gutenberg, chose the Declaration of Independence to be the first literature so digitized.

• A woman in Tennessee was once arrested for biking while intoxicated — and she was on a stationary bike at the gym at the time.

• According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, if you're like the average American, you drink 22.7 gallons of coffee every year. The surprising thing about that statistic isn't how much it is, though — it's how little. It seems that in the 1940s, Americans were drinking twice that amount of java.

• If you look at the innards of a Boeing 747 airplane, you'll find a whopping 171 miles of wiring.

• If you consider surface area covered rather than population, the world's largest city is in Inner Mongolia, where Hulunbuir covers more than 160,000 square miles.

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Dec. 11, 1872, dime-novel hero Buffalo Bill Cody makes his first stage appearance in a Chicago-based production of The Scouts of the Prairie. Cody remained on the Chicago stage for the next 11 years. Buffalo Bill Cody was the hero of more than 1,700 variant issues of dime novels.

• On Dec. 6, 1884, in Washington, D.C., workers place a 9-inch aluminum pyramid atop an obelisk of white marble, completing the construction of the Washington Monument. A city law passed in 1910 restricted the height of new buildings to ensure that at 555 feet, the monument would remain the tallest structure in Washington, D.C.

• On Dec. 12, 1914, the Dow Jones Industrial Average suffers its worst percentage drop (24.39 percent) since it was first published in 1896. It was the first day of trading since the New York Stock Exchange reopened in November 1914 after being shut down due to the start of World War I earlier that year.

• On Dec. 9, 1921, an engineer at General Motors discovers that when he adds a compound called tetraethyl lead to gasoline, he eliminates the knocking that internal-combustion engines make when they run. In the 1970s, the Environmental Protection Agency required that carmakers phase out lead-compatible engines.

• On Dec. 7, 1941, in an early-morning sneak attack, Japanese warplanes bomb the U.S. naval base at Pearl Harbor in Hawaii, and the United States enters World War II. Two hundred Japanese aircraft destroyed or damaged 18 U.S. ships and killed 2,400 Americans.

• On Dec. 10, 1967, soul legend Otis Redding dies in a plane crash near Madison, Wisc. He was 26. "(Sittin' On) The Dock of the Bay" would be released in its "unfinished" form several weeks later. The whistled verse was a placeholder for additional lyrics that Redding had yet to write.

• On Dec. 8, 1980, John Lennon is shot and killed by Mark David Chapman outside his apartment building in New York City. Later that evening, police took Chapman into custody peaceably after finding him reading a copy of "The Catcher in the Rye" at the site of the shooting.

Teddy Bear

Q: I love teddy bears and recently inherited one that has been in my family for almost a century. It is a blond-colored mohair bear made by Farnell, with glass eyes and defined paws. I would like to get an idea of how much it is worth for insurance purposes. Can you help me? — *Susan, Amsterdam, N.Y.

A: One of the newest guides is the nifty Collector's Guide to Teddy Bears, by Judith Miller and published by Firefly Books. Miller, who had a Merrythought Bear as a child, claims your bear was crafted in about 1918 and is worth in the $1,500 to $3,000 range, depending on condition.

What To Do When the Sale Price Leaves You Short

If you're thinking of selling your home, and you expect the total amount you owe on your mortgage will be greater than the selling price of your home, you may be facing a short sale. A short sale is when the net proceeds from the sale won't cover your total mortgage obligation and closing costs, and you don't have other sources of money to cover the deficiency. A short sale is different from a foreclosure, in which the lender takes title of your home through a lengthy legal process and then sells it.

1. Consider loan modification first. If you are thinking of selling your home because of financial difficulties and you anticipate a short sale, first contact your lender to see if it has any programs to help you stay in your home. Your lender may agree to a modification such as:

- Refinancing your loan at a lower interest rate;
- Providing a different payment plan to help you get caught up; and
- Providing a forbearance period if your situation is temporary.

When a loan modification still isn't enough to relieve your financial problems, a short sale could be your best option if:

- Your property is worth less than the total mortgage you owe on it;
- You have a financial hardship, such as a job loss or major medical bills; or
- You have contacted your lender and it is willing to entertain a short sale.

2. Hire a qualified team. The first step to a short sale is to hire a qualified real estate professional* and a real estate attorney who specialize in short sales. Interview at least three candidates for each and look for prior short-sale experience. Short sales have proliferated only in the last few years, so it may be hard to find practitioners who have closed a lot of short sales. You want to work with those who demonstrate a thorough working knowledge of the short-sale process and who won't try to take advantage of your situation or pressure you to do something that isn't in your best interest.

3. Begin gathering documentation before any offers come in. Your lender will give you a list of documents it requires to consider a short sale. The short-sale "package" that accompanies any offer typically must include:

- A hardship letter detailing your financial situation and why you need the short sale;
- A copy of the purchase contract and listing agreement;
- Proof of your income and assets; and
- Copies of your federal income tax returns for the past two years.

4. Prepare buyers for a lengthy waiting period. Even if you're well organized and have all the documents in place, be prepared for a long process. Waiting for your lender's review of the short-sale package can take several weeks to months.

If the lender can approve the short sale, make a counteroffer or deny the short sale. The last two actions can lengthen the process or put you back at square one. (Your real estate attorney and real estate professional, with your authorization, can work your lender's loss mitigation department on your behalf to prepare the proper documentation and speed the process along.)

Success At Garrett Leads Young Local Mother To Set New Goals

ANOTHER GC SUCCESS STORY – With little daughter Trinity in tow, local single mom Alyssa Sisler shares her good news about a job interview with the Garrett College staff who encouraged her to complete her training to become a certified nursing assistant.

by Peggy Santamaria

With a smile like sunshine, Alyssa Sisler comes through the doorway bent to her pixie-size daughter Trinity. Alyssa has come to the office of Susan Fowler at Garrett College to share the news that spreads happily across her face.

"The director of nursing called me at home on Sunday night and wants me to come in for an interview as soon as my paperwork is finished," she announced with well-earned pride.

A 17-year-old single mother, Alyssa has reason to beam with her good news. She has completed her training to become a certified nursing assistant and is ready to take off on a path to a bright and challenging future.

Sue Fowler, program coordinator in the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division of GC, has encouraged and supported Alyssa through her training and now shares in the happy prospects of the young woman's success.

Alyssa told her story of how she came to this point in her life.

"I got a notice in the mail about the CNA training at Garrett College," she said. "I didn't really think I would be interested in it, but decided to go check it out and see what it was all about."

That decision proved to be a pivotal point for this young mother of a 19-month-old child, even though there were a few rocky moments at the beginning of the course.

"I had overslept one morning and missed part of the training. Sue called me to ask where I was. That was really good. I needed that push," Alyssa said. She wasn't ever late again.

When she got to the clinical practice portion of the CNA course, it all came together for Alyssa.

"I found out that I loved the work and I loved working with the patients," she said. And this positive attitude, brought on through her self-discovery, earned kudos for Alyssa from the nursing home staff monitoring her work.

Success in her endeavors is propelling Alyssa in a new direction.

"I'm going to take my GED test in December, and after that I plan to start at Garrett College while I work," she said. "I think I'd like to do general studies and maybe business courses. The people here at the college really focus on the students and their needs."

While her choices of study may still be a bit unclear, her reasons are fast and certain.

"I want to give Trinity the best life that I can," she said. With the clear dedication to her newfound goals, Alyssa Sisler is already well on her way to accomplishing this.

For more information on course offerings through CEWD at Garrett College, persons may telephone Susan Fowler at 301-387-3087 or go online to www.garrettcollege.edu.

Garrett College's "Green" Christmas Tree Wins Praise, Awards At Festival

by Peggy Santamaria

Last week's Festival of Trees in Garrett County, held at the former armory in Oakland, proved that a project undertaken for fun can result in an educational experience for many. For the second year, Garrett College donated a tree to the festival which was decorated with ornaments made of recycled materials created by students, staff, and faculty. Festive, colorful decorations were fabricated from old light bulbs, second-hand Christmas cards, bottle corks, and other detritus of daily life

The effort and imagination that went into creating ornaments and decorating the college tree were recognized by those attending the festival. The "I'm Dreaming of a Green Christmas" tree won a first-place ribbon in its category and was selected for the People's Choice Award.

Prior to the opening of the festival, GC Green Education Committee chair Dana Shimrock and fellow committee member Ann Wellham went to the former armory to decorate the tree.

"Once again, as it did last year, our tree and recycled ornaments generated a lot of interest," said Shimrock. "People came over to compliment the work and the originality of the project."

The idea of creating ornaments out of discarded materials seemed to appeal to those who saw the tree that first night.

"It was very encouraging for us to hear people recognizing the value of what we are doing at the college through our green education initiative," Wellham said. "People also were surprised at the creativity and imagination that went into the project."

As a ribbon winner, the Garrett College tree was entered in the auction, proceeds of which benefit the Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic abuse shelter.

"Our tree was auctioned for just under $300. We were excited and proud," Shimrock said.

The gentleman who had the final bid on the Garrett College tree decided to donate it back to the school so the students could enjoy seeing their handiwork displayed, and so the college could plant the live potted tree on campus.

Shimrock said she would love to see the spirit of a "Green Christmas" reach beyond the college community, and hopes that families will take time to make some ornaments or do other hand-made projects.

"Purchasing a potted tree is also a tradition that we had in our family for years, and our driveway is now lined with the trees of past Christmases and the memories associated with those holiday seasons," she said.

In response to the community interest in creating ornaments from recycled materials, Garrett College is now planning for future workshops that will be open to the public.

Medical Coding Classes Offered By Garrett Coll.

Medical coding classes will be offered in nine sequential courses at Garrett College's Northern Outreach Center in Grantsville beginning Monday, Jan. 24.

The program includes the following classes: Medical Terminology, Introduction to Anatomy and Physiology, Medical Coding Specialist I & II, Medical Insurance Billing, Introduction to Pharmacology, Study of Disease Process-Pathophysiology, Medical Coding Advanced, and Medical Recordkeeping.

The series will prepare participants for the medical coding national certification exam and an entry-level position as a medical coding specialist.

Correct coding is an indispensable element in the financial security of all medical practices. Medical coders are responsible for accurately coding diagnoses, procedures, and supplies for each patient seen in the health care system. These codes are then forwarded to the insurance companies or third-party payers and are the basis for reimbursement.

Coding professionals work in a multitude of settings throughout the health care industry including hospitals, physicians' offices and clinics, long-term care facilities, insurance companies, government agencies, home-care providers, or anywhere else medical procedures are performed.

People who are new to the field or are re-entering it will first take Medical Terminology. The course includes an analysis of medical terminology designed to give a clear understanding of medical terms on the basis of roots, prefixes, suffixes, and derivatives. The class will be held Jan. 24 to Feb. 28 on Mondays, Wednesdays, and one Saturday from 6 to 9:15 p.m., except on Feb. 25 when the class is scheduled from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The next course in the series, Introduction to Anatomy and Physiology, includes an introduction to structure and function of the human body by systems and on the cellular level. The class will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays, 6–9:15 p.m., March 2 to April 4.

The third course, Medical Coding Specialist I, provides a basic introduction to International Classification of Diseases (ICD) and Current Procedural Terminology (CPT-4) coding. Topics include current procedural terminology overview, review of conventions used in ICD, and fundamental coding guidelines. The class will be held on Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., April 9 to May 14.

The fourth course, Medical Coding Specialist II, addresses additional diagnostic and procedural coding and is designed to broaden coding knowledge and enhance coding skills by covering a variety of medical specialties and coding issues encountered in the health care office. The class will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays, 6–9:15 p.m. from May 17 to July 7.

After completing these four courses, students may choose to broaden their knowledge and expertise by taking the subsequent five courses: Medical Coding Advanced, Medical Insurance Billing, Introduction to Pharmacology, Study of Disease Process-Pathophysiology, and Medical Recordkeeping, which will be offered during the next semester. Dates and times for these courses will be released in the near future.

The demand for medical coders is projected to grow faster than the average for all occupations through 2016, and a shortage of coders is putting upward pressure on salaries of medical coders, according to Terry Beachy, director of the Northern Outreach Center.

"There's never been a better time to get into the health care field," she said. "With an aging population and an emphasis on preventive care, skilled health professions are topping the list of fast-growing careers."

For additional information about these courses, persons may contact Beachy at 301-895-4700 or terry.-beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register, one may call 301-387-3069.

PANDORA'S BOX PROMOTES WORLD AIDS DAY – "Universal Access and Human Rights" is the theme for World AIDS Day on Dec. 1. Global leaders have pledged to work toward universal access to HIV and AIDS treatment, prevention, and care, recognizing these fundamental human rights. In July, the U.S. government released the National AIDS Strategy, the first comprehensive plan for addressing the epidemic in the United States. The strategy has three primary goals – reduce new HIV infections, increase access to care and improve health outcomes, and reduce HIV-related health disparities. In honor of World AIDS Day, Pandora's Box recently performed a skit called "Welcome Home" for the Garrett County commissioners. The skit reminds the audience of the need for their support and commitment to those inflicted with HIV and AIDS. Pandora's Box consists of Garrett County middle and high school students who perform health-related skits. Past performances include such topics as bullying, alcohol and other drug awareness, and teen dating violence prevention. Pandora's Box is funded through the Garrett County Arts Council, Governor's Office on Volunteerism and Service, and the Garrett County Health Department. Above are Ernie Gregg, commissioner; Donna McClintock-Fost, Garrett County AIDS Council chair; Alexandra Crotez, Pandora's Box director; Emily Nazelrod, Charlie Frazee, Raine Baker, and Cody Larue, Pandora's Box members; Fred Holliday, commissioner; and Linda Lewis, Pandora's Box director.

Master Gardener Training To Be Offered By UME

Individuals who would like to learn more about gardening or identifying treatments for pests and plants are invited by the University of Maryland Extension to train as a master gardener. The course is scheduled to begin Dec. 13 at 4:30 p.m. at the UME office in Mtn. Lake Park.

Master gardeners are trained volunteers who become representatives of the University of Maryland and agree to teach in their communities how to cultivate garden spaces and manage landscapes sustainably.

Students will become certified after successfully completing the 40-hour training and subsequently completing 40 hours of volunteer work.

Those interested in attending may contact Justin Hunt at 301-334-6960 or jhunt123@umd.edu.

WISP OPENS, TO CELEBRATE 55 YEARS – Significant snowfall over the past week as well as plummeting temperatures are helping the staff at Wisp to prepare for this weekend's official season opening, and also to celebrate the 55th anniversary of the resort, which is Maryland's only ski slope. Wisp has utilized its snowmaking system for several consecutive days, and will continue, as the forecast is showing little warmth in the near future. The grooming of the slopes is ongoing, as pictured above. Skiers were able to hit a few slopes last weekend, as well as skate on the new ice rink. The grand opening is today, Dec. 9, and this weekend the anniversary will be marked by special pricing (the 1955 prices of $7 lift tickets, as well as half-price rentals, on Sunday and Monday). Sunday's events will include a special birthday cake created by Baltimore's famous Charm City Cakes, the company featured on the Food Network's Ace of Cakes program. The cake will be served to Wisp guests at 1 p.m., and will be on display for some time prior to allow for photos. Other events Sunday and Monday will be a scavenger hunt, a contest, and hot cocoa and cider tasting. Photo courtesy of Wisp Resort.

Concerns Grow As Marcellus Shale Drillers Prepare To Begin Locally

Formal filings to drill new Marcellus gas wells in Garrett County are expected any day from a company whose work locally in Pennsylvania has produced complaints about damage to a water well (see related story), and, a new study finds, more than 1,000 violations of Pennsylvania regulations so far this year. The process is still new to many Garrett Countians, with significant revenue being promised by drilling companies. However, concerns over the fracking pro-cess continue to grow.

Another concern is coming to light in that the principal oversight agency in charge of approving drilling, the Maryland Department of the Environment, is understaffed, under-funded, and limited by outmoded regulations. This situation is generating new scrutiny in Annapolis, as legislators prepare for the 2011 legislative session.

At least two central Maryland delegates are known to be drafting legislation that would call for a moratorium on drilling until MDE's mining division in Baltimore completes a full review of its regulations and procedures. But details have yet to emerge.

"The MDE is working to find additional resources," said Lisa Nissley, legislative liaison and environmental justice coordinator. Nissley noted the passage of a bill last spring that allows the department to impose licensing fees on energy companies.

"This would give us the revenue needed to hire additional inspectors," she said.

A fee schedule is yet to be announced, she said, but would be subject to annual revision as the need for new inspectors grows with the list of proposed wells.

New York's legislature just last week approved a six-month moratorium on drilling, and Gov.-Elect Andrew Cuomo campaigned on a promise to rein in drilling companies. Concern about drinking water contamination has resulted in legislation that would effectively ban Marcellus drilling in New York City's watershed.

Nearby Pa. Resident Claims Drilling Company Damaged His Water Well

Chief Oil & Gas, the Texas-based energy giant planning to drill Marcellus gas wells in Garrett County, agreed this week to seek an end to a four-month-long dispute with a landowner just across the Garrett County line in Pennsylvania who claimed that the company damaged his water well while drilling for gas.

Edward Cornes, 71, of Addison had tried since August to gain a settlement from Chief, insisting that his 80-foot-deep well was "fine" until Chief began hydrofracking operations while drilling for gas on a farm about 4,500 feet away.

His well, Cornes said, became super-pressurized and began flowing non-stop out of its steel casing. Within hours, he recalled this week, his yard and property around the house were a swampy morass.

With winter having set in, one must walk lightly on the snow in Cornes' yard to keep from getting mired. At the well, water streams down the side of a masonry collar and downhill toward what he says is his "pride and joy," a three-story 200-year-old log home that Cornes had moved to this spot, and which he personally rebuilt in 1983.

In the basement, a pump in a 12-inch-deep by 30-inch-wide square works overtime, as water runs from under the concrete slab and fills the hole in less than two minutes. Cornes worries that soggy ground under the slab on which the house sits could shift.

In August, Chief dispatched a construction foreman to see the problem on Cornes' property, and proposed – "as an act of community service," said Lou Schall, the foreman – to bring in heavy equipment to dig a trench and divert the water so that Cornes' house was not undermined.

"But I wasn't happy with their plan," said Cornes, who didn't trust that on the waterlogged sod such excavation could be done "without creating a bigger problem still."

Cornes said that he asked for $5,000 to do the work himself, adding, "I thought it was a fair offer."

When Chief rebuffed him, Cornes also wrote a

Marcellus Shale To Be Discussed At GC Auditorium

The University of Maryland Extension of Garrett County will present a lecture titled "Geology of the Marcellus Shale in Western Maryland" tonight, Thursday, Dec. 9, at 7 p.m. The event will be held at the Garrett College Auditorium. The lecture will be given by geologist Jeff Halka, director of the Maryland Geological Survey.

Over the last 70 years, the 400-million-year-old Oriskany sandstone has been the primary target of Appalachian gas exploration. Tens of thousands of conventional wells have been drilled in this rock formation. However, geologists have generally understood that the gas contained within this porous sandstone unit was likely generated in the overlying organic-rich Marcellus shale.

FireFly Farms Earns '10 World Cheese Award Gold Medal

FireFly Farms, producer of artisanal goat cheeses from Maryland's Allegheny Plateau, has recently won a Super-Gold Medal at the internationally recognized World Cheese Awards.

FireFly Farms' aged goat cheese, named Bella Vita, was among the 47 cheeses that received the Super-Gold Medal in a class of hard, plain cheeses made from goat's milk. It was one of only two cheeses crafted in the U.S. to earn this recognition, a fact noted in the Dec. 1 news release of the U.S. Dairy Export Council.

Hosted on Nov. 24 at the BBC Good Food Show, a gourmet food conference held in the U.K., the competition brought together 201 judges from 19 countries whose palates met with 2,629 cheeses manufactured in 29 countries. Over the course of an afternoon the judges whittled down this large collection to the 47 Super-Gold winners which included FireFly Farms' Bella Vita.

"This is a great honor for us," stated head cheese maker Matt Cedro. "To medal against European creameries that have made cheese for generations is a thrill. The World Cheese Awards is the olympics of cheese—to receive a medal is amazing, but to earn a Super-Gold is indescri-

WOMAN OF THE YEAR NAMED BY CIVIC CLUB — The GFWC Civic Club of Oakland recently announced that Loretta Bailie is its 2010 Woman of the Year. She was honored at the club's meeting on Nov. 30. The honoree was born in Chicago, Ill.,, and has also lived in New York, Virginia, and Pennsylvania. She was a part-time resident of Deep Creek Lake for 20 years before making it her permanent home in 1989 at the time of her retirement. She is a member of the Appalachian Crossroads board of directors and a member of VIVA, Garrett County Memorial Hospital's volunteer service program. She is on the lay visitation committee at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland as well. She is one of two women who spend their Tuesdays working at the Treasure Chest, a store for Garrett County Lighthouse consumers. When she is not volunteering, Loretta enjoys reading and boating. "The Civic Club is privileged to have Loretta as a member," a spokesperson said. Pictured from left are Jo Miller, Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs president who was a guest at the meeting, Bailie, Ellen Fritz, Flo Royer, and Anne Forrester, past Women of the Year.

Accident Woman Receives Sentence For Animal Cruelty

A 22-year-old Accident woman pleaded guilty in Garrett County District Court this week to two counts of animal cruelty. Related charges against Helaina Marie Lamastus were dismissed upon her plea.

Judge Leonard Eiswert then sentenced her to 90 days in the Garrett County Jail on each charge, to run concurrently. Fines of $500 were also imposed, but suspended, and Lamastus is required to pay court costs.

All but two days of the sentence was suspended, and Lamastus was placed on supervised probation for 18 months. In addition to the general conditions of probation, Lamastus is also required to pay restitution of almost $4,400 to the Garrett County Humane Society for boarding and medical treatment, and she is prohibited from having domestic animals at her residence, the state's attorney noted.

Lamastus was charged in September upon an application to the District Court commissioner by officers of the Humane Society. On Aug. 20, acting on information that a number of animals had been abandoned at Lamastus's former residence, agents of the Humane Society located seven dogs inside that were left in two wire crates and one dog outside on the porch.

The Humane Society members noted conditions that included a lack of water, food, adequate space, and air. All of the animals were seized and provided medical treatment.

Commissioners Gregg, Holliday Conduct Their Final Public Mtg.

Garrett County commissioners Ernie Gregg and Fred Holliday held their final public meeting on Tuesday. Both are Republicans, and both lost their bids to retain their seats in the recent election. Dozens of county staff members and constituents were on hand for the meeting.

District 1 commissioner Gregg was elected to six terms (not all consecutive), and is the longest serving commissioner in the county's history.

"It's been a real honor for me to serve the people of Garrett County," he said. "I've tried to do that with compassion, fairness, integrity, and, most of all, honesty."

Commissioner Holliday has represented District 2 for three terms.

"It's been an honor and privilege to serve the people of Garrett County for the past 12 years," Holliday said.

He said he hoped some of those gathered at the meeting would forgive him for "sticking a pencil in their eye" in an effort to keep them on budget.

"But in the end even they will admit that these actions were necessary," Holliday said. "I'm leaving office feeling very good that the General Fund is debt free. I'm confident that the county services that our constituents deserve to receive are fully funded."

District 3 commissioner Denny Glotfelty succumbed to cancer in late October, before his first and only term in office was completed.

Phil Malone expressed his appreciation to the commissioners for their support of GEARS (Garrett Engineering And Robotics Society). The non-profit volunteer-based organization was formed in 2006 to get young people interested in science, technology, and engineering careers. To start them to think like scientists and engineers, GEARS helps students build robots and enter them in competitions.

Over the years, the county's 12 robotics teams have won more than 60 awards on the state and national levels. Malone noted that, so far, 100 percent of the group's graduating members have gone on to college, with more than 90 percent of them majoring in engineering related fields at such colleges as MIT, Cornell, and West Virginia University.

LOCAL ROTARIAN MEETS DESMOND TUTU — Robert Smith, member of the Oakland Rotary Club, has completed four months of teaching in the Semester At Sea program. While onboard a ship, Smith taught classes on the subjects of ocean affairs and world regional geography. His journey began in African ports, where he met with South African archbishop Desmond Tutu. After crossing the Indian Ocean, Smith was received in royal fashion by various Rotary clubs in India. All Rotary Clubs are engaged in the same global projects. These projects include the eradication of polio and an effort to provide safe drinking water everywhere it is needed. Smith is scheduled to return to Garrett County on Dec. 17. Pictured above are Smith, center, with Tutu and his wife, Nomalizo Tutu.

Governor Offers Buyouts To Trim 500 State Jobs

by Abby Brownback
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – State employees can sign up for a $15,000 buyout – the latest move to cut Maryland's budget – under a program announced Tuesday by Gov. Martin O'Malley. The buyouts are the first step to cutting 500 jobs before the administration might turn to layoffs.

The legislature ordered the governor to cut 500 jobs by the end of FY 2011, and the administration expects at least that many to participate in the Voluntary Separation Program, said Rick Abbruzzese, a spokesman for O'Malley.

"If it doesn't [reach 500], we have a budget we have to introduce in January, but we have the entire legislative session to debate that budget," Abbruzzese said.

The governor does not want to continue layoffs or furloughs, but if fewer than 500 people are approved for buyouts, "that might mean some layoffs," Abbruzzese said.

Eligible state employees can apply for the buyout – $15,000 plus $200 per year of service and three months of medical benefits – until Jan. 4, more than two weeks before the governor's budget is due to the legislature. This, Abbruzzese said, allows the administration time to anticipate the cost savings based on who applies for the buyout.

The FY 2011 state budget already accounts for paying through June the salaries of employees who will take the buyout. Those savings will balance the buyout payments, making the first year of the program cost-neutral, Abbruzzese said. A greater effect on the budget will be seen in FY 2012.

By Tuesday afternoon, two employees had filed applications, Abbruzzese said.

The last day of work for employees whose applications are approved by the cabinet secretary overseeing their department and the secretary of the Department of Budget and Management is Jan. 31.

There are about 80,000 state employees, but the legislative and judicial branches of state government, as well as the University System of Maryland, are excluded from the program.

Employees who take the buyout cannot work for the state or as a contractor for the state for 18 months.

SUPPORT FOR THE TROOPS – The Military Family Support Group recently hosted a food drive for local troops who are serving overseas. Over the last few months, members collected enough items to package 105 boxes that were then mailed to the troops just in time for Christmas. Appreciation was expressed to all who donated items and/or money. Youth pictured in the front row assisted with the project. They are (in no particular order) Miranda Dillsworth, Brandon Dillsworth, Brendle Creech, Alex Meyer, Parker Meyer, Katelyn Tasker, Ashley Hershman, Tyler Lantz, Samantha Hensley, and Jayson Tichinel. Adults involved with the project were, back row, from left: Sherrie Dillsworth, Ralph Miller, Sheila Shaffer, Larry Schlossnagle, Sharon Schlossnagle, Colette Savage, Tammy Lewis, Jacob Creech, Shari Miller, Tammy Hull, Barb Gaffney, George Gaffney, Angie Meyer, Cathy Menker, Patricia Creech, and Anna Marie Miller. The support group involves families who share the unique challenges of military life and provides many types of practical and emotional support. Families who have loved ones in all branches of the armed forces, no matter where stationed, are welcome to join. For more information, persons are invited to telephone Mel or Cathy Menker at 301-334-5906 or Sheila Shaffer at 301-616-6109. The group also has a web site: www.supportlocalmilitary.com.

Deputies Respond To Two Snow-Related Accidents

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to several snow-related vehicle accidents, with only two resulting in either injury or possible charges. The following are unrelated.

Deputies responded to New Germany Road at approximately 8:30 a.m. on Friday for a motor vehicle accident with injuries. Investigation revealed that Kristen Ann Moats and two juveniles had been traveling north, when she lost control of the vehicle on the icy roadway. The vehicle traveled off the road and struck a culvert. All three were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for apparent injuries. Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the early morning scene.

In a separate incident, deputies responded to Swanton Road, Swanton, on Sunday, where it was learned that William Brenneman was attempting to pull into a parking place, when his vehicle was struck by one driven by Jennie Bernard. Bernard had reportedly lost control on the icy roadway. One person was transported to GCMH by Tri-State Ambulance. Charges are pending. No additional information was provided through the press release.

Rotary Christmas Boxes To Be Filled, Delivered

The annual Rotary Christmas Project, which provides food certificates and gifts to local families in need, will culminate this weekend with the annual filling of the boxes and then delivery. Volunteers are welcome to help with the event.

The boxes, which are being prepared for 400 families this year, will be filled at the St. Peter's Catholic Church Parish Hall in Oakland on Friday, Dec. 10, beginning at 4 p.m. Volunteers are needed to help move the items and place specific things in each box.

The delivery of the boxes will take place Saturday morning. Volunteers are asked to come to the parish hall, which is located along Fourth Street in Oakland, by 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, Dec. 11, and take the boxes to the homes throughout Garrett County. Directions to the recipients' homes will be provided.

Daryl Walters, the chairperson of the Oakland Rotary project, said he and the club greatly appreciate the help of the public in this endeavor.

McHenry Woman Receives Two-Year Prison Sentence

A 22-year-old McHenry woman pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court on Wednesday to conspiracy to possess marijuana with intent to distribute. Related charges against Shannon Marie Davis were dismissed upon her plea.

Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced her to two years in the Division of Corrections. Eighteen months of the sentence was suspended, and Davis will be on probation after serving the remaining six months. Court costs totaling $745 were also assessed.

Davis was charged by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force following a February investigation at one of the dorms at Garrett College. While conducting scans through Garrett Hall, a certified drug detection dog alerted to the presence of drugs in a first floor room.

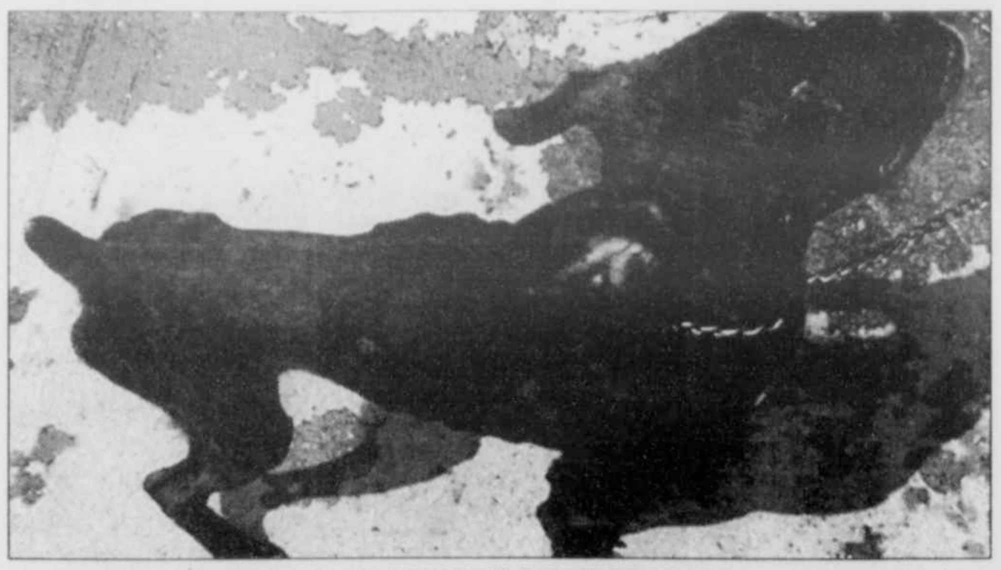
Officers entered to secure the room and located Davis inside with the male resident of that room, Quovone Deangelo Davis [no relation].

Investigators obtained a search and seizure warrant through the District Court and later found a quantity of cash and over ½ pound of marijuana in a bag inside the adjoining bathroom, according to the state's attorney.

Quovone Davis was convicted of possession with intent to distribute, conspiracy to possess with intent and a number of lesser charges at a jury trial in September. Judge Sherbin ordered a pre-sentence investigation report be completed on Davis, and he remains in jail awaiting sentencing, which is scheduled in January.

In an unrelated case, a theft charge against Michael Lynn Ware, 30, Oakland, was dismissed by the state in the Circuit Court, at the request of the victim.

Ware was charged by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in June after a local contractor reported tools were missing from a job site. Most of the tools were recovered, with various persons giving statements that Ware was providing transportation to another man who was offering the tools for sale, the state's attorney noted.



ANIMAL CRUELTY CASE HEARD IN DISTRICT COURT – A 22-year-old Accident woman was sentenced in Garrett County District Court this week for two counts of animal cruelty. One of the dogs involved in the case was an 8-month-old boxer named Baxter (pictured). The canine should have weighed about 40 or 50 pounds, but was only 17 pounds when he was seized from his owners on Aug. 20, according to the Garrett County Humane Society. Baxter died on Aug. 25 in an animal hospital. See story on front page for details. Photo courtesy of the Garrett County Humane Society.

Animal Cruelty

The animals were all determined by a veterinarian to be malnourished, dehydrated, parasite and flea infested and in dire need of veterinary care, according to the state's attorney.

Humane Society investigator Deb Clatterbuck stated that one of the dogs Lamastus was convicted of abusing was an 8-month-old boxer named Baxter. He died at an animal hospital on Aug. 25. The canine, which should have weighed between 40 and 50 pounds, weighed only 17 pounds, according to Clatterbuck.

Lisa Baker, president of the Humane Society, noted that the group members had previously attempted to work with Lamastus, counseling her in the needs of her animals.

"But she continued to acquire more animals, and conditions obviously deteriorated," Baker said. "Seizing an animal is our last resort. As a volunteer organization, funded through donations and our fund raising efforts, taking an animal into care is very taxing. Furthermore, we greatly appreciate the benefits of animal companionship and prefer to assist owners in providing for their animals."

"The Humane Society officers gave the pet owners two weeks to find loving, appropriate homes for the dogs, cats, goats, and horses they had acquired since the Aug. 20 confiscation," Clatterbuck added about the Lamastus case. "After that time, any remaining animals will be spayed or neutered by HART and PAWS and enter into our collaborative adoption program."

Baker reminds owners of the additional needs of their animals during the winter months, which includes adequate shelter, food, and water. Persons may contact the Humane Society's call line at 301-334-4470 if they know of an animal in need.

Three Arrested By GC Deputies On Court Warrants

Three people were recently arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on the strength of district court warrants. The following cases are unrelated.

Kenneth McMaster was charged with second-degree assault and reckless endangerment. He was taken into custody to await a bond hearing.

James T. Miller, 26, Falls Church, Va., was arrested on an Allegany County district court warrant, charging him with failure to appear in court. He was taken into custody in lieu of $2,500 bond.

Shante Roberts, 29, was charged with armed robbery, first-degree assault, second-degree assault, and theft less than $500 value. She was taken into custody to await a bond hearing.

Driver, Passengers Injured In Single-Vehicle Accident

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to a single-vehicle accident with injuries last Thursday.

Investigation revealed that Laura Jeanne Sweitzer had been traveling south on Cranesville Road, when she lost control of her vehicle on the icy roadway. The car crossed the northbound lane and struck a tree. Sweitzer and two juvenile passengers were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern and Northern rescue squads.

Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the 9:45 a.m. scene.

Two Charged With Assault After Dispute

Two people were arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on assault charges stemming from a domestic dispute at an Old Crellin Road residence.

Investigation revealed that Andrea Grimm, 22, Oakland, and Timothy Meadows, 39, Oakland, had mutually assaulted each other. Grimm is charged with first-degree assault, and Meadows is charged with second-degree assault and false imprisonment. Both were taken into custody to await bond hearings.

Maryland, D.C. Lead Nation In Female Business Ownership

by Stephanie Gleason
Capital News Service

Maryland enjoys the highest percentage of women-owned businesses of any state except the District of Columbia, census statistics released Tuesday show.

"We used to be in the top 10, but we were never No. 2," said Joanne Saltzberg, CEO of Women Entrepreneurs of Baltimore. "It's very good news for Maryland."

The 2007 census figures show that women in Maryland own 33 percent of businesses, up from 31 percent in 2002, the last time the survey was conducted. That rate outstrips the nationwide pace of increasing women's ownership. Nationally in 2007, 29 percent of businesses were women-owned, up from 28 percent in 2002.

The bump has come without any specific Mary-

How Sweet It Is...

It is human nature that causes people to not have the same level of appreciation or care for something if it is simply handed to them, with no major effort required on the part of the receiver. The proverbial "rich kid" does not always take great care of, say, a new car because he knows that he can just get another one if he crashes or otherwise abuses the first one.

Some, then, may have been concerned that the Garrett County scholarship program, which provides free tuition for local students to attend Garrett College, would end up with a similar result – that the student retention rate, overall grade point average, and level of transfer success to other schools would all suffer because our young high school grads are simply handed such a gift.

How sweet it is, though, to report that the exact opposite seems to be occurring, based upon current figures at Garrett College. Turns out that the graduation and transfer success rates of GC students far exceed those of the state's other community colleges and the overall state averages.

As noted in a story on this week's "GC News Beat" page (B-9), while the average graduation and/or transfer rate for Maryland's community colleges is 50.7%, the rate for Garrett College is an amazing 81.4%. Further, the state rate for students who complete at least 30 credit hours with a GPA of 2.0 or better and who have transferred or who are still enrolled at the institution is 72.9%. But at GC the percentage is 91.2.

This is an outstanding testament to several things. First of all, what a gem we have in the administration, faculty, staff, and boards of Garrett College. To attain such excellent numbers, these folks have to be doing an incredible job of educating their students. Secondly, how nice it is to see how well our public school system is preparing our local youth for success in college. Thirdly, the great majority of the students themselves are obviously dedicated and committed to being successful, and most of them are likely receiving solid support from home.

Therefore, as the three newly elected county commissioners are sworn into their positions next week, it is our great hope that they too recognize the extremely high value of the college scholarship program, and will do everything they can to see that it continues. It is recognized that economic times continue to be challenging for all of us, but we hope that any consideration of eliminating this program would be an absolute last resort.

To the Editor:

On Nov. 18, 2010, our family suffered the tragic loss of a son and brother.

This is a thank you to the Garrett County Sheriff Department for the professionalism and compassion shown to our family.

Det. Mark Pfaff, Det. Clark Warnick, and Lt. Jeff Murphy went beyond their duty as police officers for our family.

Sometimes we only hear of the bad things about police officers, but I want to personally say that I am proud of the Garrett County Sheriff Department, especially Det. Mark Pfaff and Det. Clark Warnick who know first hand what it takes to be a good police officer.

Garrett County should be proud of the Garrett County Sheriff Department also.

Thank you,

To the Editor:

Garrett County citizens made their voices loud and clear when they elected all new county commissioners that they want change. No doubt one of the changes many citizens are seeking is a regulated wind-turbine industry.

Now is the time to seriously address the health and welfare concerns of all Garrett County citizens that the previous commissioners ignored. The commissioners-elect need to place an immediate moratorium on the placement and construction of all wind turbines. Then they need to address appropriate setback and decommissioning regulations before this wind industry wreaks further havoc on our mountain heritage. Look at Backbone Mountain and then imagine these monstrosities all over the whole county.

Enough is enough! The citizens of Garrett County deserve to be protected now!

To the Editor:

While the Deficit Commission report has not yet been finalized in Washington, there are strong indications that one of the commission's recommendations will be the elimination of the home mortgage interest deduction (MID) from the U.S. tax code.

The MID has been part of the tax code for almost 100 years. This valuable deduction has helped millions of Americans afford their own homes. Many homebuyers factor in the interest deduction when they determine whether or not they can afford their mortgage payments. Eliminating the deduction jeopardizes the ability of first-time homebuyers to experience the rewards of their hard work and to be able to finally afford their own home.

Housing is the engine that drives much of our nation's economy, and to even mention reducing the tax benefits of homeownership could endanger property values or cause people to reconsider a home purchase. In these difficult times, endangering the affordability of homes by removing the MID is bad public policy.

More than 15,000 realtors from across the country have personally contacted their congressional representatives to express support for keeping the MID as part of the U.S. tax code. The Garrett County Board of Realtors encourages everyone to do the same.

Let's work together to protect this valuable tax deduction. Please call your congressional representatives today.

Sincerely,
Larry Smith

To the Editor:

To the Garrett County Health Department, Kendra Todd, Bob Stephens, Clara Shockley, Garrett County citizens, and America: Legally prescribed prescription pills are what is killing our children.

These legally prescribed, illegally obtained prescription pills are being crushed and snorted. These pills, combined with the legally prescribed "cure" from the legally run methadone clinics, are what is killing our children. Neighbors are stealing from neighbors, parents are pimping out their children, young adults are going to jail because of these legally prescribed prescription pills. Your outdated, misconceived ideas and misguided studies are killing our children. Big Alcohol, Big Pharma, and private-prison contractors are killing our children.

Wake up, open your eyes, and get the facts.

To the Editor:

Numerous residents of the area are complaining about the newly constructed wind turbines. They complain of everything from the destruction of the natural beauty of Garrett County, to the blinking red lights that are on them.

I'm sorry, but aren't building condominiums on the hillsides surrounding Deep Creek Lake destroying some of the county's natural beauty? It seems as if Deep Creek Lake is not Maryland's "best kept secret" anymore.

While driving around the area, one passes numerous other drivers with a cellular telephone in their hand, or while in local stores, one can see other shoppers talking on cellular telephones, but do any of them complain about the towers that were constructed so that they can receive and make calls?

In closing, what about airport towers? Don't they have red flashing lights too?

gany and western Washington counties are thought to contain substantial Marcellus gas deposits. All wells permitted in Garrett County also require the Garrett County Office of Storm Water Management to certify proper erosion and flood prevention plans in the event an accident occurs. Whether permissions might be granted even next year is unclear, as state and county applications for a well at a Samson Energy site the Piney Run Reservoir area are still pending, after some 18 months.

Samson has publicly stated it plans to drill "several hundred wells" east of U.S. 219 in Garrett and Allegany counties.

County records show the other major party of interest is Dallas-based Chief Oil & Gas. Its leases in the local area cover thousands of acres, primarily in northern Garrett, as well as south in the Pleasant Valley area.

The company announced in November it wants to begin with four wells north of Friendsville: on 129 acres owned by Carl Lohr off Old Morgantown Road, on Marlin and Lena Lawson's 83 acres just west of the Lohr site on Old Morgantown Road, on a 233-acre tract owned by the Dale Frantz family in the Mill Run area off Friendsville-Addison Road, and on Frazee Ridge Road, two miles off Route 42, on 358 acres titled to a family corporation also controlled by the Frantz family of Friendsville. All four wells are in the Youghiogheny River watershed, just outside the river's 21 miles of protected area designated as a Scenic & Wild Corridor.

A chief vice president of the gas company, Kristi Gittins, made the announcements at a meeting closed to the public and held in Friendsville Town Hall on Nov. 18.

Garrett County's general revenue fund reportedly stands to earn 5.5 cents on every dollar of gas brought to market. The county's two legislators, Delegate Wendell Beitzel and Senator George Edwards, pushed a law through in Annapolis the last session that lowered the fee 1.5 cents, with language noting that the lower rate was intended to attract more drillers. Local officials, as well as the legislators, are actively promoting Marcellus gas as an answer to a lagging economy and falling tax base.

Both Chief and Samson were invited to participate in meetings of the Garrett County Marcellus Shale Natural Gas Advisory Committee, set up this fall by the outgoing county commissioners, run by the economic development office, and purported to be the primary advisor to government about the wide range of issues involved in gas development.

While county tax coffers might benefit, owners where the wells are to be drilled would be paid well, and become what is being termed "shale-ionaires." This will occur only if the wells, once permitted, are successful, and if connections are made to the delivery pipelines, and if gas is indeed pumped.

However, despite frenzied activity in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, where some 2,300 Marcellus wells have been drilled in five years, the industry's profits have been hit hard by the recession and low domestic demand for natural gas. Consolidations have been reported among some debt-ridden companies. Apparently the biggest obstacle is wholesale gas prices that remained through the fall at least 30 percent below the widely reported break-even price for a Marcellus venture. Costs are said to vary from $3.5-$5 million per well.

The technology used to drill into the Marcellus shale bed, some 6,000 feet underground, allows for horizontal bores that require about 4 million gallons of water for each well. Samson has put together a procurement plan, which was approved despite the current severe drought that has greatly affected water supplies in communities such as Mt. Savage. MDE approved Samson's purchase from Piney Run Reservoir through the city of Frostburg, and roughly equal amounts of treated wastewater from Cumberland's municipal authority. Where water for the hundreds of other wells Samson intends to drill would come from is not clear.

Chief, to fracture its Friendsville-area wells, will rely on water from outside the state, said Gittins. Although critics have questioned MDE's enforcement capabilities — the mining division reportedly has about five inspectors — strict laws on water procurement are in place. For the Frazee Ridge well, Chief has told residents, the source is a public water utility in Preston County, W.Va. Up to 600 tankers, plus another 500-odd construction vehicles, would be required per well; as many as eight wells may be drilled at each pad. Truck traffic would reach the pad in woods above Youghiogheny Reservoir via Frazee Ridge Road, a narrow, mountainous tar-and-chip road that county officials confirm heavy truck traffic would destroy.

At the November Friendsville meeting, Chief executives, joined by the county's officials and legislators, explained how the drilling technology — only five years ago considered experimental in eastern America but now in wide use — passes through the more shallow strata from which well water for household and agricultural supplies is drawn. Toxic chemicals and sand mixed with water are then pumped under high pressure through a steel pipe surrounded by poured concrete, to create mini-earthquakes in the rock strata in a process known as "hydro-fracking."

Gas liberated from the shale can then be brought to the surface — after roughly 20 percent of the chemical fluid is recovered, pumped into tankers, and transported on rural roads to disposal sites in Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Chief's executives have allowed that, if successful, drilling activity could continue for many years at some sites.

In addition, other industrial installations typically are required to clean and process the gas before it can be pumped to the pipeline, which in northern Garrett lies along the Pennsylvania-Maryland border and goes under Youghiogheny Reservoir. Such connections would require purchase of many miles of right of way from other landowners, and hundreds of additional heavy truck trips, plus multi-acre, industrial-sized gas compressor stations in the unzoned parts of northern Garrett, involving still more permitting and industrial trucking. At the November Friendsville meeting, Chief corporate officials, emphasizing the income from royalties, maintained the residents will have minimal issues with the drilling sites.

One point not discussed was that the infrastructure necessary to pump the gas — and typically required before any royalties to landowners are paid — would take many more years to complete, once drilling began. The companies are reportedly under great pressure to begin, since five-year lease agreements made in 2006 will be expiring in coming months. Still, various clauses and conditions in leases provided by the companies contain loopholes that can keep the leases active, according to reports.

Land records in the Garrett County Courthouse show that only a small percentage of county residents sought legal counsel before signing the roughly 500 new mineral leases written since 2006. Even fewer residents appear to have been paid anything approaching market rates, with $10 per acre being common at a time when leases next door in Pennsylvania, for instance, were hitting $2,000 per acre.

Those records also reveal a pattern seen in every state where shale gas is developed. In Garrett, records show, leasing agents such as Keeton Group of Louisville, Ky., sold the bargain-priced lease holdings it had purchased in 2006 and 2007 to Chief, which in the following years then completed the 640-square-acre blocks that are the industry standard by buying leases from land-owners not signed up by Keeton. Drilling projects thus take shape around such model arrangements, allowing companies to centralize

Maryland Grads Offered Millions In Scholarships

Maryland's high school class of 2010 had some help when it entered college this fall.

Graduating seniors this past year were offered $774 million in scholarship funding to continue their pursuit of knowledge at the college of their choice, according to the results a new Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE) survey. That is nearly as much as the record amount received in offers for the class of 2009 and well ahead of the $576 million received by the class of 2008

"Our top-ranked school system has scores of top-ranked students coveted by colleges and universities throughout the nation," said State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick. "Scholarship money is a critical link to a college education for many students. We all know the importance of a college degree for individuals who want to compete in our changing economy."

The survey found that 17,056 graduates received offers out of a total public high school graduating class of 59,579, or about one in three. The scholarships included a record number of 310 National Merit Finalists and more than 400 scholarship offers from Ivy League institutions.

Maryland is ranked number one in the nation in the percentage of high schools offering and students taking college-level courses. Maryland also ranks first in the nation in the percentage of high school students who earn a college mastery score on at least one Advanced Placement (AP) exam, according to the College Board.

Concerns Grow

their efforts around what they consider to be a few choice "plays."

Maryland has strict regulations about disposal of the poisonous frack fluids, and no treatment facilities are currently licensed in the state to accept these waste materials. In Pennsylvania as late as 2009, the state reported that chemicals and suspended solids in the Monongahela River near Pittsburgh were routinely counted at triple the levels allowed by law; in 2009, according to media reports citing official records, one in five gallons accepted daily for treatment and disposal into the Monongahela was this gel-like "slick water."

Because the river provides drinking water for millions of people, the disposal practices were curtailed dramatically this past summer when Pennsylvania instituted new disposal guidelines. Long-term health effects are not known.

Pennsylvania officials have also cited the industry for hundreds of regulatory violations, including the mishandling of fracturing fluids that led to polluted ponds and streams. According to state records, dozens of lawsuits are pending, and the city of Pittsburgh has moved to ban drilling within city limits. The federal Environmental Protection Agency is also investigating reports of high ozone and related air pollution in rural areas caused by the industrial activity around drilling sites, while cautioning people with asthma and other respiratory ailments to stay clear.

Chief, in its corporate hand-outs and on its web site, reports an exemplary operating record. The company was cited at least once in Pennsylvania in 2008 for violating clean streams laws, involving the release of fracturing chemicals. This year, Chief ranked No. 2 in total regulatory violations among the 26 gas companies prospecting in Pennsylvania, according to a report released in October report by the Pennsylvania Land Trust Association. Of 1,056 citations identified by the Department of Environmental Protection as "most likely to harm the environment," Chief had nearly 10 percent of those, averaging roughly two serious incidents for every well drilled.

The most publicized incident happened this past June. In Marshall County, W.Va., an explosion at a well owned by Chief and its drilling partner, AB Resources, sent a column of fire hundreds of feet into the air and took days to bring under control. Seven workers were hospitalized. AB Resources' permit to operate in West Virginia was briefly revoked for failure to provide proper well casing.

Region-wide, where contamination underground has occurred, cracks and other failures in the bore casing passing through the water table is the top suspect, according to reports.

Such events point to yet another looming gas-related challenge for the county. Garrett has no hazardous materials (HAZMAT) team. In the past, the county has contracted with Allegany County for such services, but the contract was not renewed in July, saving $7,000 in this fiscal year.

The director of Allegany's HAZMAT team, a 10-person all-volunteer force, said last month that Garrett could still call on his county if needed to fight a well explosion — with billing handled on a per-hour basis.

When asked if his personnel had undergone exercises to deal with a Marcellus gas well fire, the team chief said, "Marcellus what?"

See related Marcellus shale stories in today's issue.

Adorable Adoptables

READY FOR VISITORS is this older, pretty terrier mix (above left). When he was brought to the Garrett County Animal Shelter, his fur was all matted. But after much grooming, he is ready for potential adoptees to meet him. Also ready to greet visitors are a very friendly male border collie (above right) that may need to be the only dog in his new home and a pair of sibling felines that must be adopted together. "These and other cats and dogs are available," said a Humane Society spokesperson. "Not all the animals at the shelter are photographed for the paper, so call or come in and see what is available. Why buy another gadget or knick-knack for your home when you could adopt a homeless pet; give it a home and have a present that gives back. Many neglect calls were received by the GC Humane Society this week concerning animals without proper shelter from the cold. Please provide a warm dog house with straw as bedding and fresh water daily. When the temperatures dip into the teens, bring in your pets and put them in the basement or somewhere warm for the night." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

There is no doubt that winter is here. It hit fast and hard. And very few people are willing to venture out on the road, especially those who were out a few days ago and had a very close call with a major accident. One was lucky enough when her car slid off the road and landed in a large honeysuckle bush.

Unfortunately, I don't have many groceries, and I don't know when anyone I am close to will be willing to go to a grocery store. I don't blame them, because although deep snow and drifts are bad, icy conditions are much more scary. Anyone who felt their vehicle just skid or slide in any direction knows what a truly helpless feeling that is.

Maddie Whittemore faces at least six months of recovery time before she can walk since her recent knee surgery. So about when we see green grass, maybe then she can take a stroll outside.

My brother-in-law Kevin Bass recently turned 50. His middle-age crisis present was not a hot sports car or a mistress. He just wanted his own medium-sized tractor. I saw it this morning when he used it to clear my lane. Thank you, Kevin!

Well, Elizabeth Edwards' suffering is over. I am watching an obviously pre-recorded piece of her talking about a letter to their children that she started more than 20 years ago. She said that she knew that they would still have their father to provide guidance and do what a good father does for his children.

Ordinarily, a church does not embody hate, but a Baptist church in Kansas is expanding its hateful practice of showing up at a funeral for a soldier bearing signs with sayings like, "Thank God for dead soldiers." And they say that all of the deaths of service people are only God's punishment for homosexuality. That is not something my God would do. My God is a god of love, not hate. Look around. Can you see any worse sin than same-gender love? I do.

But because a former soldier who lost his leg followed the gang of protestors in his wheelchair, the church's response was to have him arrested for "stalking." So now he sits in jail with so high a bail that he can't ever raise it. Can anyone who is extremely anti-gay explain this to me?

Someone quoted a Bible verse that calls homosexuality "an abomination." Well, there are plenty of worse abominations around that harm other people.

There is no way the economy can recover before some on the Right suck more big money from the American people. I don't buy the super rich "job creator." They are already sitting on many, many billions of dollars, so why can't they create jobs?

If Americans invested even half the money we spent on providing help to big financial firms on Wall Street, we could conduct enough good research to find a cure for cancer. How many years have passed since President Richard Nixon announced that his priority is the war against cancer?

There is one recent crisis that I'm not worried too much about. That is the batch of flawed $100 bills. The chance I will get hold of any $100 bills is almost zero.

I found the channel that will broadcast the very important game between the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Baltimore Ravens. It will determine who will come out on top of their conference.

I don't know how bitter the weather is in Baltimore, but it is pretty typical that Pittsburgh has more or less the same weather as here. And it is very wintery outside my house in Bittinger. There is about five inches of snow on the ground more coming down in the air, and the temperature is quite frigid. It's not good weather for a football game. Yes, the games played in these conditions are interesting to watch, but I doubt it is fun to play an important game in it.

I am forced to watch the network before the game, which begins at 8:30, since my remote control is just barely working. I am stuck on Channel 4. And that includes watching an episode of "America's Funniest Home Videos." They are not very funny or interesting – just stupid.

But "Extreme Home Makeover" was kind of interesting. When it was over, what came on next was something I really didn't want to see: "Desperate Housewives." I turned on my program guide and realized that the Steelers were on NBC.

For several months, my glasses have definitely not been adequate. For one thing, they keep on falling apart, and the prescription is not right. It was quite a long time ago that I got my eyes checked. But it's hard to get an appointment when I also have to find a ride to Oakland, especially now that winter has really hit hard.

But once I could kind of see the big game, so far it was not that great since the Ravens scored a touchdown and the extra point. The Steeler offense was struggling, maybe partly because of Big Ben's injured ankle.

It was always a close and a hard-fought game. Ordinarily, I would watch the whole game, but not when the fourth quarter arrived at 10:30. That is just way too late for me. I believed that my Steelers would finally put it away, but it definitely was in question for the whole game.

I couldn't face even a possibility that the Steelers season is over. It is one of the few things I look forward to as winter has arrived so fast and hard. At least perhaps we have another year when every weekend is a playoff weekend.

What I expected on Sunday night did happen. Thanks to my favorite player, Troy Polamalu, who once again earned his nickname, "The Game Changer." When the Ravens were driving toward the end zone, he knocked the quarterback's pass loose, and it was recovered by the Steelers. Then the Steelers scored a touchdown and won, in spite of the most outrageous assault on a quarterback. In the opening moments, one of the Ravens basically punched Roethlisberger's face and broke his nose. His jersey was covered with blood. But in spite of his bad ankle and his nose, he still performed like a Super Bowl winner.

I went to bed way before the game was over, but at 5 a.m., I was forced to get up because Boo insisted by continuous heavy breathing. At the same time, my leg ached so bad that I had to get up and find some pain relief. I was afraid it might be a blood clot, so I needed to find aspirin, too.

That is always a concern for me because my mother almost died from one after the birth of my youngest brother Scott. We were without my mother for many, many months while she was in the hospital. That was way too long, especially for my young brother Barry. For many years he really was scared when Mother was gone for very long.

I remember one year when I guess I was about 10 or 12 years old, I was in charge of my younger siblings while Mother headed to Cumberland in a snowstorm to do Christmas shopping, which was a big job with five children. But by late afternoon, the snowstorm became a full-blown blizzard.

I just heard that it was 30 years ago when John Lennon was killed. I was living in Manhattan then. Where have the years gone? I guess it really was that long ago. It was among my last years in Manhattan, but I still miss it quite a bit, especially now approaching Christmas. It's probably the best shopping city in America for the whole range of incomes. There are big fancy department stores like Macy's, Saks Fifth Avenue, and Bloomingdale's. Then there are the two best horse stores anywhere, and of course, the most upscale toy store.

The best stores there always put on a great show in their front windows. And there is a special store for every kind of person. I enjoyed browsing in a store selling all kinds of rocks and minerals, and lots of interesting fossils. There are also so many great book stores.

Maryland Officials Urge Residents To Get Flu Vaccine

Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene leaders joined with Baltimore County Health Department officials yesterday to kick off a TV/radio and outdoor media campaign reminding everyone over the age of 6 months to get vaccinated against the flu.

While health care providers and local pharmacies have had the vaccine in adequate supply since September, local health departments throughout Maryland are making the seasonal flu vaccine available for free or a minimal fee.

"Vaccination is the safest, most effective way to protect yourself and your family against flu," said John M. Colmers, DHMH secretary. "This campaign addresses those flimsy excuses people tell themselves to avoid getting protected. You can't catch the flu from the vaccine. You will give yourself the best chance of preventing time away from work or school by getting vaccinated now, before we reach the peak of flu season."

The media campaign kickoff coincides with National Influenza Vaccination Week and the efforts of many local health departments to make the seasonal flu vaccine available for free or at low cost to anyone above the age of 6 months.

This year's seasonal flu vaccine will protect people against the H1N1 and the A and B strains of the flu virus, all of which have been detected in Maryland this flu season.

While hospitalizations and doctor visits associated with influenza remain low, Maryland has been "trending upward" in flu activity indicators for the last three weeks, according to DHMH.

'While H1N1 remains a threat to all unvaccinated Marylanders, this year we expect to see a return of regular seasonal flu, which can also carry serious consequences," said Frances Phillips, DHMH deputy secretary for Public Health Services. "Fortunately, this year's vaccine is combined and protects against both H1N1 and seasonal flu. Remember, we protect more than just ourselves when we get vaccinated. We also protect our families, friends, co-workers, and those who are more vulnerable to serious flu-related health consequences."

"I am urging Marylanders to stay in the game and get a flu shot now," said Dr. Gregory Wm. Branch, health officer and director of the Baltimore County Department of Health. "When it comes to getting vaccinated, it is always too soon to quit and never too late to start."

Individuals who have increased risk for complications from the flu include people over the age of 65, pregnant women, and anyone with certain chronic medical conditions including asthma, diabetes, heart disease, kidney and liver disorders, neurological disorders, blood disorders, morbid obesity, HIV or AIDS, and cancer.

Persons can out more about seasonal flu vaccination clinics in their area by checking with their local health department.

For contact information, one can visit the web site http://dhmh.maryland.gov/swineflu/get-Vaccinated.html).

For more information about the seriousness of influenza and the benefits of vaccination, DHMH suggests people talk to their doctor or nurse, visit the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) site www.cdc.gov, or call CDC at 1-800-CDC-INFO.

Besides the flagship store of Barnes and Noble, there is a store called Murder Ink, featuring all kinds of mysteries. And, of course, any major art museum has a great gift shop, selling everything from poster-sized prints to many lovely art postcards and other various items.

One of the best used-book stores was just outside Greenwich Village. From there, you could wander eastward into a whole bunch of specialty shops, selling many kinds of foreign native crafts, like embroidered handkerchiefs, an apron which I bought for my Glotfelty grandmother Babble, and a Chinese store with some beautiful embroidered umbrellas.

Orchard Street was filled with outlet shops for the New York garment industry, selling all kinds of clothes and accessories. If you happened to be a millionaire, the display of diamond jewelry was probably unmatched anywhere.

I once worked in a ski shop that had all kinds of sports equipment. And on Madison Avenue you found all kinds of antique shops, and a very upscale gallery where genuine original pieces of art by the greatest artists in history could be purchased, if you had lots of money.

I forget where the NBC building is located, but I think it's pretty close to Rockefeller Center, which of course you must visit around Christmas, since it has the biggest Christmas tree anywhere, as well as an ice skating rink.

The unemployment problem we now face is not the result of the 2008 meltdown. It more likely started as a result of the changing world. This includes the economic structure, especially in terms of commerce; how we relate to other people; and the concept of high technology. The worst thing is the change in individuals' beliefs about how each of us act and what we believe is acceptable for each person.

When I was living in Manhattan, I was only maybe a quarter mile away from Wall Street and the Twin Towers, living among very poor people. And they were mostly Christians. Even if they had almost nothing, they were still willing to give a little money to the homeless and panhandlers. And there were no jobs in my neighborhood. But those people were invisible to average Manhattan dwellers, because they never ventured very far from Fifth Avenue, Madison Avenue, or Wall Street. There is no one more blind than those who refuse to see.

And that is the biggest disability in America – refusing to see that not everyone lives the comfortable lifestyles of above-average Americans. I am just horrified to even imagine what it would have been like 15 years ago when I had three little girls ranging from newborn baby to about 10 years old if I had to take them and live in my car, listening to them crying because they were hungry. Just imagine that for your family. Lots of American families live like that right now, and it is especially bad now when winter has arrived.

You hear a lot about people saying "Happy Holidays" instead of "Merry Christmas." Who takes Christ out of Christmas? Every single self-proclaimed Christian who racks up big debt to buy very expensive presents. That is way more than they spend on what Christ would want us to do: help the helpless.

Emmanuel and St. John's of Meadow Mountain have "adopted" families and groups for Christmas. Lists have been posted on the bulletin boards at both churches listing the needs.

Members of the sewing and prayer shawl ministry group recently delivered a shipment of quilts to the Lutheran World Relief warehouse in New Wind-sor. The group has made 80 quilts. In addition to the ones taken to New Wind-sor, others have been taken to local agencies for local distribution to those in need.

This group continues to meet every Tuesday morning at Emmanuel, and ev-eryone is welcome to come.

Maryland Farm Bureau Holds 95th Gathering At Ocean City

Patricia Langenfelder of Kennedyville (Kent County) led the state's largest general agriculture organization during its 95th Maryland Farm Bureau annual meeting and convention at the Clarion Resort Hotel in Ocean City this week. Re-elected in the vice president roles were First Vice President Chuck Fry of Tuscarora (Frederick County) and Vice President Jim Steele of Woodbine (Carroll County).

Over 350 attended the gathering, held Sunday through Tuesday, where members celebrated record-high membership and program achievements, took time to learn and share ideas, and established policy for the coming year.

Silver Bowl

The event was highlighted with the annual awards banquet where Frederick County took the coveted Silver Bowl award for its outstanding program work in the past year. President Tom Browning accepted the honor.

Frederick County was one of seven counties to receive gold ratings in all six of the program areas. The honors are given for member benefits/membership, legislative affairs, women's leadership/agriculture education, young farmers, leadership development, and outstanding county Farm Bureau program. The other six top-rated counties were Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Carroll, Prince George's, Queen Anne's, and Talbot.

In order to earn an award in any of the six program areas, county farm bureaus must submit an essay explaining how the program is communicated to members, explaining member involvement, goals and planning activities, and the results of the program and activities. Each entry was judged, given a score, and ranked gold, silver, or bronze.

The top-scoring counties in each of the program areas were presented President's Awards for their results and innovation. Honored counties were Baltimore for member benefits/membership and outstanding county program; Frederick for women's leadership/ag education and leadership development; Dorchester for legislative affairs; and Carroll for young farmers.

Distinguished Service

The Distinguished Service to Farm Bureau Award was presented to J. Allen Swann, a sixth generation farmer from Calvert County. Along with his wife Pat, he began working on the family's tobacco, grain, and vegetable farm. His early work in Farm Bureau included chairmanship of the Maryland Farm Bureau Young Farmers and president of the Calvert County Farm Bureau. He has also been a leader of numerous organizations, including Colonial Farm Credit, Tri-County Council of Southern Maryland for Agriculture, and the Maryland Wildlife Advisory Commission.

Along with rearing three sons, he has enlarged the farming operation with wholesale fruits and vegetables, and has enrolled his farm in the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation. Over the last six years, Swann has been known for his open house that brings farmers and elected officials together. He has also shared time and talents with the younger generation, supporting ag education, 4-H, and Farm Bureau.

Young Farmers

To assist in the development of Young Farmers' leadership skills, both personally and professionally, the Maryland Farm Bureau and the American Farm Bureau Federation organized four areas of competition – the Achievement Award, Excellence in Agriculture Award, Discussion Meet, and Collegiate Discussion Meet.

The winners of the 2010 Young Farmer Achievement Award was Erin Burall of Carroll County, and Sean and Amanda Clougherty captured the Excellence in Agriculture honor. James Adkins of Wicomico County won the Discussion Meet honor. All of those winners will represent Maryland Farm Bureau in the national competition at the AFBF convention in Atlanta in January.

Abbey Linthicum of Montgomery County was the winner of the Collegiate Discussion Meet, and she will participate in the national competition at the AFBF Young Farmers and Ranchers Leadership Conference in Orlando in February.

Farm Bureau Women

The Farm Bureau Women's Committee plays a key role in the organization, planning, and coordination of many agriculture education and legislative events throughout the year. Chairperson Elaine Moreland of Caroline County led the group's business meeting, which also featured a speaker from the Maryland Geographic Alliance and a chef who uses local agricultural products.

Jennifer Cross of Prince George's County was elected vice chairperson for the group.

Safemark Dealers

The top three Safemark dealers in Maryland were recognized based on dollar sales volume. The top dealer in the state was Kinnamon's Service of Caroline County. Classic Tire Service of Queen Anne's County took second place, and Gibson's Shell of Anne Arundel County rounded out the top

Mary M. Callis Named GLAF Exec. Director

Mary Mateer Callis, Loch Lynn, has recently accepted the position of executive director of Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF). She has served as the chairperson of the board of directors, and formerly as the head of the organization's education committee.

Callis comes to the board with an extensive background in commercial banking in the areas of property and casualty insurance, as well as human resources recruitment. She is a lifelong resident of Garrett County and has been involved in several non-profit organizations, including the Arsenal Football Associates and Garrett County Special Olympics, serving as treasurer for both.

She is a member of Grace Reformed Church and sings with the Garrett Choral Society. A graduate of Southern High School and Garrett College, Callis is currently enrolled at West Virginia University. She and her husband Dave have three children and reside in Loch Lynn.

GLAF is a leading area presenter of arts performances. The organization has brought the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra (PSO) to perform Wisp in McHenry for the past four summers, with more than 500 persons in the audience for each concert. Since its inception 24 years ago, GLAF has presented hundreds of other artistic performances and workshops for adults and students.

GLAF is currently holding a campaign to raise additional funding to host the PSO again in July 2011, Callis noted. Donation request letters have been mailed to past PSO attendees and to many others in the area. The goal is to raise $60,000 before Dec. 31 of this year. This total will assist in the costs of set-up and procurement, Callis said.

"The arts throughout the nation are rarely, if ever, supported solely by ticket prices, and depend greatly upon additional generous contributions," Callis said.

To contribute, persons may call the GLAF office at 301-387-3082, donate online at www.artsandentertainment.org, or mail a contribution to Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, 687 Mosser Road, McHenry, MD 21541.

The e-mail address for the organization is address is glaf@artsandentertainment.org. The GLAF office is located in a small building at the west end of the Garrett College campus, off Bumble Bee Road.

GC Arts Council Offers Discounts To Members

The Garrett County Arts Council (GCAC) is currently accepting members for the 2011 calendar year. This year will mark the 35th year of incorporation for the organization. The mission of the arts council is "to instill the appreciation of a variety of arts and cultural opportunities for the citizens of the region."

Membership contributions are tax deductible as the GCAC is a registered 501(c)(3) not-for-profit charitable organization.

Membership will provide individuals eligibility to be considered for member-only art shows, receive invitations to artist receptions and special events, and receive the bimonthly newsletter. Various categories of membership support are available, beginning at a $15 level, according to Karen Reckner, executive director of the organization.

A new component this year, Reckner noted, is a 10% discount to all members in good standing for any purchases in the Gallery Shop.

Items available at the downtown Oakland location include original paintings and photography, hand thrown pottery, jewelry, textiles, wood-working, glass, handmade natural soaps, and others.

During the past year, through grant funding, GCAC has supported two community bands, three theatres, seven community festivals, and projects with the Garrett County Board of Education and Garrett College, and provided general operating funds for groups such as Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, Garrett Choral Society, Garrett Community Concert Band, and Spruce Forest Artisan Village.

THE CHRISTMAS EVE GHOST

by Shirley Hughes

C. 2010, Candlewick Press, $15.99; 32 pages

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

Imagine that it's Christmas Eve and you're waiting for Santa to come. You should probably be asleep, but wouldn't it be awesome to see him in your living room?

So what would you think if you heard a noise? Could that be Santa and his elves? Or was that the scratching of reindeer hooves, times eight?

In the new book The Christmas Eve Ghost by Shirley Hughes, two young children know it's not Santa they hear at the back of their house. It's too scary to be Santa!

Bronwen and Dylan hadn't lived in Liverpool long; they moved there from Wales after their Dad died and their Mam needed a job.

Every weekday morning, long before Bronwen and Dylan awoke, Mam left the children sleeping as she walked from house to house, pushing the old pram filled with laundry. She hated leaving the children alone, but she always returned in time to make porridge for breakfast. On Sundays, they went to Chapel together.

In the house next door lived Mr. and Mrs. O'Riley and their two sons. Mr. O'Riley and the boys worked at the docks in good times, and they stood on street corners in bad times. They did not go to Chapel, even though Bronwen peeked once and it was a beautiful building. Mam sternly told Bronwen that the church was "for a different sort of people, not their kind," and Bronwen was ordered to stay away.

There were no washing machines in those days, and well-off people were happy to have Mam do their washing. It was a hard job and Mam was tired at the end of the long day. Most nights, though, she saved enough energy to spin ancient tales and legends of green valleys, dragons, and ghosties.

On the afternoon before Christmas, Mam left the children at home so she could finish shopping. She wanted to get them something special, so she warned them not to open the door and to stay quiet. All alone, Bronwen and Dylan were playing on the floor of their flat when they heard a noise. Plonk! Plonk!

That didn't sound like Santa! Could it be a ghost, like in one of Mam's stories?

The children ran outside as fast as they could, away from the ghost and... right into the nicest Christmas present anyone could have given them.

Looking for a children's book to set the season this holiday? If you want something very different, grab The Christmas Eve Ghost.

Based loosely on her Liverpudlian childhood, author and illustrator Shirley Hughes tells a tale of a Christmas that barely happens, and the gift of unlikely friendship. I loved the lesson in this book, subtle as it was, and I was absolutely smitten with the illustrations. This is the kind of book to read, savor, and discuss, particularly in this time when we gather our friends and family close.

If you plan on giving a book to your favorite kid this Christmas, here's one to find. For you, The Christmas Eve Ghost is a sound choice.

THE DOG WHO COULDN'T STOP LOVING

by Jeffrey Moussaieff Masson

C. 2010, Harper Collins, $25.99; 249 pages

There's a wolf at your door. Eh, more or less.

He looks like a wolf, anyhow, but not quite. He has large teeth and a wolfish body, but he barks and wolves don't. He will look you in the face and not mean it as a threat. And he has a large capacity to love you, unlike wild canids.

But why do you have that kind of relationship with your dog and not with, say, pigs or sheep? In his new book The Dog Who Couldn't Stop Loving by Jeffrey Moussaieff Masson, you'll learn more about the heart of the wolf at your feet.

At 2 years old, Benjy the Lab was on his third home. A guide dog school drop-out, he'd also failed seizure-dog training because he hated going for walks and balked at most lessons. That wouldn't do for a service dog, and Benjy was up for adoption again.

Though he wasn't looking for a dog, Jeffrey Masson agreed, at the urging of his sons, to see Benjy. The dog was polite at that first meeting, but Masson was "disappointed" that he refused to obey.

Still, his foster parents (and everybody who met Benjy) remarked on his loving personality. Benjy never met a stranger; indeed, he adored Masson's kids the minute he saw them. He even befriended animals of other species.

Observing Benjy and his loving nature got Masson thinking: Why, among domesticated creatures, do dogs love us the way they do? Why dogs and not cats, cows, or camels? And how does a dog's love affect us? Are we more human because of it?

Scanning through history, Masson came to the conclusion that without dogs, human society would be less civilized. By taming wolves and allowing them to become dogs that love us unconditionally, humankind made the hunt easier, the burden lighter, the home safer, and life more of a pleasure.

But what about societies that seem to despise dogs? How did they evolve without canine cuddles? Is there something special about this inter-species affection? And do service dogs love us or are they, as some assert, mere "slaves"?

Though at times a little over-generalized (not all canines enjoy walks or other canines), The Dog Who Couldn't Stop Loving is a fine examination of the deep relationship between us, our fur-kids, and other people our dogs may adore.

What I found most intriguing about this book, though, runs deeper. Masson brings up points that most dog lovers don't (or couldn't bear to) consider: that the loving nature of dogs, for instance, allows them to transfer their attachment to another human easily and permanently, and that the balance of love is unbalanced. About 20 humans are killed each year by dogs, while we kill "several million" dogs in the same amount of time.

If you share your home with a wolf of any size, this love letter to the loving nature of him and his kin is a real treat. The Dog Who Couldn't Stop Loving is a howling good read.

The artists have provided work showing their interpretation of a winter theme, according to Karen Reckner, executive director of the arts council. Original watercolor, oil, and acrylic paintings of winter landscapes, as well as some abstract pieces, are on display. Photographers have contributed with traditional photography and photos mounted on canvas, wood, and metal.

For the "wooden things" portion of the exhibit, the Gallery Shop wood workers have brought an assortment of their handiwork, Reckner said. There are mantel clocks, turned wooden bowls and vases, functional cutting boards and inlaid rolling pins, and rustic boxes. Cutout wooden puzzles featuring various wildlife species are also part of the exhibit.

Huskies' All-Time Leading Scorer Readies To Face New Opposition

The Northern High School varsity girls' basketball team is entering its 2010-11 season with a host of new opponents while returning the 2010 Area Player of the Year to the starting lineup.

The Huskies began their season last night with a win at Frankfort (see separate story).

When describing the upcoming season, head coach Steve Fratz, in his second year at the helm, cites the excitement surrounding his team, but also his cautious optimism concerning the Huskies' updated competition.

"Gone are the schools that we have decisively beaten the last couple of years, as we will now face West Virginia power houses University and Preston high schools. We also have accepted an invitation to play at a Maryland 3A South Hagerstown Holiday Tournament, where we will face off with Hedgesville High of W.Va.," stated Fratz.

Anchored by three outstanding seniors, this year's Husky squad will consist of nine girls, six of whom have varsity experience.

Among this group is 2010 Area Player of the Year Kaitlynn Fratz, who will enter her senior year and look to guide Northern to another winning season. Fratz averaged over 25 points per game last year and has set the Northern girls' basketball all-time scoring record, in three seasons, with 1,369 points.

Fratz has been selected to the all-area first team every year since she entered high school and has guided the Huskies to a record of 55-16 over three seasons.

aged over 12 points per game and was the team's leading rebounder last year. She also finished her junior season in the all-area top 10 in almost every statistical category.

The third returning senior is Morgan Brosnihan, who will be looked to for her versatility. Coach Fratz feels that the senior, who scored 100 points last season and was selected to the Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference's second team, can and will play all positions on the floor.

"These seniors have been playing with one another since the sixth grade. I have no idea how many games they have played together," noted Fratz, "but one thing is for sure, they have a great understanding of each other's skills and tendencies."

The other returning letter winners are juniors Kiersten Butler and Taryn Brenneman and sophomore Allison Yommer. Coach Fratz feels that Butler and Brenneman are shooting guards and will play very pivotal roles in making this year's group a success.

"Allison is our tallest player and will assume our post position. New to the varsity squad this year are juniors Sydney McFarland, Lauren Yeager and Heather Vincent," says Fratz, "Heather works very hard and will see valuable time at the forward position, while Sydney and Lauren bring speed and intensity to an already quick team."

Coach Fratz insisted that all of the girls have had a good summer working on their basketball skills and that hopefully their work will pay dividends.

"We basically have a team with nine guards which can create huge challenges for us against long and tall teams. But on the

Fratz Gets Hot In The Fourth Quarter; Huskies Open Their Season With Win

The Northern girls' basketball team defeated Frankfort Tuesday, 64-49, thanks to a surge of fourth-quarter scoring from Area Player of the Year Kaitlynn Fratz.

Fratz who scored 12 points in the first three quarters, put up 17 of her 29 total points in the fourth.

The game would open the season for both squads and see the Huskies take a 20-8 lead in the first quarter. Frankfort fought back and reduced Northern's advantage to 31-20 at the half.

The Falcons then outscored the Huskies 12-8 in the third and cut the lead to seven, as they entered the fourth quarter down 39-32.

In the fourth, however, Fratz would end the Frankfort rally decisively. The senior helped her team score 25 points in the final quarter and matched the Falcons' team scoring over the same time.

In the game, Fratz made nine field goals, including two threes, and went nine for 11 from the foul line to reach 29 scored points. Husky Terra McKenzie chipped in with 15 points.

For Frankfort, Mikala Miller had 21 points and Maddie Shambaigh added 13 points and 10 rebounds.

Northern will face University High School Monday in its second game.

HUSKIES PREPARE FOR OPENER – Foul weather conditions made it impossible for the Northern High boys' varsity to open its 2010-11 season Tuesday against Allegany, so now the Huskies are preparing to open against Bishop Walsh next Tuesday. Coach Chris Elliott will have a senior-dominated team that will work to improve on the Huskies' 8-11 record of last season. Pictured from left, kneeling, are Matt Gibson, Brody Fike, Tyler Wilt, Patrick Sines, and Steven Holtschneider. Standing are Matt Paape, Cody Humberson, Garrett Rayner, Austin Doerr, Devin Francillon, and Eric Moser. See story.

Lakers Whip Westmoreland, Fall To Beaver, Roll Over CCAC-South

Led by Theo Dubuche off the bench, the Garrett College men's basketball team recorded a 75-62 win over visiting Westmoreland last Thursday evening, despite being down two starters because of injuries.

The Lakers then dropped a heartbreaker to Beaver CC in the Potomac State College tournament on Saturday, 73-71, but bounced back last night to record a convincing 86-61 victory over host CCAC-South. The results left the Lakers with an overall record of 7-3.

In Thursday's victory, Dubuche led the Lakers with 21 points on nine field goals and 3-for-3 at the line. Rodney Clark finished with 14 points and six assists, Vlad Vukovic recorded 11 points and nine rebounds, and Jordan Gipson had three steals.

The Lakers were up by just two points at the break, 27-25, but stretched their advantage to as many as 23 points with about seven minutes left in the game. They out-scored the visitors in the second half by a 48-37 margin.

"We got a little greedy at the 7-minute mark and started to shoot too quickly," said GC head coach Dennis Gibson. "Westmoreland played hard and made us keep working.

"Theo came off the bench and gave us his best effort yet," Gibson added.

Marcus McGowen led Westmoreland in scoring with 16 points, Zach Landers hit 13, and Reggie Haynesworth finished with 10.

In Saturday's loss to Beaver, the Lakers had a couple of golden opportunities in the final moments to win, or at least send the contest into overtime.

Garrett was down by two points with 16 seconds to play and Beaver's Ron Lee at the foul line for two shots. Lee missed both attempts, but an unforced error by the Lakers gave possession back to Beaver.

Then with 4.5 seconds remaining, Titans were at the foul line again and, once again, missed both attempts, giving the Lakers one more opportunity to tie or win. However, a three-point attempt at the buzzer was no good.

The Lakers trailed 31-24 at halftime, and made a strong comeback in the second half, only to fall just short.

"We really did have a great rally in the second half," Gibson said, "but we shot poorly early in the game. Beaver also played a little harder on the boards than we did."

While Dubuche came off the bench again and hit three straight three-point

Husky Roster Loses Key Players, But Will Be Senior Dominated

Even though graduation took its toll on the Northern High School boys' varsity basketball team, Coach Chris Elliott will be looking for leadership from three experienced seniors to try to improve on the Huskies' record of 8-11 last season.

The Huskies were slated to open their season Tuesday at Allegany, but that contest was postponed until tonight because of weather conditions and cancellation of school in Garrett County that day.

"We lost three starters and another key player to graduation," Elliott said. "We do have 10 seniors on the team this year, but only two starters back."

Lost last spring were Dylan Miller, Trevor Tombley, Brad Sisler, Alex Smith, and Teddy Linton. Top returning players are Matt Gibson, Cody Humberson, Tyler Wilt, Steven Holtschneider, Austin Doerr, and Garrett Rayner.

Those likely to see the most action tonight will be Gibson, Holtschneider, and Wilt at the guard spots, and Humberson, Doerr, Sines and Rayner as forwards.

"I expect one of our strengths to be the senior leadership provided primarily by Garrett, Matt, and Steven," Elliott said.

In looking at the 2010-11 schedule, Elliott said he believes that the Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference teams will all be competitive, and also looks for challenging games with Bishop Walsh and Fairmont Senior.

"Obviously, we would like to be competitive in all of our games this year," he said. "Also among our goals are to win the Berlin Christmas tournament, compete for our conference title, and play for the region championship. I think that's what every coach and team will strive for. But besides being competitive and giving ourselves a chance to win in every game, we want to have fun."

Assisting Elliott this season are former NHS standouts Rob Speicher and Oliver Jones.

The Huskies' home opener is scheduled for next Tuesday against Bishop Walsh, with tip-off set for 7:30. It will be preceded by the junior varsity game at 6 p.m.
